NEW MANAGER OF FARM BUREAU CO-OP

Frank Baltz, manager of the DeKalb County Farm Bureau Co-op. Association, tendered his resignation to take effect Jan. 20, 1937, at the last meeting of the board of directors.

For some time past, Mr. Baltz has been offered a position with the Indiana Farm Bureau Coop. Ass'n of Indianapolis, but declined all offers until the county cooperative was in a position of having a man trained in the managerial duties and familiar to the operations of Farm Bureau co-operatives.

Mr. Baltz's resignation was accepted by the board of directors and Lester Austraw, who has been serving as assistant manager for the last six months, was employed as county cooperative manager. Mr. Austraw has been connected with the association for the past year and a half.

Mrs. Grace Dilley, of St. Joe, was re-elected county social and educational director. Mrs. Dilley has served in this capacity for the last five years and her work in this department has been highly appreciated by her co-workers and the membership of the DeKalb County Farm Bureau.

BAKER—YEISER

A wedding of interest to St. Joe friends of the bride and groom was solemnized Christmas morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Yeiser, when their daughter, Harriett Louise, became the bride of Mr. Clayton A. Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Myers, of Garrett, attended the couple. The Rev. P. A. Hubbartt performed the single ring ceremony. The bride wore a gold crepe dress and the groom wore the conventional black.

The newly wedded couple left after Christmas dinner, on a trip to Niagara Falls and other places of interest in the East and Canada. They will make their home near St. Joe.

PEST HUNT HONORS GO TO BAKER'S SIDE

The Pest Hunt is over and Capt. Harold Baker's side won with a large majority. A great many pests were destroyed and a lot of fun was had by all. Our membership was increased to 200 members. We would like to have as many turn out to the meeting Thursday nignt as can possibly come to make arrangements for the supper we must put on for the winners.

Other important business should be taken care of on that night, so please turn out.

Following is the total pest hunt count by both sides:

Starlings	101
Sparrows	2640
Mice	108
Rats	166
Hawk	1
Owls	4
Woodchuck	1

FIREMEN ENTERTAIN

The St. Joe Fire Department entertained their wives, and the town officials and wives, with a year-end party at the Town Hall on Monday night.

Various games were played after which the Fire Chief, Roy Wade, served a delicious lnnch consisting of chicken sandwiches, ice cream, cake, coffee, and mints.

The Chief then called the crowd to order and presented a plan to organize a ladies' auxiliary to the Department. By a unanimous vote the plan was approved and the Chief appointed Mrs. Frank Curle, Mrs. Frank Bowman and Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser to constitute the organizing committee.

The wives gave a rising vote of thanks to their hosts and the party disbanded after expressing their hopes for another enjoyable evening in the near futur.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ulm, Mr. John Falkner, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Akins, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Foltz were Sunday dinner guests in the J. P. Buckingham home.

FORMER SPENCERVILLE AGENT DIES SUDDENLY

L. O. Wade, 54, Succumbs to Apoplexy at Home in Defiance Ohio, Early Saturday

L. O. Wade, 54, freight agent of the Wabash railroad at Defiance, Ohio, since October of 1933, died unexpectedly Saturday at 6:30 A. M. at his home, 646 Holgate avenue, of a stroke of apoplexy.

Although he had been suffering from high blood pressure for some time, he had made a trip to Lima Friday and had apparently been in his usual health when he retired.

He aroused his wife about a half hour before death.

Mr. Wade was born at Spencerville, Ind., on October 18, 1882, a son of the late George and Sarah Wade. On December 31, 1907 he was married to Miss Audrey Butler, a daughter of Daniel and Jane Butler of near Spencerville.

Mr. Wade had been employed by the Wabash railroad for thirty years. He was located at Spencerville, Milan, Mich., and Adrian, Mich., before going to Defiance.

Survivors are the wife, Mrs. Audrey Wade; three daughters, Misses Mary and Edith Wade at home, and Mrs. Gale Bowser, Spencerville; two grandchildren, James and Jerry Bowser; three brothers, Clifford, Sherwood; Roy, St. Joe, and Stearl, Hicksville, O.; and two sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Cole, Hillsdale, Mich., and Mrs. Jessie Deardorff, Burr Oak, Mich. Two sisters preceded him in death, Gertrude, a year ago in October, and Bertha, two years ago in November.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon from the Spencerville M. E. Church, the Rev. Howard Brown, of Ft. Wayne, officiating, assisted by Rev. Earl Clayton. Interment was made in White City cemetery.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

We are glad to report liberal receipts and a very active market this week. Total receipts 428 head.

Sheep 86 head: Breeding ewes, $6.50 to $7.25 per head, Top Lambs, $8.00 to $8.50, Light, thin feeding Lambs, $7.00 to $7.50, Slaughter Ewes, $3.00 to $4.00 cwt.

Hogs 286 head: 175 to 275, $10.50; 150 to 175, $10.05. Roughs $9.25 to $9.40. Feeder Pigs selling by the head, 50c to 75c per head higher than last week.

Veals 24 head: Top Veals, $12.-30. Small Calves by the head, $1 to $4.50, Our veals were of better quality than in the past few weeks and sold at a price above surrounding markets. There promises to be an active demand for finished veals next week.

Cattle 32 head: All grades of Cattle ruled higher in line with terminal markets. Grass and grain steers, $7.50 to $7.80. No good bulls in the offering but one of fair flesh and quality at $4.90, bulls of this quality selling at $4 last week. Butcher cows, $4.50 to $4.65. Cutters, $4.00 up and low cutters $3.00 to $4.00. Fat heifers good enough for local butchers $5.00 to $6.25.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shroyer and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Shroyer attended the funeral of Mrs. Geo. Shroyer at Sidney, Ohio, on last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Orange Herrick were at Ft. Wayne the guests of their son, Ray and family from Thursday until Sunday. Ray celebrated his 47th birthday on Thursday and they had a real time.

The next meeting of the Concord Township Home Bureau will be held Jan. 15 at the home of Katie Storer with the following committee assisting, Ethel Wineland, Beulah Coburn, and Marie Akins. Opening songs led by Beulah Coburn. Responses will be current events.

The greater part of our population was suffering with colds and grip the past week. Even the editor submitted to being housed up for over a week, and of course no St. Joe News was printed. So even this week we have not been permitted to work full time, which may curtail the amount of reading matter some what. It so happened that 1936 had 53 publication days and we managed to get out our regular 52 issues.

SPELLING MATCH WAS INDEED SHORT

Last week's spelling contest by the eighth graders was indeed of short duration, only spelling around a very few times. So far the fifth and sixth grades have put up the best match of the four and they are to be congratulated. The contest is showing the weakness of the present system of teaching spelling as compared to 25 years ago, and is one that should be corrected for the benefits of the students. Spelling is one of the great necessities of the day. The entries in Saturday's match were:

No. 1. Harriett Fee, 12, Moores School, Miss Miller, teacher.

No. 2 Rose Ayers, 13, Concord Twp. School, Eloise Bowman, teacher.

No. 3 Alice Richmond, 12, Concord Twp. School, Eloise Bowman, teacher.

No. 4 Marian Walter, 13, Spencer Twp. School, Miss Ida Reed, teacher.

No. 5. Geo. Hart, 13, Spencer Twp. School, Miss Reed, teacher.

Saturday night's match will be composed of the four previous winners. You will want to hear this one.

SUCCESSFUL COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION

Sponosred by the locar Post of the American Legion and its Auxiliary unit, St. Joe was given its first Outdoor Christmas Tree and Program.

Through the courtesy of the three Church Organizations, the Fish & Game Club, the Ladies Literary Club, the Culture Club, two Home Bureaus, Fire Department, Parent-Teachers Association, and Business Men, the tall evergreen tree in Wm. Strouse's yard was beautifully decorated for the Holiday week with colored lights, a large, golden star being placed at the peak. The current for the lights furnished through the courtesy of the Town.

The program, given by the Community Chorus, under the direction of C. A. Woodcox, and before a large and appreciative audience is as follows:

Heralds	Silent Night.
Invocation	Rev. C. J. Ferster.
Joy To The World	Community Sing.
Christmas Story	Miss Rouls.
Jingle Belle	Chorus.
Silent Night	Chorus.
Benediction	Rev. J. N. Scholes.

After the program, 350 sacks of candy and oranges were distributed among the children present and sent to the shut-ins.

MORTUARY

KOCH

Addie Mae Koch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Thorpe, was born on September 16, 1889 near Albion, in Noble County, and passed away after a brief illness on Tuesday morning, December 22, 1936, at the age of 47 years, 3 months and 6 days.

On June 28, 1908, she was united in marriage to Roy Koch and to this union was born one daughter, Hilda, and two sons, Bruce and Gerald, the latter preceded her in death.

Mrs. Koch was affiliated with the St. Joe Methodist Protestant Church.

She leaves to mourn her death, the husband, Roy, one daughter, Mrs. Hilda Crowell, of Dayton, O., one son, Bruce, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., a mother, Mrs. Esther Gill, of South Bend, two brothers, Charles and Joseph Thorpe, both of Toledo, Ohio, one sister, Lela Yeiser, of Avilla, Ind., six grandchildren, many other relatives and a host of friends.

The funeral was conducted from the home on Thursday afternoon, Rev. Wm. D. Koehlein, her pastor, officiating, and burial was made in Riverside cemetery.

ANNUAL DINNER

The Ricketts held their annual Christmas dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Draggoo at Concord. A bountiful dinner was served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Jay Rickett and children, James, Howard and Helen, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Bone, Mr. and Mrs. Dell Draggoo, Miss Laura Benton, of Auburn.

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Marian Shearer, Mrs. Marjorie Mock and children, Bobby, Beverly and Shirley Kay, of Anderson, arrived to spend the week end with relatives and friends. After spending Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Draggoo they retured to their home in Anderson.

BASKET BALL

The Basket Ball fans of St. Joe saw some real playing Saturday night when the Merchants lost to Coldwater by the score of 22-24, and the Pickles defeated Hoagland by the score of 65 to 55.

In the first game the lead changed hands quite frequently and the game was anyone's until the final whistle.

In the second game there was a constant bombardment of the baskets with a steady run of scores. In this game the most spectacular basket shooting exhibition ever witnessed on the local floor was given. There will be no more games on the local floor until Jan. 30, when the Pickles play the Markle Boosters.

Mrs. Frank Milliman entertained with a family Christmas dinner and supper Christmas Day. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Gruber and sons, Richard and Junior, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hercules and son, Billy, of Ft. Wayne, Asa Shuff, of Benton Harbor, Mich., and Mrs. Mary Shuff.

Home Heating Hints

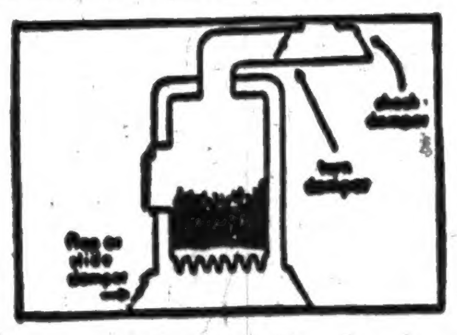
Getting Fire to Burn Briskly to Produce Quick Heat on Cold Mornings

WHAT a joy and comfort it is to get your home heated quickly on cold mornings! And how easily it can be done!

Shake the grates gently. When a red glow appears in the ashpit, stop shaking. Next, open the ashpit damper and close the check damper until the fire burns briskly. Should fresh fuel be necessary, feed it on the fire in a thin layer. Give it time to burn well and heat the house, then add a full charge of coal. When the gases have burned off, reset the dampers for normal burning.



This same rule applies should the fire get very low and almost burn itself out at any time. Be careful not to smother it with too much coal. Open the ashpit damper and close the check damper. When the fire again is burning brightly, shake the grates gently until the first red glow appears in the ashpit, add a full charge of fuel, allow the gases to burn off, reverse the dampers—close the ashpit damper and open the check damper. That's the way to save fuel and cut down trips to the cellar.

ARE YOU ONLY A THREE-QUARTER WIFE?

THERE are certain things a woman has to put up with and be a good sport.

Men, because they are men, can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness three weeks in a month and a hell cat the rest of the time.

No matter how your back aches—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

MORNING DISTRESS is due to acid, upset stomach. Milnesia wafers (the original) quickly relieve acid stomach and give necessary elimination. Each wafer equals 4 teaspoonfuls of milk of magnesia. 20c, 35c & 60c.

The Household

By LYDIA LE BARON WALKER

QUICK work without careful planning may give an impression of getting ahead, but it is the carefully planning beforehand that results in the faster progress. This has come to my attention recently with renewed force.

Two carpenters have been on one job. One man dashes ahead and finds he has to do the work all over again. The other carpenter appears to be slow, but when he does set to work, he completes what he has to do in very short time, and without making mistakes. He does not have to do his job over. The latter is making a success of his work, the former is often merely making a botch of his, and since doing a thing twice over delays completion, he is actually the slower worker, although to the onlooker he does not always seem to be.

Bustling about work, keeping actively in motion and tiring oneself unnecessarily, do not promote completion of a task. There is ever the element of risk in such methods. The person, for instance, who, instead of opening out a step ladder and securing the fastenings, thinks he can lean this kind of a ladder against a wall without taking the trouble to properly adjust it, may be quicker in setting it up, but he is courting accidents. Many a mishap has been the result of this very thing.

The dressmaker who cuts material before seeing that the pattern is laid so that the nap of the goods comes as it should in all portions, may have to cut some of the pieces over again, or spoil the appearance of her garment. When duplicate portions must be cut more material will be required, and more money as well as time will have to be spent.

Careful planning and preparation are time and money savers. This does not mean that slow work is either quickest or best, but that well considered plans are essential to good methods.

Great Convenience.

The homemaker will find it a great convenience to have a record of the sizes and measurements of the members of her family.

It often happens in a round of shopping that something is found that you know is wanted, and needed by some member of the family. It may be a handsome pair of gloves at such an attractive price that you certainly would buy them, if only you were sure they would fit. Or it may be that stockings, in just the wanted shade, are being featured at one of the shops. You are tempted to buy them, but there is an uncertainty about the size. The hosiery, in all probability will be all sold out by tomorrow at the alluringly low sum of the sale price. So you pass by both gloves and stockings, just because sizes are not known definitely. The opportunity to buy thriftily is lost.

Let me recommend a loose-leaf notebook for the records. A little book that will fit into a small handbag is just the thing, especially if it has the index margin. Devote one page or more, as needed, for each individual. On a page for husband or son jot down size of shirts, collars, gloves, shoes, socks, coats, trousers, belts, etc. On a page for yourself, and other women members of the family, set down all measurements required for frocks, coats, lingerie, shoes, stockings, hats, gloves, belts, etc.

Shoes and Slippers.

It is true that you would scarcely buy shoes for anyone without having them tried on by the one who is to wear them. But you could get bedroom slippers or traveling slippers, if you had both the number for the length, and the letter for the width of shoes.

It is a good idea to make a note of favorite colors, and any decided personal preferences of individuals, such as, for example, whether a woman likes service weight or chiffon stockings, or lisle and wool for colder weather, etc.

Faucets Make Two-Way Tub

Faucets for the laundry tubs today are as modern as the new round-cornered tubs of white or buff porcelain. Instead of protruding from the tub three or four inches below the edge, the new faucet is on the wall. It is just in the center of the two-in-one tub, with a swinging attachment that makes it possible to fill first one side, then the other, with the one faucet. This arrangement also prevents contamination of the fresh water supply through back-siphonage, when the tubs are full of soapy or soiled water.

HOT DISHES FOR FROSTY WEATHER

Appetites for Lunches Are Whetted by Chilly Winds.

By EDITH M. BARBER

HOW good a hot lunch does taste on a cold day, especially if you have just come in from out-of-doors.

While I suppose one really hot dish is actually as hot as another, there are some that certainly seem more warming than others—a good thick black bean soup for instance, or an oyster stew or a clam chowder or a vegetable soup with dumplings gives us a warm and satisfied feeling that lasts. And have you ever tried that delicious soup made from leftovers or from canned baked beans combined with tomatoes? Soups of this type perhaps served with fresh toast made at the table, and celery or a light salad are satisfying enough for a whole course and you will need nothing more than a dessert besides milk for the children and tea for yourself.

Other luncheon dishes which give comfort on a chilly day are combinations of noodles, rice or spaghetti with various interesting sauces. A noodle or rice ring filled with creamed carrots well seasoned with minced onion or with creamed mushrooms is most attractive in appearance as well as to taste. A casserole combination of spaghetti or rice with tomatoes or tomato sauce and any leftover meat, with a crust of melted cheese is always good. A mold of boiled rice seasoned with minced onion and a little minced ham or bacon, surrounded by a cheese or tomato sauce is another suggestion.

A ring of spinach, filled with another vegetable such as beets or peas in a cream sauce, makes a different way to use several vegetables at a meal which sometimes serves as dinner for the children and lunch for the older members of the family.

There are a number of cheese dishes which are good choices for luncheon. A souffle, garnished with broiled bacon or a cheese "custard" is a selection equally good for old and young. A tomato rarebit on toast is among the cheese dishes which are quickly and easily prepared. There should be celery or thin slices of raw carrots or a salad with this type of lunch.

Noodle Ring.

3 eggs.
⅛ teaspoon salt.
Few drops onion juice.
2 tablespoons grated cheese.
½ cup cream.

Break the noodles in small pieces and cook until tender in rapidly boiling water. Drain. Beat the egs until light. To them add the other ingredients. Beat lightly, then add the noodles. Blend the ingredients and turn into a buttered ring mold. Place the mold in a shallow pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven 325 degrees Fahrenheit for thirty-five minutes. Turn onto a round serving platter and fill the center with creamed vegetables or meat.

Black Bean Soup.

1 pint black beans.
2 quarts cold water.
1 small onion.
2 stalks celery, or
¼ teaspoon celery salt.
½ tablespoon salt.
⅛ teaspoon pepper.
¼ teaspoon mustard.
Few grains cayenne.
3 tablespoons butter.
1½ tablespoons flour.
2 hard-boiled egs.
1 lemon.

Soak beans over night. Add onion and celery stalks, broken in pieces. Simmer several hours until beans are soft; add more water as water boils away, and add the seasonings. Melt butter and stir in flour. Strain the beans and add. Cook until smooth. If too thick add more water. Slice the eggs and lemon and pour the soup over them either in a tureen or in the soup dishes.

Chocolate Butter Icing.

1½ tablespoons butter.
2 cups sugar.
1½ squares chocolate.
4-5 tablespoons hot milk.

Cream the butter, add sugar slowly, add chocolate melted, and enough milk to make right consistency to spread thickly.

Candied Cranberries.

1 cup cranberries.
1 cup sugar.
1 cup water.

Wash and dry cranberries and prick each in several places. Boil sugar and water until the syrup spins a thread (230 degrees Fahrenheit). Add cranberries and cook gently until the syrup will jell when dropped from tip of spoon. Remove berries and place on waxed paper to cool and dry. Roll in granulated sugar and use in place of candied cherries.

Cranberry Tapioca.

½ teaspoon salt.
3½ cups boiling water.
1 pint cranberries.
½ cup water.
½ cup sugar.

Cook tapioca, salt and boiling water together until clear. Cook cranberries and water until soft and add to the tapioca with the sugar. Cook five minutes, pour into a wet mold, chill and serve with cream.

UNCOMMON AMERICANS

"Magnificent Failure"

IN ALL the history of missionary work in America, there is no more remarkable record than that of David Zeisberger. For 63 years he labored among the Indians and during that time he traveled many thousands of danger-filled miles through the wilderness on foot and by canoe. He built no less than 13 Indian towns as centers of Christianity in a heathen land and he lived to see all but one of them wiped out of existence. He had failed but truly his was a "magnificent failure."

Zeisberger was born in Moravia in 1721 and in 1740 came to Georgia where his church was organizing a mission among the Creeks. Next he was sent to Pennsylvania where he aided Count Zinzendorf in building the Moravian towns of Nazareth and Bethlehem.

Beginning his work among the Delawares at Shamokin, Pa., he was adopted by the Munsey tribe of that nation. Then he went to New York where the Six Nations made him a sachem and keeper of their records, an unusual honor for a white man. When the French and Indian war began he was compelled to return to Bethlehem because both French and English were suspicious that his charges were partisans.

After Pontiac's conspiracy had been crushed in 1763 the Moravian led his flock to Wyalusing, Pa., and established two more missions on the Allegheny and the Beaver. Then the call for service beyond the Ohio came to him and in 1772 he founded Schoenbrunn ("Beautiful Spring"), the first white settlement in the future Buckeye state. Next the town of Gnadenhutten was established and an era of peace began.

But trouble was brewing for him. Although Zeisberger restrained the Delawares from taking part in the Revolutionary conflict, he soon found that he was under suspicion by both the British and the Americans. The British stirred up the Wyandots to break up the mission at Schoenbrunn and its teachers were tried as American spies. Finally in 1782 came the crowning blow, when a party of brutal Americans committed the hideous massacre of 96 Christian Indians at Gnadenhutten. The broken-hearted Zeisberger started with the remnants of his flock on a journey which took them first to Michigan, then back to Ohio and finally to Canada where he founded Fairfield on the Thames river.

In 1798 the Moravian Indians and their leader came back to the Tuscarawas river in Ohio where Zeisberger founded his last town—Goshen. There his "long life of amazing fortitude, faith and patience" came to an end in 1808.

Real Estate Promoter

THOUGH you may regard real estate promoters as products of modern times, the fact is one of the greatest "put over his deal" early in the history of the republic. His name was Joel Barlow and he was a lawyer, a diplomat and a poet, which may account for the fact that once "his siren voice persuaded a group of French emigrants to seek a Garden of Eden in Ohio."

Back in 1787 two groups of land speculators, known as the Ohio Associates and the Scioto Associates, secured the right from congress to purchase land in the Northwest territory with the almost-worthless Continental currency with which it had paid off soldiers of the Revolution. Then the Scioto Associates sent Barlow to France to dispose of these lands. They had nothing but an option on the lands but that didn't stop Barlow.

He sold a tract of 3,000,000 acres to a French Scioto company which in turn retailed farms to peasants and artisans who were willing to emigrate to America. In the spring of 1790 some 600 of them arrived in Alexandria, Va. William Duer, head of the Scioto Associates, was filled with dismay for there were neither agents to meet them nor lands ready for them.

Foreseeing the trouble that was ahead when hundreds more land-hungry Frenchmen arrived, Duer hastily arranged to take over lands of the Ohio Associates, who owed him money. For this debt he got nearly 200,000 acres on the Ohio river opposite the mouth of the Great Kanawha.

There he brought the Frenchmen and in October, 1790, the town of Gallipolis was founded. Rufus Putnam was engaged to build their huts for them but Duer soon found that it would be impossible to fulfill all the glowing promises which Barlow had made—to provide good homes and profitable occupation for the skilled artisans among them. By 1792 Duer had gone bankrupt, land titles were still in a bad tangle and the settlement of Gallipolis began to dwindle. For years thereafter congress had to listen to many a tale of woe from the victims before their claims were settled.

DON'T RUB YOUR EYES

Rubbing your eyes grinds invisible particles of dust and dirt right into the delicate tissues, making the irritation just that much worse. A much better way, as thousands have discovered, is to use a little Murine in each eye—night and morning. Murine may be depended on to relieve eye irritation because it is a reliable eye preparation containing 7 active ingredients of known value in caring for the eyes. In use for 40 years. Ask for Murine at your drug store.

Here's Simple Way to Ease a Cold

Two Quick-Acting, Quick-Dissolving Bayer Aspirin Tablets with a Glass of Water

The modern way to ease a cold is this: Two Bayer Aspirin tablets the moment you feel a cold coming on. Then repeat, if necessary, according to instructions in the box.

At the same time, if you have a sore throat, crush and dissolve three BAYER tablets in one-third glass of water. And gargle with this mixture twice.

The Bayer Aspirin you take internally will act to combat fever and the pains which usually accompany colds. The gargle will act as a medicinal gargle to provide almost instant relief from rawness and pain. It is really marvelous; for it acts like a local anesthetic on the irritated membrane of your throat.

Try this way. Your doctor, we know, will endorse it. For it is a quick, effective means of combating a cold. Ask for Bayer Aspirin by the full name at your druggist's — not for "aspirin" alone.

POULTRY

GRASSHOPPERS AS POULTRY MENACE

Feared in 1937; Are Host for Three Parasites.

By J. D. Mizelle, Parasitologist, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.—WNU Service.

Warnings of a possible heavy infestation of grasshoppers in 1937 hold a menace to poultry flocks as well as a field crops.

Grasshoppers have been found to be the intermediate host for at least three poultry parasites, chief of which are tapeworms and round worms.

Poultry losses cost Illinois farmers approximately $4,000,000 annually. And 20 per cent of the annual poultry mortality, as judged by autopsy findings, is caused by tapeworms which spend a part of their life cycle in such intermediate hosts as grasshoppers, houseflies, stableflies, dung beetles, ground beetles, earthworms, snails, slugs, ants and crustacea.

It has also been found that poultry becomes infested with roundworm parasites by eating grasshoppers, earthworms, cockroaches, snails, pill bugs, waterfleas and dung beetles. However, few parasites are able to develop directly without spending a part of their life within an intermediate host.

While proper sanitary measures will not prevent the grasshopper menace, good poultry management will go far toward the control of parasites with both direct and indirect life histories.

Poultry owners will find that it pays to have clean, well constructed houses and equipment, clean yards and ranges, clean, well balanced feed and water. It is also important to dispose of diseased fowls and see that houses, troughs and watering utensils are kept clean. These measures combined with any other steps that will destroy intermediate hosts or prevent their access to farm flocks will cut down the heavy annual poultry loss and raise egg and meat production.

Poultryman Advises How to Treat Colds in Birds

To get rid of colds that have started in a poultry flock the first thing to do is to isolate all birds showing signs of a cold, states a North Carolina State college expert. As this trouble is usually caused by drafts and dampness together with poor ventilation, poor feeding, and overcrowding, the next thing is to look for and eliminate the cause.

Check carefully on the feeding schedule and give the flock Epsom salts at the rate of one-half pound to each three gallons of water. Keep a good germicide in the drinking water while there is evidence of the trouble. The house and utensils should also be disinfected. Where the trouble is well established it is not economical to treat the individuals and these should be destroyed. Where commercial sprays for colds are used the directions should be carefully followed.

When turkeys eat feathers the vice may be controlled by feeding clover, alfalfa, or soybean hay. A supply of fibrous grains, such as oats, barley and buckwheat, helps to curb the habit.

Soil and Water Saving Is Urged

Well-Planned Farm Program Plays Important Part, Expert Says.

Supplied by the North Carolina State College Soil Conservation Division. WNU Service.

Soil conservation and water conservation go hand in hand, says E. C. Jernigan, project manager of a county soil conservation service. Both depend upon a well-planned farm program in which soil-building practices play the most important part.

Five simple and inexpensive farm practices are suggested as contributory to soil and water conservation. They are as follows:

First—Subsoiling. Break the land well and subsoil to a depth of 18 to 20 inches. This will increase the water-holding capacity of the soil.

Second—Terracing and strip cropping. Break down the slope with a system of terracing and strip cropping that will slow down the water and reduce erosion. The strips of close-growing crops will add enriching vegetable matter to the soil and make it capable of holding more water.

Third—Liming. To improve the physical condition by neutralizing the acids and increasing the legume crop yields.

Fourth—Rotations. Plan a rotation that will include as much close-growing vegetation as possible.

Fifth—Retirement of lands. Take out of cultivation and put to pastures or trees all lands that cannot produce crops at a profit.

Summer Pest Attacks Can Be Headed Off in Winter

Because winter brings a crisis in the life of all insects, orchardists and gardeners can do much in winter to head off some of the most dangerous and troblesome pest attacks, advises A. C. Hodson, University Farm entomologist, St. Paul.

Cleaning up and burning all garden refuse, weeds, sticks, and other trash in which insects may spend the winter will help immensely in gardens, orchards and small fruit plantings. Late plowing likewise exposes many insects to destruction by cold and birds.

Orchard sanitation, particularly the destroying of dropped fruits, is important throughout the year in controlling codling moths, plum curculio and apple maggots.

Scraping the rough bark of apple trees from the trunks and large branches kills many hibernating larvae of the codling moth and exposes others to birds and weather. The scraping has another advantage, particularly in old orchards. It exposes the oyster shell scale so that it can be more easily killed by dormant spray.

Other insects such as the cane girdlers and tree crickets of raspberries, may be attacked during the dormant season. They spend the winter as larvae and eggs in the canes, and if injured canes are removed, subsequent damage can be eliminated.

Many similar steps can be taken by the alert fruit grower during the winter to lessen summer insect troubles.

Water in Corn

Corn that is well matured and weighs about 70 pounds per bushel will ordinarily contain about 17.5 per cent of water, notes a writer in the Indiana Farmer's Guide. Such corn has 3 to 4 pints of surplus water. If 10 bushels of this corn is put away for seed it will be necessary to evaporate about 4 gallons of water to make the seed safe from severe freezes and mold growth. A 70-pound bushel of corn may be safely stored under conditions that would result in molding and other injuries to more sappy ears.

Farm Notes

Pennsylvania's apple crop is the best in seven years.

* * *

Ontario yields more than half of the Dominion apple crop.

* * *

Barnyard manure is an effective fertilizer for orchards and vineyards.

* * *

It costs three or four times as much to feed a cow in the manger as on pasture.

* * *

The beef cattle industry is second in size only to the petroleum industry in California.

* * *

Store sweet potatoes in a dry, moderately warm place, such as the basement near the furnace, on a shelf near the kitchen stove, near the chimney on the second floor, or in a warm attic.

* * *

Black locust, unlike most trees, is a legume, and like alfalfa, clover and lespedeza, improves the land by fixing nitrogen in the soil.

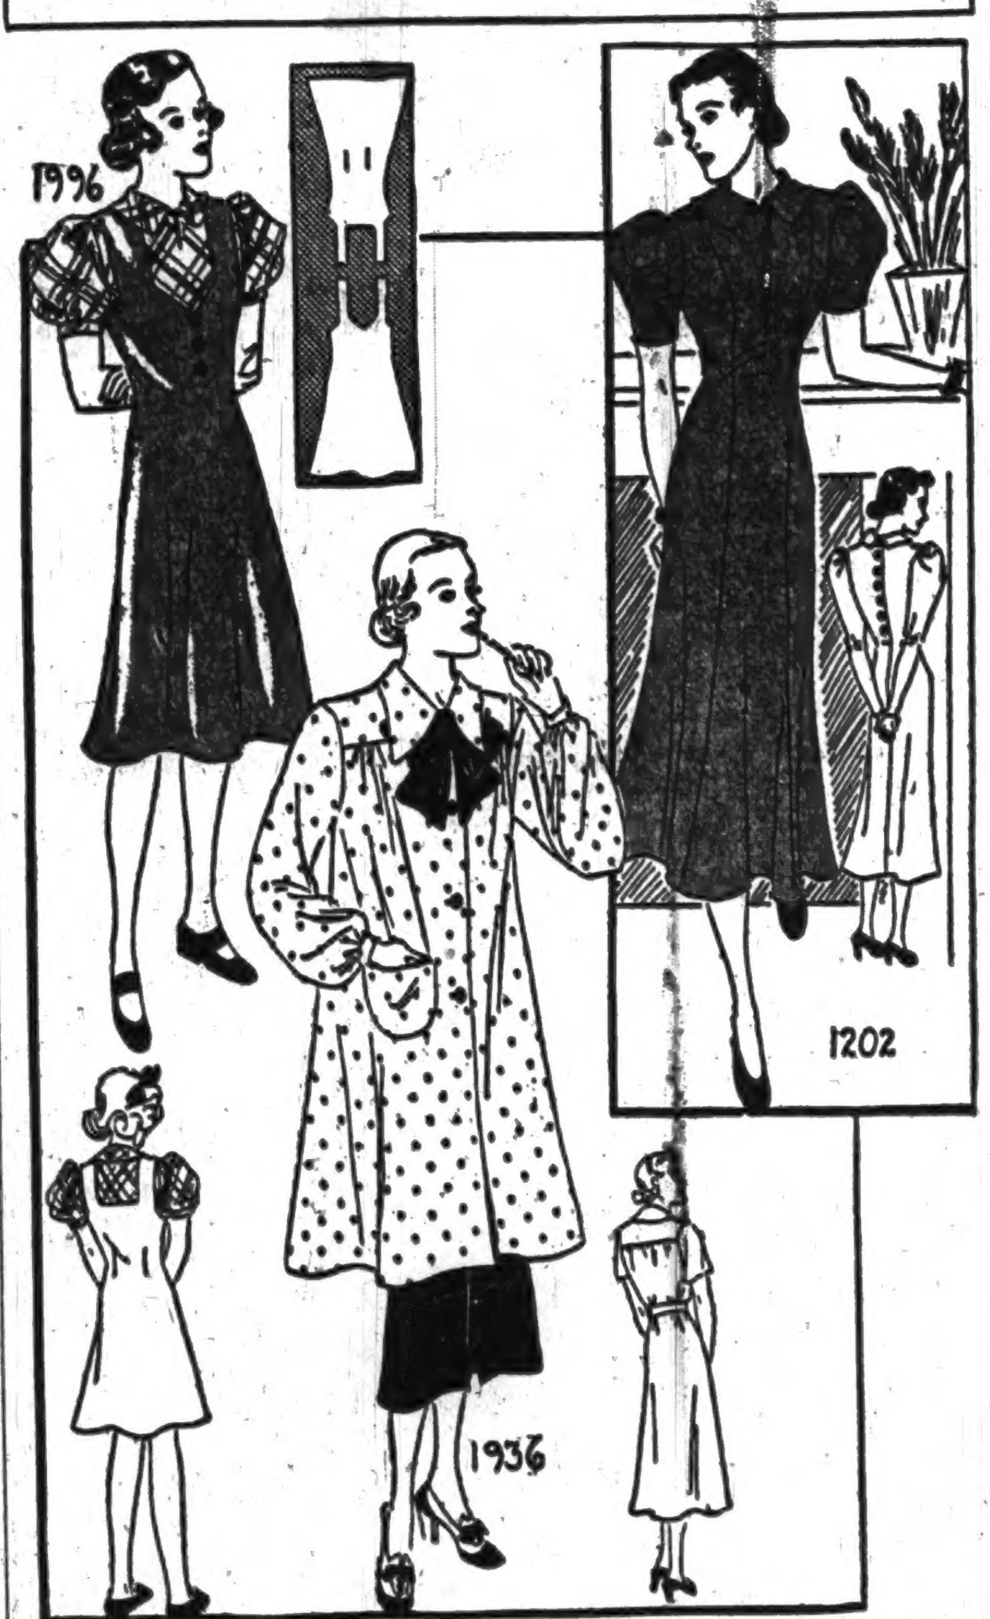
* * *

Green tomatoes have practically the same food value as ripe red tomatoes and can be fried, stuffed, preserved, pickled or used for pies.

* * *

The New York potato crop is estimated at 25 million bushels, which is 11 per cent less than last year and 22 per cent less than the average.

A Trio for the Younger Set



THREE more intriguing numbers than these would be hard to imagine—even in this day of rampant fashion and scintillating style! It's a trio that the younger set in The Sewing Circle will be enthusiastic about too, for first consideration is given them in—

Pattern 1996—This excellently styled jumper dress is one the tot of six and the lass of fourteen will sing long and loud over. It is a guaranteed delight for both mother and daughter because it's the simplest thing to sew and the most intriguing frock a child ever had. The puff of the sleeves and the flare of the skirt place a pretty accent on youth. Available for sizes: 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1¾ yards of 35 inch material for the jumper and 1⅜ yards for the blouse.

Pattern 1202—There's subtle loveliness about this new dress for all occasions. It makes a grand thing of simplicity—a brilliant success of the new silhouette. Buttons, bold shiny ones, add classic chic to the back. And in the matter of sleeves there's an opportunity to choose for oneself. Sheer wool, challis, taffeta or silk crepe will be a likely material for this dress. Designed for sizes: 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 2¾ yards of 54 inch fabric. With long sleeves 2⅞ yards.

Pattern 1936—This is the season for smocks, although not the 'hunting season,' thanks to today's new model, pictured here. Imagine the fun of having a smock that reflects one's own taste in its every detail—yes, even to the size and color of the scarf and buttons. Designed in sizes: 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 34 requires 4⅜ yards of 39 inch material. The bow requires 1⅛ yards of ribbon.

FEELS LIKE NEW! THANKS TO CLEVER WIFE..

HE wasn't himself. Had too many restless nights, too many tired days. Seemed to lose his ambition. But his clever wife was too smart to let this go on. She insisted that he try Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and he found out what a surprising difference it made to use a laxative of entirely vegetable origin. He didn't mind taking NRs at all, they were so gentle, and non-habit forming. They simply made him feel like a new man. Get a 25c box at any drugstore today.

TAKE A TIP FROM STREAMLINERS

Be Oil Wise . . . Use PENNZOIL!

It takes a good oil to lubricate your motor safely in cold weather.

All three of Union Pacific's coast-to-Chicago streamliners use Pennzoil in Diesel engines that are three times as hard on motor oil as your car.

Stands to reason that, in your motor, this same oil will stand up best, this winter. What's more, Pennzoil flows easily even below zero—gets to every part of your motor the minute you step on the starter, and prevents wear.

Get Pennzoil from your local Pennzoil dealer.

Indiana's New "First Citizen" Files His Tax Return Early.

Indiana's new governor, M. Clifford Townsend, who upheld the principles of the state gross income tax law during his campaign for election, was among the first to file his annual return covering 1936 income.

In the picture above he is shown handing his return and check to Gilbert Hewit, cashier of the Gross Income Tax division, at the division's headquarters, 141 So. Meridian St., Indianapolis.

The annual taxpaying period extends to January 30, with return forms available at The St. Joe News office.

Clarence A. Jackson, director of the division, has estimated that nearly 50,000 Indiana citizens who in previous years have not filed returns because their receipts amountd to less than the $1,000 annual exemption, will file returns this year for the first time.

OFFCERS ELECTED BY COMMISSIONERS

The DeKalb county commissioners Tuesday announced they had reorganized for the year 1937 by electing Cleve H. Grube of Stafford township, presiden,t Arthur Grube of Keyser township, vice president, and Wm. H. Brechill of Smithfield township, secretary.

The board reappointed members of the county staff, including Elgar W. Atkinson of Auburn, attorney, Dr. M. O. Klingler of Garrett, physician, and Calvin C. Kain of Auburn, county highway supervisor. Mr. Kain is also county surveyor. Kenneth Smith was renamed deputy county surveyor.

Mrs. Ella Johnson was reappointed court house matron and Wm. Goe and Harpster Walter as janitors.

The regular highway employes were all retained. Deputy Surveyor Smith and M. J. Baldwin of Butler, are supervising the highway work during the absenec of Mr. Kain, who is ill.

The commissioners also fixed the dog tax the same as before. The tax on one male dog is $1, one female $3, and on each additional male or female $5.

SIXTH GRADE WINS LOCAL SPELLING MATCH

Frances Reidenbach, sixth grade student, of Concord Township School, won the honors Saturday night in the spelling match sponsored by Goldsmith's Store, during the past five weeks.

The match was between the fifth to the eighth grades inclusive, and Saturday night composed the grade winners in the final.

The entries in the final match were:

1. Mary Louise Woodcox, 9, fifth grade winner, Concord Township School, and taught by Cleota Crick.
2. Frances Reidenbach, 11, sixth grade winner, Concord Township School, and taught by Cleota Crick.
3. DuWayne Cook, seventh grade winner, Concord Township School, and taught by Eloise Bowman.
4. Marian Walter, 13, eighth grade winner, Spencer Township School, taught by Ida Reed.

The match was an educational event and drew a fair attendance each night, and all those participating were highly pleased with the manner in which Mr. Goldsmith treated them.

The match this week will be made up of older folk and this promises to be a real event in the community. You will want to see and hear this match. Enter today.

Safetygrams
BY
FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

Business men find it good business to take inventory of stock around the first of the year. Maybe all of us should take inventory of ourselves and our driving habits as the new year begins.

An all time record for automobile accidents and deaths will probably be set in 1936. Some communities will show reductions, others will show large increases. It's to be regretted that this will be true in spite of all the safety work that is being done.

We must resolve within ourselves to do better. It's the human factor in automobile driving that causes the accidents. A smart driver, because of his driving skill, can usually get out of difficult situations without an accident. The safe driver just does not get into difficult situations in the first place. That's the difference.

BE A SAFE DRIVER.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Scott, of Hicksville, called on Mr. and Mrs. Ira Bone Sunday afternoon.

FUR TRAPPING ENDS JAN. 15, DATES FOR FOX SEASONS GIVEN

Hoosier trappers end one of their most profitable seasons Friday, Jan. 15, the last date on which opossum, raccoon, skunk, mink and muskrat can be taken legally in Indiana. Fur prices generally have been higher and many trappers have reported unusual success in their operations.

The open season on fox ends Friday, Jan. 15 in the southern 55 counties. There is no closed season on fox in the northern counties including: LaPorte, St. Joseph, Elkhart, LaGrange, Steuben, Starke, Marshall, Kosciusko, Cass, Noble, DeKalb, Newton, Jasper, Pulaski, Fulton, Whitley, Allen, White, Miami, Wabash, Huntington, Wells, Adams, Benton, Warren, Tippecanoe, Montgomery, Carroll, Clinton, Howard, Tipton, Grant, Blackford, Jay and Clark counties.

Trapping has been an important source of revenue for hundreds of Indiana residents in recent years, reports by fur-buyers showing more than a half-mllion dollars paid to trappers for furs which they had taken. Indiana laws require all fur-buyers to be licensed and to file reports within thirty days after the close of the trapping season, showing all purchases, prices paid, from whom purchased and to whom sold.

Trappers are permitted to have fur-bearing animals and the freshly skinned hides of such animals, taken lawfully during the open season, in their possession for five days after the close of the season.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

No man can have a good enough memory to make a successful liar.

Allen Coburn says the poverty of a girl's father has caused many a man to remain a bachelor.

Joe Goldsmith says it is easier for the younger generation now. They have soft handkerchiefs to wipe their nose on and he used to have to wipe his on his sleeve.

"Nowadays you can buy an auto for a song," says Chas. Koch, and "if you are not a good singer the company will finance your vocal lessons."

You have also possibly noticed as you go through life that the more some people tell you the less you know.

Willard Hurni says another popular labor-saving device is going out in the country to eat Sunday dinner with some rural acquaintance.

Joe Martin wants to know why it is that when you wake up at night and wait for the clock to strike it always hits the half-hour and you still don't know what time it is.

Why is it some men will kill their wives when they could take her a box of flowers and let the shock kill her.

It remains for J. B. Munn to point out that nowadays the kids have an itch for knowledge where in the old days they merely had the itch.

MORTUARY

WADE

Lloyd Orlen Wade, son of George Wade and Sarah Jane Wade, was born three miles east of Spencerville, Indiana, October 18, 1882, and departed this life at his home in Defiance, Ohio, January 2, 1937.

He was united in marriage to Audrey E. Butler, December 31, 1908. There were three daughters born to this union, Mrs. Janice Bowser of Spencerville and Mary and Edith at home.

The deceased was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Concord Lodge No. 556, F. & A. M., Order of Eastern Star, Chapter 386 all of Spencerville and the Order of Railroad Telegraphers. He had been with the Wabash Railroad Company for thirty years, being agent at Spencerville for sixteen years and later was located in Milan, Michigan; Adrian, Michigan, and Defiance, Ohio.

He leaves his wife, three daughters and two grandsons, James and Jerry Bowser of Spencerville, three brothers, Roy of St. Joe, Indiana, Clifford of Sherwood, Ohio, and Stearl of Hicksville, Ohio. Two sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Cole, Hillsdale, Michigan, and Mrs. Jessie Deardorff, Burr Oak, Mich.

Funeral services were held from the home in Defiance at one o'clock and at two o'clock from the Methodist Episcopal Church in Spencerville with Rev. Howard J. Brown, pastor of Forest Park M. E. Church in Fort Wayne, Indiana, officiating, assisted by Rev. L. E. Clayton, M. E. pastor, Spencerville.

Mrs. Clyde G. Rectenwall and Mrs. Raymond Rhodes, accompanied by Mrs. C. R. Baumgartner, sang "Lead Kindly Light" at the close of the service.

Pallbearers were Albert Wade, St. Joe, Indiana, Lawrence Benjamin, Wayne, Michigan, Charles Benjamin and Ivan Butler, Fort Wayne, Indiana, Auber Butler of Spencerville and James Butler of Auburn. All nephews of the deceased.

Interment was made in White City Cemetery near Spencerville.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kind words and expressions of sympathy on the deatn of our Husband and Father.

and Daughters.

TO CONSTRUCT FORTY MILES OF NEW ROAD

The county highway department expects to construct 40 miles of new road this year, according to the annual report filed with the county commissioners. At the present time 8 miles of road is under construction and during the past year 25 miles of road was graveled, graded and black-topped.

The total county highway mileage is 747.4, of which 712.4 is gravel and 35 miles is concrete, brick or black-top.

The expenditures of the department during 1936 aggregated $88,501.79. Chief among the items were $33,220.96 for personal services, $8,798.69 for gasoline, $985.19 for motor oil, $1,176.72 for tires and tubes, $1,445.80 for mileage of the supervisor, $11,410.[illegible] for gravel and stone, $1,624.[illegible] for tile and culvert pipe, $627.7[illegible] for lime and cement, $10,027.88 for tar, asphalt and road oil and $873.44 for insurance.

The receipts included $93,658.47 for gasoline tax, $171.45 for insurance and $287.40 for material used on Waterloo streets. The total receipts were $94,921.88 and the balance on hand at the beginning of 1937 was $6,420.09.

Pest Hunt Dinner

As it now stands the pest hunt dinner will be held at the school house on Thursday evening, Jan. 21. An interesting program in addition to the pest hunt report will be provided for. All members will please take notice.

THEIR OWN PATHWAY

Sometimes youth of today are judged a little harshly because they want to follow their own pathways and be guided by their own inclinations. Maybe a St. Joe father wants his son to be a doctor, when already the son has his heart set on being a lawyer. Yet if this same father will think back he will recall that about the same condition existed when he was the same age. Perhaps mother would like daughter to be a musician, but daughter has her heart set on being a trained nurse or a kindergarten teacher. It is then daughter is upbraided for her determination to have her own way. We are all born with certain talents and an urge to do certain things. It is natural youth should want to blaze its own pathways and climb its own hills. The youth of the older generations did it, and so will the youth of generations yet to come. Then let's not deal harshly with the youth of today because it wants to.

RIGHT OF WAY

Whenever there's an auto accident in or near here some people do a lot of useless arguing about who had the right of way, and nine times out of ten you'll find the victims of the accident doing the same thing. And what good does it do either of them when they're lying on a bed of pain? Insisting upon one's right on the road, or anywhere else, is one thing but making allowance for other people's opinions is another. It's a lot better to put on your brakes while you grumble about "some people's nerve" than to wake up later in a lot of bandages and brag that you defended your right of way. A poor driver is one who depends on a lot of horn-tooting and bullying on the highway to get him out of the tight places. Safe drivers know when they have the right of way but who are willing, and courteous enough, to yield that right of way instantly if they feel that by doing so they can avoid an accident.

WHEN TO REJOICE

It is a fact both sad and common that when one rises a little above his fellows he at once becomes the target for the darts of envy and jealousy, regardless of how generous he may be in using his talents for the benefit of others. The rich man in almost any community, though he be generous to a fault, is roundly criticised for what he does and also for what he does not. If one prospers it too often rouses envy in the hearts of his neighbors, when it should draw forth congratulations It is to our advantage, both from the standpoint of winning friends and also as well as bringing to ourselves greater peace of mind to "rejoice with those that do rejoice." When a neighbor succeeds it is a fine thing to step up and tell him so and congratulate him. You'll both feel better for it. And it will show what calibre of man you are.

OLD-FASHIONED THRIFT

There may be a few people around St. Joe willing to argue against thrift and saving since the country's recent sad experience with financial institutions, but thrift remains an old-fashioned virtue just the same. All this talk about old-age pension has had a tendency to overshadow the virtues of thrift. Thousands are said to be refusing to save money in the belief that when they do become old the government is going to take care of them. Sensible citizens, however, are taking no chances. They're still saving a dollar when the opportunity offers.

Teaching that a man's future welfare is no longer a matter of concern is not a good idea. Rearing a generation that shuns work simply because it may be taken care of by the government in old age is not fair to those being led into that belief. Idleness is never going to draw a premium, and the time will come when everybody can loaf and still enjoy the comforts of life. There should be some sort of security for the aged and infirm, of course. But the time will never come when honest toil is un-American in principle.

The old-fashioned American habit of thrift still remains a virtue. It may be slipping a little in practice, but the need for it still remains, and its benefits are just as certain as they have been ever since the nation was founded.

BE ON YOUR GUARD!

For several years we have joined with other newspapers all over the country in sounding a warning along about this time of year against the dangers arising from carbon-monoxide gas. And yet, notwithstanding all warnings, the nation is forced to suffer a heavy casualty list each year.

Research has shown that carbon-monoxide gas, which is nothing more than the fumes from an auto engine, is the most deadly form of gas in the world. Unlike other gases, it sounds no warning of its presence since you cannot see it or smell it or hear it escaping. Ad yet so deadly is it that death from it can easily ensue within a period of five or ten minutes. Even if a victim of carbon-monoxide poisoning does survive the system is left in such condition that recovery requires a long period, in many instances, and most generally leaves the victim weakened physically for the balance of his life.

So here is our annual to motorists around St. Joe. Be on your guard. Don't start your auto in a closed garage. Don't work on it with the motor running in a closed garage. Don't sleep in your car with the motor running, unless a window is left open for ventilation. Keep the motor tuned up in cold weather and the exhaust system tight. These rules are your only precaution against the most deadly gas in the world. Be on your guard!

WHEN SNOW COMES

Many a youngster who would not think of stealing a ride on the tailboard of a truck will hitch his sled to a car in order to enjoy a thrilling free ride. That's one of the winter hazards drivers must think about during the next month or two.

It is a great temptation to be big-hearted and let the kids have their fun, but think what it means when you suddenly decide to turn a corner and the sled on which the youngsters are riding sideswipes another car going the opposite direction. Serious injury or death may be the result.

If you really love children you will discourage this practice. Make it a habit to look back now and then to see that you haven't picked up a couple of joy riders.

Children are care-free, ambitious, and daring. You must protect them.

A ban on barmaids will be asked in a bill to be introduced in the Indiana general assembly at the request of the state's organized bartenders. The bartenders union at Gary, labor leaders said, is preparing a bill to require that drinks be served only by men in taverns, hotels and restaurants. Under the terms of the contemplated bill, women could serve food in bars, but if the patron also wanted a drink with the food, he would have to have double service.

There is an ancient Chinese custom,
That I wish were followed here,
Each man pays up his old bills,
And out of debt starts the New Year.

ST. JOE NEWS.

Every dollar we are collecting
Goes to pay some bill that's due;
You pay us and we'll pay others—
It may come right back to you.

PEST HUNT DINNER PLANS COMPLETED

Of course all the members of the winning and losing side of the local pest hunt will be in attendance at the big chicken dinner Thursday night at the school house.

The Department of Conservation is sending Mr. Ira P. Nelson to speak to the members on this occasion, and all will want to hear him.

Safetygrams
BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

Imagine driving your car with all the windows covered with heavy canvas! You probably would never attempt it. Neither would I.

Yet, a great many drivers do this very thing during a blinding snowstorm. It doesn't take very long for snow to interfere with the efficiency of the ordinary windshield wiper and also to cover the side windows of the car. Winter is here and snowstorms are upon us. Be sure that your windshield wiper is in good condition and that the wiper functions properly. Sometimes the rubber becomes worn and a new wiper is necessary. A small cost, but it can save you considerable annoyance and inconvenience. It is also a good safety measure to see that this equipment is in order.

Instead of topping a minute for emergency cleaning of the windshield, many drivers will continue on their way, trusting to luck that they won't run into anything or anybody.

Do not depend on luck.

REVIVAL MEETINGS AT CONCORD CHURCH

Rev. and Mrs. Cleo. C. Roth of Fort Wayne, are conducting a two weeks evangelistic meeting which started Sunday evening, January 17 and will continue to January 31 at the Concord Methodist Protestant Church.

CLEO. C. ROTH

Rev. Roth, who for many years was a boy evangelist, is widely known in the evangelistic field.

The interest is good thus far in the services.

The services are held every evening except Saturday at 7:30.

TO DIRECT SOIL CONSERVATION WORK

Organization for the 1937 Agricultural Conservation program in DeKalb County is now completed. In our four townships the officers are as follows:

Concord: Merritt Sechler, chairman; S. A. Mumaw, vice chairman; Geo. E. Walter, secretary and J. E. Foltz, alternate.

Newville: Wier Anderson, chairman; Maurice Kline, vice chairman; Harold Miller, secretary and Frederick Gengnagel, alternate.

Spencer: Clyde Hart, chairman; Carl Perkins, vice chairman; Geo. B. Hart, secretary and O. E. Ginther, alternate.

Jackson: Ralph Bartles, chairman; Joe Gerig, vice chairman, Wm. C. Essig, secretary and C. C. Kelley, alternate.

COUNTY PENSIONS GRANTED APPLICANTS

Twenty-four applications for old age pensions were approved Friday night by the county welfare board at its monthly meeting at the office of the president, C. E. McClintock, in Auburn.

The board found that 12 applicants for old age assistance were not eligible. Twelve changes were made in pensions already in effect and two voluntary withdrawals from the pension roll were reported. Five deaths of pensioners have taken place since the last monthly meeting, including four in January.

The application of one blind person for assistance was approved. Nine awards were approved for assistance of children. One application was rejected, one change in award was ordered and one decision was withheld.

FORMER ST. JOE BOY DIES IN MISSISSIPPI

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ulm, of Butler, left Saturday to attend the funeral of Harry Ulm, a brother, held at Rock Island, Illinois, on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ulm for a number of years have owned and operated a large chicken farm in Mississippi, and Mr. Ulm died very suddenly of a heart attack. His body was shipped to their former home, for burial.

He is survived by the widow, Anna Ulm, and a son.

Harry will be remembered as a St. Joe boy, being the oldest son of Jeremiah and Hannah Ulm, who lived near Bear Creek, where Frank Meese now resides.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that Harold M. Kelley, as special representative of the Department of Financial Institutions of the State of Indiana for the liquidation of the St. Joe Valley Bank, has filed his partial account in the DeKalb Circuit Court, to which any creditor, share-holder or other person interested may file written objection, and the said account will be heard and determined by said Court at the Court House in the City of Auburn, Indiana, on the 26th day of February, 1937.

HAROLD M. KELLEY,
Special Representative.
W. D. Stump, Attorney. 3t3.

HOME BUREAU

The Concord Township Home Bureau met at the home of Katie Storer, January 16. Meeting was called to order by the president, Helen Ulm. Twenty-three members responded to roll call with current events.

The executive committee gave a short program after which the hostess with her committee, consisting of Marie Akins, Ethel Wineland, and Beulah Coburn, served delicious home made ice cream, angel food cake and coffee. The club adjourned to meet with Millie Shull February 19. The assisting committee will be Clara Foltz, Minnie Ulm and Loree Spencer.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kind acts and expressions of sympathy on the death of our Wife and Mother.

Charles McCrory and Children.

Send Address Change in Advance

If you are going to have a change in your address, be sure to send The News a U. S. postal card notice of the new address at least a week ahead of the day when it goes into effect. If you leave this job to be handled by the postoffice department, it will cost 2 cents and may result in your missing a copy of the paper.

SPELLING MATCH DRAWS LARGE CROWD

Howard Williams captured the adult spelling match Saturday night sponsored by Goldsmith's Store, and a large crowd attended. The contest run for a good long time. The entries were Mrs. Burl Rude, Mrs. Dorothea Kessler, Floyd Knisley, Mrs. Lester Pugsley, Mrs. Ida Woocdox, Mrs. Doris Yeiser, Allen Haller, Mrs. Clara Hart, Steve Dix, Mrs. Lena Meek, Leon Kees, Mrs Lulu Armstrong, Mrs. Alice Reidenbach, Howard Williams, Mrs. Ethel Likes and Mrs. Clayton Chorpenning.

There is some talk of a match being made between the adults and the high school some time later, providing such plans can be arranged.

MISS LUCILLE CURIE MARRIES IN PENNSYLANIA

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie announce the marriage of their daughter, Lucille to Mr. George W. Frederick, of Fleetwood, Pa.

The marriage took place at Kutztown, Pa., New Year's Eve, with the groom's brother and wife in attendance. Mr. Frederick is an electrician. After the first of February they will be in their own home.

St. Joe friends extend congratulations. Mrs. Frederick was a graduate of the local high school and a very active Alumni member. For several years she clerked in Zonker's Store and there made many lasting friends among her customers. She will be missed in St. Joe.

DELLA HUFFMAN DIES

Miss Della Mae Huffman, aged 24, a former St. Joe girl, died of tuberculosis at the Irene Byron Sanatorium Sunday at 10:30 P. M. She was born in Michigan, City. Surviving are a brother, Leamon Huffman, Ft. Wayne, R. R. No. 4; a sister, Miss Erna Huffman, of St. Joe; four nieces and two nephews.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at 2 P. M. at L. C. Brudi & Son's Funeral Home, in Fort Wayne, with the Rev. Edmund W. Weber officiating. Burial in Greenlawn Memorial Park.

For several years Della made her home with Mrs. Hattie Stone and attended school here, later going to Fort Wayne. Her illness began April of last year,

Mrs. Stone and Miss Huffman attended the funeral.

PIONEER PASSES

Ella Wilmot, aged 84, of two miles east of St. Joe, died at his home Monday. The body was removed to the Kinsey Funeral Home. Surviving are the widow, three daug[illegible]rs, two sons, twenty grandchildre[illegible] eighteen great grandchildre[illegible] nd a brother. Funeral servic[illegible] were held Wedesday at 1:30 P. M. at the Coburn's Corners Church with burial in the Alton Cemetery.

The obituary will be printed next week.

TO HAVE NEW DUMP

For some time the town of St. Joe has been without a city dump, but this week 2.31 acres of land was purchased from the Wm. Curie estate for $125, thus affording a splendid place for disposal of rubbish of the town. This tract of land is opposite the old stock pens.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

Proud people are reluctant to show their love. They hate to admit that anybody has that much hold on them.

A hare is 50 leaps before a hound and takes 4 leaps to the hound's three but 2 leaps of the hound's are equal to 3 of the hare, how many leaps must the hound take to catch the hare.

"There is always one consolation," asserts Lillian Buckingham, "the darkest hour is only 60 minutes long."

When a man gets home from work and finds his wife reading an automobile catalogue, he had better go back to work.

J. R. Shilling wants to know how it comes that there are forty words that mean "drunk" and only one that means "sober."

"Most people can't see what is right under their noses," declares L. B. Meek, "for if they could a lot of mustaches would be shaved off."

Junior Curie: "Say Dad, how many kinds of milk are there?"
Father: "Why, My son?"
Junior: "Oh, I'm making a picture of a cow and I want to know how many faucets to put on her."

Frank Bowman says we are now so civilized that we can't bear the sight of cruelty to any animal except man.

According to Mose Yeiser the "upper class" is composed of the descendants of middle-class people who inherited the fortune of a tough old bird of the lower-class.

"Now that big city stores are advertising $1,500 coats" says Wm. Strouse, "it's a sign that people aren't scared any more."

A washed sow will return to her mire, and from indications they might as well have left the Kaiser to boss the job.

A traveling salesman representing the Daisy Mae Candy Co., of Lansing, Mich., was in town Monday calling on his customers and he put up at the Sheffer Restaurant for his lunch. When it came to pie, Basil named the pies he had in stock and the customer said "mince pie, too." Basil replied, "only apple, sir, you know its been a hard year on the minces."

Well most of us would welcome any change in our system if we were convinced it would also put more change in our pockets.

We've noticed anyway that it's the brain workers who insist that brain work is really harder than physical labor.

Whenever you say there ought to be a law against that, just look it up. You'll probably find that there is.

IT MAY BE LEGITIMATE, BUT . . .

House to house peddling may be a legitimate business. But we have our doubts. Too many strange situations have been brot to our attention to make us feel friendly to this type of selling.

A strange figure calls at your home with samples of alleged oriental rugs under his arm. He speaks with a peculiar accent. He asks for just a moment to show what he has. With an air of mystery he implies that there are reasons why these remarkable values can be offered. He makes some careful observations while he displays his wares. He may be merely an advance agent for a band of thieves.

A young man calls who announces that he is working his way through college. He wants only a small deposit in advance, the merchandise he offers will be shipped direct from the factory. Frequently that shipment never arrives.

Another demonstrates the unusual utility of some cooking utensils. The order is delivered, but when you make a comparison with the values your local merchant offers you find that you have paid well for everything you got.

He may be followed by the man who informs you that his firm sells so cheap because it spends nothing for advertising. This is probably one of the most absurd of all arguments that have survived the years, for compare the peddlers' commissions of 40 and 50 per cent with the advertising appropriations of two and three per cent, and one can answer that the cheap price is due only to the poor quality.

The house to house selling scheme persists because people do not like to admit when they have been stung. They usually forget their losses, protect their pride and leave the field open to racketeers.

Our advice to the citizens of St. Joe and Spencerville is to consider carefully every proposition offered by one of these house to house peddlers. Don't let them into your home until you are convinced that they are honest. Don't buy their wares until you have an opportunity to compare what they offer with what local merchants have to sell.

If you have your doubts, notify the police. They are kept busy trying to catch up with fast talking slickers who are well primed with fancy yarns to answer every legitimate question you may ask.

If you refuse all dealings with these bell ringers you are playing safe.

A blanket of sleet covered the earth Wednesday morning endangering traffic both by auto and foot. Raymond Rhodes, who drives star mail route from Fort Wayne, arrived at 8:20 A. M., when he is ordinarily in Allen County on his return trip. He reported that on Anthony Blvd., in the city, cars were so mixed up that he could not pass, losing time there for traffic to be cleared. Anyway be on your guard.

A bill is to be presented to the General Assembly by Senator Albert Ferris of Milton, which would create a state fund from which reimbursements would be made to farmers for sheep killed by dogs. The state fund would replace the present township funds, which Senator Ferris said, are depleted in many townships. Many counties also have delinquencies in their dog tax funds. Under Senator Ferris' plan each township would retain $100 in its dog tax fund, all over that amount being given the county auditor to be placed in the state fund.

THE FASTEST FALL POSSIBLE! THE FASTEST A MAN WITH UNOPENED PARACHUTE CAN DROP IS 120 MILES PER HOUR. AT THAT SPEED WIND RESISTANCE EQUALS GRAVITY'S PULL.
HAT TEMPERATURE - TEMPERATURES INSIDE VARIOUS HATS WERE TAKEN ON A HOT SUMMER DAY IN LONDON. A MAN'S BLACK SILK HAT HELD THE HIGHEST, 103° F.
A PERPETUAL CLOCK A PERPETUALLY RUNNING CLOCK IN SWITZERLAND GETS THE SMALL ENERGY IT NEEDS FROM THE DAILY CHANGES IN THE TEMPERATURE.

JANUARY

AYE, MON, 'TIS A GOOD BUY!

Be Oil Wise...Use PENNZOIL!

Want a car that runs as well next spring as it did last summer? Then use Pennzoil, the best buy in safe, winter lubrication.

As soon as you start your motor, Pennzoil gets on the job, no matter how cold the weather. At the same time, its exclusive, tough-film keeps vital moving parts lubricated safely at high operating temperatures.

Be an oil-wise motorist. Get the correct winter grade of Pennzoil from your nearby Pennzoil dealer.

BE OILWISE USE PENNZOIL

JANUARY

There is an ancient Chinese custom,
That I wish were followed here,
Each man pays up his old bills,
And out of debt starts the New Year.

ST. JOE NEWS.

Every dollar we are collecting
Goes to pay some bill that's due;
You pay us and we'll pay others—
It may come right back to you.

PEST HUNT DINNER LARGELY ATTENDED

One hundred and five men enjoyed the dinner Thursday night at the gym, sponsored by the losing members of the pest hunt campaign, and served by the Mt. Pleasant ladies, and everything was splendid, topping off with home made ice cream.

Mr. Ira P. Wilson and assistant, representing the conservation department, showed moving pictures of the state game farms and state parks, with an interesting talk.

The election of officers took place as follows:
Harold Baker, President.
Roy Reidenbach, Vice Pres.
Vern Coburn, Secretary.
Ed Storer, Treasurer.
Lester Coburn, Spear Custodian.
Walter Morr, Delegate County Council.
Sam Mumaw, Alternate.

Ten directors were elected including Willard Hurni, Harvey Hull, Walter Stewart, Lester Coburn, Fred Elson.

The club reports a membership of 210 for 1937.

WILMOT

Ella Wilmot was born in Portage County, Ohio, November 27, 1852, and died at his residence in Concord Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, January 18, 1937, having attained the age of 84 years, 2 months and 21 days.

The deceased was the oldest child of George W. and Lucia Wilmot, and he was two years old when they became residents of DeKalb County, where they reared a large family of sturdy children, six sons of whom grew to maturity and were respected citizens of the community. Two sons: Arthur Wilmot and Vernon Wilmot, are now living.

November 14, 1874 the deceased was united in marriage with Florence D. Coburn. To this union were born seven children: Mrs. Leona Mason and Mrs. Mary Donley of Coburntown, George Wilmot and Mrs. Edna Jenkins of St. Joe, and Fred Wilmot of near Flint, Michigan. Hayden Wilmot and Mrs. Zelma Kimes having been called home many years ago.

Twenty living grandchildren and eighteen great grandchildren also belong to the larger family circle.

Mr. Wilmot's life was a great contribution to the community, fulfilling in a very large measure the mission of a man. From early manhood he lived an unfaltering Christian life. Neither doubts nor fears qualified his faith, neither want nor wealth neutralized his proper Christian service and duties. Without eloquence, or music, or great learning—void of those charms which humanity accounts the chief spiritual charms—his simple life now rises like a polished shaft to bear unmistakable witness to our Redeemer.

Funeral was held at the Coburn's Corners Church Wednesday afternoon at 1:30, Rev. J. N. Scholes officiating. Burial in Alton Cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish in this way to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindess, the Ladies Aid for the wonderful dinner and help, the floral offerings, the singers, and Rev. Scholes for his words of comfort, and all who by words or deeds helped in the last sad hours in the death and burial of our dear Husband and Father.

Mrs. Ella Wilmot and Children.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that Harold M. Kelley, as special representative of the Department of Financial Institutions of the State of Indiana for the liquidation of the St. Joe Valley Bank, has filed his partial account in the DeKalb Circuit Court, to which any creditor, share-holder or other person interested may file written objection, and the said account will be heard and determined by said Court at the Court House in the City of Auburn, Indiana, on the 26th day of February, 1937.

HAROLD M. KELLEY,
Special Representative.
W. D. Stump, Attorney. 3t3.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club met at the home of Mrs. Edith Cole Wednesday evening. The meeting was a surprise farewell party for Janalyce Rouls, who has left the club due to her acceptance of a new position in the Angola High School.

A pot-luck supper was served at seven o'clock in the dining room where small tables had been placed conveniently. After the supper, which was arranged by the committee consisting of Belle Woodcox, Lillian Buckingham and Lora Leighty, contests and charades planned by Thelma Baker, Cora Curie and Hazel Storer were enjoyed.

The guests attending the party were Mrs. S. B. Rouls, mother of Miss Janalyce, and Miss Marjorie Lawson, the new economics teacher who is succeeding Miss Rouls in the local school. Attendance of members was somewhat limited due to illness and weather conditions.

The meeting adjourned at nine-thirty o'clock to meet again next Wednesday evening with Mrs. Agnes Leighty.

You can recognise the road to success by the discarded consciences scattered along the way.

Floyd Reasoner and family of Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reasoner.

The St. Joe Pickles will play the Markle Boosters and St. Joe Merchants will play Markle Merchants here on Saturday, Jan. 30. For particulars see bills.

THE ST. JOE VALLEY RESPONDS TO CALL

Post 283 American Legion wishes to express its sincere thanks to the residents of the St. Joe Valley who so generously contributed to the relief work for flood sufferers in the Southern part of the state.

The communities of Spencerville and St. Joe can well be proud of the generous response given in this emergency.

Spencerville, solicited by Comrades Baumgartner, Krafft and Erick, responded with merchandise and food valued at $284.30, and cash for the Red Cross $2.00.

St. Joe, solicited by several local Comrades directed by Commander Scholes, responded with merchandise valued at $335.16 and cash for the Red Cross at $21.50.

Solicitations will be continued until all have been given a chance to contribute.

At Spencerville, merchandise may be left at the Ford Garage and at St. Joe at the K. of P. Hall in the Curie block.

These donations are sent by truck to the American Legion Post 47 in Fort Wayne where it is repacked and sent to points in the flood area where needed most.

The material donated was all usable without repair and represented a real spirit of helpfulness rather than wanting to get rid of trash.

The local flour mill gave 400 pounds of flour representing a very worth while and substantial amount.

Through the solicitation of the school supervised by Mr. J. B. Munn, $53.00 in cash was turned in Tuesday to county headquarters, applying on the county quota. Willard Hurni tured over Monday collections in cash amounting to $11.08 to the Red Cross besides a cash donation of $6.50 sent direct to WLW by request of donors.

Newville U. B. Church raised $32.64 in cash Sunday to apply on county quota.

Others wishing to help should do so at once regardless of the donation or amount.

FARM BUREAU PROGRAM

SAVES FARM HOME TUESDAY MORNING

Fire was discovered at the Dr. Shook farm home in Allen County Tuesday morning at 8:30, by Mrs. Ray Baker. Her husband having just left to cut wood at a neighbor's home. She gave the alarm by telephone and by ringing the dinner bell. Soon neighbors rallied and were successful in getting the fire extinguished before much damage was done.

The fire was started between two studding next to the chimney. There was practically no breeze stirring, which naturally held the fire back.

Dr. Shook is pleased with the work of the neighbors and wishes to express his thanks to all who responded to the call.

SIT-DOWN STRIKE CALLED EXTORTION

The "sit-down" strike was described by David Lawrence, newspaper columnist, as "extortion" which is capable of being carried to fantastic length.

It means, according to Lawrence, that "a man who comes in to fix the electric light or the plumbing or to lay the carpet can demand an increase in his pay or refuse to let the occupants of the house use the property in question.

"A group of employees of a store can seize the cash register or the keys to the store rooms and keep the proprietor from getting access to one or both."

Another observer described the technique as similar to kidnapping a person and holding him for ransom, except that the "sit-downers" kidnap a plant or property.

Send Address Change in Advance

If you are going to have a change in your address, be sure to send The News a U. S. postal card notice of the new address at least a week ahead of the day when it goes into effect. If you leave this job to be handled by the postoffice department, it will cost 2 cents and may result in your missing a copy of the paper.

Boost for the St. Joe Valley.

The boss of the average family is the one who doesn't mind going home when he has bumped the first dent in the new car.

St. Joe High School Basket Ball team defeated Fremont here Friday night, 12 to 41. This makes a record for St. Joe never before equalled, when they have eleven straight victories to their credit. Out of thirteen games played they have won twelve. Leo defeated the locals the second game of the season, 35 to 40. It looks good for the boys in the county tournament.

BIGGEST THING IN 1936

Ask your St. Joe neighbors what was the biggest thing in 1936 and watch them scratch their heads for the answer. And yet it is easily answered. The same question was put recently to 48 newspaper editors in 48 states by the Associated Press, and 72 per cent of them declared that the weather was the biggest thing of the year in their respective states. Though two national conventions and a presidential election were held; though Hauptmann was electrocuted and Edward deserted a throne, the savage blizzards of last January, the March floods in the Middle West, dust storms west of the Mississippi and the most torrid weather in the memory of the present generation were experienced, the weather interested the average citizen far more than the "man-made" occurrences. And that's the answer. The weather was the biggest thing in 1936, just as it is pretty certain to be this year.

THE WRONG ADDRESS

When Santa Claus had finished his rounds near the close of the year the Dead Letter office at Washington reported that over 400,000 letters, Christmas cards and packages had been forwarded there from the various postoffics. Wrong addresses, or addresses so poorly written that they could not be deciphered accounted for most of them not being delivered. Thousands of them had been posted without any stamps and where there was no return card on them they naturally landed in the Dead Letter Office. No matter how carefully you may address your mail, it is always wise to use envelopes bearing a return address, and this day in time when the printing of such return cards is inexpensive, there is no excuse for the average DeKalb County family using any other kind of envelopes for their correspondence.

CARS AND HIGHWAYS

At the close of 1936 there were 28,250,000 motor cars registered in the U. S., or a car to every five persons, figuring the present population at 130,000,000. From such statistics you can gather the real seriousness of the traffic problem. Every hour in the day and night there are enough cars running to make our highways dangerous, and we are fast getting too many cars for the good road mileage we have. This is the main contribution to our death and accident rate. Then, too, most of us are not any too careful about driving when we get behind the wheel of a car. These two factors combine to make of our traffic problem one of the greatest facing the nation. And we don't seem to be making much headway toward a solution. When road builders wake up to the fact that it is just about as important to widen old roads as it is to build new ones, and when new ones are built wider than they now are being built there may be some hope of relief, and not until then.

E. STANLEY JONES IN FORT WAYNE, FEB. 8

Dr. E. Stanley Jones, author lecturer, and Christian missionary to the peoples of Asia, will be the guest speaker at a mobilization meeting of the Methodists of Ft. Wayne and surrounding communities of the North Indiana Conference, in the North Shore High School Auditorinm, Fort Wayne, on Monday evening, February 8.

Dr. Jones is probably the best-known missionary evangelist in the world today. In India, Japan, Korea, Burma, China, and Malaya he has been heard by hundreds of thousands of people of the educated classes. South America, a few years ago, thronged a series of meetings which he held in their principal cities, and his following in the United States and Canada is probably unequalled by any other living religious leader. Dr. Jones was the most eagerly-sought preacher in the National Preaching Mission which during the past three months held great meetings across America uder the auspices of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ. His address at Madison Square Garden, New York, drew an audience of 18,000 people.

Dr. Jones' visit to Fort Wayne, is in the interest of the "Million Unit Fellowship Movement" and a movement in the Methodist Episcopal Church to make the cause of missions and benevolences a "militent concern" of the whole denomination. This Fellowship was established at the General Conference of the Church, in May 1936, and is being pressed by Dr. Jones in visits to some fifty important Methodist centers throughout the country.

LETTER FROM SOUTHERN INDIANA FLOOD AREA

Willis B. Cox and Wife Write from Rising Sun, Indiana. The Water is Up to Their Property

We are pleased to publish a letter from the Cox family, who reside in the heart of Southern Indiana's flooded area, describing the istuation as they saw it only Thursday.

Here it is, read it:

Dear friends:

"We are hoping that you are wondering about us, so if you are, this is to relieve your minds. If you are not this is for you to put in The News, so people up there will start thinking about the towns along the Ohio River.

"The situation is absolutely unbelievable, and even here in Rising Sun, the highest point on the river between Cincinnati and Louisville, about 80 families have had to move out and the homes right on the slope of the bank are entirely submerged and possibly gone entirely. Half of Main Street is covered and believe it or not, we have everything packed and are ready to move on an hour's notice. However, since this morning the river is receding very slowly, so we will not have to move. (Until we find a house way up high on some hilltop.) The river was half way up the little bank at the rear of our back yard. A canoe and a rowboat have crossed our garden several times, and I stand on the back porch and cast dishwater into the Ohio River. We are very thankful to be safe—there is so much suffering.

"The Red Cross has a hospital established in the Christian Church and the Red Cross is dispensing food from the Methodist Church. All the homes out in the country south of here are in water, some submerged, and some gone entirely. Two of the villages we went through when you went with us to Madison are practically submerged, and Vevay is terribly hard hit. Madison is suffering, but not so much as some. Water got almost to the first floor of the Lanier Home.

"Between here and Aurora the road is completely under water, and houses and barns that sit up on high places are also under water. We have no light, and very little fuel, and we have to boil our water. There are 3500 homeless in Aurora and they have no light, water, nor fuel. Five babies were born in box cars last night. They have moved about a thousand people out of Aurora into towns farther north. The road between Aurora and Lawrenceburg is likewise submerged. The levee broke in Lawrenceburg Thursday night and 5000 people had to flee. They are quartered in some of the distillery buildings and in box cars in Greendale which is higher than Lawrenceburg proper. They have hospitals in the bottling houses, and are doing the best they can. The distilleries shut down and put all their resources at the plants to relief service—coal, power, etc. All these towns are under martial law, and coast guard boats from Cleveland, Toledo, and Port Huron are transporting supplies and rescuing people.

"Willis and I were in Lawrenceburg Saturday morning and we watched coast guard boats bringing in people who had been taken from their homes through holes chopped in the roofs. Some were so numb with cold they couldn't speak. One man was found frozen fast to a tree. When the water goes down they will have to rebuild streets and bridges the first thing. Some homes will be gone entirely and others ruined and belongings gone.

"We had to drive 87 miles to get to Lawrenceburg and 87 back, over narrow, hilly roads covered with ice and snow. We went after some of the gaugers who were marooned there. We had to get in by boat, and couldn't have gone in if Willis hadn't been a government employee. I'm so glad I could go, and see it, but it is heart breaking to see those people looking out across that sea of debris strewn water, wondering where their homes are.

"Willis was sick with a cold and was on this side when the worst came. They (the government men) here were ordered not to report for duty until called for. Phyllis has a slight cold, but the rest of us are still intact. It is, or has been, such bad weather for colds, but is fair and colder today and we hope it stays that way.

"We seriously considered coming home, all but Willis, until things get better here, but haven't yet. Will try to let you know if we do. This is a rather watery letter, but I thought you might like to have some first hand information."

Love to you both,
Gladys and Willis.

P. S.—I forgot to say that someone watching saw 25 houses float down the river yesterday forenoon. They say over forty houses are lodged in a flat bottomland north of here.

LIONS AND TIGERS CLASH ON LOCAL FLOOR SATURDAY NIGHT

Large Crowd Expected

One of the outstanding court-battles in this section will be witnessed here Saturday eve by several hundred fans when the Leo Lions invade St. Joe for the second meeting of these two schools this season.

The visitors will come here as slight favorites by virtue of their early season win over the locals, the only club to turn the trick this season.

Both teams have much at stake. A win for the Lions would continue their unbroken record of an undefeated season in regularly scheduled games, while a win for the Valley Five would enable them to boast of a record of having defeated every team they have played this season.

The visitor's record is somewhat more impressive than the Saint's in view of the fact that their victories have been at the expense of clubs which are rated much stronger than some of the opposition faced by the Tigers.

Both teams play a fast break style of ball and should keep the spectators on edge throughout the contest.

That the contest is attracting wide attention in this section is evidenced by the fact that a large number of fans from Auburn are expected, and this supplemented with the local and Leo following should make a capacity house.

School officials are very grateful for the additional seating facilities installed and fear that even they will prove inadequate for this game.

The local boys have been working hard and pointing for this contest and hope to make a good account of themselves.

The preliminary will get under way at 7:30 with the feature attraction billed to start an hour later.

Nulf and Shine of Fort Wayne will handle the officiating.

LANIER MEMORIAL SPARED BY FLOOD

Flood waters which submerged part of the city of Madison during the past week, spared the Lanier Memorial which has been visited by thousands of Indiana residents, and among them some of our St. Joe people.

In anticipation of high waters all furnishings from the ground floor of the building had been stored on higher ground and on the second floor. At the highest point of the flood, the water was three feet below the ground floor of the mansion built by James F. D. Lanier, early Indiana financier and preserved as an outstanding example of the architecture of the early eighteenth century.

Clark Scholes and wife resided at Madison while he was working for the state highway department.

NOTICE

The March 2 meeting of the Tri-Township Farm Bureau will feature a local Major Bowes program.

The privilege of participating will be extended to anyone living in or attending school in the Tri-Towships.

Money prizes will be given those scoring 1st, 2nd, and 3rd. Numbers may consist of any entertainment feature.

Those wishing to take part will please enter your number and stage name with the chairman Fred E. Hart, as early as possible. Hollywood will be our honor city. Judges from out of the county have been chosen.

WIFE OF DENTIST SEEKS A DIVORCE

Dr. Lynn G. Reed, with offices at 204 Transfer Building, Ft. Wayne, was made defendant in a divorce suit filed in Superior Court No. 1, Thursday, by DeVeta B. Reed.

Mrs. Reed prefers general charges of cruel and inhuman treatment.

Dr. and Mrs. Reed married in 1926, and lived together until Sep. 15, 1936. They have no children.

Mrs. Reed will be remembered as Miss DeVeta Bayman, formerly of St. Joe.

ALBERT YODER OF DEKALB COUNTY DISTRICT DIRECTOR

The County Farm Bureau officers of the second Farm Bureau district met at Columbia City on Thursday for the annual meeting of the district, and elected Albert Yoder of near Auburn as the district director of the state Farm Bureau board.

The district comprises eight counties including Kosciusko, Elkhart, LaGrange, Noble, Whitley, Allen, DeKalb and Steuben Counties.

Mrs. Hollis Dilley attended this meeting.

BILLS BEFORE THE INDIANA LEGISLATURE

Repr, Harry Shull of near Auburn, has introduced two bills in the Indiana state legislature. One would authorize county surveyors to repair any open drain ditch in his jurisdiction at any time on notice of necessity by any person interested. If cost does not exceed $200 it shall be paid out of the general ditch improvement fund. The other measure provides that persons offering hogs for sale on representation that they have been vaccinated must show an affidavit to that effect.

A new measure in the Indiana legislature would establish a ten-day period before county commissioners may award any contract exceeding $500. The bill also provides that five taxpayers may force examination by the state board of accounts on petition and provide for examinations of contracts by the board of accounts of Purdue.

A new bill in the Indiana legislature would regulate and license carnivals, tent shows, circuses and radio acts. The bill provides the following fees per day: Circus, $100; tent shows and carnivals, $50, and radio acts, $25. Fifty per cent of the money would go to county welfare fund and 50 per cent to a state emergency relief fund to be spent under direction of governor.

New minimum teachers' salaries are fixed in a bill in the Indiana legislature. Those with seventy-two weeks' training would receive $800, plus $2.50 a month for each of first five years' teaching experience; with 108 weeks' training, $880, plus $2.50 a month for each eight years' experience; with 124 weeks of training, $1,000 at start; with 180 weeks of training, $1,080 at start. The bill would repeal the present $800 minimum salary act.

RED CROSS RELIEF COLLECTION NEARS $5,000

Cash subscriptions in DeKalb County for flood relief are nearing the $5,000 mark. At 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon the total amount received by Harry M. Casebeer, relief chairman, was $4,486.52.

Among some of the recent cash donations received by Mr. Casebeer, was one for $46.55 given by WPA workers of the county. Another was for $25 from the Tri-Township Farm Bureau, composed of Concord, Newville and Spencer Townships. Another of $35 was from the U. B. Church at Newville.

The Christian Church at Newville reported as having raised $62 last Sunday morning and a total of $100 has now been turned in from the Concord Township drive, headed by Mr. J. R. Munn principal of the schools.

A most generous response has been made from every section.

JUDGE ENDICOTT GIVES BOY ANOTHER CHANCE

Ellis Taylor, sixteen year old Newville Township youth, was given another chance Friday by Judge Endicott when he was released from the county jail in the custody of Joe Dutterer of Defiance County, Ohio.

Taylor was arrested recently for stealing hides, was placed at that time in the care of Homer Casebere of Stafford Township. However, Mr. Casebere said he could not control the youth and delivered him to the sheriff. Mr. Dutterer then agreed to take Taylor and he was recommended by Karl H. Weaver, prosecuting attorney of Defiance County.

Taylor will live at the Dutterer home.

Buys McKinley Farm

The sale by Herley F. Saylor administrator of the Jas. McKinley estate, of 80 acres of land in Allen County to Ole and Gertrude Braybrook for $2,240 has been approved in the DeKalb circuit court.

FIRE LOSS CHANCES

According to a bulletin just issued by the Dept. of Agriculture the chances are about 15 to 1 in favor of saving city or town property over rural property in case of fire. The statement is made in connection with a recommendation that every farm home be provided with some sort of water supply system,, where a pond, lake or running stream does not now exist adjacent to the farm buildings. While it may not be possible for every rural resident to carry out the suggestions to the letter, they are nevertheless of interest, and should stir everyone to the need for some sort of fire protection on the farm.

Next to being provided with fire extinguishers or a constant supply of water always at hand, the most important thing is to guard against a fire. And this everyone can do, regardless of location. A thermometer may be put down into a heating hay mow by running a pipe ito the hay and lowering the thermometer in the pipe. If the hay has reached a temperature of 200 Fahrenneit, remove it and prevent spontaneous combustion. If oily or greasy rags accumulate, carry them into the open air or burn them. If dust occumulates in attic or cellar, get rid of it immediately. And keep matches in a metallic receptacle—and always where rats, mice and children cannot get at them. The time may never come when fire protection will be as adequate on the farm as it is in town and city. But just as much care can be taken to prevent fires in one place as in another, and there is no reason for not exercising it.

YEAR AROUND CAR

Remember the old days when we used to tuck the family automobile away for the winter? The idea of driving a car in cold weather was something to make us stand aghast. Very often we locked the machine up in a garage to hibernate all through the cold or icy weather.

Machines are now built to withstand the rigors of extreme cold weather, provided we take care of them. Winter driving, without question, is hard on any type of gasoline motor-driven vehicle. We who drive should realize this fact and treat our automobiles accordingly.

We should see that proper oil and proper lubricants are put into our machines. We should see that chains are used on slippery, icy, and snowy roads.

Treat the old car as you would treat an old friend. You will get back in service just what you give in care and consideration.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

"Some people use big words the same as a turkey spreads its tail feathers," asserts George Hart. "They make an elegant impression but they don't represent much meat."

Paul Martin says you can understand how an airplane machine gun shoots between the propeller blades once you have seen a modern girl talking through her chewing gum.

Mrs. Cleota Crick, teacher of 6th grade was giving the youngsters a mental drill. "Now, William (Smith) which month has twenty-eight days in it?" William had forgotten. After a moment he had the answer. "They all have."

Naturally all movements for community betterment has its draw backs as well as good points to consider, and there are those who can see the discouraging side more readily than the hopeful or the beneficial. But Earl Coburn has the situation sized up about right concerning the water system that is being talked of. He said that the people ought to be hunting up the committee to sign their petition, instead of the committee hunting up the citizens. Isn't that the truth.

In these times of depression, says Ed Pflaumer, the best luck a person can have is not to be born, but that seldom happens to anyone.

Walter Ervin, a high school student speaking to Russell Borthwick: "Let's cut classes and take in a movie."

Russell: "Can't do it, old man, I need the sleep."

Myra Keesler: "My dog took first prize at the cat show."

Marcel Pugsley: "How could that be?"

Myra: "He took the prize cat."

"A rabbit," according to Harry Hursh, "is a little animal that grows the fur other animals get credit for when it's made into a lady's coat."

Clarence Woodcox says he would like to live to see the time when husbands can convince their wives that ashes scattered on the rug is good for it.

Now that they've been stung on most everything else farmers should have no hesitancy in trying to keep a few hives of bees.

"There are two main reasons why some people can't mind their own business" declares Ben Soule, "The first is that they haven't any business and the second is that they haven't any mind."

Now we are so used to wrecks that one doesn't sound serious unless the car turns over about four times.

Ray Reasoner says the happiest homes are those where the dining room table is considered more important than the card table.

COUNTY WELFARE DEPARTMENT

Re-investigation of Old Age Assistance cases in DeKalb County under requirements and according to provisions of the 1936 Indiana Public Welfare Act, has resulted in an increase of average payments, according to Nora I. Brown, director of the DeKalb County Department of Public Welfare.

Since eligibility requirements were more specifically defined and County Welfare Departments were given power to investigate all applications for Old Age Assistance, the average payments in DeKalb County have risen from $8.57 per month to $11.84 per month.

Over the State, the effect of the 1936 law in requiring re-investigation of all Old Age Assistance cases has been an icrease of average monthly payment from $7.94 to $14.31. This perhaps has been due to the fact that with a careful study of the needs of each individual the County Departments have found that in many instances the needs had not been met in the past, and that an increase in awards was necessary. A second result of such a study has been that those who have been found to have other resources for their care have either been removed from the old age assistance rolls, or have had their awards reduced to take into account the additional resources.

Many persons have the mistaken notion, the county welfare director said, that the Federal-State grants of assistance under the Social Security Act are pensions and that the Aged and the Blind are entitled to full payments of $30 per month from federal and state funds. This is not true because all payments are based upon the needs of the applicant as they are found to exist by investigators working for the county welfare department. Both the State and the Federal Social Security Acts make the factor of "need" the basis for Public Assistance grants and they can be in any sum less than $30 per month Very few have been found to be in such need as to warrant the full $30 monthly payments.

NEWSWEEKLY SCRAPBOOK....

Week's Best Recipe

ORANGE CAKE—Two cups sifted flour; 2 teaspoons baking powder; 2 tablespoons butter or other shortening; 1 cup sugar; 1 egg, unbeaten; 1 tablesoon grated orange rind; ¼ cup milk; ½ cup orage juice. Sift flour once, measure and add baking powder, and sift together three times. Add egg and beat until light and fluffy. Add orange rind. Add flour alternately with milk and orange juice. Beat after each addition until smooth. Pour into greased muffin tins, filling them ⅔ full. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees 25 minutes.

A Kitchen Hint

Aluminum pots and pans that have become dull or blackened can be cleaned by rubbing them with a cloth dipped in lemon juice. Then rinse well in warm water and they will look as bright as new.

A Style Suggestion

Be sure that the stitching on your dresses runs vertically. Wear straight-lined dresses and coats if you would give the appearance of greater height. If your hips are large, wear skirts a little longer than the fashion calls for, and do not have your dresses fitted too tightly. Plainer fabrics are always the best choice for the short woman.

The Home Dressmaker

A piece of cardboard the exact width of the hem and about six or seven inches long is convenient as a marker when making hems. Start the hem and then insert the cardboard, slipping it along as the hem progresses. This will insure hems of exact width and prove a big time saver.

FLOOD PROBLEM CAUSES HALT IN LAW MAKING

Stealthy flood waters whose destructive trespassing the devices of man could not control have given Hoosiers an abundance of problems and cares, overshadowing the troubles incubated by industrial or political strife.

The state as a whole may have welcomed, therefore, such a temporary respite from additional worries as was afforded last Friday when the General Assembly began a ten-day recess. But the expense of the legislative session is being curtailed only slightly during this period, for the assembly members continue to draw their pay ($10 per day) and a staff of clerks and stenographers is being maintained by each house throughout the week.

When the legislature meets again next Monday, it will have been in session only on 13 days, although the senators and representatives will have received remuneration for 31 days, with another 30 days of legislative activity remaining.

LIVESTOCK AUCTION

Weekly Livestock Market Letter furnished by Ward Jackman of The Auburn Live Stock Sales Company Inc.

Our market reflected some of the slowness of terminal markets this week owing to strikes and floods and whole prices ruled slightly lower in some department buying on the whole was active and several of the city buyers went home with less than a full load.

Hogs: 180 to 230, $9.35 to $9.70. Hogs 140 to 160, $8.10 to $9.00. Roughs, $8.10 to $8.90. Boars, $4.50 to $5.20. Feeder pigs from fifty cents to $1.00 per head lower than a week ago.

Veals: Tops, $11.50. Seconds, $9.00 to $11.00.

Sheep and Lambs: There were not enough lambs on sale today to make a market but stock ewes were quite plentiful selling by the head at prices sharply above last week going as high as $9.00 while slaughter ewes changed hands at from $3.00 to $4.50. A few lambs not showing as much quality as last week's top brought $9.00 per cwt.

Cattle: Light finished steers, $7.00 to $7.60. Slaughter heifers, $4.60 to $6.50. Fat cows, $4.80 to $5.40 There are quite a few cows coming on our market which are too fat to top, especially is this true of cows showing some dairy breeding. Canners and low cutters $3.30 to $4.50. Light young bulls 800 pounds and less, from $6.00 to $6.25. Milk Cows, $29.00 to $66.00 per head.

I KNOW SOMETHING GOOD ABOUT YOU

Wouldn't this world be better
If folks whom we meet would say:
"I know something good about you,"
And treat us just that way?

Wouldn't it be splendid
If each handshake, good and true,
Carried with it this assurance
"I know something good about you."

Wouldn't life be happier
If the good that's in us all
Were the only thing about us
That people would recall?

Wouldn't our days be sweeter
If we phrased the good we see?
For there is a lot of goodness
In the worst of you and me!

Wouldn't it be fine to practice
This way of thinking, too:
"You know something good about me,
I know something good about you."

WHAT TO DO

What do you do for frost bites? What are the symptoms of frost bite?

The affected part of the body becomes painfully cold and then suddenly the sense of feeling in that part is gone. The affected part becomes white or grayish white in color.

Keep the patient away from fire or warmly heated room.

Apply palm of hand, wool, or fur to affected part.

Massage the parts very gently, then apply cold water.

Apply ointment as you would to a burn because frost bite is the same effect.

The object of the treatment is to bring the frozen part of the body back to normal temperature gradually and to restore circulation.

The Merit System Versus Spoils

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Increased efficiency in all governmental activities.

Economy for the taxpayer.

Purposeful careers for public employes.

Elimination of the Spoils System.

These are a few of the goals sought by increasing numbers of taxpaying citizens who demand that the Civil Service or Merit System, now in partial effect, replace the Spoils System in all but the topmost federal jobs.

America can achieve these benefits—if Congress does its part. The way is open.

A White House message has urged expansion of Civil Service to include all employes except Secretaries, Under-Secretaries and those in similar policy-making offices. Several members of Congress have introduced measures to hasten extension of the Merit System idea.

But will they be put into effect? That's a different question.

Heavy political barricades must first be overcome. For a complete application of the Merit System would strip politicians of their greatest asset—the control and doling out of jobs. Naturally many politicians will oppose it. Naturally they will fight any step which extends the policy of selecting public servants on the basis of how well they can do their work instead of the basis of how many votes they can deliver for the politicians on Election Day.

There stands the basic issue—whether the Federal payroll, which costs the taxpayers more than a billion dollars annually, shall be for the benefit of politicians who control appointments, or of the public who foot the bill.

It's up to Congress to decide. The choice should not be a difficult one.

FROM ABOUT ST. JOE

Gloria Dawn Keesler has the mumps.

Paul Koch arrived in California last week for the winter.

George Wilson made a trip to Fort Wayne Wednesday.

Mrs. Frank Curie is recovering from an attack of the flu.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Strouse Wednesday morning, a baby girl.

When the average man wants to make a fool of himself he usually gets some woman to help him.

It is not always wise to tell all one knows, but it is well to know all one tells.

Mrs. Eva Sheffer is quite seriously ill, not having taken any nourishment for over a week.

The regular meeting of the Legion Auxillary will be held Tuesday evening at the hall. All members are urged to attend.

The Lutheran Brotherhood will be entertained at the Carl Perkins home Monday evening, Feb. 8, with Stanley Means as leader.

If you are going to have a change in your address, be sure to send The News a U. S. postal card notice of the new address at least a week ahead of the day when it goes into effect. If you leave this job to be handled by the postoffice department, it will cost 2 cents and may result in your missing a copy of the paper.

The "sit downers" were ordered to arise and get out of the Chevrolet plants Tuesday by an order of the Michigan court and they were given until Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock to evacuate, or they would be forced out by the state militia. Get up—work—or get out.

George Strong, living north-east of town, was rushed to the Lutheran Hospital at Fort Wayne Tuesday noon in the Kinsey ambulance, but we are unable to learn of his condition today. He became delirious during the forenoon. George had been sick for some time but had been able to be about, until just a few days ago.

Mrs. Reynold Thomas of near Auburn, daughter of Clarence Ayers, east of town, is in the Garrett hospital where she was taken Friday for an appendix operation. The appendix had ruptured and with a congested lung, she is in grave danger.

William Hirzel, president of Defiance County board of commissioners, is confined to his home on the Antwerp pike near Hicksville following a stroke of paralysis Saturday. Commissioner Hirzel's left side was affected. Reports indicate a partial recovery. He is known about St. Joe by many farmers.

All passenger service on the Indiana Service Corporation lines north of Fort Wayne will be discontinued at 12:01 A. M. Monday, Feb. 15, in accordance with authority granted Saturday by the Indiana public service commission. Freight service also will cease excepting between Garrett and Fort Wayne.

Andrew Countryman was a Sunday dinner guest of Lyman Bidlack and wife.

L. Rupp and family moved from the former W. H. Moore farm to the Henry Rodocker farm.

SCOUT SCRIBBLES

On January 12 a group of men from the community organized a Troop Council and made application for a Troop of Boy Scouts for St. Joe. Those men were: Roy Maxwell, Harry Hursh, J. B. Munn, Alan Haller, Joe Goldsmith, Frank Curie, Ralh Sechler and Leslie Wilbern.

The Troop No. 164 of the Anthony Wayne Council now has a membership of 25, all of whom have passed their Tenderfoot work. On Feb. 16 at the P. T. A. they will be presented with their badges and Charter.

Several are working on their Second Class tests at present. In the near future we will have our first Court of Honor for those who have passed the Second Class work.

REFORESTATION WILL MINIMIZE DANGER OF FLOODS IN FUTURE

Reforestation of areas at the headwaters of hundreds of small streams and creeks in this and other states in the Ohio River drainage basin, was suggested today by Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, as an effective step in flood prevention.

Forested areas would absorb and hold back much of the water after heavy rains or thaws, preventing rapid runoff. Supplemented by a series of low dams in the smaller streams, the wooded areas would reduce the volume of water and there would be fewer raging torrents to unite and send larger streams over their banks and create such destruction as experienced during the past few days.

Considering the thousands of acres of land that have been cleared the miles of tile drains that have been installed under the cleared land and the transformation of winding streams into arrow-like gutters, it is only natural that high water levels would be higher now than during the 1884 flood before much of this clearing and draining had been accomplished.

Besides the loss of life and destruction of property, this and other floods have caused irrepairable loss to the fertility of Indiana fields. Thousands of cubic yards of top soil have been washed away during the past few days, it being estimated that at normal flood stage the Wabash River alone carries 248 cubic yards of soil into the Ohio River hourly. If floods can be prevented or minimized, it will stop or reduce this erosion.

Reforestation of thousands of acres of marginal land, much of which borders small creeks and streams, and the establishment of forest areas along larger streams are among the objectives of Indiana's conservation program. Additional impetus for this program is expected as a result of the present flood condition.

Too Much Legislation

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

At the opening sessions of our present Congress, more than 2,000 bills were submitted in the fond hope that they would be enacted into law.

The total continues to rise.

What do these measures propose?

Many things—from reckless experiments with our Constitution, to minor relief bills which would dip deeply into public funds for [illegible] benefit of constituents pressing [illegible] wide variety of demands.

But is all that legislation and wordage either good or necessary? Obviously not. What the average American wants of Congress can be expressed in far fewer words and measures. It includes:

Continued protection in the rights guaranteed him under the Constitution—among them freedom of religion, of speech and of the press.

Opportunity to conduct his own affairs and live his own life, unharried by edicts from appointed bureau chiefs or coercion by minority groups.

Relief from needless extravagance in government, which must ultimately be paid out of increased taxes on both his present and his future earnings.

A sincere respect for the Constitution of the United States, under which this nation has surpassed all others in the freedom and the well-being of its people.

These desires are comparatively few. They impose no great strain on Congress. And if met they will do much not only to retain our successful form of government, but to smooth and broaden the path toward recovery which all America seeks to tread.

Too much legislation can block rather than widen that path.

MORTUARY

BERRY

Winfield S. Berry, 83, of 3 miles west of St. Joe, died Thursday afternoon at the home of his son, W. S. Berry in North Manchester. Death followed a short illness of bronchial pneumonia.

Mr. Berry lived almost all his life in Jackson township. He was a member of the Rehoboth M. P. Church and also a member of the Masonic lodge in Auburn.

One brother, George Berry of Rome City, two daughters, Mrs. Albert P. Habig of near Auburn and Miss Florence Berry of Fort Wayne, and four sons, C. O. of Auburn, H. D. of Utica, Ohio, F. L. of Indianapolis, and W. S. Berry of North Manchester, survive. The death of his wife occurred just two years ago in October.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 1:30 at the Dilgard funeral home. Burial was made in Woodlawn cemetery.

Safetygrams
BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

What is carbon monoxide gas? Carbon monoxide gas may be formed by burning almost any kind of fuel without enough oxygen. A very small percentage of carbon monoxide gas in the air will cause headache, then unconsciousness, then death. The blood has a great affinity for carbon monoxide gas and absorbs it from the lungs instead of the oxygen which is needed to sustain life.

An automobile engine running in an ordinary small garage with doors and windows closed will produce enough carbon monoxide gas to kill you in a few moments.

Carbon monoxide gas is odorless, colorless, and very deadly. You cannot feel it, see it, smell it, or taste it.

Never run the motor of your car unless the garage doors and windows are open.

SOME LOCAL BRIEFS

Feed the birds.

Miss Norma Rickerd, who has been working in the Goldsmith home, is at her home ill.

Maxine Woodcox has a severe case of tonsilitis and Mark Williams is confined to his bed with the flu.

For those Kiddies that are quarantined get them a mechanical magazine or the latest funnies at News office.

J. E. Sturgis and wife of Fort Wayne, had charge of the music at the evening service last Sunday at the Christian Church.

The groundhog saw his shadow Tuesday. Now what will happen?

Mrs. Ella Gill has been taken to the home of Chas. Woodcox for the winter.

Mrs. Ada Berry and Mrs. Mary Betz of this place, Mrs. Hazel Steweard, of Spencerville and Mrs. Harold Baker of Concord, also Ercil Steward and wife of Butler, attended the funeral of an uncle, Winfield Berry, held from the Dilgard funeral home Sunday afternoon.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that Harold M. Kelley, as special representative of the Department of Financial Institutions of the State of Indiana for the liquidation of the St. Joe Valley Bank, has filed his partial account in the DeKalb Circuit Court, to which any creditor, share-holder or other person interested may file written objection, and the said account will be heard and determined by said Court at the Court House in the City of Auburn, Indiana, on the 26th day of February, 1937.

INSTITUTE OFFICERS CHOSEN FOR 1938

The annual Tri-Township Farmers' Institute for this year was held at the Newville U. B. Church, January 28-29, with only a fair attendance but an exceptionally strong program.

John Washler, who had charge of the institute, today reported the officers chosen for 1938 as follows:

Mrs. Grace Dilley, President.
L. W. Yeiser, Vice Prsident.
Helen Washler, Secy.-Treas.

Two contests were sponsored among the schools. In the essay contest 35 entries were made and the winners were:

Fifth and Sixth Grades
Patricia Maxwell, First.
Mary Louise Woodcox, Second.
Candace Mae Loftus, Third.

Seventh and Eighth Grades
Sylvia Washler, First.
Senora Hess, Second.
Franklyn Sechler, Third.

In the poster contest 27 entries were made and names of the winners follow:

Fifth and Sixth Grades
Jean Hurni and Gladys Stewart, First.
Idabell Carr, Second.
Margaret Hart, Third.

Seventh and Eighth Grades
Richard Davis, First.
Donna Mae Washler, Second.
Sylvia Washler, Third.

First prize, $1.50; second prize, $1.00; third prize, 50 cents.

Judges, Mrs. Edith Hoch, Auburn, Miss Martha Anna Bard, Corunna.

The Institute contributed $25.00 to the Red Cross Flood Relief, but last week's News credited the Farm Bureau with this donation by error.

The play, "The Laughing Cure" will be presented in the local gym just as soon as the scarlet fever quarantine is lifted.

SCOUT SCRIBBLES

The Saylor School House has been cleaned by the Scouts, to be used as Scout Headquarters.

The Scouts received their Official Neckerchiefs and slides. The Neckerchiefs are black with gold slides.

On February 16, at the P. T. A. meeting, a group from Fort Wayne will give the Investure Service to the Scouts. They will receive the Tenderfoot Badges and the Troop Charter.

J. Maxwell, Scribe.

NOTICE

The March 2 meeting of the Tri-Township Farm Bureau will feature a local Major Bowes program.

The privilege of participating will be extended to anyone living in or attending school in the Tri-Towships.

Money prizes will be given those scoring 1st, 2nd, and 3rd. Numbers may consist of any entertainment feature.

Those wishing to take part will please enter your number and stage name with the chairman Fred E. Hart, as early as possible.

Hollywood will be our honor city. Judges from out of the county have been chosen.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

LOCALS LOSE TO FAST LEO QUINTS

Leo proved too much for the Locals here Saturday night and walked off the floor after the final whistle on the long end of a high scoring melee 50–45.

The Locals started strong in the first few minutes of the game but faltered in the second quarter which ended 23–23. From there on the game was closely fought with neither club being able to turn on power enough to salt the game away.

The Tigers were greatly crippled by the absence of Curie and Monroe from the line-up for a large share of the game due to personal fouls. They re-entered for the fourth period but the Locals never got going again.

This is the second loss for the Saints this season, both games having been dropped to the fast-stepping Lions.

It was a thriller from start to finish and kept thelarge crowd on edge throughout the contest.

I. Menshy starred for the visitors with 16 counters while Monroe and Storer were high for the Tigers with 15 and 13 markers respectively.

The Leo Cubs won the preliminary.

P. T. A. PROGRAM

The next P. T. A. program will be Tuesday, February 16. Mrs. Kathryn Haller is making arrangements for the music, Miss Marjorie Lawson is planning an exhibit from the Home Economics classes, and the Dramatic Arts class will present a one-act play, "Uncle Bob's Bride," under the supervision of Miss Bowman.

There will be an investiture ceremony for the Boy Scouts of St. Joe, led by the Boy Scouts of Fort Wayne.

Miss Hazel Warren from the State Library will discuss ways and means by which the P. T. A. members may start a library here in St. Joe.

JOINS THE MARINES

Glen L. Likes, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Likes of north of town, left St. Joe last week Wednesday for Chicago, where he joined the Marine Corps. Glen was a 1934 graduate from St. Joe.

LINCOLN

Wise with the wisdom of ages,
Shrewd as the man of trade,
Grim as the prophets and sages,
Keen as a damask blade;

Firm as a granite-ribbed mountain,
Tender as woman's song,
Gay as a scintillant fountain—
Yet was he oaken-strong.

Here, the wonder of eons:
Born into pain and strife;
Dead, with a thousand paeans
Deathless, he enters life.

SAM F. MORR GETS COUNTY FARM CONTRACT

The DeKalb County Commissioners Wednesday entered into a new contract with S. F. Morr as superintendent of the county asylum for the next four years.

Mr. Morr will complete his first four year term at the end of this month and members of the board expressed themselves as well pleased with his services. The terms for the second contract remain the same. Mr. Morr will retain Mrs. Nora Rogers as matron of the institution.

The county officers made an official visit to the farm Wednesday being entertained at dinner. The number of inmates now sets a new high record at forty-two.

The commissioners also Wednesday appointed Geo. S. Baxter of Auburn, to secure right-of-way for the route of the new state road, No. 205. The road will run from the intersection of No. 27 and the Pennsylvania railroad just south of Garrett to Columbia City, paralleling the railroad. The distance in DeKalb County is 3.6 miles. The county is to pay for an 80-foot right-of-way. A considerable distance will be saved by travelers going southwest or coming from the southwest. The county commissioners acted to secure the right-of-way upon request of the state highway commission.

STATE RECORD COW

Geo. B. Hart, Merriwold Farms, received word from Purdue last week, that he owned the state class leader cow, (12 years and over.) She produced 562.2 pounds of butter fat last year. The cow is a Jersey and is 14 years old. George is very proud of this record cow, in fact, his entire herd of Jerseys, is his joy and pride, representing several years of careful breeding.

SELLING MORTGAGED PROPERTY CAUSES ARREST

James H. Sylvester, arraigned in the DeKalb circuit court Monday afternoon on a charge of selling mortgaged property, entered a plea of not guilty and was placed under $1,000 bond pending trial.

Sylvester was arrested Sunday morning by Sheriff Herbert N. Grimm and his deputy, C. M. Minnich, north of Fremont on the Indiana-Michigan line, where he and his wife were staying.

The affidavit alleges that Sylvester sold to Chalmer Brodbeck for $220 a stallion named Martin's Choice and a jackass named Napoleon the Great that were mortgaged to Emmit Wilkinson for $160 and that he failed to tell Brodbeck about the mortgage.

Sylvester has been in difficulties before, when living on the old I. S. Hadsell farm east of Coburntown.

PERSONAL ENCOUNTER BRINGS ARREST

Elgin Curie, of St. Joe, was placed under arrest Monday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff C. M. Minnich on a charge of assault and battery.

The complaint was made by his brother, Paul E. Curie. The brothers are reported to have had a personal encounter Sunday and Paul Curie asked Prosecuting Attorney William H. Husselman to prepare the affidavit.

Elgin Curie retained Atkinson & Sanders and entered a plea of not guilty. Bond was fixed at $500.

DIES IN CHARLESTON

J. M. Life, attorney of Charleston, West Virginia, friend of the editor, died on January 16 of this year. We received word this week of his passing. Mr. Life was a prominent DeKalb County attorney some years ago.

MORE LOG DAMS

To date there are 16 low log dams placed in streams in DeKalb County, placed there to conserve the water supply. The labor is paid for under WPA setup. The gang is working on the Harry Smith farm near Newville, the dam being placed in the Kelley drain. Mrs. Eva Shull has just made application for one to be built on her farm, located in the Coburn run.

DEKALB COUNTY AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION ASSOCIATION ELECTS OFFICERS

The election of the County Officers for the DeKalb County Agricultural Conservation program for 1937 was held on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 27th, in the Assembly Room of the Court House at Auburn.

Officers elected are as follows:

Chairman, Ralph Bartles, Jackson Township.

Vice Chairman, Forrest C. Harding, Richland Township.

Third Member, Orlo Deetz, Fairfield Township.

Alternate, Ray Miller, Stafford Township.

Secy.-Treas., Clyde Hart, Spencer Township.

A traffic check was made Tuesday on the road west, by the state highway department.

A boom without increased production of wealth only means that one crowd is taking it away from another.

One snowflake is a creation of beauty, but a sidewalk full of them is an hour's work with a snow shovel.

Another thing worth remembering is that it's just as bad to be wrong at the right time as it is to be right at the wrong time.

Some St. Joe husbands give their wives pin-money allowances and others continue to leave their pants hanging over a chair.

A southern editor declares that virtue is like a new car. After you get one dent in the fender a few more don't seem to matter.

Another advantage living in St. Joe has over living in a big city is that here people come to see you when they don't want anything.

Count the Cost NOW!

INSURANCE is the only commodity which cannot be purchased when it is needed most.

Don't wait for a fire to break out before you realize this. Count the cost of inadequate insurance now and be prepared!

SAME OLD STORY

Not long ago a New York City girl wrote a letter to the editor of one of the newspapers there wanting to know why it is that young men and women "can come here from out west or down south and get jobs when girls who have lived here all their lives in New York cannot." Someone should tell her what a lot of people already know—that as long as energy, efficiency and ambition count for anything these "out-of-towners" are going to keep right on doing it. Young men and women, ambitious for a larger life and fields that offer wider opportunities will continue to educate and equip themselves on the farms and in the smaller towns, and then when they are fully prepared they will step out and secure the best jobs. And they will continue to make good in those jobs. Writing to the newspapers can't alter that. Farm and small-town boys and girls always have been the backbone of this nation—and they doubtless always will be.

IT DOESN'T PAY

The average St. Joe young man who is seized with wanderlust and a desire to wander and roam about the country most generally finds that such a life doesn't pay, and that he is far worse off when his spell of wanderlust wears off than he would have been had he remained at home. Roaming from one point to another costs him not only all the money he earns, but robs him of the permanet place he could have had in the society of his own people. It stamps him an instable, and lessens his ability to secure a steady job. In industry he is rated as little better than a journeyman tramp. While effort to better one's condition is laudable, change is warranted only when a young man has mastered the job he has and is confident of his ability to do the next job better than it has been. Only on this basis is one exempt from wanderlust. That familiar old saying that "a rolling stone gathers no moss" is just as true today as it was the day it was first spoken.

A RURAL PROBLEM

Few DeKalb County people realize that of the 6,800,000 farmers in the U. S., 2,860,000 are "full tenants," renting the land they operate. Today congress is preparing to remedy this, and to tackle what will probably prove to be one of the toughest rural problems it ever sought to solve. With 42 per cent of all farmers working land they do not own, Uncle Sam will seek some method whereby this high percentage can be reduced, and while it is very desirable that every man who tills the soil should own all or a portion of that soil any plan looking to that end must be worked out and administered with due caution. Unless the greatest of care is taken, Uncle Sam will be left holding the bag and not only the tenants themselves but the landowners as well will be in far worse shape than they are under the old system. It is a problem of vital interest to every taxpayer, and one that every taxpayer should watch with the closest interest.

AMERICA'S HEART

The American people may have their shortcomings, but turning their back on neighbors in distress is not one of them. They may differ in politics and religion, cuss congress and condemn the tax assessors, but let any section suffer a calamity and everything is forgotten as they rush to the aid of the distressed.

There was never a finer example of America's big-heartedess than was witnessed during the floods in the Ohio and Mississippi River Valleys. Newspapers and radio carried the story of anguish and suffering into which millions of men, women and children had been plunged. And no sooner had the first cry of distress gone up than citizens in every section of the land were digging into their pockets, bundling up food, medicine, clothing and bedding and defying all obstacles in their haste to get it into the stricken area.

Those around the Tri-Township who availed themselves of the opportunity to aid their fellowmen through that greatest of all humane agencies—the Red Cross—are deserving of the highest praise. The spirit of giving when there is distress in the land is the true spirit of Americanism. There can be no overthrow of a government whose people are always ready and always willing to share their worldly possessions with those overtaken by disaster. You can never wreck a country that puts human relief and human welfare above all else.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

Ed Storer says it's easy to get ahead in a government job. You just see evils that need correcting and keep your mouth shut.

"I often wonder," says DuWayne Kinsey, "why they are always called the secrets of success when everbody is always telling them."

Cheer up. It won't be long now until you can toss the seed catalog aside and pick up the road map.

Frank Curie says if women ever take to cigars like they have to cigarettes the men can get even on Christmas.

According to F. G. Gauntt there's a town up in Vermont that's so small they painted "Come Again" on the back of the "Welcome" sign.

Money always makes the most desirable gift because there are no unpleasant scenes when you try to exchange it.

"Maybe the reason we think the old songs are the best," asserts Frank Johnson, "is because nobody sings them any more."

"When a man stares at a girl he may not be trying to flirt with her," declares Joe Foltz. "He may only be thanking his stars that his wife doesn't look that way."

When autos first came out horses were scared of them. That's what you call horse sense.

NEWSWEEKLY SCRAPBOOK....

Week's Best Recipe

LEMON CHIFFON PIE:—1 envelope granulated gelatin; ¼ cup cold water; 4 eggs; 1 cup sugar; ½ cup lemon juice; ⅓ teaspoon salt; one tablespoon grated lemon rind. Add one-half cup of sugar, lemon juice and salt to beaten egg yolks and cook over boiling water until of custard consistency. Pour cold water in bowl and srinkle gelatin on top of water. Add to hot custard and stir until dissolved. Add grated lemon rind. Cool. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites to which the other one-half cup sugar has been added. Fill baked pie shell or graham cracker crust and chill. Just before serving spread over pie a thin layer of whipped cream.

A Beauty Hint

Every night before retiring dip an eyebrow brush into a little vaseline and brush under and around the cuticle of your fingernails. Then leave it on all night. You will find it a helpful treatment for banishing hangnails and avoiding split nails.

In February

To check scale on trees, spray them this month with lime sulphur or with one of the commercial sprays. If you use lime sulphur be sure to read the directions on the container.

A Household Hint

To rid clothing of the odor of gasoline after it has been cleansed, hang it out in the sun and wind for an hour or more. If the odor has not been completely removed, then hang the garment in a heated room.

The Old Gardener Says:

Start planning your seed order. It is none too soon as stocks of many varieties may not be available when planting season arrives. Look over tubers in the basement for mold and excessive dryness. Seed is one of the cheapest garden materials. Be sure when ordering to order enough. Let magazines, catalogs and books play an important part in your fireside gardening. Save stakes now as you come across them and you will not lose time hunting for them when you need them during the growing season.

An Inspiring Thought

Genius is one per cent inspiration and ninety-nine per cent perspiration. The three great essentials to achieve anything worth while are, hard work, stick-to-itiveness and common sense.

—Thomas A. Edison.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

The following home hazards have been the cause of many serious and fatal accidents during the past years.

1. Slippery floors and sidewalks.
2. Unsafe ladders and step ladders.
3. Objects left on floors and stairways where someone may fall over them.
4. Broken or loose stairs
5. No handrails on stairs.
6. Electric cords, plugs, and sockets in poor condition.
7. Electric light fixtures and switches near sinks and tubs not insulated.
8. Gas leaks.
9. Use of gasoline or naptha for cleaning in the home.
10. Scalding water carried about in the house in pails.
11. Automobile engines run in closed garages.

Watch for these hazards. Don't let them strike you down.

Some St. Joe men will brag on most anything, but you never hear one bragging that his conscience troubles him so he can't sleep at night.

DEKALB COUNTY FARMERS ATTACK TAXATION

Nine resolutions were passed at the mass meeting of farmers in Auburn Saturday, protesting against the re-assessment of property in Indiana, to remove the "rash inequality" of the present tax system and other legislation which is deemed "unjust" to agricultural interests.

The nine resolutions were adopted as follows:

Amend the social security act to shift the remainder of the burden to state where it can be better equalized over all Indiana taxpayers. Social security is not an obligation of the property taxpayer in small local units as much as it is an obligation of the entire state.

Increase the minimum payment for each teaching unit in the state to $800. Education is an obligation of the whole state.

Repeal authorization for road issues or extend the present moratorium for several years.

Amend the tax exempt property law that applies to benevolent and educational institutions and require them to pay taxes on all property that earns income.

Enact a net income tax law. This is the fairest principle ever applied to taxation. Those who get the most out of the civilization in which we live should put back in proportion as they received. The law should not be so drastic that it will drive citizenship from the state.

Double the rate on intangible property.

All the above suggestions will make tax limitation easier to secure. This legislation should either remove the word "emergency" from the present limitation law, or revise the law in such a way that taxpayers will be protected from confiscatory taxes.

These is one thing which the Farm Bureau is against with all that this word implies. It is the bill that has already been passed by the house, under suspension of the rules to provide for re-assessment of property in 1937. We wish to be fair and we really believe that such a bill may be necessary to correct the present law which does not provide for a definite time for re-assessment. Whatever the motive be, however, this bill should be withdrawn. Farmers know that higher valuations result in higher taxation. Their organization is justified in fighting any measure that leads to higher farm taxes.

Should we be able to secure all the above, we would not yet have struck at the heart of the situation. The whole tax system in Indiana needs revision, which should be based upon an adequate survey that would bring up the many inequalities and would constitute a guide so that the next session of the legislature could revise the tax system in Indiana from a scientific standpoint. Let's do away with politics for a time and be statesmen.

Albert Yoder, president of the DeKalb County Farm Bureau presided and Emoray W. Miller of near Auburn, acted as secretary. The assembly room was completely filled.

STATE WPA OFFCIALS PLAN FLOOD REHABILITATION PROGRAMS

Now that flood waters of Indiana rivers are receding, state Works Progress Administration officials are busily engaged in formulating plans for rehabilitation work in the devastated areas.

Wayne Coy, state WPA administrator, already has sent instructions to district directors in the two southern districts affected by the flood ,in which he outlined the policy of the WPA in carrying on the rehabilitation program, and also the regulations for certifying and assigning employable persons of families who suffered losses.

Work which may be done under the program includes: Temporary reestablishment of water, sewer, gas or electric lines; temporary emergency repairs to bridges or streets where necessary to reestablish communications; temporary repairs to public buildings and structures where present conditions are a danger to life or a grave risk to property, and operations incident to clean-up after subsidence of water where necessary to prevent grave menace to health.

Residents of fourteen counties in which the damage was greatest are eligible for consideration for WPA flood relief assignment. The counties are: Clark, Crawford, Dearborn, Floyd, Gibson, Harrison, Jefferson, Ohio, Perry, Posey, Spencer, Switzerland, Vanderburgh and Warrick.

MORTUARY

BERRY

Winfield Scott Berry was born near Leo, (Allen County,) Indiana, August 18, 1853, the son of William and Ann Berry. With his parents he moved to Michigan but in a short time they returned to Indiana. The balance of his life, with the exception of a few years, was spent in DeKalb County.

On December 15, 1872 he was united in marriage to Nancy Belle Nelson, who preceded him in death on October 31, 1933, after a married life of 61 years. They were the parents of eleven children, six of whom survive.

Mr. Berry was a member of the Rehoboth M. P. Church and took an active part in the music and the work of the church until his age prevented his doing so. He was a charter member of the Jackson Township Grange and took an active part in this until the organization disbanded. He had for many years held membership in the Masonic Lodge in Auburn.

He died at the home of a son in North Manchester January 28, 1937, age 83 years, 5 months, and 10 days.

Besides the two daughters and four sons who survive are many grandchildren and great grandchildren. Also one brother.

The fueral services were held Sunday, January 31, from the Dilgard Funeral Home in Auburn, with the services conducted by the Rev. Joseph Furgeson, and the Masonic Lodge.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish in this way to thank all who assisted in any way in the last rites of our Father and for the beautiful floral offerings. We wish to thank the Masonic Lodge and the ones who furished the music.

"Equal Justice Under Law"

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

In his authoritative studies of American government, James Bryce, noted statesman and historian, refers to the United States Supreme Court as "the living voice of the Constitution."

During recent weeks various members of Congress have urged that that voice be muffled.

They propose that the power of the Supreme Court—the Judicial branch in our balanced system of government—be weakened, and much of its authority to interpret and safeguard the Constitution be transferred to Congress — the Legislative branch.

Is the proposal a wise one? Apparently not. Some of our ablest Senators and Representatives oppose it on the floor of Congress itself. They believe that if the Supreme Court is weakened, our Constitution and Bill of Rights will be weakened with it.

Nor are they alone in this conviction. It has been shared in the past, as in the present, by eminent leaders and students of the American system of government. Here are a few of their comments on the importance of the Judicial branch in our Constitutional system:

"Considering the judicial system as the chief pillar upon which our national government must rest, I have thought it my duty to nominate for the high offices in that department such men as I conceived would give dignity and lustre to our national character."—George Washington.

"The maintenance of the judicial power is essential and indispensable to the very being of this government. The Constitution without it, would be no Constitution—the Government, no Government. . . . The judicial power is the protecting power of the Government."—Daniel Webster.

"So long as the Supreme Court maintains its lofty teachings, so long as its maxims of interpretation and the principles which underlie its work are understood and cherished by the loyal people of the land, so long will a pledge exist that the liberties of America will prove immortal."—History of the Supreme Court—Carson.

"The people must defend their Constitution. . . . They must jealously watch to see that no branch usurps the power of another, for, as Washington said, the concentration of power in one branch creates, 'whatever the form of government, a real despotism.' "—Theodore Roosevelt.

Through a century and a half of our history the people, as well as their leaders, have had faith in the Supreme Court and its American motto: Equal Justice Under Law. That faith should be hard to destroy.

Stanley and Richard Davis made Keith Davis' Sunday mail route for him, while he is confined to his home at St. Joe with scarlet fever.

NUMBER 7

ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, FEB. 18, 1937

VOL. LII. (52 Years.) (In The St. Joe Valley)

PRE-EASTER AND POST-EASTER SERVICES

Church of Christ, St. Joe, Ind.

The minister of the Church of Christ of this community announces the following services which should prove to be of interest to the entire community.

We are approaching that particular part of the year which we know as the "Pre-Easter Season." During this season each year our Sunday School lessons are more or less directed toward such teaching as applicable to this season. Therefore, we have arranged a series of services which will continue up to June 13th, which is Children's Day.

The messages the minister will deliver are designed to meet two universal demands:

1. To follow closely along the line of the Sunday School lesson; however, without duplication of material which has already been studied in classes.

2. To present the messages based on incidents taken from the life of Jesus, which transpired near the close of His earthly ministry, up to His Ascension into Heaven and the coming of the Holy Spirit on the day of Pentecost.

The messages will be presented and based simply on the life of Jesus and incidents which took place while He was on earth. Nothing of a sectarian nature has any place in the messages. We simply expect to show you Jesus.

A question box will be placed in the church building to receive any questions you may have on the subjects. Will be answered promptly. Your questions are earnestly solicited and will be answered in the light of God's Word.

The services will be held on alternating time basis, Feb. 21st at 11:00 A. M. Central time; Feb. 28 at 7:00 P. M.—then alternating between morning and evening every other Sunday. If you miss morning srvice, it may be heard in the evening at Newville. Observe the following subjects and plan to hear messages:

Feb. 21st—"Raising of Lazerus from the Dead" (morning.) Feb. 28th—"Ephraim Ministry of Jesus" (evening.)

March 7th—"Life Here and Hereafter" (morning.) March 14th—"The Lord's Supper and the Prayer for the Disciples" (evening.) March 21st—"The Most Unfair Trial on Record"—Trial and Death of Jesus (morning.) March 28th—"The Resurrection of Jesus" (evening.)

April 4th—"Missing Members"—Second appearance of Jesus, (morning.) April 11th—"Christ's Appearance by Sea of Galilee" (evening.) April 18th—"Creation of God and Sin of First Parents" (morning.) April 25th—"The Obedience of Noah"—Example of Faith, (evening.)

May 2nd—"Jesus Appearance to 500—Great Commission and Ascension" (morning.) May 9th—"Mother, Home and Heaven"—a Radio Message—Mother's Day, (evening.) May 16th—"The Day of Pentecost"—New Dispensation (morning.) May 23rd—"Men of God—Abraham, Isaac and Jacob," Character Studies (evening.) May 30th—"Decoration Day"—Remembering the dead (morning.)

June 6th—"Joseph's Readiness for Service" (evening.) June 13—"Children's Day—"Bringing the Children to Jesus" (morning.)

Make your plans to hear all these messages of simple Gospel truth.

DRUG STORE TO OPEN NEXT WEEK

The opening for the Bowman drug store has been announced for the last of next week, to be located in the center room of the Leighty block. The room has been painted, partitioned off, shelving, counters and show cases being installed, together with a modern soda fountain, which will make for the appearance of a well appointed drug store.

Mr. Bowman, being a registered pharmacist, will conduct the business, which will be one that the community is really in need of.

A line of drugs, sundries and medicines will be in stock to meet the demands of the trade.

315 RECEIVING AID FROM COUNTY

In the nine months that payments have been made to the needy aged, the blind, and the dependent children of Indiana under the federal Social Security Act and the state Welfare Act of 1936, the sum of $21,904.00 has been distributed in the form of monthly checks to DeKalb County recipients.

Miss Nora I. Brown, director of the County Welfare Department which administers the public assistance features of the state and federal acts under supervision of the State Department of Public Welfare, gave figures today which show how much money has come into the county since last April when payments to the aged, the blind and for dependent children began. While total payments have amounted to $21,904.00, the share which the County has been required to meet has been only $4,342.73. In other words, the sum of $17,561.27 has been new money added to the purchasing power of the county, indicating the economic as well as the humanitarian value of the Social Security program, the director said.

Figures for the nine months show payments made in the county were divided as follows:

Old Age Assistance: County Share, $4,046.26; State Share, $6,069.80; Federal Share, $10,115.60; Total, $20,231.00.

Aid for the Blind: County Share, None; State Share, $283.50; Federal Share, $283.50; Total, $567.00.

Aid for Dependent Children: County Share, $296.53; State Share, $444.80; Federal Share, $364.67; Total, $1,106.00.

Total: County Share, $4,342.73; State Share, $6,797.60; Federal Share, $10,763.67; Total, $21,904.

In December the number receiving public assistance checks in DeKalb County by classes, was: the Aged, 250; the Blind, 4; Dependent Children, 61. The County Welfare Department determines the eligibility of those applying for assistance on the basis of their needs, after investigation. It is therefore improper to refer to these grants for assistance to the Aged and the Blind as "pensions," the director stated.

Mrs. Jane Coburn, who suffered a light stroke of paralysis a few weeks ago, has been removed to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sam Kesler, here in St. Joe, to be cared for.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER IN HOSPITAL

All St. Joe is vitally concerned over the critical condition of Mrs. Floyd Reasoner, of Fort Wayne, and her mother, Mrs. H. S. Bowman of Chicago. Some ten days ago Mrs. Reasoner was taken ill with blood poison, from what is thought to have been the result of a slight scratch on her finger, and her mother came from Chicago to assist in the care of the family. Dorothy became worse and was rushed to the Lutheran Hospital, where she has been critically ill and under the care of three special nurses and two physicians.

Mrs. Bowman, a few days later, it is thought, pricked her thumb on a pin while caring for the baby granddaughter, and in a short time, she too was rushed to the hospital, suffering intense pain in her thumb, which developed into blood poison.

Their condition has been extremely serious since until Thursday morning of this week.

As we go to press, Mr. Reasoner informed us that Dorothy is slightly improved and that Mrs. Bowman is holding her own for the last 12 hours, and while not out of danger, yet the doctors have hopes of their recovery.

The baby, threatened with pneumonia, is also improved.

Mrs. Ray Reasoner is in Fort Wayne caring for her grandchildren.

BASKET BALL TOURNAMENT

The St. Joe Pickles are sponsoring a Basket Ball Tournament to be held at St. Joe on February 26 and 27. Eight teams will participate and some real games are expected. The teams are: The Angola Independents, Hamilton Independents, St. Joe Merchants, Auburn Y. M. C. A., Westminster A. Cs., Spencerville A. Cs., Mark Center Independents and St. Joe Pickles.

Four first round games will be played on Friday night the semifinals on Saturday afternoon, and finals Saturday night.

SCOUT SCRIBBLES

At the Investiture Ceremony last night Troop 164 was officially recognized and 25 boys received their membership cards and Tenderfoot badges.

The ceremony was put on by our neighboring Troop from Auburn.

Three boys have completed their Second Class Work: Charles Hart, James Maxwell and Franklin Sechler. Others are working on it and by the middle of March the majority will be ready to receive their badges at the Court of Honor at Auburn.

Scoutmaster Wilborn tried to pass his swimming test last Thursday when he missed the bank of the creek trying to jump across and lay a scout trail. However, the scouts soon had a fire going, a shelter made and had him dry. Scouts Goodwin, Keller and Pugsley then passed their cooking test; cooking ¼ pound of meat and two potatoes without utensils. They all thought it tasted good and no one complained of any indigestion.

We welcome our new member, Herman Collins from Troop 162 of Garrett.

We want to help our community, so call on us when you need anything done.

James Maxwell, Scribe.

WINS $5 IN CONTEST

Miss Frances Bishop, student in the Commercial Department at St. Joe, received a check for $5.00 on February 12 as first prize in the December Bookkeeping Contest. This contest was national in scope; over 700 entrants from 39 states participating. Miss Bishop worked hard on this problem and deserved to win. We should all feel proud of this honor and wish her luck in the next Contest Problem which is to be sent in February 25.

STRUCK BY LIMB

Lloyd Draggoo, of south of Concord, has a black eye and a severely bruised face as a result of being struck by a limb, when he and Royce Gibford were falling a tree on the Houck farm in Jackson Township, Monday morning. One tooth was loosened. It was a miraculous escape from being killed.

CAR DAMAGED BY FIRE

Waldo Rosenberry had his Essex car badly damaged by fire a few days ago, when he was driving near Montpelier. He and Frank Ginder were making a drive when he noticed smoke from around the car. He stopped near a farm house, when he discovered the car was on fire under the hood. A couple pails of water put out the blaze, but the car was damaged considerable. The body paint burned and the windows were broken.

START FIRE WITH GASOLINE

John Coburn had an experience Saturday morning starting fire with gasoline, that he doesn't care to have repeated very soon. It was all by a mistake. He thot he would have to call the fire department, but finally succeeded in extinguishing the blaze.

An expert is a man who is able to explain things so thoroughly that nobody can understand them.

One of the most miserable chaps on earth is the St. Joe man with old-fashioned tastes and a very modern wife.

This day and time it doesn't pay to count your chickens—if you happen to live alongside a main-traveled auto highway.

The isms of the world seem to differ, but they all mean getting shot if you don't mind the boss.

The way the Chinese have been acting up we are in favor of China for the Chinese—until we can think of something worse.

Since a Chicago man claims to have proof that the world will come to an end in August our advice to St. Joe people is to arrange their vacation in July.

Count the Cost NOW!

INSURANCE is the only commodity which cannot be purchased when it is needed most.

Don't wait for a fire to break out before you realize this. Count the cost of inadequate insurance now and be prepared!

Let us ascertain the present value of your property and recommend the kinds and amounts of insurance you need.

FRED B. LEIGHTY
AGENT—St. Joe, Ind.

The invention most needed by the churches now is a collection plate that can be passed by radio.

FILL UP THE BINS

"Fill up the storage bins now depleted by two years of drouth" is the order now emanating from the U. S. Dept, of Agriculture. No matter what may be said of the curtailment of production in the past, it is now admitted that if this country runs into one more season of drouth and crop shortages conditions are going to be extremely serious.

Citizens of St. Joe and vicinity may not be aware that even now a shortage of some foodstuffs exists, but they are due to find it out in a short time through increased prices. Meat products are sure to rise. You can't feed hogs 75c corn and still sell them for what they brought when corn was a quarter a bushel. With pastures depleted after two seasons of drouth there is also a shortage of all other kinds of livestock.

From present indications food prices are due for a sharp upturn as the year advances, for it will be many months until another harvest can be garnered. That's something to think about, here on the eve of another planting time. Every dollar and every hour spent in raising foodstuff in the home garden will be money and time well invested this year. So wise is the man who has a patch of ground, no matter how small, who starts making his plans now to produce on it in the months to come something that can be used in sustaining human life.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

Club members, 4-H and adult, are remaking the sheep industry in Indiana through exhibits of fat, market-topping lambs in stock yard shows. This year 4-H lamb shows will be held at Evansville, Indianapolis, Muncie and Fort Wayne, at which any regularly enrolled 4-H lamb club member may exhibit pens of three or five fat lambs.

In addition to this, the Muncie and Fort Wayne Stock Yards are offering classes for Gold Medal Lamb Club members in which to exhibit pens of ten fat lambs. C. W. Thompson and Son of Wabash County won this class at the Muncie Show last July with an excellent pen of ten among 180 lambs exhibited.

Gold medals will be awarded by the Indiana Livestock Breeders' Association to any regularly enrolled Indiana farmer who produces 25 or more lambs which average 75 pounds per lamb, 150 days after the first lamb is dropped. Flocks must be nominated in the project within ten days after the first lamb is dropped. At least one lamb must be raised for every breeding ewe in the flock at lambing time. Farmers are advised to see their county agricultural agent for complete rules and entry blanks.

The Marion Williams Trophy will be awarded again this year to the gold medal winner who saves the highest percentage of lambs. This year the trophy was won by A. W. Shideler, the first Delaware County farmer to win it. He produced to market weight, 27 lambs from 16 ewes, a remarkable achievement considering the severe weather at lambing time last year.

"During the winter, ewes require plenty of exercise. Legume hay should make up a large part of the winter ration. Ample preparations should be made for taking care of the ewes and lambs at lambing time," cautioned Henry Mayo, Purdue extension animal husbandry. "After the lambs are born, the ewes should be fed liberally so that they may nurse their lambs well. Rye, winter wheat or bluegrass pasture followed by sweet clover or alfalfa pasture offers perhaps the most satisfactory pasture program in Indiana. This is a worthwhile project and deserves consideration of every Indiana sheep grower."

The first meeting of the nutrition project will be held Tuesday, Feb. 23, at 9:30 A. M. at Court House Assembly Room. The two local leaders and the president of each home economics club in the county are urged to be present.

Miss Agatha Beadle, Extension Nutritionist, Purdue University, will meet with the representatives of these clubs in an all-day meeting. The program for the year will be planned in the morning. In the afternoon Miss Beadle will discuss the present status of the Pure Food and Drug Law and some food fads.

For further information contact your county agent.

MORTUARY

LEIGHTY

Golden Grace Leighty, youngest daughter of Charles Bennett and Martha Jane Leighty, was born in St. Joe, DeKalb County, Indiana, March 2, 1889, and departed this life at the Bonnell Souder Hospital, Auburn, Indiana, Sunday morning, February 14, 1937, age 47 years, 11 months and 12 days.

She was preceded in death by one sister, Nena Coral in 1905, her father, Charles Bennett in 1922, and her mother, Martha Jane, in 1925. Her recent illness and confinement to her bed were of three weeks duration and her death resulted from complications. Her health had been broken for years, although she was about, taking diligent care of her home. Since the passing of her parents, she continued to reside with her older brother, James Harper.

Her entire life was spent in the St. Joe community with the exception of three years in Auburn and one year at Butler.

When but a small child she became affiliated with the St. Mark's Lutheran Church in St. Joe.

Of a family of five children, three brothers survive: James H. and Fred B., of St. Joe, and Frank R. Leighty of Rome City.

The funeral was held from the Kinsey Funeral Home Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock with the Rev. A. K. Mumma of Harlan officiating with Rev. C J. Ferster, assisting. Burial in the K. of P. Cemetery.

Out of town relatives attending the funeral were, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Wise of Elkhart, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wise of near Ashley, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Rhoads, Fort Wayne, M. E. Leighty, Auburn, Mrs. Mettie Furnish and son, Charles of the County Line, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller of Defiance, Ohio.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish in this way to thank all who assisted in any way in the last rites of our Sister, for the beautiful floral offerings, the comforting words of the pastors and of the singing.

The Family.

KRICK

Daniel Krick was born December 29, 1856 in Adams County, Indiana, and died in Grabill, Indiana on February 6, 1937, at the age of 80 years, 1 month and 8 days.

He was married to Malinda Markle April 23, 1881. She died July 7, 1923. He has four children and one step daughter, twenty-two grand children and seventeen great grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted in the Springfield Center Lutheran Church on last Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock by the Rev. A. K. Mumma, and burial in North Scipio Cemetery.

SHEFFER

Funeral services for Mrs. Eva Sheffer of St. Joe, a charter member of Coburn's Corners Church, the oldest church in DeKalb County, were held from the Christian Church at St. Joe at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Rev. J. N. Scholes officiating and burial was made in the K. of P. Cemetery at St. Joe. Mrs. Sheffer died as the result of old age on Tuesday morning. Sh was 86 years of age.

GIBFORD

Mrs. Emma Gibford died at 12:45 o'clock Wednesday morning at her home at 107 East Fifteenth Street, Auburn, Indiana. An invalid for two years, Mrs. Gibford was taken ill with influenza last Friday and never recovered.

She was born at St. Joe 86 years ago on February 15th. She was united in marriage with James Gibford on January 22, 1871 and he died in 1914. Mrs. Gibford had been a resident of Auburn since 1903.

There survive three sons, Roy Gibford of St. Joe, Cormine Gibford of near Defiance, Ohio, and Charles Gibford of Pontiac, Mich. There is one brother, Dennis Burley of St. Joe, and one sister, Mrs. Arline Rhodes of Spencerville, together with seven grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon from the Kinsey Funeral Home, St. Joe and burial will be made in the cemetery at Spencerville.

STRONG

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock for George Strong, an extensive grower of potatoes two miles east of St. Joe, from the Christian Church at Newville. Elder J. O. Rose will officiate and burial will be made in the cemetery at Newville.

Mr. Strong died at 1:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from infection of the brain. He had been ailing since last July and serious since December. He was 42 years old.

Surviving are the widow, seven children, Lloyd, Blanche, Grant, Harry, Alice, June and Coral, all at home; one brother, Hugh Strong of Newville and one sister, Mrs. Mary Schondelmayer of Macy, Indiana.

Mr. Strong was a member of the Newville Christian Church.

DEAN

Clyde Dean, of Newville, died at noon Wednesday from a stroke. His body was removed to Auburn where his son, Harry, resides. Another son resides in Garrett.

THERE'S More ROOM IN THE 1937 FORD V·8

Ford

ON THE FARM, a car has to do a lot of jobs—hauling supplies or feed, for example. The big luggage compartment in the back of the 1937 Ford V-8 Sedans is just right for this. It will carry a 30-dozen egg crate and a 10-gallon cream can. Its roominess is a great convenience. You don't have to crowd passengers by carrying bulky loads inside.

This is only one of the features that makes the 1937 Ford V-8 the quality car in the low-price field. It is made in one size, with a choice of two V-8 engines—60 horsepower for extraordinary all-round economy with good performance (available in five standard body types) and 85 horsepower for maximum performance with good economy. All-steel body and new Easy-Action Safety Brakes head a list of outstanding improvements.

Call on your nearest Ford dealer; he will be glad to demonstrate the 1937 Ford V-8 and explain its many features.

$25 A MONTH, after usual down-payment, buys any model 1937 Ford V-8 Car—from any Ford dealer—anywhere in the United States. Ask your Ford dealer about the new Universal Credit Company Finance Plans.

NEWSWEEKLY SCRAPBOOK....

Week's Best Recipe

Danish Pudding—3 cups hot water; ½ cup minute tapioca; 1 teaspoonful salt; ½ cup sugar; 1 tumbler currant jelly. Cook the tapioca and water fifteen minutes. Add sugar, salt and currant jelly. Stir until jelly is dissolved. Pour into glass dish and keep on ice. Serve very cold with sugar and cream. In summer 1 pint of ripe strawberries used in place of jelly makes a pleasing change.

A Kitchen Hint

To prevent new aluminum pans from warping heat them slowly over an even fire. Food cooked in aluminum pans should not be left in them, since the pans easily become discolored. To clean aluminum be sure you use only a very fine grade steel wool to avoid scratching the surface.

Just a Style Hint

Designers predict that bolero jackets are due to stage a comeback in the spring. They will vary all the way from the extremely short type trimmed in Dalmatian embroidery, gold-braided loops and velvet, to somewhat longer, plain-colored jackets edged in printed silks.

When You're Dusting

An old piece of flannel makes an excellent duster. Take the old flannel and dip it in paraffin oil and let it soak for several hours. Wring it out tightly and then wash it in tepid water. It will gather all the dust and give a good polish to furniture and woodwork.

Get ahead of the Sun! with ELECTRIC Soil Heating

EARLY MARKETS!
LARGER PROFITS!

ELECTRIC soil heating to force the growth of vegetables and flowers is now the accepted method by both large commercial gardeners and general farmers. The equipment is not elaborate or expensive and is easy to install. The soil is heated by a special electric cable looped back and forth through the dirt. The temperature is regulated by a thermostat and once started, there is no worrying about the bed. Merely turning a knob regulates the temperature and the growth so that you have positive control of plant growth . . . and early arrival at market when profits are highest.

DeKalb County Sunday School Convention AUBURN February 11-12, 1937

CONVENTION ATTENDANCE NEARS OLD TIME RECORD

Interesting Comments of Session As Given in the Evening Star Each Day of Convention

474 PEOPLE REGISTER NAMES

The annual convention of the DeKalb County Council of Christian Education started Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Auburn M. E. church.

On Friday morning Miss Young addressed the convention and in the afternoon the speaker was L. G. Milby, of Decatur, Ill. His subject was "Effective Method of Teaching Missions in the Sunday School." Group conferences were held and an open forum, with Geo. Beugnot of Auburn, state vice president in charge, was one of the features. The discussion was led by Miss Young. The high spot of the convention on Friday was the address in the evening by H. G. Rowe of Indianapolis. Mr. Rowe's subject was "If the Church is to Challenge this Generation."

Miss Young Thursday morning spoke with respect to the church reaching the unreached. The tendency is to wait to aid people after something has happened, rather than before. Miss Young illustrated her point by a story of a young man condemned to execution. Before he went to meet the extreme penalty he said, "If I had half the attention before I came to this place that I have had since, I never would have been here."

Miss Young followed her morning line of thought regarding the reaching of the unreached in the afternoon, laying special emphasis on a program of countywide vacation training for children, for religion is something to be taught as well as experienced, and in this the church is responsible.

The convention session were well attended. Miss Sadie Coy of Auburn, the DeKalb County Council of Religious Education secretary, was the convention secretary and Lee C. Fisher of Portland, Ind., the song leader. Fred Leighty of St. Joe, is the county president.

Dr. Manfred C. Wright, pastor of the host church preached the convention sermon at the opening session. He said in part on the subject, "The Stewardship of Life":

"Life, with all its value, comes as a sacred trust. Not ownership in the pagan view nor partnership in the commercial view, but stewardship in the christian way of living, in which God designs to trust us as far and as fast as He can, to administer this world in a friendly, helpful fashion.

"Such a trusteeship makes for human dignity and responsibility; it calls to accountability; it implies democracy and universal obligation. It holds the way of individual and national progress. Only as nations and peoples discharge their stewardship faithfully are they worthy of continuance. Fallen nations of the past mark their downfall in failure of stewardship.

"The law of stewardship should cover all of life—property, persons, things, income, talents, personal influence, time. Answering such demand for a total application of the law, one-seventh of time in sabbatical devotion and service to God recognizes all time as belonging to Him; a definite form of accepted christian service recognizes all talent and service as of divine ownership; one's heart and hand given to the church betokens one's whole life devoted to the kingdom of God; a child dedicated to a special christian ministry acknowledges all the children of the family as God's children; a definite spoken witness for the Christ betokens the acknowledgment of complete personal consecration; one tenth, or a dedicated portion of income, recognizes all possessions as of God's ownership of material wealth.

"Universally applied, the law of stewardship would solve the essential problems of the nations, eventuating in brotherhood and world-wide peace; applied to a family it would help to shape the christian character of children; applied to the church it would provide for all needful money and talent for kingdom service.

"To reach the unreached, which is to carry out the slogan of this convention, a compelling urge must be offered to men and women, to boys and girls, and there is no finer more compelling urge than that of life as a trusteeship to be administered for the Lord God."

Must Direct Youth

The banquet in the basement of the First M. E. church Thursday evening was largely attended. The dinner was served by the ladies of the congregation. The junior orchestra under the direction of Frank Campbell played during the serving. Ward Jackman was master of ceremonies and Frank Pfister acted as toastmaster. The community singing was led by Fred W. Knott.

Dr. Wright gave the invocation and Mr. Pfister presented Mrs. Nellie C. Young of Indianapolis, state children's worker, and the president of the county council, Fred Leighty of St. Joe.

Miss Hilda Weaver of Auburn was the first of a group of speakers. Her subject was "The Young People are not Going to the Doggies." Miss Weaver made a comparison between conditions of a number of years ago and the present time as to the environment of the young people.

In the days gone by a rigid discipline was maintained in the home. Father's word was law. God was feared, the Bible was the outlet for emotions and the church was the community center. Those people held to a firm foundation upon which the social structure was builded.

Miss Weaver advised that the church must direct youth in the proper channels. It must learn to share the joy of service with young people.

"Sunday School Days" was the subject of a talk by Everett Paschen, principal of the Spencer township high school. Mr. Paschen said he cherished the memories of school days and the hickory stick. He also cherishes the memories of his days in Sunday school where there was no hickory stick.

In the opinion of the speaker perhaps the greatest thing about the Sunday school is that it is a voluntary institution. It was such in 1780 when it started with about twenty persons and it has continued as such until it has grown to a membership of 33,000,000. Mr. Paschen declared he is thankful for the Sunday school as an organization, and as such it is a voluntary organization.

Influence of Christians

"I'll Bring the One Next to Me" was the subject of a talk by Wilbur Myers of Auburn. If christians are to influence those with whom they come in contact, they must have something to show for their christianity. If Sunday school workers have a real christian spirit they will create an interest in others. Christians must have convictions and use them. "And when we bring the one next to us, let us not forget to bring ourselves," Mr. Myers advised.

The banquet closed with a solo by Lee C. Fisher, convention song leader. He sang a negro spiritual, "'Way Over Yonder on de Hilltop" and he played an accordion accompaniment.

The auditorium of the M. E. church was filled for the evening session. Mr. Leighty presided. Mr. Fisher led the singing and Mrs. Homer Gossett was at the piano. Mr. Fisher sang "The Glory Road is Open." Mrs. Jas. Tallen of Auburn, had charge of the devotionals and Rev. A. F. Morris, pastor of the Cedar Creek church, Butler township, gave the prayer.

Mrs. Dora Carnahan, county superintendent of the children's division gave an explanation of the children's choir which appeared on the evening program. The group was made up of children from all over the county. There were tots scarcely able to read but their voices blended in beautiful harmony and the fifty boys and girls, wearing white surplices gave an impressive setting to the chancel. Mrs. Harold Nugen of Auburn directed the group.

Miss Young was the speaker of the evening. Her subject was "The Child in Our Midst." Miss Young based her remarks upon the scriptural passage where one questioned the Master, "And who is greatest in the kingdom and how shall we enter the kingdom of heaven?" Jesus took a little child and said, "Except ye become as a little child, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Said the speaker in part, "Yes, the child is in our midst, but I am afraid we do not realize it. Emancipation came for women but they are paying the price for it. I was riding on a bus not long ago. There was a day when people did not smoke in busses. A mother was holding a tiny babe. It grew restless and fretful. The mother wondered why. She said the child usually did not act that way. I went to the mother and opened the tiny hood. The baby's eyes were red. My own eyes were smarting from the smoke. That was the reason that child was fretful. Whose fault it is, if not women's?

Condemns "Bandit Play"

"We talk about world peace but we will never have peace until we put it into the hearts of children. I am frightened at the way children play today. I go up and down the state of Indiana and see children playing bandit and I am alarmed. 'Oh,' they say, 'that's just the age they are going through.' Oh no. Not when a child plays day after day under a bush with an imaginary gun in his hands waiting for a victim, because after that anything can happen. There is a right way and a wrong way to use a gun and when a 4-year-old is given a pop gun, bought off a store counter and that child pops it in your face, we should be concerned what that child is thinking about.

"That child is playing with something that may play into his life. We must put into the life of the child a great, girding protection until christian experience is taught into his life. What are we going to do with our children? Teach them. Teach our children the need of knowing God as a reality, a forgiving God. May mothers, fathers and teachers help boys and girls go with Jesus all the way."

Officers for Year Named

Officers for the coming year were elected at Friday morning's session. Fred B. Leighty of St. Joe, was renamed president of the county council and Miss Sadie Coy of Auburn was re-elected secretary-treasurer to serve for her sixteenth consecutive year. The other officers are: Albert Yoder of Jackson township, first vice president; Vern Sparks of Smithfield township, second vice president; Mrs. Dora Carnahan of Jackson township, county children's worker; Chester Lung of Butler township, young people's worker; Mrs. Rose Means of Spencer township, assistant young people's worker; Arthur Friend of Jackson township, adult worker; Mrs. Nora McDonald of Richland township, superintendent of the educational department and Larry M. Brandon of Union township of the administrative department.

Rev. Hubert F. Craven of the Auburn Presbyterian church conducted the devotions Friday morning and L. G. Milby of Decatur, Ill., discussed the subject, "Effective Method of Teaching Missions in the Sunday School." In the afternoon group conferences were held with Arthur Friend presiding as chairman. Rev. Robert J. McLandis of Indianapolis, Presbyterian Christian Education director, spoke on adult responsibility. George E. Beugnot of Auburn, had charge of the open forum. Miss Nellie C. Young of Indianapolis, led the discussion on the question of the solving of workers' personal difficulties.

CHURCH TOO SOFT, SPEAKER DECLARES

Harry G. Rowe, in Auburn Address, Blames Repeal of Prohibition on Lack of Spirit of Adventure

The annual convention of the DeKalb County Council of Religious Education came to a close Friday night in the First M. E. church in Auburn with an address by Harry G. Rowe of Indianapolis.

The dynamic speaker who addressed a DeKalb county assembly of Sunday school workers for the thirty-eighth time, spoke on the subject, "If the Church is to Challenge this Generation."

In part he said: "In the days of Jesus the church challenged the world; the world did not challenge the church. In that day the church challenged the social order of things. It also challenged civic domination and religious inefficiency. Paul demonstrated that when he went to Ephesus, that wicked city, and won every challenge of the early church.

"If we are to reach the unreached today, we must make a rediscovery of God. To thousands of people God is not real. Oh, when you pray to God do you take hold of Him? How about your prayer meetings? Do you feel the full presence of God there? Do you find God there?

"Today I see the old church making apologies for her debts and for her leadership, for everything but her power. The greatest thing Moses ever did was not to lead the children out of the wilderness but to show them the power of God. When the time comes when the devil sits in the parlor and Jesus sits at the lunch counter it is time to call a halt and make a challenge as to the rediscovery of the reality of God. The church is sick in a lot of places in a lot of ways."

Continuing, Mr. Rowe said: "You've got to take Jesus literally. He said, 'Take up your cross and follow Me.' Try that if you think it is theoretical instead of literal. Jesus isn't a comfortable man to live with. Try it sometime when you sit down comfortably with your evening paper and He says to you, 'Go across the street and talk to that man about his soul.' It's uncomfortable when He says, 'Give one-tenth of your substance to Me, then you can have the rest.' We've got to make a new adventure. We have been too soft. The gospel of Jesus Christ is a revolutionary gospel.

"Do you think that if the church ever had the spirit of adventure it ought to have, the prohibition amendment would have been repealed? Oh, yes, the church is too soft. We've got to draw up a new set of plans that will show us how to get close to the great heart of God. We've got too much to do in the church today outside of religion. We have too many church suppers. I know a church where I went to preach on the 19th day of last December and I saw a sign in front of that church 15 feet long and 7 feet wide which read, 'Patronize our Christmas Bazaar.' That was the message that went out from that church and all the preaching and all the teaching in the world could not get by that sign.

"I know a church that pays fabulous sums for music. But one beautiful Sunday when there were only 123 in the congregation and five in the audience under 30 years of age, three little girls stood on the stone steps of that church, with three candy bars between them and starvation. Is that religion?"

In concluding Mr. Rowe made a plea for a cementing of the various units of the church into a compact whole if the church is to challenge this generation and reach the unreached.

Fred B. Leighty of St. Joe, re-elected county president at Friday morning's session, presided at Friday night's meeting. The senior orchestra played. Lee C. Fisher of Portland, Ind., led the singing. Mr. Fisher was an inspiration during the convention. He has a wonderful voice of great power and was especially effective in his solo numbers. He played his accompaniment on an accordion and also played the slide trombone. Dr. Manfred C. Wright, pastor of the host church, led the devotional period and George E. Beugnot of Auburn, one of the state vice presidents of the association, gave the closing prayer. The number of registrations during the two day convention was 474. The church was crowded for the closing session.

Washington's Great Example

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Historians have said that no name is better known or more highly revered throughout the world than that of George Washington.

They call it "The brightest name on history's page."

Why? Because Washington sought and won political power for himself? The historians say no. Rather it was because he relinquished such power—which was his for the taking—to invest it instead in the people under the constitutional system of checks and balances on which our Republic is based.

"But for Washington," explain the historians, "the Republic would never have been conceived; the Constitution would not have been formed, and the Federal Government would never have been put in operation."

What an example to those leaders who, throughout the world, seem now engaged in taking power from the people for themselves.

What an example to the dictators of Europe—and their admirers—who believe that the world has outlived the democracy for which Washington fought, and which in a brief century and a half made the nation he fathered the greatest and happiest on earth!

Washington's fame rests not on the power he grasped for himself, but on the power he assured to the people. That is something for all the world to remember as it honors the most famous of American birthdays.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN The Safety Man

The more one studies accident statistics and records, the more puzzling they become.

Comparatively few accidents occur at points where dangers are easily recognized by the driver. This is true even though the danger may be unusually pronounced. For example, traveling over a narrow, winding, mountain road is as a rule comparatively safe for here the motorist usually takes extraordinary precaution.

On the other hand, a great many accidents may occur under safe conditions because the motorist, lulled by a sense of false security, lets down his guard for the time being and forgets all about safety.

A car inspected often means a hazard corrected.

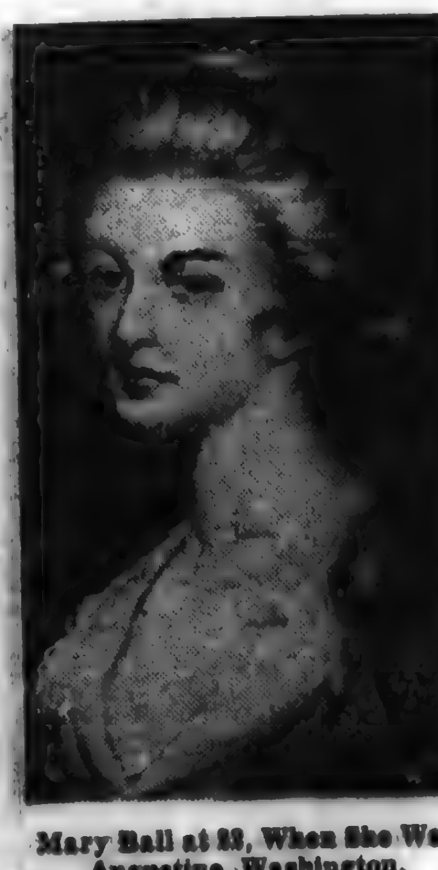
Mother of Our First President

THE girl who was to become the mother of George Washington was something of a belle in her native colony, Virginia. Mary Ball, descended from a good English family, was called "the rose of Epping Forest" in her girlhood, Epping Forest being the name of the Ball homestead. Orphaned early, she had as her guardian George Eskridge, a wealthy Virginia planter.

At twenty-two, Mary Ball married (on March 6, 1730) Augustine Washington, then a widower with two little boys. Her first child she named George after her old family friend. Five other children were born of this marriage, four of whom survived. When Augustine Washington died, she was left with a brood of youngsters to care for. George was then only eleven. Fortunately, however, states a writer in the Indianapolis News, the husband had provided for them amply.

George Washington was still a young boy when he became possessed of a great desire to be a midshipman. His mother had been half-hearted about this plan at all times, but finally (so the story goes) when his sea-chest was being carried down to the wharf by a porter, she refused to let him go. He accepted her decision with good grace, and devoted himself to surveying instead. His activities in the next years often took him far away from her and gradually prepared him for the great role he was to play in American history.

Mary Ball Washington was sixty-eight when the revolution began. Since communication was then so primitive, she often did not know for months at a time whether her son was alive or dead. Yet she maintained outward calm and courage. One of her sayings was, "The mothers and wives of brave men must be brave women." The members of her household knew, though, that every day she went off by herself with her Bible to a quiet spot called Meditation Rock.



Mary Ball at 23, When She Wed Augustine Washington.

At last Cornwallis surrendered in 1781 and the revolution was won. Ever mindful of his mother's anxiety for him, Washington sent off a courier at once to bear her the news.

Mary Ball Washington lived to be over eighty, mentally keen and unfailingly cheerful. She died in 1789, the year her son was elected first President of the United States.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS OUTLINE PLANS FOR YEAR

The executive committee of the DeKalb County Sunday School Association met Friday night at the home of Miss Sadie Coy, Auburn, to arrange a schedule of meetings of various departments for the coming year.

The first, a regional conference for the children's division, will be held on March 15th at the Eckhart public library in Auburn with workers from Allen, Steuben, Noble and DeKalb counties participating. Miss Nellie C. Young of Indianapolis, state children's worker will be present to address the conference.

The DeKalb County spring council meeting will be held the first Sunday in May in Auburn. The council passed favorably upon the idea of a community survey and that the pastors follow up with a close check on the results.

The state convention will meet at Winchester on July 15, 16 and 17. An effort will be made to have at least one delegate from each township and from each Sunday School in the county to attend this meeting.

The young people's division will hold its annual picnic on July 11th at Dills grove on the St. Joe River and on August 29th the annual vesper service will be held at the same place.

The county young people's conference this year will be held on September 25 and 26 at Hopewell in Jackson township. A large tent may be secured for this meeting as Hopewell church is not of sufficient size to accommodate the crowd.

The state young people's conference will be held at Tipton on October 23 and 24.

The next DeKalb county convention date has been set for the first Thursday and Friday in February, 1938. No place has been designated for this meeting, although a number of people have expressed the wish that it again be held in Auburn.

THE ANSWER--THEN and NOW!

The basic argument of those who favor changing the personnel of the Supreme Court to make it fit one economic viewpoint, boils down to a single fundamental issue. The Court, they say must be reorganized because it is not in tune with the times; because the Constitution prevents much legislation which the people of the country want.

Apparently there is nothing new about such arguments. More than a hundred years ago they were advanced—and answered so effectively that the answer still stands. Here is what Daniel Webster said then:

"It is hardly too strong to say that the Constitution was made to guard people against the dangers of good intentions, real or pretended. .... There are men in all ages who mean to exercise power usefully—but who mean to govern. They promise to be kind masters but they mean to be masters."

In more recent years Justice Brandeis, the Court's most famed contemporary liberal, put it this way: "Experience should teach us to be most on guard to protect liberty when purposes of government are beneficent. Men born to freedom are naturally alert to repel invasion of their liberty by evil-minded persons. The greatest dangers to liberty lurk in insidious encroachment by men of zeal, well meaning, but without understanding."

Even 150 years ago when the Constitution was adopted and provision made for the Supreme Court as the umpire of all laws, the drafters provided the Constitutional Amendment as the means for eternally letting the people determine how much of their liberties they wanted to surrender to a powerful centralized government.

S. & E. CONFERENCE IN INDIANAPOLIS

The 7th Annual Conference of of Social and Educational Department of Indiana Farm Bureau will convene at the Claypool Hotel, Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 25 and 26.

Among the speakers are Mrs. Fred Balz, President of Indiana Federation of Clubs, Mrs. J. V. Stevenson, Pres. of Illinois Home Bureaus, Prof. O. I. Gregg, of State Agricultural College, Lansing, Mich., Miss Julia Newton, of Washington, D. C., Harry Newman Tolles, an internationally known speaker and Senator Larry Brandon.

DeKalb County will have 40 people in attendance at this conference; representing Tri-Township will be Mesdames Sam Wyatt, Fred Hart, John Washler and Hollis Dilley.

IT DOESN'T JERK, IT PULLS

"If there is one enterprise on earth that a quitter should leave alone it is advertising. To make a success of this, one must be prepared to stick like a barnacle on a ship's bottom. He cannot hope to reap results commensurate with his expenditure at once. Advertising doesn't jerk—it pulls. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It increases week by week and year by year, until it exerts an irresistible power." —John Wanamaker.

Perry Long of Auburn, is quite poorly with heart trouble. J. C. Hull and wife called Sunday.

Mrs. Lela Northrup, of Fort Wayne, spent Saturday afternoon and night in the W. L. Hamilton home.

A proposed law in Indiana would permit owners of hillside land to obtain rebates on property taxes if they agree to protect such land from soil erosion. It would also give the conservation department authority to negotiate contracts with land owners and plant trees and do other work toward prevention of soil erosion. Tax rebates would be charged equally against the township, county and state.

Another appeal to motorists to drive slowly when passing workmen engaged in construction and other work on the state highway, was made today by James D. Adams, chairman of the State Highway Commission. Warning signs calling the attention of motorists to the presence of workmen on or along the pavement, are placed sufficiently far away to permit the driver to slow down and have his vehicle under control before he reaches the place where work is in progress. Some motorists, disregarding these caution signs, have been responsible for accidents and the death as well as injury of workers.

LEGION CONVENTION HELD AT GARRETT

The fourth district meeting of the American Legion was held at Garrett, Thursday night of last week. Col. A. L. Moudy of Waterloo, district commander, reported the membership had reached 2,374.

The St. Joe, Waterloo, Kendallville and LaGrange posts received special certificates for most distinguished service in the 1937 membership campaign, having reached a complete re-enrollment of their 1936 membership by Nov. 11, 1936. The Avilla post was presented with a citation for community service.

Another feature was the report by Col. Moudy of the great service rendered by the Legion of the district in flood relief. The posts responded immediately to his summons for help and within a few hours commenced sending money, clothing, bedding and food to the stricken area. Within five days 40 truck loads had been shipped from the district, besides three freight car loads from Garrett, and 100 boats were sent from this section, rescuing hundreds of people.

GAME BIRDS MATING A SIGN OF SPRING

Quail and pheasant at the Jasper-Pulaski state game farm were cited today as predicting the end of winter and an early spring, upsetting the forecast based upon the groundhog seeing his shadow earlier this month. According to attendants at the game farm the mating season for quail and pheasants began during the past week—earlier than last year but a sure sign that winter is over and spring is here.

SCOUT SCRIBBLES

Dick Reed joined the Troop on Saturday. Jack Goodwin has finished his Second Class work.

Plans are being made to hold contests in Fire Building, Signaling, First Aid, Cooking, Tracking, Scout Pace, and Knot Tying.

On Saturday the Scouts took an all-day hike out to their Headquarters. After putting up a flag pole and book shelves, some of them cooked their own dinner.

Safetygrams
BY
FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

Very often we read about accidents that are caused by faulty brakes. We give the matter very little attention at the time and usually pass on to something else. Upon careful analysis of these accidents, you will find that nothing can be further from the truth.

Brakes do not get faulty all of a sudden. It is the process of wear and tear, hard and often unfair usage that makes them weak. The fault is not with the brakes, but with the driver.

There is plenty of warning when brakes begin to weaken, and when they do it is necessar to see that they are repaired or replaced at once.

After they have been tightened or relined, as the case may be, be sure that they are so adjusted that they will not burn or lock. Attend to those brakes in time.

HOW YOU CAN HELP

There has never been a newspaper printed that satisfied every body. But there is a very simple method by which better newspapers can be produced and that is for those who subscribe to them to take an individual interest in seeing that they get more local and personal news. Not that you are expected to become a reporter when you become a subscriber, but because the newspaper stands as the exponent of all that is good for your community and because civic pride should, therefore, lead you to encourage such an institution. If you have visitors, if you have been on a visit or if you are going on one, your neighbors are sure to be interested in knowing about it. Tell them through your home town paper. Every little item of a local or personal nature helps just that much to make a still better newspaper and getting it to the editor requires very little exertion on your part. That is how you can help make your newspaper still more intersting, a n d you are invited to start doing so at once.

Give people what you think they want instead of what they ask for and you'll be piling up a lot of enemies.

The problem of the jobless will soon be solved. In another year they will all be going somewhere in trailers.

What the average St. Joe woman thinks she would do if she had plenty of money is nothing compared to what she does do because she hasn't any.

When you borrow, always borrow from a pessimist. He never expects to get it back anyhow.

Must men object to being called hypocrites. Not so much because they may be but they are a bit sensitive about it.

The fellow who said women are going to become the ruling sex must be a bachelor or he wouldn't have said "going to."

According to a little space to the medical profession, it is noted that Dr. Dafoe, who did so much for the Dionne family, is down with the flu and in a hospital. Socrates' maxim "Physician, heal thyself" sometimes is hard to put into practical operation. It is stated that a vaccine for influenza has been perfected, and if Dr. Dafoe weathers this particular storm he may not have to endure another of the same sort. Scientists believe that the leprosy germ has been isolated. There are many diseases that still do not come out and fight in the open. Until the germ has been identified and crowded into a corner, not much can be done in the way of making it hot for him.

Thirty-nine years ago this month, the battleship Maine was blown up in the harbor of Havana. Spain was charged with responsibility, the war followed, and Cuba, the last Spanish foot hold on this side of the Atlantic, was freed from an oppressive allegiance. Spain made a grave mistake in destroying the vessel, very much as did Germany in sending the Lusitania to the bottom. Each act was peculiarly effective in bringing on a crisis. The war cry "Remember the Maine" should be kept in mind, not to perpetuate hatred toward a former foe, but as a reminder that it is well to think twice before laying the last straw on the camel's back.

Next to the weather, figures give rise to the most commonplace but highly convenient remark. The House has been asked for a billion and a half, in round numbers, to keep the Treasury and Post Office Departments going for a year. There is one good thing about running a government department: nobody expects that the head man will make it pay its way. Some of the paying may be done by foreigners, who have eight billion dollars of taxable property in this country. The payment of the national debt will be spread over twenty-five years, according to the plans of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. That will help. A good many of us will not be around when the last of the spreading is done. By the way, standards of money measure have changed greatly in the last decade or so. The word "billion" used to be a choking term. Nowadays it is necessary to say one, two or five, and the "billion" is taken for granted.

MORTUARY

SHEFFER

Mrs. Eva S. Sheffer, nee Hadsell, was born Decembr 17, 1850, and died at her residence in St. Joe, Indiana, February 16, 1937, being 86 years, 11 months and 29 days old. She was a daughter of Elder James Hadsell, a minister of note among the early Disciples, and his wife, Mary. Mrs. Sheffer is the last one of their children to die, as she is also the last one of her own family to enter into final rest.

The deceased became the wife of Dr. B. S. Sheffer, with whom she fully shared fortunes until his death, which occurred but a few years ago. To this union were born three children: Lina, who became the wife of John Knight; Ray, who died many years ago; Craig, who was for a long time a citizen of St. Joe. All of the children are dead. Three grandchildren survive: Mrs. Dorothy Hammond, Waterloo, Indiana, Mrs. Evelyn Schaffer, Ft. Wayne, Indiana, and Basil Sheffer, of St. Joe, also one grandchild.

Mrs. Sheffer early became a public school teacher, attained to high standing among teachers of that time, and maintained an intelligent interest in educational matters throughout her entire life.

She and the Doctor became early citizens of St. Joe, where they were earnest supporters of every good movement.

At a very early time in her life, doubtless under the tuition of her parents, Mrs. Sheffer became obedient to the gospel, and her Christian faith and service remained the chief thing in her home and community life until the close.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sheffer were held from the Christian Church Thursday afternoon, J. N. Scholes, officiating. Burial in Alton Cemetery.

TRIBUTE TO MRS. EVA HADSELL SHEFFER

In the passing of Mrs. Eva Sheffer, for over fifty years a charter member of the St. Joe Church of Christ, the church and Bible School of her affiliation feel keenly the loss of one whose consistent faith and loyal service can well be pointed to as exemplary attributes of a long and useful life.

Of unquestionable integrity in her implicit faith, plain of speech, and, by her own admission, "not exempt from human errors," her generous and untiring Christian labor remained an unruffled calm, as she allowed no petty enmities to become rooted along the pathway of her long walk through life.

Much is due our courageous pioneers of religious labor—and all who profit most by this sterling example of Christian consistency, mourn deeply the passing of Mrs. Eva Sheffer.

STRONG

George Leslie Strong, son of Leslie and Ella Scoville Strong, was born May 17, 1894 and passed into the life beyond, Tuesday, February 16, 1937 at the age of 42 years.

The early years of his life was spent on the Strong Homestead near Newville, Indiana, where he obtained his early education. After his graduation from the high school at Butler, Indiana, he had one term of Normal instruction at Tri-State College, Angola, Indiana, and taught one year of school in the Habalawitz district. After this he attended two years at Purdue University.

May 17, 1918, he was united in marriage to LuReign Thomas. To this union there added seven children; three sons and four daughters.

There remain to mourn his early departure, his sorrowing wife and companion, the seven children, his aged father, Leslie Strong, a brother, Hugh Strong of Newville, Indiana, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Schondelmayer of Macy, Indiana, and a multitude of other relatives and friends.

At the age of 16, he made "the good confession," was baptized by Brother Fred A. Thomas and has been a member of the Newville Church of Christ ever since. For the past five years he has been an elder in his Church and has always been a defender of the Faith as he saw it and believed it.

He was always a constant and loving companion during the 19 years of his married life and was ever the loyal Champion of his family and delighted in its development. He will be greatly missed by those who were nearest to him.

Funeral service was held from the Newville Church of Christ on Thursday afternoon conducted by Elder J. O. Rose, with burial in Newville Cemetery.

Relatives from a distance who attended the funeral were DeLoss Hadsell of Youngstown, O., Mrs. Coral Wheeler and daughter, Virginia from Indianapolis, Otis Gates of Hamilton, Burr Gates of Plymouth, Ind., Miss Maud Scoville of Angola, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thomas and daughter from Toledo, Mr. and Mrs. Boyer of Deshler, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Van Hadsell of Hicksville, and Rev. and Mrs. H. K. Schodelmayer and family from Macy, Ind.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express to our friends and neighbors our thanks for their sympathy, for their assistance given during the illness and bereavement of our Husband and Father, and for the floral tributes of respect.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

According to Willard Hurni "will power rubs a St. Joe man's eyes open in the morning, but it's won't power that makes him turn over and take another little snooze."

One thing can be said in favor of the old time saloon—it didn't hide under another name.

There's one thing it's always safe to bet on. Labor leaders wouldn't call so many strikes if their pay stopped too.

Chas. Koch gives a bit of advice: "Beware of the St. Joe girl who acts kittenish before she's married; she may become cattish when she grows up."

Friends are people who are willing to excuse you when you have made a fool of yourself.

There's always something wrong. By the time you are earning enough to show the girls a good time your wife won't let you.

Some old-timers in St. Joe can remember away back when a man who wanted to work was entitled to some consideration.

It's hard to become a partisan after you pass middle-age for by that time you know both sides are wrong.

An optimist is any St. Joe man who believes that the future will be different from the past.

A cow in Canada has been struck four times by autos and unhurt. Traffic experts should study her and plan a new type of pedestrian.

Troubles always seem to learn to add and multiply a lot faster than they do to subtract.

Bill Strouse says "when a young married couple hold hands it's a case of love but when a St. Joe couple who've been married twenty years hold hands it's a case of self-defense."

Another thing this country needs is a weather man who can send rain and flood in July and August instead of January.

The hardest thing a new movie actress has to do is pick a name that nobody can pronounce.

According to Frank Curie "it won't be long now until St. Joe people can tell the vegetables from the weeds by watching their neighbors chickens.

L. B. Meek says an optimist is any St. Joe citizen who thinks the thinning out of his hair is just a temporary matter.

Mrs. Katie Storer says children are losing their faith in fairy stories but their parents still believe in campaign promises.

Our Government of Balanced Powers

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

Among the famous admonitions of George Washington recalled by many Americans on his recent birthday celebration was the following:

"If in the opinion of the people the distribution or modification of the Constitutional powers be in any particular wrong, let it be corrected by an amendment in the way which the Constitution designates. But let there be no change by usurpation; for, though this in one instance may be the instrument of good, it is the customary weapon by which free governments are destroyed."

As this is written that admonition remains strongly in the minds of the American people.

Various members of Congress are pointing out in public utterances the necessity of preserving the independence of our three co-ordinate branches of government—Legislative, Executive, and Judicial—as established in the Constitution to safeguard individual liberties.

Nor are their words unheeded, as public sentiment, expressed in the press and in letters to Congress, demonstrates. Seldom has any public question aroused so widespread, non-partisan a discussion.

Undoubtedly this discussion will continue. And that is an encouraging sign in a republic which lists free speech and full discussion of public questions high among the rights of citizens guaranteed under the Constitution.

It is the province of an independent Congress to make our laws; of an independent Executive to enforce them, and of an independent Judiciary to interpret them.

That is our Constitutional system of government.

FORT WAYNE FOLK ARE MUCH BETTER

There is no news like good news, and we are happy to announce to our readers that the condition of Mrs. H. S. Bowman and daughter, Mrs. Floyd Reasoner, of Fort Wayne, is much improved at the Lutheran Hospital where they both have been seriously ill with blood poison. Hopes are now that they will recover rapidly and will soon be able to see their many friends.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

Mrs. Agnes Mercer, daughter of Mrs. Eva Shull, is very ill.

Joe Martin is the first to report the arrival of the robin on Saturday.

Mrs. Alvy Perry, of Newville Township is reported as improved, being able to sit up and take nourishment.

Frank Tustison is another who believes in advertising. Last week his 10c classified ad brought him four customers.

It is reported that Wm. Goldsmith and wife are preparing to move to Metz, where he has bought a grocery stock.

Mrs. Don Bair and Mrs. Bruce Blair and daughter, Joyce Ann of Butler, were Wednesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Akins.

Malcolm Woodcox, of Detroit, was home Saturday and Sunday the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Woodcox. His mother is some better.

Roy Like is suffering from blood poison as a result of a scratch on his left hand while playing basket ball. He has missed a couple of days of school this week.

Say what you will about old-fashioned mud roads around DeKalb County but a couple of pedestrians were not knocked off of them every day by speeders.

Glen Warstler of west of Concord on the Dan Morr farm, will move to north-west of Waterloo, in a few days, having bought a farm 1½ miles north of Road 6. Clayton Baker and family are to move from Allen County and take over the farm rented from Mrs. Howarr Krise.

H. G. Hursh and wife, Wm. Goldsmith and wife and F. A. Jenkins were called to appear before the grand jury Friday. The jury was composed of Rue Murray, foreman of Union Township, Walter D. Creager of Butler, Viola E. Miller of Fairfield Township, Henry Hohl of Smithfield, Glen Moughler, of Wilmington Township and Willard Hurni of Concord Township.

WITH OUR CLUB LADIES

CULTURE CLUB

The ladies of the Culture Club met at the home of Mrs. Mayola Kinsey on Wednesday evening, Feb. 10th with seveneteen members responding to roll call and five guests were present. There was no lesson for the evening as this night out of the club year was set aside as the musical evening.

The committee in charge was Mrs. Fred Hart, Mrs. Carleton Shull and Mrs. George Hart. The ladies of the club sang the club song; a trio, Misses Louise Sechler, Helen Tustison and Ersa Reidenbach sang two numbers, "Pennies from Heaven," from the show by the same name and "When Did You Leave Heaven," accompanied at the piano by Mr. Earl Kinsey; Mrs. Fred Hart and Mrs. Carleton Shull conducted a musical contest which was very interesting; Miss Martha Hart played two selections on the piano; Mrs. Carleton Shull played and song a group of selections; after a short business session the meeting was adjourned to meet on Wednesday evening, Feb. 17th with Mrs. Fred Jenkins.

The hostess served a delicious lunch consisting of Valentine sandwiches, cheese salad, wafers and coffee.

Indiana Highways

A paper read by Mrs. Thelma Baker at the meeting of the Ladies Literary Club on February 3rd., and was written by James D. Adams, Chairman of the Indiana State Highway Commission. The News believe the article to be of real value to its readers in that the information given here is a revelation to us in the matter of our own Indiana highways.

"I welcome the invitation to appear before this group to discuss the Indiana state highway system for all of us, together with the thousands of other Indiana motorists, are the employers of everyone connected with the state highway system from the chairman of the commission to the newest patrolman.

"This is an opportunity to discuss with you some of the things which have been and are being done to improve and maintain the highway system in which you and other motorists have invested millions of dollars and will invest other millions during the coming years.

"Every time that you buy a gallon of gasoline, every time that you buy new license plates for your car or truck, you add to the funds available for construction and maintenance on your state highway system. Occasionally proposals are made to reduce the gasoline tax and the motor vehicle license fees which Indiana motorists pay.

"Naturally we are interested in reducing the taxes which we must pay but did you ever stop to realize that you as an average Indiana motorist, which includes drivers of trucks as well as passenger cars, paid only $1.38 a month in 1935 for maintenance and construction of your nine-thousand-mile state highway system. I doubt if you received a greater return from any other similar investment.

"Not only was it possible for you to operate your car or truck over a network of improved highways that connect every county seat and almost every community but you received other indirect returns. This highway system made possible operation of truck fleets hauling merchandise to your store from the factory and the warehouse, over it the farmer hauled his livestock and crops to market, it carried the busses which transport the farmer's children to and from school, it made possible the rural mail and newspaper delivery and served in a score of other ways to make your life more comfortable and convenient.

"But let us look briefly at the steps by which this highway system has been developed. Twenty years ago there was not a mile of state highway in Indiana, only county and township roads. The legislature meeting in 1917 sought to provide for such a state highway system but the law which was passd was declared unconstitutional before more than a few preliminary steps had been taken.

"Defects in that law were remedied two years later, in 1919, when the legislature enacted a measure providing for a uniform system of roads which would connect the county seats and would enable the state to take advantage of funds offered by the federal government to encourage the development of an improved system of roads.

"Originally Indiana's state highway system included approximately three and a half thousand miles of what had been major county roads. From this the mileage has been increased steadily until today you have a state highway system of more than nine thousand miles. Over fifty per cent of this mileage has a high type surface—cement brick, rock asphalt, bituminous concrete, bituminous macadam or retread.

"With the exception of a short period at the time the system was first established, the cost of construction, maintenance and operation has been paid by the motorists. For its funds the highway commission is dependent upon fifty per cent of the four-cent state gasoline tax and fifty per cent of the motor vehicle license fee and upon such grants as may be made for highway use by the federal government. The amount paid per vehicle registered was less than the national average although Indiana's system is the superior of state highway systems in many states where motorists pay higher fees.

"Operating upon a pay-as-you-go plan in the development and improvement of a state highway system, Indiana does not have today any bonded indebtedness for state highway construction. This is a better position than is occupied by many of the other states where interest charges on state highway bond issues amount to

EARTHQUAKE TREMORS FELT IN ST. JOE

It is reported that a quake was felt at St. Joe Tuesday morning. While at The News office no tremors were felt because of the linotype machine operating. But as the day progressed we heard more people, who really gave heed to the shock, and we were then compelled to believe that it was a fact.

Now Ed Storer was our first witness and said he thought that a coal truck had driven in at the rear of the postoffice, and he went to the window to see, no truck and no coal were in evidence. Soon the radio announced the fact and he then was sure that he had felt the shock.

J. C. Hull, the barber said he thought some one was at his back door. No other noise followed so he did not investigate further.

Mell Slyder, B. & O. agent was busy at his desk and his knees bumped together so that he became frightened.

Earl Kinsey felt the shock. He was sitting in the bath tub at the time. I think he said the water splashed in his face, and he could not understand it, until he came up town and heard other peculiar experiences related.

Reign Schondlmayer had similar experience with his knees knocking together, as did Mr. Slyder. Reign was doing book work at his desk.

Mr. J. B. Munn, at the school house noticed some unusual shake and quiver about the school house at the time, and W. P. Donahue, operator at HK tower reported that all this was true because reports were passing over company wires to the effect, and radio bulletins confirmed the reports also.

SCOUT SCRIBBLES

Morris Woodcox is the latest Scout enrollee. This leaves only four vacant places in the St. Joe Troop. The Troop is limited to 32 members.

An Acorn badge is awarded to each Scout enlisting and training another boy for this tenderfoot work. No one has qualified for this badge as yet.

At the Scout meeting on Feb. 23 the Scouts were visited by Mr. Kirkpatrick of Auburn, Scout Commissioner for DeKalb County. He reported that the Court of Honor will be held in Auburn on March 17, at the City Hall.

The Scoutmaster attended a meeting of the Scoutmasters Round-table, in Fort Wayne on Wednesday, the 24th.

The following are to be examiners for Merit badges: M. Sechler, animal industry and soil management; Miss Lawson, art; C. A. Woodcox, bugling, farm home and its planning, music, and painting; W. Keesler, wood carving; H. Keesler, basketry; Clay Coburn, carpentry; L. Wilbern, cycling; D. Ridgway, firemanship; C. Chorpenning, stone, gardening, leathercraft.

A few of the boys hope to pass on some of these at the Court of Honor in March.

J. Maxwell, Scribe.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

March 1, 1937 we reorganized the Girl Scout Troop of St. Joe. We have twenty-one members in our Troop this year. We have four patrols and have elected leaders of each. The leader of the Eagle Patrol is Frances Reidenbach; of the Cardinal Patrol, Helen Goodwin; of th Wise Owl Patrol, Marcia Wade; of the Blue Violet Patrol, Leila Hurni; Jean Goldsmith is treasurer and Ruth Keesler, scribe.

We have a new Lieutenant Girl Scout leader, Miss Lawson.

At our next meeting the Second Class Girl Scouts will go to Mrs. Donald Hart's for our First Class First Aid.

Mrs. Frank Curie is examiner for the Laundress badge. Nine girls took the examination Tuesday eve.

Ruth Keesler, Scribe.

ASSESSORS START IN DEKALB COUNTY

The township assessors and their deputies called at the court house Monday morning and received their supplies from the county assessor, Chas. E. Miser. They then set out on their annual canvas.

The prospects are that little change will be made in the aggregate value of the personal property of the county. An increase of about 10 per cent was made last year.

The appraisement of automobiles as promulgated by the state board of tax commissioners for the guidance of local assessors follows: 1937 model, 85 per cent of cost to owner; 1936 model, 60 per cent; 1935 model, 40 per cent; 1934 model, 20 per cent; 1933 model, 10 per cent, with a minimum of $10 for any car.

Mr. Miser Monday received a copy of the new real estate appraisement law as just passed by the state assembly and signed by the governor. The law provides for a reappraisement in any township not containing an incorporated city when 15 per cent of the resident owners file a petition; while only 5 per cent is required in any city or town of 5,000 or less and 4 per cent in cities of 5,000 to 10,000. The petitions must be filed by March 31. There are no indications at this time that any such petitions will be filed in DeKalb county.

Any individual property owner may have his real estate reappraised by making application to his township assessor by March 20.

LETTER SIX MONTHS LATE

A letter mailed in Chicago by Stanley Koch the second week in September has just arrived at St. Joe, addressed to his father, Chas. Koch, on Tuesday of this week. The Chicago post mark shows March 1, 1937 at 7 P. M. This is nearly six months after the letter was mailed.

ITEMS ABOUT ST. JOE

Lester Baker has purchased a new Chevrolet coupe.

Don't forget to phone your items to The News. Call No 45.

Basil Sheffer has purchased the LaSalle car from Mrs. Mayola Kinsey.

A large window at the school house was broken by the wind some days ago.

Leon Sechler spent Saturday night and Sunday in Fort Wayne the guest of his wife. Mrs. Sechler sustained an injured ankle a couple of weeks ago from a fall. She works in the Throp restaurant on Calhoun Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Jump and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Garold Cook and two daughters of Hicksville, Mr. Wm. Moore of Fort Wayne and Ruth Curie and Lily Ernest of Garrett, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie.

Mr. and Mrs. Orange Herrick were over Sunday guests of Ray Herrick and family at Ft. Wayne.

A. W. Trostel has established an office in the bank building, and will be open for local constituents on Friday afternoon.

MERCHANTS ORGANIZE FOR ENTERTAINMENT

A large group of St Joe merchants gathered at the town hall, Monday evening, and discussed the summer activities. A number of excellent suggestions were advanced by the men and after discussing the plans and last year's program, Roy Wade acting chairman, appointed F. R. Bowman, Joe Goldsmith and F. B. Leighty as a committee, with Reign Schondelmayer as secretary and treasurer. The committee will report in two weeks as to their findings, and the merchants will then decide as to the program for the summer.

A GIANT OF DESTRUCTION

Every day, somewhere, newspapers carry headlines of disasters, such as these: Exploding Kerosene Stove Wipes Out Family; Man Killed Pouring Oil on Fire; Smoker Dies in Gasoline Explosion.

Apparently the common use of petroleum products in motor cars and stoves has lulled people into a false sense of security while using these fuels. It has caused them to become careless. The record indicates that a warning must be given if lives and property are to be spared.

Here are recommendations of the National Board of Fire Underwriters:

Don't attempt to start fires in stoves or furnaces with gasoline or kerosene.

When using a kerosene or gasoline stove, always follow directions of the manufacturer. Keep the stove clean, extinguish flame after use and allow to cool before filling. Store the supply can outside the house.

Don't smoke while filling the stove.

In order to be sure your stove is safe, buy only those listed as "standard" by the Underwriters' Laboratories.

Don't clean clothes with gasoline, naptha or benzine.

Human life is our most precious possession; guard your own and that of your dear ones from this giant of destruction.

Petroleum, properly handled, is one of man's most useful servants. Improperly handled, it can become a giant of destruction. Remember that—it may save your life.

MORE TROUBLE AHEAD

If it isn't one thing in this country it's another, and right on the heels of floods that caused a property loss of a hundred million dollars comes a warning that this is going to be the worst season for insect pests this generation has ever known. Just why someone can't predict something good is hard to figure out, when such predictions would add a lot more to human happiness.

But here is the prediction, and folks around St. Joe can take it for what it is worth. Agricultural experts declare that this has been such an open winter, taking the country as a whole, that insect pests have not been killed off by temperatures as is usually the case. They explain that the ground has not been frozen sufficiently deep to exterminate insects that winter in the soil, while the same is true of those which hibernate in plant life, trees and shrubs. So they predict not only a season of great devastation from insect pests, but that the destruction will start earlier than it usually does.

The prediction doesn't come as good news by any means, in face of all the aggravations this country has undergone in the past few years. But the damage can be greatly minimized, perhaps, if a camaign of early sraying is resorted to and a diligent attempt is made by everyone to destroy all forms of destructive insects before hot weather arrives and before they can develop in such numbers as to make it next to impossible to eradicate them.

DeKalb county had nine children in the James Whitcomb Riley Hospital of the Indiana University Medical Center during the past year, according to the annual report of Administrator J. B. H. Martin. Every county in Indiana was represented among the 3,994 child patients in the state hospital. The average number of patients per county was 43.4. The average stay in the Riley Hospital per child was 20.8 days. A total of 963 children were on the waiting list for admission at the time of report.

Robert Klopfenstein, son of Mrs. Bess Klopfenstein of Fort Wayne, was eslected for the role of Octavius Moulton-Barrett in "The Barrets of Wimpole Street," five-act comedy presented by the Garrick Players of Lake Forrest College, February 24 and 25. Klopfenstein is a sophomore at Lake Forrest and a member of Phi Pi Epsilon. He also is dramatics editor of the college news bureau. Robert was a member of the college debating team and in 12 apearances the team won 9. This record is pleasing to his friends here and especially to his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. McClellan Hart of south of Coburntown.

BASKET BALL TOURNEY SUCCESSFUL

The Independent Basket Ball Tournament held at the local gymnasium on last Friday and Saturday was very much of a success.

Eight teams took part and the drawings in general were very even. All the games were good and the good sportsmanship displayed by the players was very commendable.

The Saturday night crowd was exceptionally large and the fans witnessed what was probably the fastest game ever played on the local floor. In this final game the Pickles defeated the Hamilton Independents by the score of 34 to 26. The Pickles made up in speed and team play what they lacked in size.

A number of prizes and awards were given, these were given for sportsmanship, team play, high score, etc. An all tournament team was selected, on which four of the five men selected were members of the Pickle team. The work of the officials, the Smith Brothers of Hicksville, was very efficient and this added a lot to the success of the Tournament.

The purpose of the Tournament was to aid in re-establishing Independent Basket Ball and if one were to judge by the enthusiasm displayed a good step in that direction was made.

The last game of the season will be played Friday night, March 12.

ST. JOE PLAYS FREMONT THURSDAY EVENING

The St. Joe high school basket ball team will play its first game in the sectional basket ball tournament at Angola with Fremont Thursday night at 8 o'clock. Schedules for the 64 sectional tournaments were announced at Indianapolis Saturday.

Sectionals will be played March 4, 5 and 6; regionals in 16 centers March 13; semi-finals in four centers March 20, and the finals in Butler Fieldhouse at Indianapolis March 27.

The entry list this year was 3 less than the record of 784 teams which competed last year. The most notable absentee was Jeffersonville, a flood victim.

Fourteen teams will play in the Angola sectional and the winner will play in the regional meet in Auburn the week following. Following are the schedules for the sectionals at Angola:

Thursday:
7 P. M.—Angola and Hamilton.
8 P. M.—St Joe and Fremont.
9 P. M.—Orland and Auburn.
Friday:
10 A. M.—Ashley and Garrett.
11 A. M.—Butler and Salem Center.
2 P. M.—Spencerville and Pleasant Lake.
3 P. M.—Waterloo and Metz.

Officials—Phil N. Eskew, Harold Johnson, George Nulf.

SURPRISE PARTY

February 26th a surprise oyster supper was held at the home of Wm. Hamilton in honor of Mrs. Hamilton's birthday.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wineland, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Andress, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Haller and son, Mrs. Harry Hursh, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wisler and son.

Mr. Hamilton had taken Mrs. Hamilton to Ft. Wayne and upon their return, she noticed nothing. But after being in the house a few minutes the living room door opened and out walked the guests. It was a complete surprise.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

A A A WARNS FARMERS AGAINST USING UNADAPTED RED CLOVER AND ALFALFA SEED

In order to make clear the provisions of the 1937 agricultural conservation program for the North Central Region, regarding the use of adapted seed, the following statement was issued today by Claude R. Wickard, Director of the North Central Division:

"Some confusion has arisen as to how payments to farmers cooperating in the 1937 agricultural conservation program for the North Central Region may be affected by their seedings of unadapted foreign and unadapted domestic red clover and alfalfa seed.

"First of all, no practice payment of $2.50 per acre for seeding alfalfa will be made if any unadapted alfalfa is seeded on the farm in 1937. Likewise, no practice payment of $2.00 per acre for seeding red clover will be made if any unadapted red clover is seeded on the farm in 1937.

"Another provision of the program relates to the use of acreage diverted from soil-depleting crops. On January 22, the following telegram was sent to the chairman of all State committees and to fieldmen of the North Central Region:

'Following sentence being added to first paragraph of Part III of NCR one hundred one (quote) any acreage upon which unadapted seed or mixtures containing any unadapted seed is planted in nineteen thirty seven shall be classified as if such unadapted seed or such mixtures were not planted (unquote) advise county committees about this addition and that red clover and alfalfa seed imported from countries other than Canada not considered adapted.'

"The effect of the provision quoted is that in no case will farmers receive the diversion or $6.00 payment, or the conversion or $8.00 payment merely because of the seeding of such unadapted seeds. However, the acreage upon which these unadapted seeds are seeded may qualify for the diversion or $6.00 payment, or both the diversion and conversion payments, depending upon the other use made of the acreage."

REGARDING INDIANA SEED LAW

H. R. Kraybill, State Chemist and Seed Commissioner of Purdue University writes The News regarding the requirements of the seed law and farmers are asked to please take notice. It is as follows:—

"Although the Indiana State Seed Law has been in operation for 15 years, we find that many farmers are still not familiar with the fact that if they advertise seed for sale in newspapers, on sale bills, or in any other way, they are brought under the provisions of the law. When the seed is advertised for sale it is necessary for the seller to tag it with properly filled out Indiana Seed Tags in order to comply with the law, the same as is required of commercial seedsmen.

"The grower may sell seed which he has raised on his own premises without tagging it, provided he does not 'advertise it by circular, sale bill, catalog, or thru the public press....,' and does not deliver the seed away from his own premises.

"The entire law was framed for the purpose of protecting seed buyers and requires the use of tags to assure th buyer of clean adapted seed, an essential in any successful plan of crop production."

MORTUARY

MERCER

Agnes Ardella Mercer, eldest daughter of Sherman H. and Eva Shull, was born near Coburn's Corners, in DeKalb County, Indiana, on June 20, 1895.

On February 23, 1917 she was united in marriage to Levi A. Mercer. To this union were born nine children. She departed this life on February 28, 1937. Aged 41 years, 8 months and 8 days.

She leaves to mourn her departure, her companion, five daughters and four sons, Mrs. Zora Kathryn Gordon of Cedarville, Ohio, Edith Mae in high school at Xenia, Ohio, Rozella, Evelyn Elizabeth, Pearl Agnes, Carson Levi, Ernest Gilbert, Thurman LeRoy, and Clayton Eugene, at home, also her mother, Mrs. Eva Shull of Coburn's Corners, St. Joe, Indiana. Two sisters, Mrs. George B. Hart of St. Joe and Mrs. Mark E. Stuck of Garrett, Indiana. One brother, Garth Shull of Coburn's Corners, besides many relatives and friends.

Her father and one brother, Mark B. Shull, preceded her in death.

Agnes was a real home companion, ready and willing to sacrifice for others, with a heart's desire to bring her family up to be Christian men and women. She was loyal, faithful and true. One of her last requests were "take care of my babe." Her last words were, "Where's Lee," who was at her side.

The deceased became a member of Church of Chirst at Coburn's Corners when a girl. A year ago, she, with her husband and family united with the U. B. Church at Big Run where the funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon conducted by Rev. Schuler and Rev. Pellett, with burial at Hicksville.

SPENCER

Mrs. Ethel Loree Laymon Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Laymon, was born at Logansport, Indiana, June 8, 1901, and departed this life February 25, 1937, being 37 years, 8 months and 7 days of age.

March 17, 1920 she was married to Harold R. Spencer. In 1929 they moved to Fort Wayne, Indiana where they made their home till they moved near Spencerville in 1933.

She was reared in the Methodist Church. May 31, 1936 she united with St. Mark's Lutheran Church of St. Joe, Indiana where she was an active member in all the departments of the church till the time of her death.

Beside her husband and two children, Drayton Howard and Thomas Wayne, both at home, she leaves her father and her aged grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Laymon of Logansport, Indiana.

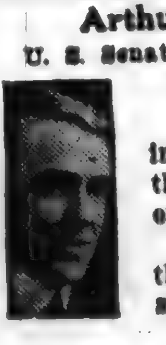
She was a faithful and devoted wife and mother, and will be greatly missed in the home, and in the church and in the community.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Lutheran Church, St. Joe and at 2:30 P. M. Monday at Logansport, Indiana, Rev. C. J. Forster officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ulm were in attendance at the services at Logansport.

Favorite Bible Passages —of— Arthur Capper

U. S. Senator from Kansas.



The Beatitudes:

Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.

Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth.

Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled.

Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy.

Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.

Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.

Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for My sake.

Rejoice, and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you.—Matthew 5:3-12.

The Lord's Prayer:

Our Father which art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, so on earth. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our sins; for we also forgive every one that is indebted to us. And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil.—Luke 11:1-4.

Timely warnings and appeals may not always be heeded. They should be. It is much better to do that than to later on play up sympathy.

A workman invites trouble by ignoring a nail protruding out of a board. He steps on the nail, gets a serious infection and is laid up in a hospital for a long time.

Instead of sympathizing with him and sending him flowers and otherwise showing our feelings, it would be much better to write him a brief note calling attention to his carelessness.

This might not be such a gracious gesture, but it is a very practical one. Let him think about his carelessness while he is lying on a cot in a hospital and meditating the loss of time and money.

Less sympathy—more practical common sense.

INDIANA HIGHWAYS

millions of dollars annually.

"Just another word about highway finances. Under the present plan of dividing gasoline tax and motor vehicle receipts between the state highway system and the road and street funds of the counties and cities, construction will be limited and few extensions of the present highway system can be made. The real effect of the redistribution of gasoline tax and license fee funds put into effect by the legislature at the special session in 1932, has not been realized by the motorists. Here is the reason.

"For the past three years special grants have been made by the federal government to Indiana to finance construction and improvement work on the state highway system. While these grants have not amounted to as much as was taken away from the state highway fund in 1932, they have made possible fairly extensive construction programs. Now these special grants have been discontinued and we must depend upon a share of the gasoline tax and license fee funds, with a small appropriation from the federal government, to finance the maintenance, operation and construction of our state highway system.

I have gone into this financial status of your highway system, that you might better understand some of the problems which you and your highway officials are facing.

"Doubtless you have wondered at times if the state highway system was not complete; if we did not have all the roads we needed, and why your expenditures for state highways could not be reduced. On the other hand you have felt that some road should be added to the state system, that a better surface was needed here, a new bridge there and that provision should be made to carry highway traffic over or under a railroad crossing at another point. If you have, you have answered your own questions.

"On our present state highway system there are many miles of pavement which are sixteen and eighteen feet wide—too narrow for safty under present traffic loads and speeds. There are about two thousand bridges and culverts having a roadway of twenty feet or less—some as little as eleven feet. There are scores of highway-railroad intersections where separations are needed. And, miles of pavement and dozens of bridges are constantly wearing out and must be replaced.

"In recent years motorists have demanded safer highways—and they were right for the record of death and injury in motor vehicle accidents is worse than war. So for the past four years the state highway commission has been engaged in making the highways safer. In the past two years more than eighty thousand dollars has been spent for reflectorized signs to make night driving more safe. Approximately sixty thousand dollars is spent annually to mark the center of the pavement, showing motorists their proper traffic lane.

"Other thousands of dollars are being spent to widen narrow culverts and bridges, to separate highway-railroad intersections and to install flashing light signals, to eliminate sharp curves and steep grades where sight distance ahead was limited, and to widen narrow pavements. One of the major safety moves of the highway commission has been the acquisition of wider rights of way along approximately eighteen hundred miles of state highways. On these wider rights of way the shoulders have been widened, side ditches, fences and utility poles have been moved back from the traveling surface and the safety of motorists has been increased. Records of the highway commission show that the number of motor vehicle accidents have dropped as much as fifty per cent after shoulders have been widened when compared to a similar period prior to widening. During the past four years the highway commission completed or awarded contracts for 61 grade crossing eliminations—more than were constructed during the all-time history of the state highway system.

"In 1936 the highway commission awarded construction contracts amounting to more than thirteen million dollars, an average of over a million dollars a month. During the year more than five hundred miles of paving and grading were completed by the construction department while the maintenance department completed over fifteen hundred miles of surface improvement.

"Operations of the state highway commission are conducted through the central offices in Indianapolis, and six districts, each of which is charged with maintenance operations on all state highways within a designated area.

"More than one thousand trucks are used by the state highway department in the maintenance of highways. More than two thousand other articles of equipment are also required for the consistent maintenance of the highway system.

"The maintenance forces alone used 756,000 tons of gravel and stone in 934 and nearly 600,000 tons of gravel and stone for maintenance work in 1935. In both 1934 and 1935 practically 10 million of bitumen and oils were required for maintenance work.

"The staff of the state highway department today has approximately 4,600 employees. In addition to these, many thousand are emloyed by contractors in the construction of roads and thousands more are back of the lines getting out materials such as stone, gravel, cement, steel, bituminous material and in the production of the huge machines that are used in construction work. The highway industry is gigantic and it reaches into every community. The money that the motorist pays promotes an immense amount of employment and in the end reduces the cost of transportation to the motorist and adds immeasurably to the pleasure and convenience of motoring.

"The maintenance operations include the removal of snow and ice, cutting weeds and grass along the right of way, repairing damaged pavement, maintaining caution and warning signs, applying centerlines and other markings and seeing that the highways are in good condition. The patrolmen and other employees making up the sub-district staff are subject to call at all hours. Every member of the highway organization is proud of the high ranking which Indiana holds in highway maintenance. Tourists traveling through many states have been especially complimentary on the condition in which Indiana's state highways are maintained.

"Traffic surveys on the state highways during the past four years show an increase of 22 per cent in passenger cars and 47 per cent in trucks, making a net increase of 28 per cent in the volume of traffic using the highways. With truck manufacturers reporting heavy sales during the past eight months, we can anticipate a considerable increase in truck traffic on our highways during the year. A similar increase in passenger car traffic may also be anticipated.

"This increasing stream of traffic demands modernized highways possessing the greatest possible degree of safety. Recently there has been considerable discussion of illuminating highways at night to increase motoring safety. With everyone interested in safety there is danger that lighting the highways will be considered the answer. It is still an experiment, the value of which remains to be proven.

"In Indiana utility companies are erecting lights along sections of some heavily traveled highways for experimental purposes. The highway commission is not financially involved in these tests and will conduct extensive tests before any lighting program is adoptd.

"Indiana occupies a most unique position in highway development. She has more roads per square mile than any nation in the world except England and more roads per square mile than any state in the Union except Massachusetts and Connecticut. She has 71 per cent of her highways in the state improved, which is the largest percentage of any state in the Union. Ohio is second with 60 per cent. Some states drop as low as 8½ per cent of their highways improved.

"Four out of seven U. S. highways which extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific cross Indiana. This makes the problem of the state highway department more difficult for not only the traffic of the people of Indiana must be accommodated but that of visitors within our state as well.

"Indiana lies within twenty-four hours motoring distance of 36 million people. This makes her geographic position most unique and it will be an imortant factor in the future development of our state."

Deliberation Versus "Rush and Jam"

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Probably the most widespread criticism of Congress during the past few years has been based on the eagerness of its members to speed new and unfamiliar measures through the legislative mill.

"Rush and jam" has too frequently been the method—instead of careful study and consideration of all bills which influence the public welfare.

During recent weeks, however, Congress appears to have shown a different attitude. Measures affecting fundamental principles of our government are being subjected to scrutiny and study by various Senators and Representatives who have not hesitated to express either approval or disapproval—and the reasons therefor.

Many have thus reasserted their right to express their own opinions and the opinions of the men and women they represent, regardless of party affiliations.

To all citizens who regard members of both House and Senate as their representatives at Washington, this evidence of politically independent judgment is encouraging. To all Americans it means a stronger voice in government.

Rushing a measure through Congress gives the people little opportunity to understand its purport and effect, or to let their will be known.

Reasonable study and discussion, in contrast, clarifies the issues involved—not only to members of the Congress, but to the people as well.

After all, it is we, the people, for whom government is organized, and who are helped or injured by its actions. It is we, the people, who bear its burdens and pay its bills. It is to us that our elected officials must answer. And Congress should realize that it will rise in public esteem to the extent that it recognizes these facts and lets us know just what our government is planning to do.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Mrs. Amanda Koch-Morr, of Albion, was the guest of honor at a surprise birthday celebration, Sunday, cleverly arranged by her husband, Dr. J. W. Morr, and children. Thirty-nine responded to invitations and an elaborate repast was served at the noon hour, following which was a sacred program, directed by Reuben Koch. Other features were harmonica selections by John and Jerry Morr, song and tap dance by Lois Jean and John Hugh Tipton, reading by Carol Rosenberry, steel guitar selections by John Hugh Tipton and song by Betty Morr.

Those present were, Mrs. Anna Koch, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Koch, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson, of St. Joe; Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Rosenberry, of Butler; Mr. and Mrs John Geisinger, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Brown and daughter, Dorothy, of Garrett; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mason and son, Jack, of Wawasee; Mr. and Mrs. John Gursee and Jimmie Morr, of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tipton, of Fort Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Tuttle, of Indianapolis, and Mr. and Mrs. Justin Morr and children, of Albion.

Mrs. Morr was the recipient of a number of gifts.

FATHER OF INJURED CHILD FILES SUIT

A demand for $25,000 damages is made by Hershel Shockley of Spencerville, on behalf of his five-year-old son, Robert Lee Shockley, in a complaint filed in Allen superior court at Fort Wayne against Ralph Hursh.

The boy was hurt Aug. 11, 1935 when he was struck in front of his home by the defendant's automobile. He was in a coma for eight weeks at the Lutheran Hospital in Fort Wayne because of multiple skull fractures. He was taken home in a semi-conscious condition.

Bobby was returned to his home two weeks ago from the James Whitcomb Riley Hospital for children at Indianapolis where as a result of special treatment his speech and the use of his legs were restored. He now talks haltingly, stands alone and can walk if given the support of a hand.

REGIONAL INSTITUTE COMES TO DEKALB

For the first time, DeKalb County Sunday School workers with children will have the privilege of attending a Regional Institute composed of workers from DeKalb, Steuben, Noble, Allen and Lagrange Counties, to be held at the Eckhart Library, Auburn, Monday, March 15.

The two expert leaders are sent here to help leaders of the school groups to understand materials and methods of work, especially for Vacation Church School and Sunday Church School. The leaders are, Mrs. Violet Rush Geiger, Evangelical Board, and Nellie C. Young, Indiana Council of Christian Education.

It is the wish of the County Sunday School organization that leaders and teachers, vacation church school, Sunday Church School and week-day sessions, Pastors and Superintendents plan to be in this inspirational conference of Northeastern Indiana officers. The program suggested for the morning and afternoon sessions begin with 10:00 o'clock devotions.

Discussions: The Church's Program in Reacihng Children in the Vacation Church School. The Organization of the School-grading, equipment, finances, leadership and reporting. The Curriculum of the School, Units of Study, Projects—Missionary, Temperence, Church.

12:00. Lunch at up town restaurants.

Crippled Tigers Defeated by Waterloo in Semi-Finals

The Garrett Railroaders emerged from the sectional Tourney as the survivors to represent this section in the Auburn Regional by virtue of their win over Waterloo in a hard-fought game Saturday night. The locals after winning in camparatively easy fashion in their first two games faltered against Waterloo and their inability to hit the loop spelled defeat for them. Starting the game without the services of "Skip" Like, the regular center and Curle a regular guard, both of whom were on the injured list, the Wildcats started strong and were only threatened twice by the locals whose erratic playing was a sharp contrast to their performances in their other two tourney appearances. Waterloo earned the right to play the finals by a win over Metz and overcoming the Saints in the semi-finals. Garrett played and won from Ashley, Auburn, Spencerville and Waterloo in that order.

Angola, the host team, was forced to forfeit its qualifying game to Hamilton because of having participated in too many games through the season.

The results of the four Sectionals in this region finds Garrett playing Kendallville and Warsaw tangling with Columbia City. The winners of these two games will clash in the evening at the Auburn Regional next Saturday. Had the Tigers been at full strength throughout the Tourney fans felt that they might have made a better account of themselves. Waterloo was much superior in height but the basket-shooting ability of the Valley Five was expected to offset this. St. Joe closes the season against Spencerville here tonight. This is the playoff of a postponed game. Coar and Miller handle the officiating.

FROM ABOUT ST. JOE

Well, anyway, spring is only around the corner.

A second quake shock was felt here Monday night.

Make it your business to read the classified ad column each week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Buckingham were Tuesday dinner guests in the Dr. B. O. Shook home.

Mrs. Lizzie Milliman returned to her home Saturday after spending the winter with Mrs. S. D. Gee.

Art Coyle has been appointed as night policeman at Auburn, vacancy being caused by the death of Henry West.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Curie and daughter, Barbara, and Miss Ruth Curie, of Garrett, were Saturday evening guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie, Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Curie were Rev. C. J. Ferster, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Dilley, Mrs. Mary Sechler and son, Leon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Quance and family and Mrs. Vina Quance, of Auburn, called on St. Joe relatives Sunday afternoon.

Have you renewed—If not, now would be a mighty good time to do so. Won't you please help get our mailing list up-to-date? Do your bit!

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hursh entertained Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hamilton and son, James, and Mr. and Mrs. M. H Andress Sunday eve. in honor of Mr. Andress' birthday.

The last word received from Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reeder, who are at Indianapolis with their daughter, Lila at the Robert Long Hospital is that she is worse. One side is practically paralyzed, and that meningitis has developed. All this trouble was caused from defective tonsils. She was in the Souder Hospital for weeks before going to Indianapolis.

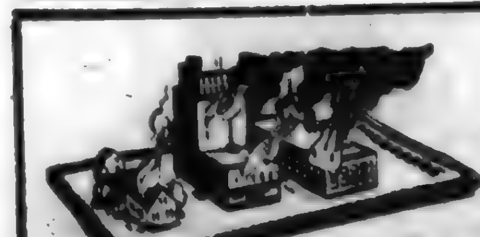
In these days the man we call the white-collar worker more often than not wears a soiled one.

Because husband and wife both speak of "my car" doesn't mean they are members of a two-car family.

Most people could shorten their prayers a great deal if they would just say "Gimme" and let it go at that.

Some men wouldn't think of talking about private affairs in public and yet they'll stand for an hour and tell a perfect stranger all about their gall bladder.

Sit-down courtships are dangerous. The girls may conclude that the man who can't stand on his feet to propose is not likely to stand on them to wash dishes.



Count the Cost NOW!

INSURANCE is the only commodity which cannot be purchased when it is needed most.

Don't wait for a fire to break out before you realize this. Count the cost of inadequate insurance now and be prepared!

Let us ascertain the present value of your property and recommend the kinds and amounts of insurance you need.

FRED B. LEIGHTY
AGENT—St. Joe, Ind.

Women are always good losers—especially when they are losing weight.

You never really know how much a man can't remember until he is called as a witness.

Physicians advise folks to lie on the right side. Yes, if you must lie, always lie on the right side.

You may not be aware of it, but the person who borrows trouble always pays the interest with worry.

Now that strikes, floods and the flu are about over what the country needs is an epideme of hard work.

This day in time she's a rare girl if she wears the same face during the day that she got up with in the morning.

In the old days hard times consisted in doing without the necessities of life; now it is struggling along without the luxuries.

It is said there has been a marked increase in the sale of life insurance lately. Life has become so merry that people figure it is bound to be short.

The good old days were those when the principal topic of conversation were rheumatis and the weather instead of sit-down strikes and streamlined models.

GOOD SAFETY WORK

A matter of great interest to everyone is the fact that rapid progress is being made in the elimination of grade-crossings all over the country, 748 having been wiped out in 1936. Plans have been approved by the government for 166 more such projects and from money available at the last session of congress possibly 500 more will be eliminated by the end of the current year. That is the kind of safety work the public approves of. But it should be remembered by motorists that not all the death-traps are going to be eliminated over night. There will still be plenty of need for cautious driving over rail-crossings for a good many years to come, and so long as there is a single crossing left everyone who drives over it is in more or less danger. You don't win anything if you beat a train to the crossing. And if it happens to be a tie just think what you stand to lose.

EXPENSIVE RATS

From figures gathered in all parts of the country federal experts have determined that the average rat consumes $2 worth of grain a year. Now if farmers around St. Joe have any way of determining how many rats they have around their homes they can tell just what it is costing them in good hard dollars to maintain them. When one considers that a single rat can get away with $2 worth of marketable products annually it is hard to understand why more attention is not given to their elimination. If everyone realized that the sum of $2 could be saved this year by slaying a single rat, think what a slaughter there would be. And yet Uncle Sam says there is a saving of $2 worth of grain every time a rat is killed. He gives no figures concerning the destruction wrought by mice, but housewives know it must be in proportion. What the country seems to need just now as much as anything else is a national rat and mice killing campaign.

DON'T THROW IT AWAY

Along about this time of year local housewives begin ridding the house of what most generally classify as "junk." Few of them, unfortunately, realize what may be junk to them really constitutes an article of value to someone else in the neighborhood. It may be an odd piece of furniture, a worn rug or carpet, a lamp, radio, washing machine, table or stove. Why throw it away when there is a chance that someone else needs it and would gladly pay a reasonable price for it? Someone else may be wanting right this minute the very thing you are going to destroy tomorrow. And finding out who they are isn't difficult, nor is it expensive. A few cents spent for a little local liner in these columns will most generally serve to put you in contact with someone who wants the very thing you are tired of—someone willing to pay you for it. It takes but a moment to drop in and inquire about the cost. And it may mean an actual cash profit for you.

WHY MEN CUSS CONGRESS

Congress has been in session but a few weeks and yet more than 6500 bills have been dumped into the legislative hopper of the lower house alone. Scarcely one out of a hundred of these has a chance of being enacted into law. But this does not seem to interfere with the average congressman's idea that the best way to earn his salary is to introduce as many bills as possible each session.

If all the bills introduced in congress this session were passed every living person in the United States would be drawing some kind of government pension while the dead ones would be buried in some sort of national cemetery set up in every state. We would have 150 new national parks and national lotteries would replace taxation; no one would be forced to go to work until he was 25 years of age, and then would be retired when he reached 45. These are the provisions of some of the most freakish proposals that have been offered at the present session of congress. Almost every bill presented seeks to obtain an appropriation of some sort; very few of them are intended to cut down the expense of government or to save the taxpayers money.

When you take into consideration the fact that each congressman draws a salary of $10,000 a year, in addition to hundreds of dollars for clerk hire, office supplies, etc., it is easy to understand why the average taxpayer wonders why they don't do something to earn and something to advance the interests of the ones who sent them there.

SOME LOCAL BRIEFS

The happy Easter season will soon be here. Send your friends an Easter card. See the new assortment at News office.

Electric lights will soon be extended to A. W. Trostel and Donald Washler farms. The line is extended north from Mrs. Mildred Curie's home.

Calvin Kain, County Surveyor, of Auburn, remains quite poorly. He resigned his position as road superintendent but retains his office as surveyor.

This week a shipment of 50 pheasants were received in DeKalb county and the St. Joe and Spencerville conservation clubs each received six and were liberated. A shipment of 200 quail will come to our county next week. The two clubs will each receive 25.

Jay Porter, who operates a store and truck on Road 1 north of Butler, is seeking an order in the court to restrain the gross income tax division and Sheriff Grimm from enforcing a collection of $56.40 for 1935. He states that he paid on all business conducted in Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Randall and Miss Vera Pinchon, of Chicago, spent Saturday night with Mrs. Wm. Randall. Sunday morning they all drove to Fremont, Ind., where they enjoyed a birthday dinner in honor of H. A. Pinchon, a brother of Mrs. Randall. They all had a very enjoyable day together.

Success is not measured by what a man accomplished but by the opposition he has overcome, and the courage with which he has maintained the struggle against overwhelming odds. Not the distance we have run, but the obstacles we have overcome; the disadvantages under which we have made the race will decide the prizes.

The vacancy in the Garrett automobile license bureau as the result of the death of P. A. Gengler is expected to be filled soon. Applicants reported as being most favorably considered include Clayton M. Bailey, DeKalb County Democratic Chairman; Mrs. Gengler, wife of the late license bureau head; L. Dale Green, manager of the Insurance Trustees, Inc. of Garrett, and now associated with the Loose Insurance Agency of Ft. Wayne and Edward Mayfield, Garrett insurance agent.

NEWSWEEKLY SCRAPBOOK...

Week's Best Recipe

Southern Spoon Bread—1 cup cornmeal; 1½ cups boiling water; ½ teaspoon salt; ½ teaspoon sugar; 4 tablespoons butter; 3 egg yolks; 1 cup milk; 3 egg whites, beaten. Add salt to boiling water. Add cornmeal and cook 10 minutes in double boiler, stirring frequently. Add rest of ingredients, mixing lightly. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake 40 minutes in moderately slow oven. Serve hot with butter.

A Beauty Hint

Skin eruptions of the more usual kinds are often due to constipation. Regular elimination is necessary to clear skin. Yeast is considered by some as very good in cases of pimples or boils when constipation is one of the underlying causes.

For the Housewife

Correct, even measurements are important for success in cooking. To measure milk or other liquids place the cup on a flat surface and pour in the required amount. Never tap the side of a cup to level dry ingredients since such tapping often packs them and increases the actual amount of the ingredient in the cup.

Out in the Garden

Variety adds interest to vegetable gardening. Here are a few uncommon edibles which can be easily grown: Leek, a fine onion-like flavorer for soups and stews; marrow, delicious when sliced and fried; chicory, or French endive, for winter salads; salsify, or oyster plant, a root with a distinctive flavor which can be left in the ground over winter. There are many others. Look for them in the new catalogue.

The Family Doctor

Not more than a quart, and never less than a pint and a half of milk a day is needed by the growing child. When the youngster reaches the active run-about age its growth and development naturally demand other food elements as well. Whole-grained cereals, potatoes, bread and a small amount of sugar are necessary aids to the growing child.

An Inspiration

"The men who succeed best in life are always cheerful and hopeful men; men who go about with a smile on their faces and take the changes and chances of this mortal life like men, facing rough and smooth alike as it comes."—Charles Kingsley.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN The Safety Man

In every home there should be someone who will give a little thought to the stairs and steps.

In the first place, are the stairs properly constructed or are they worn or broken?

Are they used as shelves for storage of materials?

Are they wet or slippery?

Are they improperly lighted?

Are they of a dangerous circular type?

Are the steps too high or too low?

Stairways that have steps only three or four inches high are even more dangerous than those where the steps are too high. Falls kill about 17,000 people a year and injure hundreds of thousands of others. Inspect the stairways in your home regularly and see that no member of your family is injured because of someone's carelessness.

GILL

Ella Jane White, daughter of Jacob and Alvira Jenkins White, was born October 9, 1857 in Concord Township and has always resided here.

She departed from this life March 1, 1937 at the age of 77 years, 4 months and 22 days.

On July 30, 1882, she was united in marriage to John R. Gill, who preceded her in death over fourteen years ago.

To this union was born one daughter, Ida Gill Woodcox, at whose home she died, who with two grandsons, Homer A. Woodcox, of Auburn, Ind., DeVere, of St. Joe, and one granddaughter, Maxine Woodcox, of St. Joe, survive. She leaves one brother, Roy White of near Butler and several nieces and nephews; a grandson, John Gill Woodcox, passed away on October 27, 1934.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon from the Kinsey Funeral Home, Rev. J. N. Scholes officiating. Burial in Riverside Cemetery.

WEICHT

Carolyn June, infant daughter of Lester and Dorothy Mansfield Weicht, was born February 27, 1937 and passed away March 5 at the age of six days. She leaves to mourn her departure besides her bereaved parents, four grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Mansfield and Mr. and Mrs Ezra Weicht, two great grandmothers, Mrs. Wilder of Hamilton, and Mrs. Irene Wiseman of Defiance, Ohio, three aunts, eight uncles and numerous other relatives and friends.

While the tiny life was spared on this earth but a few brief days, it will always remain as a ray of sunshine in the lives of those who were near.

Short funeral services were held from the home on Saturday afternoon, Rev. P. A. Hubbartt, pastor of Mt. Pleasant Church, officiating. Burial in Riverside Cemetery, St. Joe.

BUTLER

Sarah Jane Butler, daughter of John S. and Eliza Ambrose Boots, was born on the Boots Homestead three miles west of Spencerville, Indiana, on April 5, 1851. She passed away on February 20, 1937 at Defiance, Ohio, at the age of 85 years, 10 months, and 15 days.

She was united in marriage to Daniel W. Butler, on February 2, 1871. At this time she came to live on the Butler Homestead south of Spencerville, where she resided the remainder of her life with the exception of the last year, when she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Audrey Wade in Defiance, Ohio.

There were three children born to this union, Frank L. and Merritt C. Butler, of Spencerville and Mrs. Audrey Wade, of Defiance, Ohio, all of whom survive, her husband having preceded her in deaeth on October 18, 1901.

She was the eldest of nine children, six of whom survive, Miss Sabina, Rufus and J. T. Boots, of near Spencerville; Mrs. Pearl Wood and Clyde Boots of Pleasant Lake, Indiana, and Mrs. Myrtle Kimes of Dewey, Oklahoma. A brother, James A. Boots and a sister, Mrs. Ida Baltz, having preceded her in death.

Besides the children, brothers and sisters she leaves seven grandchildren, five great grandchildren and a host of relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held from the home with Rev. L. E. Clayton, M. E. pastor officiating. The Eastern Star funeral services were given by the officers of Spencerville Chapter No. 386 O. E. S. of which she was a charter member. Pall bearers were her sons, Frank and Merritt Butler, and grandsons, Charles A., M. Auber, Ivan and James Butler. Interment was made in White City Cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their kind words and expressions of sympathy on the death of our Mother and Grandmother.

Mr. F. L Butler
Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Butler and Family.
Mrs. Audrey Wadee and Family.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

HOOSIER GARDEN CLUB

Twelve townships were represented at the first leaders training school for the Hoosier Garden Club project which the DeKalb County Bureau decided to take this year as an extra project.

W. B. Ward, Extension Horticulturist, conducted the meeting and gave a very interesting discussion on planning and planting of the home garden.

Two packets of Hybrid Sweet Corn of the Golden Bantam variety was given by Mr. Ward to the two women who guessed the lucky number. Mrs. Wm. H. Carmer of Union Township and Mrs. Jay DeWitt of Richland Township proved their ability and took home the corn.

Later in the season the club plans a Garden Tour.

A step forward in the swine industry in DeKalb County was taken at a meeting of swine breeders held Tuesday evening, March 2 in the County Agent's office. An organization known as the DeKalb County Swine Breeders Association was formed with C. C. Kelley of Jackson Township elected as president, Martin Wagner vice president and B. Wesley Carper, secretary and treasurer. Harry Provines and Frederick Ellert were chosen as field men. The purpose of the organization is to increase interest in the breeding of better swine and more economical production. The executive committee will meet soon and formulate the by-laws and a program for the year. Harry Provines presided over the meeting.

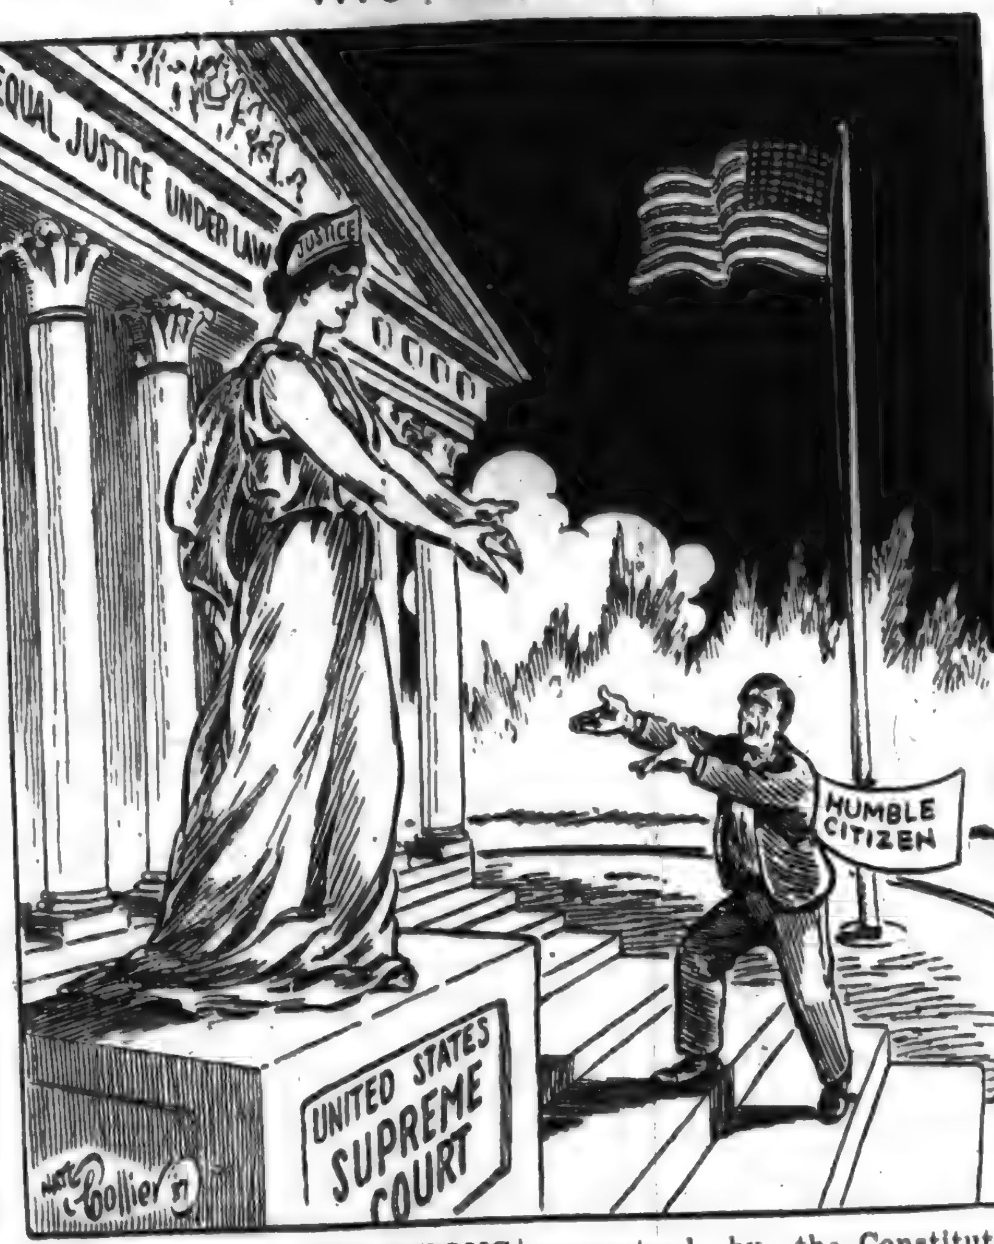
HIS REFUGE



THE WEAK AND THE STRONG

If the Supreme Court and the Constitution are undermined, where in the future are the weak to find protection against the aggressions of the strong?

In any form of government, the strong will always take care of themselves. In drafting the Constitution, our forefathers saw this and they wrote in protections for the weak. Then the Bill of Rights was added to the Constitution, further guarding the lives, liberties and rights of the less powerful.

But rights enumerated in the Constitution are worthless unless there is some court appeal, a temple of refuge. The Supreme Court is that eternal guardian.

When the Scottsboro negroes faced execution it was the Supreme Court to which they appealed and the court held they had not had a fair trial—that their rights guaranteed by the Constitution had been transgressed.

When in Georgia a negro Communist voiced political sentiment repugnant to loyal Americans he was tried and convicted under an ancient state law. His only appeal was to the Supreme Court.

Time after time in our history when the right of free speech has been abridged, unjust imprisonment inflicted, it has been the courts that were the temple of refuge. If the religious freedom, the right to worship as one pleases, is ever denied to any person or group in this country, the final recourse is to the Supreme Court.

So long as the Constitution and the Supreme Court remain living instruments, "it can't happen here." When they perish, the end of human liberties is near. The weak have lost their sanctuary.

JOHN C. ARMSTRONG DIES AT HOSPITAL

The death of John C. Armstrong former sheriff of DeKalb county and an attorney-at-law, occurred at the Dr. J. A. Sanders hospital in Auburn. His passing followed a major operation which was performed Thursday morning when about six feet of his intestine was removed because of a growth.

Mr. Armstrong was one of the most widely known residents of DeKalb county. He was taken sick last summer and for many weeks was bedfast. From that illness he never fully recovered.

Mr. Armstrong was 52 years of age and had always been a resident of DeKalb county. For some time after his marriage to Miss Minnie Dove, of Jackson township, he was employed by the W. H. Kiblinger Company, manufacturers of buggies in Auburn and later worked in a sawmill. He was a farmer for seventeen years in Jackson township and for a while worked in the Henry Osbun garage.

He was a salesman for a number of years with the Ford Sales & Service, then operated by Clayton Weaver and George Baxter. In 1930 he was nominated for the office of sheriff of DeKalb county, was elected and on January 1, 1931, he assumed office, serving two terms, four years. Shortly after completing his second term, Mr. Armstrong, then past middle age, took up the study of law, was admitted to the bar and established an office in the Staman building at the corner of Main and Ninth Streets.

Mr. Armstrong was honored by being elected Vice Noble Grand of Mentor Lodge No. 591 I. O. O. F. and although ill at the time was advanced to the office of Noble Grand, which office he held at the time of his death. He was a member of the Encampment, passed through the chairs of Auburn Lodge No. 191, Knights of Pythias and was a member of the DeKalb County Bar Association.

He is survived by his widow, parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Armstrong, of Richland township, two brothers, George Armstrong, of Auburn, William Frank Armstrong, of Fort Wayne, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Feagler of Miami, Fla., and Mrs. Sanford Coak of Fort Wayne. Ernest Pfierman and wife, residing on the Armstrong farm, were considered by Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong the same as if they were their own children.

The funeral services were held at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning from Dilgard Bros. Funeral Home. Rev. Joseph Ferguson officated and burial was made in Woodlawn Cemetery.

WPA ASSISTING IN REPAIR OF LAWRENCEBURG LEVEE BREAK

At Lawrenceburg, Ind., regarded as the hardest hit of all Indiana cities during the recent flood, Works Progress Administration employees are working in cooperation with the United States War Department, city officials and the Baltimore and Ohio railroad in repairing a serious break in the old city constructed levee at a point near the B. & O. tracks.

A gap developed when flood waters flowed over the top of the levee for its entire length, and it constitutes a serious flood menace for the whole city. Because of the fear of spring flood waters, the work is being hurried to the extent that the men are working eleven hours a day, seven days a week. A twenty-four hour schedule may be established if electric service can be obtained.

Contrasts In Government

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

A famous historian has recently pointed out a series of striking contrasts between government by the many—as in America—and government by the few, or even by one—as in some nations of Europe.

Comparing the two, he shows that in nations where the people actually rule:

Wars are less frequent.

The standards of individual well-being and of living are higher.

Freedom of religion, of speech and of the press has been preserved.

Individual energy and progress are greater.

Science, art, literature and other high forms of human endeavor have made swifter strides.

Life, personal safety and general stability are more secure.

These contrasts he draws not from the dim past, but from the present, with the picture of what is actually happening on the broad front of world events clearly before him.

The picture is not only for the eyes of the historian. Constantly it flashes before all the American people in headlines, in news photographs, in reports from many authoritative sources.

It stands a constant refutation of those champions and admirers of the new dictatorships abroad, who would have the American people swap their power and independence for the desperate experiments now developing in Europe.

If the American people want to see what the Democracy established by our Constitution means, let them consider the progress in national development and individual well-being achieved by the United States during its century and a half of history.

If they want to understand what Dictatorship, or Communism, or other denials of government by the people can bring, let them look at the nations now suffering under such experiments abroad.

You and your stomach, adrift on a gastronomic cross sea!

Don't live out of a can when your wife goes to visit her folks—a mere man can successfully COOK ELECTRICALLY

THERE was a time when a man felt abused and a woman felt guilty if either emergency or pleasure called her away from home for a few days. "How on earth will Tom cook his meals?" she would wail and he, saddened and embittered by his fate, would polish up the can opener and cut his finger along the dotted line. Sleepless nights and cranky, dull days on a gastronomic cross sea were inevitable.

Today, the modern wife has an Electric Range ready to take on the problem of cooking, automatically, delicious and digestible meals. Her husband may even entertain royally—and painlessly—if he chooses. The Electric Range is the Perfect Electric Cook.

BROTHERHOOD ENTERTAIN MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

The Brotherhood of the Lutheran Church entertained the Mothers and Daughters, numbering ninety-two, to a delicious banquet at the church on Thursday night First course consisted of escalloped chicken, potatoes, gravy, peas and carrots, cabbage salad, rolls, butter, jelly, pickles, and coffee. Second course cup cakes and brick ice cream, bearing the shamrock emblem.

The tables were beautifully decorated with green candles in crystal holders, shamrocks, Irish flags in potato holders, green packages of mints and potted plants and bouquets.

Mrs. Esther Bowman acted as toastmaster and the subjects, Love, Courage, Patience, Faith, Cheerfulness and Sacrifice were given as they relate to mother and daughter. These topics were discussed by Mrs. Flossie Mavis, Violet Pflaumer, Annie Tustison, Edith Cole, Marjorie Lawson, and Pluma Hamilton. Christine Zonker paid a tribute to mother and Gladys Shull and Kathryn Haller a vocal duet, My Mother. Cora Curie gave a toast, "Our Men."

In the social part of the evening all participated, each person belonging to some Irish family and they contributed songs, contests, readings and pantomime.

The men of the Brotherhood are to be congratulated on the fine preparation and serving of the dinner, their cheerfulness and efficiency in promoting such a successful social gathering. They received many thanks and words of praise, which were many times their due. The Sunday School orchestra furnished music.

Rev. Ferster suggested that since this was the Lenten Season we forget not to consecrate ourselves anew in the Master's service and carry this fine feeling of inspiration and fellowship into our lives and be a blessing to those whose lives we touch from day to day.

In closing all were asked to clasp hands making a linked chain of friendship and taps was sung by our trio Reidenbach, Sechler and Tustison.

DISTRIBUTION OF NEW 1937 HIGHWAY MAPS IN INDIANA

Indianapolis, March 17.—Distribution of the 1937 map of the Indiana state highway system, prepared by the State Highway Commission for the information of motorists, was started Monday, March 15, it was anounced by James D. Adams, chairman.

The 1937 map, containing a number of revisions and new features, will be available without charge at the office of the highway commission, auto license agencies, motor clubs and tourist information services. Requests for copies of the map should be addressed: State Highway Commission, State House Annex, Indianapolis.

Major changes in the new map include: Use of black to designate all state highways to avoid the confusion that resulted from the markings of U. S. routes in red; addition of steam railroad routes; inclusion of highways taken into the state system during the past year; designating location of Red Cross first-aid stations; grouping of nearly two hundred points of interest on a special map; listing location of state highway garages, and a list of the state highways and their general routing through Indiana.

It is believed that the new map will be even more valuable to motorists than those issued in the past, as it contains more information about the state and its attractions. Several illustrations, picturing scenes on the highway system and in the state parks are a new feature of the map.

Special sketches showing state highway routes through Indianapolis, the Calumet area and in the New Albany-Jeffersonville area are included on the reverse side of the map. Correct hand signals to be given by motorists when making turns or stopping are illustrated and a list of regulations for the information of motorists is also given.

The front page of the folded map features a picture of the state capitol building.

State highways under construction are shown by broken line marking while proposed additions to the highway system are shown by dotted lines. Routes of the proposed additions are not necessarily the location for the highway in the event it becomes a part of the state system. Types of highway surfaces—high, intermediate and low—are indicated by distinctive markings. You may call at News office for a copy.

REGIONAL VACATION CHURCH SCHOOL INSTITUTE

A regional institute for leaders and teachers in Sunday School work pastors and superintendents from DeKalb and adjoining counties was held Monday forenoon, afternoon and evening in the assembly room of the Eckhart public library in Auburn. The leaders were Miss Nellie C. Young of Indianapolis, state superintendent of, the children's division of the Indiana Council of Christian Education and Mrs. Ruth Geiger, of the Educational Board of Christian Education. Problems concerning organization of church schools, grading, equipment, finances and leadership were discussed and departmental groups held discussion on kindergarten, primary, junior and intermediate problems.

FIVE MORE GRANTED OLD AGE PENSIONS

Original investigations of old age assistance applications have been practically completed, Miss Nora Brown, of Butler, director of the county welfare department, reported Thursday.

The few remaining reports that are not finished are being delayed because of small details yet to be larned. The two investigators on the staff have undertaken the work of re-investigation of the pension cases to meet the requirement to keep informed as to any changing status of the pensioners.

The welfare board met Wednesday night and considered the reports of sixteen applications for old age assistance. Five new awards were ordered and two awards previously made were changed. Three applications were rejected and two cases were continued. One application was withdrawn because of change of residence and three deaths were reported among the applicants.

Three awards were made to blind persons and another award to a blind person was ordered reduced. Assistance was granted for four children, two families being involved.

COME AND HELP!

DR. V. C. BRUNSON DIES AT HOME

Dr. V. C. Brunson, 81, believed to be one of the oldest practicing physicians in the state, died at his home at Newville, at 5 o'clock Monday morning. Dr. Brunson had been a physician for more than 50 years. He was a member of the Masonic order.

The aged doctor suffered an attack of acute indigestion Friday night and pneumonia developed Sunday morning. Prior to that time he had been in good health considering his age and had been regularly attending to his medical work.

Dr. Brunson had been practicing medicine at Newville for a great many years and he had patients and was well known throughout the county.

He was born at Decatur on July 15, 1855 and after his preliminary schooling he attended medical college at Buffalo, N. Y., and at Cleveland. He and Miss Clara Meck of Newville, were married at that place on April 21, 1890, and they had two children, Laura Jane who died in 1918 at the age of 23, and Mrs. Clayton H. Fetters, of Garrett. Besides the widow and daughter there also survive one sister, Mrs. Cassie Sweet, of Fort Wayne, and two granddaughters, Sally and Yvonne Fetters. Mrs. Brunson became a patient at the Sacred Heart Hospital at Garrett two months ago and underwent a major operation. She was removed to the home of her son-in-law and daughter a month ago, where she has been convalescing.

Funeral services were held at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Newville Christian Church with Rev. P. A. Hubbartt in charge. Burial was made in Newville Cemetery.

CLARK SCHOLES CHOSEN AS HIGHWAY SUPT.

The county commissioners Monday appointed Clark F. Scholes of St. Joe, as road supervisor of DeKalb county highways, to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Calvin C. Kain, who resigned because of ill health. Mr. Kain still holds his office as county surveyor. Mr. Scholes was elected in 1916 as county surveyor, but he with his deputy, Mr. Kain, entered the World War before completion of his term in office. He has had considerable experience in road construction.

LEGION CELEBRATES EIGHTEENTH ANNIVERSARY

The Auxiliary Unit of Walter Whitehurst Post 283 American Legion entertained the Post members at a birthday party in honor of the Legion's eighteenth birthday anniversary, Tuesday, March 16th. Nearly fifty members of the Legion and Auxiliary were present and enjoyed group singing of war songs and the playing of games. The birthday cake was cut by the Post Commander and a lunch of ice cream, cake and coffee was served.

The Auxiliary will meet with Post next Tuesday evening. Garrett Post and Auxilliary will be present.

SCOUT SCRIBBLES

The Scouts held a troop volleyball tournament last week. On Saturday the troop took an all-day hike into the country. Different tests were passed, including Tracking, Cooking, and the Scout Pace.

The following Scouts will receive their Second Class Badges at the Court of Honor to be held at Auburn this (Wed.) evening: Wayne Burns, Herman Collins, James Draggoo, Jack Goodwin, Charles Hart, Maurice Hurni, Paul Keller, James Maxwell, James Monroe and Franklyn Sechler.

James Maxwell, Scribe.

Mrs. Roy Reidenbach and daughter, Ersa, spent yesterday in Fort Wayne.

It was reported Tuesday that Ed Bishop, of Auburn, had suffered a stroke. As to his condition we are unable to learn as we go to press.

Mrs. Ralph Sechler and daughter Louise are leaving for Greenfield today and will spend the week-end with her father and also relatives in Indianapolis.

SUCCESSOR TO JAMES D. ADAMS NAMED

Earl Crawford, Milton banker and farmer, was named chairman of the state highway commission Monday by Gov. M. Clifford Townsend to succeed James D. Adams of Columbia City. Mr. Crawford served two terms as member of the commission under Gov. Goodrich and Gov. McCray and was chairman of the recent highway survey committee whose recommendations concerning the state road situation were adopted by the state legislature. Rev. T. A. Dicus, Marion, was named as a member of the commission succeeding E. B. Statsenburg.

T. R. KACKLEY

"We pride ourselves on the high quality, dependability and safety of our Red Cab Service and we can honestly say that the 1937 Ford V-8 with 60-horsepower engine gives us the quality, dependability and safety that we demand. This statement is based on over 300,000 miles' experience with these cars. While dependability and safety count most with us, it was a welcome surprise to find gas mileage 20% above any previous model."

So far we haven't heard of any of these sit-down strikes being staged in a factory that makes carpet tacks.

Changing the world's news from China to Russia hasn't helped the proofreaders very much.

The worst tragedy that can befall a man is to get what he wants and then find out he doesn't want it.

Nowadays a man has to fight to stay on top in every field of endeavor except prize-fighting.

The old man is called the head of the family because he is the one who gets the headaches.

The man who says his wife has poor taste surely can't be trying to explain why she picked him.

Doctors say there are a million women in this country who are overweight. These, of course, are round figures.

Maybe you've also noticed that married people don't use words to say "I love you." They just hand out cash or sew on buttons.

Children in St. Joe have a keener sense of touch than adults. They know just when Dad is good for a nickel.

Petting in a rumble seat on a bumpy road is dangerous—it's so easy to bite off the other party's nose.

BOYS AND DOGS

While it may strike some people that St. Joe has more than its share of dogs, the fact remains that if every boy in town had one he would be better off. Nothing teaches a boy responsibility like the ownership of a dog. When he realizes that his dog will go hungry if he doesn't feed him; that he will get sick and die if not properly fed; that he will be cold and wet if not sheltered, then the boy learns one of the greatest lessons in life—the importance of responsibility. The dog also will teach the boy lessons in love and duty and faithfulness that he cannot do without in later years. The boy who has never owned and loved a dog has missed something from his boyhood that goes a long way toward preparing him to be a man. Knowledge of sympathy and understanding can be learned from a dog, and that is the kind of knowledge most needed to get through this world successfully.

WASTING MONEY

Along about this time of year paint stores are springing up around every corner in the cities and mail-order publications abound with new and alluring paint ads. It is just another way of separating the unsuspecting citizen from his money since much of the stuff that is now sold for paint and passes for paint is far from paint after it is spread and a few hard rains hit it. Pretty labels and high-sounding trade names do not mean that the contents of the can are worth carrying home. There's so much deception in paint that buying it has become a real gamble. And yet there is protection if you want to be protected. You can buy it here at home, from a dealer you know personally. Then you eliminate the risk of wasting your money. No matter what it costs, there are but two kinds of paint-good and bad. Your home-town dealer knows the difference, and you can believe what he tells you. You can't do that in fly-by-night paint stores or in buying it by mail.

WHERE IT GOES

Everybody has wondered at sometime or another who gets the difference between what the farmer gets for his product and what the consumer pays for it. So a survey just completed by the United States Department of Agriculture along that line is of special interest.

The results of this investigation, relating to 58 varieties of food show that during 1936 the farmer's share of the outlay made by the typical American workman's family for food during the entire year amounted to $160. The retail cost of these products was $344, making a spread of $184 between the farmer and the consumer. During the past year the farmer received 40 cents of the consumer's dollar. That is the highest percentage received by the farmer since 1929 when he received 47 cents out of every dollar spent by the consumer for food. The report shows that at the present time the average retail price of a pound loaf of bread thru out the United States is about 8½ cents. The cost of the wheat entering into the loaf is approximately 2 cents. Among the other ingredients are milk, salt, yeast, lard and malt. Grouping the cost of these other ingredients together adds about 2.8 cents, making the total cost of the loaf 4.8. The difference between this and the price paid for bread by the consumer represents manufacturing and distributing costs.

Perhaps some day a way will be found to shrink the present wide spread between the producer and the consumer. When that day comes this will be a far better country to live in, but right now that day looks to be a long way off.

FARM-MADE FUEL

Science has again put farm products to work and ere the summer has come and gone local car owners need not be surprised if they are introduced to a new auto fuel. One made by distilling alcohol from farm crops and blending it with gasoline at the rate of 10 per cent of alcohol to 90% of gasoline is now being successfully used in several western tates. It is said to be even more satisfactory than gasoline in that it is more powerful and the price is about the same. But the big thing in connection with the discovery is the part it promises to play in preventing over-production of farm products. Then too, if farm-made alcohol proves valuable as a motor fuel it is certain to be utilized for many other purposes. Eventually it may solve a lot of the problems with which the grain growers of this coutnry have wrestled for years.

THE 11TH COMMANDMENT

In the hill section of Kentucky they have what they familiarly call "the Eleventh Commandment", and when you explain that you never heard of but ten, and ask what the eleventh one is they will answer that the Eleventh Commandment is "Mind your own business."

As the average St. Joe man sees it, now is a good time for the U. S. government to inaugurate a strict observance of the "Eleventh Commandment." All indications point to an early war in the Old World. Where it will start, when it will start and what will actually start it, no man knows. But the leading diplomats of a half-dozen nations are agreed that it is bound to come. This country may not be able to stay out of it, but it can at least make every possible effort to do so. It can try harder to stay out than it did the last time, and it ought to be starting right now. The president has been given power to prevent the shipment of arms, ammunition and airplanes and, no matter whose factories are hit and whose pocketbooks suffer, this power should be used to the fullest. Not an airplane, not a dime's worth of powder, not a single weapon should be permitted to leave the shores of the United States until the Old World lays down its hates and returns to the peace it enjoyed before a little handful of men started in to grab off all the territory they can get their hands on.

"Mind your own business" is a sensible commandment for individuals to follow but a still better one for nations to adhere to so that the lives and homes of those individuals may be saved.

NO LOTTERIES WANTED

The average citizen may not know it but there is a movement under way in this country which seeks to bring about the formation of a national lottery similar to the one operated by the Cubans and not unlike the "Irish sweepstakes" which annually takes millions of hard-earned American dollars across the sea.

The sponsors of the scheme to have the government enter the gambling business—and a lottery is a gamble if there ever was one—are not the cheap, tin-horn type of sports, as one would suppose. On the other hand some of them are highly-respected citizens. What they expect to gain is not plain, though it is safe to bet that they have a personal axe of some kind to be ground. Their argument is that people are going to gamble anyhow, and that it would be better for Uncle Sam to take their money and use it to advantage than to have foreigners grabbing it off and carrying it away where it will benefit them alone.

It's a poor argument, because two wrongs never made a right. If a certain element insists on squandering its money through games of chance, then setting up still another one would only encourage more people to do so. Then, too, if the government placed its stamp of approval on gambling it would wipe all gambling laws off the statute books and bring about conditions no decent American could tolerate. It is no time to corrupt the people of this country as a whole, and especially its young people, simply because a few people prefer to make fools of themselves.

A beautiful Easter card sent to a friend will be appreciated. The finest line we have ever displayed can be seen at News office.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN The Safety Man

I know some drivers who take extreme care of the condition of their automobiles. The slightest squeak, rattle or noise is carefully investigated even at the expense of time. They might be on a trip and have only the minimum time to complete their appointent, yet they will stop for minutes at a time to correct some insignificant little rattle that does not harm the efficiency of the automobile.

Then, when they have discovered the rattle and have corrected it, they seem to forget all about the rights of others. They have no judgment and apparently lose all control of good driving sense.

A safe driver is never a spectacular driver. He is considerate of the rights of others. He makes sure his car mechanism is properly adjusted, and also makes sure that his mental condition is such that he will appreciate what others expect him to do on the highways.

Nation Meets at Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland

SOUTHERN PALMS wave in the breezes of Lake Erie as Yeomanettes of the Great Lakes Exposition at Cleveland stroll through the 150 acres of the big show that opens, all new and greater, on May 29 to run for 101 days. In the background is the big modernistic Varied Industries Building, which houses the exhibits of the nation's manufacturers and which is a companion building to the 100,000-square-foot Hall of Progress that shows the development of the home through modern science and electricity. A marine theme marks the Exposition, which has as a chief entertainment feature Billy Rose's huge 5,000 seat theater - restaurant, Aquacade, with its company of 500 Lady-Go-Diving girls headed by Eleanor Holm Jarrett, Aquabelle No. 1 of the show. More than 30 foreign nations will be represented in the "Streets of the World" at the Exposition, which will draw more than 5,000,000 visitors from Canada and the United States this summer.

Miss Marjorie Lawson, local teacher, will spend the week-end at Indianapolis with her parents.

Mrs. Hazel Miller, of Auburn, was a Sunday guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Krabill.

The happy Easter season will soon be here. Send your friends an Easter card. See the new assortment at News office.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hodgson, of Syracuse, were Wednesday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Akins, and are visiting friends in the community.

Auburn has lost three of its prominent citizens during the past week. L. D. Robbins, 72, died on Wednesday evening; Chester Hodge, 65, died on Thursday morning and Roy B. Crane, 52, died Saturday night.

Harry Loucks was sick a few days last week and a scarlet fever sign was posted. He is out this week.

Ora Wilmot and wife of near Columbia City, were Sunday guests in the Howard Shilling home.

Roger Morr and family, of Fort Wayne, were Saturday afternoon and evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Morr.

Mrs. Daisy Woodcox suffered another heart attack last week and was taken to the home of her sister, Mrs. Jack Kennedy at Garrett.

Mrs. Beatrice Miller, of near Defiance, Ohio, was a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Iona Woodcox, several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Jump and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie and son, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Curie of Garrett.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Goldsmith were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rauh, of Fort Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Newman and daughter, Kay, of Bluffton.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson are at Mongo, helping care for a niece of Mrs. Wilson's who was injured in an automobile accident near Payne, a few days ago.

Mrs. Jennie Sechler, son, Merritt, and Mrs. Frank Cuire, were at Tocsin, Monday where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Ella Gilliland, a cousin of Mrs. Sechler.

The Henry Goldsmoth farm near Hurshtown was sold recently to Fred Lantz and wife of near Goshen, Ind., and they are now located in their new home. Mrs. Lantz was a daughter of Christ Yoder and she feels that she is getting back home. The farm contains 80 acres.

A quilting bee of fourteen ladies, including Mesdames Winifred Hart, Gladys Hart, Myrtle Baxter, Edith Cole, Anne Sechler, Avis Staman, Mary Sechler, Elnora Blue, Hattie Stone, Clara Foltz, Loretta Hull, Josie Shilling, Lillian Buckingham and Lora Leighty, was held at the home of Grace Dilley last Friday. Besides the quilting, the ladies enjoyed the visit and a very fine dinner prepared by Mrs. Dilley and Mrs. Avis Staman.

GOING BACK

Back when the depression got to going good and farm prices dropped to new low levels quite a few farm boys around St. Joe deserted the old home place and sought a living out in the industrial world. In some instances they were encouraged to do so by their parents, since it meant fewer mouths to feed at a time when farm prices were at rock-bottom. Today, and this is borne out by a recent government survey, there are more farm boys at work on home acres than at any time for a dozen years. There are more attending agricultural schools, too, than ever before, since the future of farming is brighter than ever before. On top of that there's nobody to stage a "sit-down strike" on the farm and throw you out of a job, a popular pastime just now in the industrial plants of the nation. All of which speaks well for the good judgment of the boy who is quitting the factory for his old place on the farm.

NEWSWEEKLY SCRAPBOOK....

Week's Best Recipe

Gingerbread—¼ cup fat; 1 cup sugar; 2 eggs; ½ cup molasses; 2 teaspoons cinnamon; ⅔ teaspoon cloves; ½ teaspoon nutmeg; ¼ teaspoon salt; 1 cup cold water; 2½ cups flour; 1 teaspoon soda; 1 teaspoon baking powder. Cream fat and sugar. Add rest of ingredients. Beat two minutes. Pour into shallow pan lined with waxed paper. Bake 25 minutes in moderate oven.

Kitchen Hints

When boiling ham, salt beef or tongue which is to be served cold, always leave the meat in the liquor until it is cold......Never leave egg whites after they have been beaten stiff. If left to stand, they will flatten and will not beat up again......A discolored vinegar cruet may be cleaned by cutting up a potato and putting small pieces into the cruet. Shake until it is clean.

The Beauty Shop

Digestive disturbances are a common cause for puffiness under the eyes. Try a simple nourishing diet; plenty of outdoor exercise and at least eight hours sleep each night. Hot moist applications, followed by cold will also help reduce the puffiness. Two minutes of heat, two minutes of cold, and repeat. Dip cloth in witch hazel, cover the eyes and lie down to rest for 15 minutes.

In the Sick Room

Don't feel you are doing the sick friend a kindness by taking the children along when you call on her. They are much more apt to make her nervous than to cheer her in her weakened condition. Let the children play outside while you make a short call.

Worth Remembering

Light scorch stains on cotton or silk may often be removed with peroxide of hydrogen. Dampen a cloth with it, lay it over the scorched spot, then put a dry cloth over the dampened one and press this with a warm iron. Do not allow the iron to touch the cloth that is wet with peroxide. Light scorch on wool may be brushed with fine emery paper.

An Inspiration

The stars that shine through darkest night
Tell me of God's majestic might;
A sermon clear the sun conveys.
Dispelling shadows with its rays.
God's silent things of earth and sky
Our man-made eloquence defy.

GARDEN PROFITS

Some people still persist in claiming that it is far cheaper to buy vegetables than it is to raise them yourself. It's not a new argument at all. It started away back about the time canned goods first came out as merchantable products, and it probably will go on forever because there are two sides to it, and that's what it takes to make an argument.

No matter which side you favor, the fact remains that home gardening doesn't lose in popularity from year to year. You'll find just as many gardens around St. Joe this season as usual, and just as great an amount of canned goods sold. Two things in favor of the home garden that must not be overlooked, however, is the difference in freshness between canned and home-grown vegetables, and the benefit that accrues to those who work in the open air, the type of work that gardening provides. Spading and hoeing and raking are the finest forms of exercise. And above it all is the joy of producing something with your own hands. You can't put those kind of things on a dollar-and-cent basis.

If you are accustomed to making garden, then you don't have to be told what it means to have one. If you haven't learned what it means, right now would be a good time to start in doing so. You can at least then settle the argument in your own mind, to say nothing of reaping the benefit that comes from outdoor exercise and enjoying garden truck that is sure to taste better because you produced it yourself.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

The local yards were full of stock yesterday and buying was very active. We had several new buyers in the hog department with only about half enough hogs to go around. A comparison of our prices with surrounding markets will show our demand was above the supply.

Hogs: 170 up $10.00 to $10.10. 150 to 170 $9.00 to $9.10. Roughs, $8.25 to $9.05. Stags $7.00 to $7.25. Boars up to $5.55.

Veals: Top calves $10.50, lights down according to weight and quality.

Cattle: Plain butcher steers $7 to $7.50. One lot showing plenty of fat but of Guernsey breeding $7.90. Heifers with enough coverage to kill but lacking in quality $5.50 to $6.75. Best offering of fat cows $6.05 the next lower going at $4.25 to $5.65. Canners $3.15 to $4.00. Bulls reached a new top of $6.70. Milk cows $32.00 to $77.00 per head.

Sheep: An offering of buck lambs changed hands at $10.50. Breeding ewes sold up to $9.75 per head.

Fire, which was discovered Monday at 9:30 o'clock, completely destroyed the Mettert feed mill on West High Street, Hicksville, with a total loss estimated at $12,000. The fire apparently started in the storage bins where grain and feed valued at $6,000 were stored. Employes said they could not account for the fire since there had been no fire in the office stove when the place was closed for the night. The mill was of the hammer type and one of the first in this section. It had been a prosperous concern for 25 years.

Ezekiel 27: The wealth and glory of Tyrus and the prophesied fall of that ancient city. The chapter concludes thus:

Thy rowers have brought thee into great waters: the east wind hath broken thee in the midst of the seas. Thy riches, and thy fairs, thy merchandise, thy mariners, and thy pilots, thy calkers, and the occupiers of thy merchandise, and all thy men of war, that are in thee, and in all thy company which is in the midst of thee, shall fall into the midst of the seas in the day of thy ruin. The suburbs shall shake at the sound of the cry of thy pilots.

And all that handle the oar, the mariners, and all the pilots of the sea, shall come down from their ships, they shall stand upon the land; and shall cause their voice to be heard against thee, and shall cry bitterly, and shall cast up dust upon their heads, they shall wallow themselves in the ashes: and they shall make themselves utterly bald for thee, and gird them with sackcloth, and they shall weep for thee with bitterness of heart and bitter wailing.

And in their wailing they shall take up a lamentation for thee, and lament over thee, saying, What city is like Tyrus, like the destroyed in the midst of the sea? When thy wares went forth out of the seas, thou filledst many people; thou didst enrich the kings of the earth with the multitude of thy riches and of thy merchandise. In the time when thou shalt be broken by the seas in the depth of the waters thy merchandise and all thy company in the midst of thee shall fall. All the inhabitants of the isles shall be astonished at thee, and their kings shall be sore afraid, they shall be troubled in their countenance. The merchants among the people shall hiss at thee; thou shalt be a terror, and never shalt be any more.

PIONEER DAYS

St. Joe 1879 to 1937

At the Wednesday evening session of the Ladies Literary Club, held at the home of Mrs. J. R. Leighty, north of St. Joe, papers were read by members on "Pioneer Days." Mrs. C. C. Woodcox was assigned the Town of St. Joe, and we are taking the liberty to reproduce it, because of its value as a historical setting of the small St. Joe Valley town. Note the numerous changes as you read the article as compared to today. Young folk will no doubt read this with as much interest as we have.

I came to live in the Town of St. Joe in the year of 1879. There were twenty dwellings and twelve business places: the farm home of Nelson Ulm, where Ray Reasoner resides; the G. W. Woodcox home, the low wing of the Mrs. Jennie Sechler home at present; the house now owned by Lizzie Milliman; the upright part of what is now the G. W. Woodcox home, but then occupied by Ec. VanZile; the Hotel owned and operated by William Leighty; a frame house opposite the Martin Garage, occupied by Jacob Leighty; the house now owned by Roy Reidenbach, then located on the Walter Zonker corner and owned by John Somerlot; a part of the present home of Jesse Loftus and owned by Geo. Bleeks; the present home of Mrs. Burl Rude, then occupied by Alex Leighty; the present home of the Buckinghams, then owned by the Section Boss, Abe McCue; the White Hotel which has been enlarged since, and a residence back of this now occupied by Cecil Shilling, then occupied by Phillip Houck; a small house on the present site of Don Keller's, occupied by Simon Wineland; the John Engle farm home as it is today, just north of the B. & O railroad, and a log house standing between it and the railroad, occupied by the Van Horns, and the farm home owned by John Leighty and occupied by Bennet Leighty.

The business places at that time were the Elevator; Depot which was about 400 feet eastward; a General Store which stood on the vacant lot just west of the G. W. Woodcox home; a combination Grocery and Liquor Store which stood where the Kinsey Funeral Home now stands. Next was a wagon shop where the Lutheran Church now stands operated by Russ George; a Blacksmith Shop where John Hull's Barber Shop is at this time, and a two story building where Schondelmayer's Store is now was a Carpenter Shop below with living rooms above; a saw mill where the coal yard is now located owned by Somerlot, Bleeks and Filley; at the west end of the street stood a Restaurant and Liquor Store operated by Nelson Ulm which stood on the corner lot of the Harry Kees home where the Peony Garden is now located; a saloon called Blue Ruin was located in the middle of the Main Street.

Extended from the pavement an overhead bridge was at the crossing of the B. & O. on the road running north from these places, which furnished much enjoyment in winter as it was a veritable toboggan slide from the top of it to the creek bridge forther north.

During the fall of 1879, J. D. Leighty built a two story brick store where the Leighty block now stands, the upper room was used as a Town Hall for many years and there we heard Theron P. Keater lecture, also the Swiss Bell Ringers gave an interesting entertainment. About this time a church building was erected as a Community Church and later was christened Lutheran and was on the site of the new one since erected.

From 1879 until 1889 many buildings were erected both for business and dwellings. Among the business places we recall the general store which was located where the Joe Martin Garage is now and was built by Mortimor Olds, who also had living rooms built above. This was the birth place of the St. Joe News. Another such building was erected just east of this which was used as a drug store and dwelling by Dr. Mitchell. Mark Barney and Beeks Erick used the store vacated when J. D. Leighty moved to his new brick store for a general store and later sold to Solomon Barney, who erected a farm building where the Curie Hardware Store is now located. Martin Tustison built and operated a Grocery Store where The News office is at present.

A brick school house built on the site of the present school premises took the place of the little wooden structure used for that purpose which stood where the William Hollabaugh home is located and is still used as a wood house and storage by him.

Soon after these came many of the buildings used today for various businesses. Some that came and are gone now, was the lumber yards south and east of the elevator; another sawmill which had replaced the first which burned, and a handle mill which stood on the lot just east of the Jess Loftus home; a creamery which stood opposite the Leslie Meek home and a two story building located on the present site of the City Hall, which housed a Buggy Shop below and a Photograph Gallery above; a Blaskamith Shop which is now part of the residence where Joe Goldsmith lives.

The building in which Reign Schondelmayer has his store was built on the corner of the Jennie Sechler property and was owned and operated by Mel Bishop and Zack Kagey as a Hardware Store. In 1885 the Methodist Church was erected and two years later the Church of Christ.

During the first fifteen years of the life of St. Joe the south part of town on Widney Avenue was an orchard in which many of the town's festivities were held. Such was the beginning and growth of our little Burg which never grew to great proportions but has housed some choice souls.

LOCAL DEALER SPONSORS NEW FARM "TALKIE" SHOW

"Hidden Treasures" — new all-talking sound-on-film farm picture will be shown Saturday evening, April 3, at 8:15 in the Community Gym, under the sponsorship of Levy Coal and Lumber Co., local dealer for the Keystone Steel & Wire Co., Peoria, Illinois, makers of RED BRAND fence, steel posts and other wire products.

The feature picture, "Hidden Treasures" is the absorbing, human story of a young man who believed in the treasure that lies buried in the soil—and who found it. In his success farmers will see the practical, successful soil handling and farming methods that unlock the treasure in any soil. It's said to be an even finer picture than "Tom, Dick and Harry Co.," the last Keystone "talkie" that ran with great success for three years.

Added to this feature will be a trip by motion picture through the modern Keystone steel and wire mills—showing the huge open hearth furnaces that pour forth tons of flaming molten steel, to be cast in ingots, rolled into billets, rods and finally into wire, which is converted into fence, barbed wire, nails, etc. It's a remarkable picture, and decidedly worth seeing.

The evening's entertainment will be completed with a fast-moving "talkie" featuring the "Hoosier Hot Shots"—clowning, singing, playing stars and radio and stage, and an animated cartoon comedy. There are two full hours of high-grade entertainment. Admission is free to farmers, land owners, their families and friends.

FORMER ST. JOE GIRL DIES OF HEART AILMENT

The death of Miss Lyla May Reeder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Reeder, of 403 South Philip St., Auburn, took place at the home of her parents at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, the result of sub-acute bacterial endocarditis, a heart ailment, after an illness since the middle of last October.

The funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Auburn First M. E. Church, with Dr. Manfred C. Wright officiating and burial was made in Roselawn Cemetery.

Miss Reeder had been in a serious condition for several months. She was a patient two weeks in Souders' Hospital and on March 18 she was brought home from the Robert H. Long Hospital at Indianapolis where she had been under observation and treatment 3 weeks. It was thought at the time she might not survive the trip to the hospital.

Miss Reeder was born at St. Joe twenty-three years ago on August 23rd. She attended the public schools in Auburn and graduated with the class of 1932.

Surviving are the parents, one brother, George at home and three sisters, Carrie and Lois at home and Mrs. LeRoy Smart, living at Garnett, Kansas. Miss Reeder was the fiancee of Harry Mitchell of Auburn Junction.

The deceased was a member of the First M. E. Church, Auburn.

LEGION POST BANNER CELEBRATION

Walter Whitehurst Post 283 American Legion held Dedication ceremonies for their new Post banner Tuesday evening. Presentation address by Commander Scholes. Response by Adjutant Kees, prayer by Chaplain Hull, after which the Post Banner was advanced by Sergeant at Arms Bassett.

After the ceremonies an interesting talk was given by Commander H. J. Jordan of Garrett post 78 and entertainment furnished by the Garrett Post consisting of a string duet and slight of hand tricks by one who is master of the art. The Post was presented with a framed picture of Walter Whitehurst, for whom the Post was named, by Comrade Dean Bechtol. This picture is greatly appreciated by members of the Post.

Lunch was served by Comrades John Crothers, Paul Perry and Charles Bassett.

FLOOD REFUGEE WRITES ST. JOE LADY

Cast your bread upon the water and it shall not return unto thee void, has again been proven a true saying. At the time of the flood disaster, Mrs. Pluma Hamilton gave a lady's coat to the Legion, thinking that someone would be in need. When she wrapped the coat, she put her name and address on a slip of paper and pinned it in the sleeve, and last week she heard from the lady who received it.

The letter follows:

Brookport, Ills.
March 15, 1937.

Dear Mrs. Hamilton:

"I heceived the coat from you and you don't know how proud I was to receive it, as the water was 5 feet deep in our home and we lost verything we had except what we had on.

"I am a Colord woman, the Mother of four boys, their ages are 12, 10, 8 and 6 years. My husband is a W. P. A. worker. The water was higher in our town than I ever knew it to be and I hope it never will be that high any more.

"You can imagine how much I appreciated the coat. The Red Cross was so nice to us, it furnished us food and clothing, too, and as soon as my husband has a pay day I am going to join it because I sure do think it is a fine thing. And I ask the Lord to Bless you every night for your kindness to me. Maybe some day I can repay your kindness, if so I will be more than glad to do so." From

Mrs. Effie T. Howell,
R. R. 1. Brookport, Ill.

The average man may not feel any better after he is past 50 but he's too good a sport to admit it.

Wonder why nobody has thot to get rich by inventing cushions for the sit-down strikers?

There wasn't so much of a shortage of farm help in the old days when a farmer raised his own.

This day and time the aim of the average American seems to be to hug delusions, embrace opportunities and squeeze pretty girls.

It is now estimated there are 2,000,000 political jobholders in the United States. And the toughest job for the rest of us is to support them.

Prosperity is now menaced by two new foes—standing taxation and sit-down strikes.

Even though she refuses him, a girl always admires the good judgment of the man who proposes to her.

The boss of the family is the one who tells the others to do something and then goes and does it himself so it will be done right.

Maybe the reason your wife does more for the neighbors than she does for you is because the neighbors occasionally brag on her.

Some of us around St. Joe can remember away back when we thought that when business picked up everybody would be contented and happy,

A woman always feels better after a good cry. She not only gets some things out of her own system, but other things out of her husband.

One thing must be admitted regarding the discussion as to what, if anything, should be done about recasting the Supreme Court: everybody is having his say, ranging from experts on both sides, down to those who do not have a very clear idea what it is all about. All of which reminds one of the old colored man who, when asked whether the frog was an amphibious animal, replied: 'Deed he is, Mr. Smith. Awful amphibious.

The situation has not progressed beyond the point of general discussion, airing of views and offering suggestions. The President's stand is well known. Boiled down to a few words it is. More justices, and do it now. A more moderate course, tending in the same direction, is put forward by those who hold that, although changes may be desirable, constitutional amendment is what is required. The latest plan to be put forward is an eighteen year term of service, terminated in any event when the age of seventy years is reached.

Mr. Justice McReynolds, whether speaking for himself or for the entire court is not known, has broken the silence that the court has maintained heretofore regarding its own destiny and functions. His attitude perhaps is included in the statement that the Supreme Court is the balance wheel of the national timepiece, and that it is well to be reasonably sure of consequences before adopting any radical change, in courts or anything else.

Finally there are the extreme views on both sides. Upon the one hand, it is fundamentally wrong to leave the affairs of the land in the hands of a group of old men in their dotage: or if that statement does not fit in with one's ideas, there is the assurance that it is bad business to substitute exuberance for wisdom. In any event, a good fight is on, and those who like excitement are getting plenty of it.

High above the noise of battle comes a bugle blast from the Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, who is quoted as saying that what the country needs is higher taxes and more of them. Members of Congress who have spoken on the subject seem to think that a tax increase is something about which it is well to go slowly and do some careful thinking in advance. The court issue will be forgotten after a little, regardless of what may be done about it, but a tax boost sticks a long while in the public mind and is brought to the front every time that a collection is made. It is well that Congress do some thinking in advance and thereby make it unnecessary for the taxpayer to have the last, best and after all the most potent think.

Wearied perhaps by the tumult over sit-down strikes, court changes, taxes, labor union differences and American plans for ridding Germany of Mr. Hitler, Richmond P. Hobson retired permanently from all the affairs of this world a few days ago. No one remembers when Paul Revere took his celebrated horseback ride. There are but few who cheered when the Yankees returned in a hurry from Bull Run or when General Grant closed the war account with Appomatox, but there are millions who recall the day when Mr. Hobson's name appeared for the first time in big letters in papers. His claim to fame rests chiefly on the fact that, without regard as to what might happen to him, he tried to sink a hulk, during the Spanish-American War, in such position that the enemy would be made decidedly uncomfortable. Hobson did not accomplish what he set out to do. It is to the lasting credit of an all too forgetful public that he kept his renown for forty years. A less keen appreciation of real merit and bravery would have sent him to the limbo of oblivion, with the recommendation that he be court martialed because he failed to deliver the goods.

COSTLY HUNTING

Sportsmen of the U. S. spent a total of $10,000,000 last year for hunting licenses and federal migratory bird hunting stamps. So now the editors of outdoor magazines are contending that they got very little for their money since it was an unusually poor hunting year. These editors say, and many hunters around St. Joe and Spencerville will agree with them, that with such a large revenue pouring in all states should be devoting more attention to game propagation laws and protectinn of game during the winter months. Even a greater sum is spent by the fisherman of the country, and yet the pollution of streams continues on a larger scale today than ever before. There is little wonder that the hunters and fishermen of America are raising their voices in protest against stronger fish and game propagation and conservation laws, and against a still more noticeable failure to enforce the laws we already have.

THE LATEST FAKE

What appears to be the newest house-to-house fake is reported in a neighboring paper, and while there are no reports of the promoters having operated in this section it would be well for our local housewives to be on their guard. As the scheme is worked, a man makes a door-to-door canvas, carrying a cake of fine toilet soap. He explains that a truckload of it was accidentally overturned near town and some of the cases damaged, though the soap was uninjured. Rather than go on to his destination and take chances of having the shipment refused he will sacrifice it at a ridiculous price—in case lots. He takes the order, returns later with the soap and collects. Later on the purchaser opens the case to find a cheap product far different than the sample she was shown. But by that time the man is miles away, and probably smiling to think how truthfully old Barnum was when he declared that "there's a sucker born every minute."

DON'T BURY MONEY

There's a lot of money buried in this country every year through the planting of worthless farm and garden seed. Quite a lot of it goes into the soil of this community, too. Local seed dealers exert every effort to prevent this kind of waste, and yet they are powerless to do so so long as there are people willing to take a chance on any kind of seed so long as they are "cheap." Dealers who sell seed here do not experiment with unknown qualities but handle tested products from seedsmen who long ago established a reputation for honest goods. That alone is worth much when it comes to buying seed. The fact that you are getting a reputable brand and tested quality lessens your chances of wasting not only your money but the time you spend in cultivation. Planting time is just around the corner, so make up your mind now that this year you will not be guilty of burying your money through planting a doubtful quality of seed.

MARCH

TO DSCUSS LIBRARY AT NEXT P. T. A. SESSION

The March meeting of Concord Township Parent Teachers Association was held in the gymnasium Tuedsay evening, March 16. The meeting was opened by a newly organized Junior High School Band, directed by C. A. Woodcox. This was the first public appearance of the band, and while some of the members have only been in training a few weeks, they played several numbers in a very credible manner, which speaks well for the future of the organization. Mr. Woodcox hopes to have uniforms for the band in the near future, and is asking the co-operation of all interested in the welfare of the community and the band in the furthering of this objective.

During the business session of the P. T. A., it was decided to assist in any way possible, and plans will be announced later. After the music by the band, Priscilla Simanton took charge of the program which was opened by a song led by Mr. Woodcox, with Mrs. Cleoeta Crick at the piano. Harry Hursh led the devotions.

Mrs. Mildred Curie, P. T A. chairman, had charge of the business session. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, also a report from the last executive meeting was read, which included the names of a nominating committee, and a chairman for a rules and by-laws committee. Matters brought before the association for consideration and discussion were: the feasibility of holding a pre-school child medical clinic, the sending of a delegate to the state P. T. A. convention and plans whereby the association might best assist in the securing of uniforms for the band.

Two very interesting short plays were given under direction of Miss Eloise Bowman, head of the Dramatic Arts Classes of the high school. The first play "Uncle Bob's Bride" was directed by Miss Ersa Reidenbach, the second, "Yes, Lucy" was directed by Miss Louise Sechler. Both plays were well given and reflect much credit on those in charge.

After the program an enjoyable half hour of recreation was conducted by Mrs. Grace Dilley. The sewing class had a nice display of their handiwork in the gymnasium, and after dismissal a few minutes were spent by parents and patrons in inspecting the dresses and blouses made by the girls. Miss Marjorie Lawson is head of the department, and she as well as the girls, is to be congratulated on the very fine work done.

April bringing the close of school with its usual activities necessitates the changing of the date from the third Tuesday to an earlier date. For some time the Ladies Literary Club, headed by a committee in charge of Mrs. J. R. Goldsmith, has been working on plans to secure a library for St. Joe and community, a speaker has been secured by this group and plans will be presented at the next P. T. A. meeting. In order to secure a library it is necessary that a very small tax be levied, and while this cannot be done at once, it is the wish of the committee that the taxpayers of Concord Township be well represented at this meeting, in order that intelligent action may be taken later.

The physical education classes under direction of Priscilla Simanton will give demonstrations of their skill in acrobatics. This was a much enjoyed feature of the P. T. A. program two years ago.

Mr. Wilbern will present his typing class in a skill and speed demonstration, and tentative plans are under way for a style show directed by Miss Lawson.

THRILLS! CHILLS! SPILLS! DONKEYS COMING TO TOWN LIVE DONKEYS

Local fans will be given a rare treat next Tuesday evening, March 30, when Ralph Miller brings his Basketball Donkeys to perform in the Tiger gym.

Each donkey will be mounted and plans are under way now to organize two invincible teams from Spencerville and St. Joe to provide the feature bill of the evening.

DuWayne Kinsey will head the local "mounties" while E. Paschen will captain the Spencerville riders.

The following local "stars" will probably see action: "Mose" Yeiser, DuWayne Kinsey, Ed. Storer, J. R. Goldsmith, Roy Wade, and others.

If you have never witnessed this unusual sports spectacle you are in for a rare treat. It offers one hour and a half of the most side-splitting laughter you have ever suffered. This will be your last and only opportunity to see this show this year as the donkeys are closing their basketball season on the local floor.

The admission price will be only 25 to adults 15 to school children. Come early and get a good seat. Preliminary at 7:30.

Notice: Republicans as well as Democrats are cordially invited. School officials wish to make it clear that they are not discriminating against the Republicans by using the significant Democratic donkey but elephants simply were not available.

ACCOMPANYING CLIPPING FROM ASHLEY - HUDSON TIMES REGARDING ANGOLA SECTIONAL-ALL-TOURNEY -TEAM

All-Sectional Team

One of the hardest tasks to pick an all-star team. To me there was no outstanding center as we had in last year's meet to compare with Steward of Spencerville, Williams of Auburn, Bishop of Garrett, Mote of Angola, and Wilhelm of Ashley.

There were some very good forwards this year, Storer and Monroe of St. Joe, Kistler of Garrett, Eddington of Waterloo, Kepler of Butler, Erick of Spencerville and Bobby Forrest.

The three best centers were D. Smith of Waterloo, Carr of Auburn and Porter of Garrett.

Now for guards, Curie of St. Joe was easily the outstanding guard. A tall boy, good on defense and he can really hit those baskets. Childers and Franklin of Garrett, R. Smith of Waterloo, Craven of Auburn, Hook of Spencerville, and although he only played in one game, Don Strite, of Ashley, he held Painter scoreless and was a tower on defense.

Now for my choice. I am taking or picking eight men. They are: Forwards, Monroe of St. Joe; Kistler of Garrett; Eddington of Waterloo; Centers, D. Smith of Waterloo and Carr of Auburn; Guards, Curie of St. Joe, Franklin and Childers of Garrett. The most sensational player, Bobby Forrest. For mental attitude, Hook of Spencerville, this boy was fast, fought hard, if he was fouled he smiled, if he made a foul he smiled, and he was not at all nervous when he stepped up and shot the free throw which beat Butler.

The officials, Eskin, Johnson, and Nuff done a very good job of refereeing. It is true they made a few mistakes, but they were fair in their decisions and no one has a right to say their team was robbed.—A Voice From the Bleacher.

BASKET BALL

The St. Joe Pickles will play their last game of the season on Saturday night at the local gymnasium against the Markle Boosters. Markle defeated the Pickles once and the Pickles defeated them once, so this is to be a play off. For those fans who want to hear the reports on the State Tournament, a radio will be installed.

A real game is promised for those who attend.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

The Girl Scouts met at their regular meeting Monday, March 22, at Mrs. Goldsmith's home.

Those who took Nature Study were given their examinations by Miss Violet May.

Miss Marjorie Lawson was also with us for the first time since being elected Lieutenant Leader for the Girl Scouts.

Mrs. Goldsmith read another chapter from the book "The Song of the Cardinal."

Nearly all the tenderfoot girls have finished their tenderfoot requirements and are ready to be vested.

Ruth Keesler, Scribe.

FROM ABOUT ST. JOE

Earl Coburn and son, Victor, made a business trip to Indianapolis, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Rosenberry, of Moores, spent Sunday evening with Mrs. Viena Rude and family.

J. R. Shilling is some better today, having suffered a severe influenza attack. He believes with the coming of spring he will again be out and at it.

Floyd Reasoner and family, of Fort Wayne, were Sunday guests in the Ray Reasoner home. Miss Dorothy Ann will remain until on Thursday evening with her grandparents.

Mrs. Chas. Freeburn, who has been staying with her daughter at Woodburn, was taken to the Lutheran Hospital Monday noon in the Kinsey ambulance, and operated on immediately. Sinus complication was the trouble.

Mrs. Lizzie Milliman entertained a few friends to a bunco party and potluck supper Saturday evening. Those present were: Mrs. Chas. Woodcox, Mrs. Curtis Hursey, Mrs. Wm. Keeler, Mrs. Ed Storer, Mrs. Vessie Martin, Mrs. Vienna Rude and daughter, Mary Ellen, Jacqueline Shuff and the hostess.

An increase of approximately ninety thousand barrels in Indiana's oil production during 1936 and prospects for a still larger increase in 1937 was reported today by Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation. The report, based on information compiled by the Division of Geology from figures by pipe-line operators and individual producers, showed a total oil production of 864,000 barrels during the past year. In 1935 the state's oil production was estimated as 778,000 barrels.

The closed season for the taking of mussels from Indiana waters (with the exception of the Wabash River between LaFayette and the Indiana-Illinois state line) begins at midnight, Wednesday, March 31. Mussels may be taken in the Wabash River, between LaFayette and the Indiana-Illinois state line, at any time. The closed season will continue until Thursday, July 1, when the taking of mussels from Indiana waters becomes legal again. The taking of mussels for the shell which is made into buttons, is an important industry along many Indiana streams.

Dr. B. O. Shook, administrator of the Wm. B. Lucas will, has been authorized in the DeKalb circuit court to sell part of lot 7 in Spencerville. The property was appraised by Clyde G. Rectenwall and J. S. Hollabaugh at $110 and Dr. Shook filed $400 additional bond, with Mr. Rectenwall and Wm. G. Erick as sureties.

Winter really showed its teeth Saturday in its last struggle for existence. Spring announced her arrival officially Sunday with a most beautiful sunshiny day. The birds expressed their welcome to the sun by singing happily all day. Crocus bulbs are peeping through the ground and all in all we are off with a bang for an early spring planting.

New Chevrolet cars in the community will be found at the Merritt Sechler and Sam Wyatt homes, town sedans. Chas. Bleeks of north of Concord has a sport sedan and Mr. Jones of the I. & M. electric gang working out of here has purchased one also. He lives at Benton Harbor, Mich. The sales were all made through Maxton Motors of Butler, and by Russell Orwiler, salesman in this territory.

Senator Henry Styles Bridges

Announcement that Henry Styles Bridges, United States Senator from New Hampshire and former Governor of that state, will address Indiana Republicans April 10 in a mass meeting at Indianapolis sponsored by the Indiana Republican Editorial Association has been made by Paul R. Bausman, acting president of the state G. O. P. editors' organization.

Paul Carpenter and wife drove to South Bend Sunday, as guests of Mrs. Harvey Hull, who is teaching there. Mrs. Carpenter remained for the week while Calvin returned to St. Joe for the week's vacation. Harvey went up on Saturday and returned Sunday.

By the provisions of a law passed by the recent general assembly, DeKalb county will pay its county recorder approximately $2,000 a year, as compared with $1,280 at the present time. The new statute stipulates that recorders receive 20 per cent of fees they collect, provided the total of salary and fees does not exceed $6,000 a year. The fees in DeKalb county in 1936 aggrgated about $3,600 and 20% of that sum is $720.

FIREMEN ENTERTAINED

On Monday night the Ladies Auxiliary of the local Fire Department entertained the Firemen at the Town Hall after the regular meeting of the men.

The evening was spent playing progressive euchre and bunco.

After the games the ladies served a deilcious lunch with hot coffee.

The Fire Chief, Roy Wade, gave a short talk expressing his appreciation for the pleasure of the evening and the co-operation of the Auxiliary. The men then gave a rising vote of thanks to the ladies and there were many expressions of hope for more social evenings.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

Mark Williams says he has noticed that people seldom credit a man's virtue so long as he has a single vice.

"No wise man ever questions a child in public," declares Leslie Wilbern, "unless he is sure of the answer."

When you see a man in his second childhood cutting up it's almost sure to be over some woman.

As Allen Haller sees it, about half of the people in the world are unhappy because they can't afford the things that make the other half miserable.

A girl may not care anything about politics but she is always sure to be interested in some good party man.

Elgin Curie says the reason so many radio jokes are feeble is because they have been working for years.

"A lot of men who plunge into the sea of matrimony," declares Allen Coburn, "have a hard time keeping their heads above water."

It's surprising the vast amount of nothing some people can accomplish.

"ELECTRIC COOKERY is SO CLEAN ... I could cook in white kid gloves"

MAYBE you think this sounds silly, but actually the lady could cook in white gloves if she wished to do so. There is no grime, no soot and no flaming fuel to blacken pots with modern Electric Cookery. Not only the housewife herself, but her house as well, are forever freed from the old time smudge-like film that flame cooking deposits on walls and furnishings.

Cook Electrically ... learn the joy of being well groomed and a perfect cook at one and the same time. We have a selection of ranges from which you may choose the model that best fits your needs.

Safetygrams
BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

After spending half the night celebrating a birthday party, two young men left in separate cars for home. They drove different routes but as they lived in the same neighborhood, they eventually had to cross their route somewhere. It so happened that while driving at a reckless rate of speed, they collided at one of the intersections. Both of them got out and were about to engage in a heated argument about driving while drunk when suddenly they recognized one another.

This driving while under the influence of liquor is a subject that comes up frequently in safety discussions and to me there is only one sound piece of advice to eliminate this type of accident. Here it is:

If you must drink, don't drive. If you must drive, don't drink.

Mrs. Jessie Fusselman and Miss Joyce Fusselman attended the funeral of Charles Webster, at his home near the Henry Bridge, last Thursday.

At the Cemetery board election Saturday, the former officers were re-elected. Olen Loomis submitted the only bid as sexton, and was hired for one year.

The downpour of rain Saturday smeared a coating of red mud on porches, walks, and automobiles parked out of doors. The red coating resembled brick dust.

Mr. and Mrs. Iro Morehart, daughter, Lois and son, Ray, of Hicksville, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Smith of this place, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Smith at Mongo. They also helped La-Von Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Smith, celebrate his sixth birthday.

HOME BUREAU

On Frday afternoon, March 19, the Concord Township Home Bureau met at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Pugsley. The meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mrs. Laura Washler. Songs were led by Mrs. Borthwick. Secretary's report was read and accepted and 15 members responded to roll call. Bible talks were given by Mrs. Vada Wyatt and Mrs. Iva Yeiser, which were very interesting and well given. Two biblical contests were given by Mrs. Thorpe which were very interesting and enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Millie Shull the project leader gave a very interesting report on health and gardens. All club members are asked to make a donation to the Red Cross consisting of clean rags, children's and babies clothing, to be sent or taken to Mrs. Millie Shull. The committee served a dainty lunch of deviled eggs, pumpkin pie, sandwiches and tea. The club will meet with Mrs. Mary Krise April sixteenth. Reporter.

L. L. C. SPONSORING A LIBRARY PROJECT

For some time members of the Ladies Literary Club have been working on ways and means by "How may we finance such a probrary. Each time this project has been started, the end would be, "How may w finance such a project?"

This year a committee has been investigating and through the efforts of Mrs J. R. Goldsmith, chairman of this committee, Miss Hazel Warren from the State Library will try and answer the question on "How St. Joe may have a Library."

Since the date set by Miss Warren came on the same evening the Farm Burau meets, the President, Mr. Fred Hart, kindly gave Miss Warren a place on their program and as this should be of interest to every person in the community let us all make an effort to go. The Farm Bureau also has a very interesting program.

CONSERVATION WEEK PROGRAMS PLANNED

Scores of conservation clubs will sponsor special programs during the observance of National Conservation Week, April 4-10, Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, announced today. This is the third year that Indiana's conservation clubs have participated in the national program.

Activities during the week are designed to call attention to the importance of conserving natural resources and the many-sided program which the 643 Indiana clubs have undertaken in cooperation with the Department of Conservation. Few states have as extensive or as active conservation club and program as Indiana with the result that both the club organization and the program have served as models for other states. The St. Joe club is one of the first organizations formed in Indiana. Mr. Tom Abel was its first president.

REV. CADLE RELINQUISHES SHRINE AUDITORIUM

When the Rev. E. Howard Cadle of the People's Church, Inc., of Indianapolis, defaulted on a second extension granted him by the court on his $70,000 bid for purchase of the Shrine Auditorium at Fort Wayne, it was sold for the second time Saturday to the Kaplan Realty Co. of Fort Wayne for $52,500 cash. Judge Muller ordered the $2,500 earnest money deposit of the Rev. Mr. Cadle forfeited. Mr. Kaplan stated that he plans to continue to operate the beautiful auditorium for rentals of all tyes, including conventions and exhibits, and will also present in it the best of road shows available. Frank A. Biemer, veteran Fort Wayne theatrical manager, will continue as manager of the auditorium for the present.

CARS COLLIDE AT REHOBOTH CHURCH

Mrs. Rosa Widdifield of Spencerville, is a patient in the Dr. J. A. Sanders Hospital in Auburn with severe bruises about one of her eyes and her son, Clarence Widdifield was bruised in an automobile accident near the Rehoboth Church, five miles west of St. Joe, Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Arthur Friend, residing near Rehoboth Church, had her left wrist broken and her daughter, Marcile, aged 13, suffered a broken collar bone. Three other children, Mildred, Evelyn and Donald Friend were severely shaken up and the 1-year-old baby, Ruth Ann, has had bruises as the result of the accident.

The crash occurred at the intersection at the church as Mrs. Friend was driving to Auburn. Mrs. Friend was operating a new DeSoto car and Mr. Widdifield was driving a Ford V-8 car. Mr. Widdifield, his mother, and his wife were in the automobile.

The DeSoto car was turned completely around, the front end being considerably damaged. The Ford V-88 went over an embankment, but remained upright. The front of the Ford was damaged.

CALL MEETING

All Alumni members of the St. Joe High School are requested to be present at a meeting which will be held at Kinsey's Hdwe., Friday evening, April 2, at 7 P. M.

WIFE WANTS SUPPORT

Wilbur McCann was cited Saturday to appear in the DeKalb circuit court April 5 to show why he should not be punished for failure to meet an order to pay $2.75 a week for the support of his three children. The comlaint against him was made by his former wife, Olive McCann, who says he is $81 in arrears.

Hidden Treasures
Drama so real, so human, so absorbing that it will linger in your mind for weeks. It's the story of a young man who believed there was a fortune in the soil....and found it! His own father opposed his modern farming ideas. The father of the girl he loved told him to make good first. How he brought the old farm back to fertility and profit....how he convinced his father....and won his bride....makes an interesting story for everyone who seeks the treasure in his soil. It's clean....wholesome....warm....amusing.

Steel
An amazing trip through the giant mills where steel is made and formed into wire. See great open hearth furnaces gobble up 145 tons of scrap and pig iron .. and pour it forth in a flaming molten stream. See 5,000 pound white-hot ingots of steel rolled and formed into billets .. into rods, and finally into wire for fence, barbed wire, nails, staples and other products.

Hoosier Hot ShotS
Those clowning, singing, fast-playing stars of Radio that you've been hearing and enjoying on the Keystone Barn Dance parties .. funnier, peppier than ever in this brand new "talkie." See them! Hear them!

Animated Cartoon Comedy
A rollicking comedy to delight the children and bring laughs to everyone.

FREE ADMISSION to farmers, land owners, their families and friends. Children must be accompanied by adults.

When a man says the answer to an argument is as clear as mud he means that it covers the ground.

Some couples get married in a hurry bcause each one is afraid the other will change their mind.

Women in the U. S. spent $200,000,000 last year for permanent waves—which would be all right if they were really permanent.

No St. Joe boy should tell his sweetheart that he is not good enough for her. After the honeymoon she'll find it out anynow.

One can't help sigh for the days when the average St. Joe boy wanted only a bag of peanuts which brought only indigestion instead of a few gallons of gasoline which bring repair bills.

You can usually judge the weakness of a man's argument by the number of times he drags in the word "scientific."

People around St. Joe who are easily shocked seem to have an unfailing instinct for locating the things that shock them.

Most bachelors declare marriage is a cure for love-sickness, but they insist that the remedy is worse than the disease.

How many St. Joe citizens can remember when another sure sign of spring was Mother dosing out sulphur and molasses.

Our idea of an optimist is the fellow in an old Model T who thinks the toot of his little horn will cause a big truck to move over.

What has become of the old-fashioned doctor who asked you to stick out your tongue before he asked you to take out your pocket-book?

You seldom heard anyone around St. Joe complaining of indigestion in those days when there was more bending over a washtub and a bucksaw.

A survey shows the American people bought five million Bibles last year. Now if some way could be found to get them to read them all would be well.

A RECORD ECLIPSE

At noon on June 8 far out in the Pacific ocean, 1500 miles from any land, the moon will completely cover the sun for a maximum duration of 7 minutes and 4 seconds. Extending 5,000 miles across the ocean, it will be the longest eclipse visible from the earth in the past 1200 years. It will not be visible here, however, nor will anyone be able to see it from any other section of the U. S. In fact, there are only two places from which this eclipse may be observed. These are located in the Phoenix Islands, about 1800 miles southwest of Hawaii, and from a point about 3,000 miles northeast of Australia. But long before June 8 astronomers and scientists from America will be on their way to those points, equipped to make minute observations of the unusual event. For those of us who can't make the trip the movie camera will have to serve. And if all the claims being made for this eclipse are true, it will be a picture worth waiting for.

WE'RE LIVING LONGER

If there is any one thing St. Joe people want to do more than anything else it is to live to a ripe old age. That is why everyone will be interested in a report from the Census Department to the effect that the age of American citizens is gradually being increased. Back in 1920, for instance, 57.6 per cent of the nation's population was 21 years of age or older, while in 1935 it had jumped to 61.5.%

Then, too, the number of persons 70 years of age or over has been increasing at a rate twice as fast as our population increase. That means more people per 1,000 now reach the age of 70 than at any time in the past. Most local citizens can recall when a man was considered "old" when he reached the fifty mark. Today the 50-year-old man is considered still within the prime of life.

Just what this extension of life is due to is a matter for debate. Whether it is the result of more skilled medical service, or more careful attention to body-care or with greater attention to diet and exercise, it is not possible to say. Perhaps it is the result of all these things put together. At any rate, it's the sort of news every paper loves to print and every reader loves to read—news to the effect that the average age of the American people is being extended at a slow but certain pace.

CURBING GOSSIPERS

If there is any one particular thing that St. Joe could get along better without it's gossipers. Not that we have any more of them than are to be found in the average community, for there probably are as few here as can be found in any town of a similar size. But so long as there is a single gossip in the neighborhood, and a single citizen willing to lend a listening ear, then just that long will a menace exist.

It has been a good many years since the old Pilgrim fathers maintained their old "ducking stools" for gossipers, but the need for sucn method of punishment does not seem to have disappeared with them. They abolished the "ducking stool" but they did not abolish gossip, and today it exists to the detriment and happiness of practically every commuity, regardless of its size or the earnestness of its citizens to so live that they will not be made a target of gossipers. And therein lies the greatest danger—one doesn't have to really be guilty of something wrong to become the target of this type of humans.

Since it is impossible to stamp out this detestable habit by law—and gossiing is a habit of the very worst form—then the cure would seem to be for everyone to sit down hard on the man or woman of loose tongue. Turning a deaf ear will prove effective, but coming out flat-footed and declaring "I don't believe it" will do far more to discouraging the character assassin than anything else. There wouldn't be much gossip if the gossipers couldn't get anyone to listen to them. There would soon be no gossip at all if pepole would openly denounce the gossiper and then refuse to pass the gossip along.

NEWSWEEKLY SCRAPBOOK....

Week's Best Recipe

City Chicken—Cut two pounds of pork tenderloin and 2 pounds of veal steak in pieces one and one-half inch square. Season with salt and pepper. Place alternate pieces of veal and pork on skewers until six pieces are used. Roll each in cracker crumbs, dip in beaten egg and roll again in crumbs. Brown on all sides in hot fat in a frying pan then add two cups of milk, cover and bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.) for about two hours or until tender. Serves eight people.

Fashion Forecast

Hat brims this spring will seldom be straight or flat. They are never large for day or street wear. A nice street hat will be a tiny sailor of straw with narrow brim that turns up jauntily in back or at one side. The crowns will be flattened and look somewhat like a small saucepan turned upside down on the head. Stiff, long quills of feathers trim these plainer hats while flowers run riot over the dressier models.

In The Kitchen

A clean coffee pot is the first essential for successful coffee-making. Whether you cling to the old-fashioned coffee pot or prepare your coffee by the percolation or drip method, the container must be spotless or stale odors will overpower the fragrant brew it contains.

Garden Gossip

Slow germinating and tender seeds can best be started indoors in a seed box, and later transplanted to a cold frame or another box ....If some of the uncommon vegetables do not suggest uses to you, look in your cook book for excellent recipes.....Some of the hardy annuals can be seeded on frosted ground and will start to grow earlier....Your list of annuals should be made up as soon as possible now—try a few new ones this year.

A Housecleaning Hint

To clean badly soiled wood use a mixture consisting of one quart of hot water, three tablespoons of boiled linseed oil, and one tablespoon of turpentine. Warm this mixture and use while warm.

An Inspiration

We grow like what we think; so let us always think of the good, the true and the beautiful.

LOCAL JUNIOR CLASS PRESENTS PLAY

The Junior Class of the local High School will present their class play this evening (Thursday,) at the Community Gymnasium. The play has been sheduled to begin at 8 o'clock. The play, a comedy, is entitled, "The Chintz Cottage." Miss Virginia Poper, a Junior, will sing a number of solos. The admission will be 15c and 20c. The cast is as follows:

Minty, a girl who wants peace and quiet, Eloise Coburn.

Fanny, an English maid, Garnet Washler.

Miss Tellington, a bossy aunt, Iris Wilmot.

Mr. Kent, an absent minded neighbor, Dean Kees.

Grace, his daughter, Alta Inlow.

Peter, his son who wants to be a poet, Harold Baker.

Mrs. Dean, Mr. Kent's housekeeper, Pauline Donley.

EMPLOYEES' SECURITY PAYMENTS ELIMINATED

The recently enacted amendments to the unemployment compensation law of Indiana go into effect today, relieving 553,000 covered workers from making contributions to the unemployment trust fund. Legislation enacted by the state just one year ago, in March, 1936, required that equal contributions from both employers and employees should begin with January 1, 1937, but under the new amendments employees' contributions have been eliminated.

These facts were brought out in a statement by H. L. McCarthy, regional director of the Social Security Board, in reviewing the benefits to Indiana for its compliance with the provisions in all of the ten catogories in the Federal Social Security Act.

"Since Federal funds became available under the Act, Indiana has taken steps for full participation in all provisions and is now receiving Federal Co-operation and financial assistance," declared Mr. McCarthy. "By meeting these provisions the state is enabled to take advantage of grants afforded by the Federal Government in helping its needy aged, blind, and dependent children. It is also assisted financially in the better care of maternal and child health, child welfare, public health, vocational rehabilitation and services for crippled children.

"The purpose of the unemployment compensation law is to set aside funds to be used as income during periods of unemployment for workers previously employed in any of the occupations not excluded by the provisions of the Social Security Act. Contributions are made by employers of eight persons or more and these funds are set aside in an unemployment trust fund for the purpose of establishing incomes for unemloyed workers.

"The Social Security Act provides that benefit payments must nct start until two years after the state law is approved. This is for the purpose of creating an accumulated fund as a reserve. Payments to Indiana workers will begin in April, 1938."

Mr. McCarthy also announced that to date the state of Indiana has received more than $250,000 in Federal grants solely for the administration of the state's unemployment compensation law.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

REQUIRE SPECIAL FORMS AS PERFORMANCE EVIDENCE IN SOIL-SAVING PROGRAM

DeKalb County farmers planning to participate in the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program should call upon the County Agricultural Conservation Committee at their earliest convenience, requesting special forms to be used in establishing proof of performance upon those practices the evidence of which is not visible at the time of checking performance and also to be used as evidence if adapted red clover and alfalfa seed were sown this spring, Ralph Bartles, chairman, anonunced today.

In order that the county committee may have the proper evidence and information, when checking performance next fall which will involve the classification of land and 1937 soil-building practices for payment, the use of documentary evidence is necessary, Mr. Bartles states. It is needed especially with regard to the practices, the evidence of which is not visible, such as application of phoshate, lime and failed new seedings.

If the use of red clover or alfalfa seed is involved in a soil-building payment under the 1937 program, it will be necessary to establish documentary evidence of the adaptability and origin of the seed, even though a good stand of such a crop is in evidence at the time performance is determined, according to Mr. Bartles. The form requires such information as: variety of seed, from whom purcheased, date of purchase, origin of seed and statement of person or firm from whom the seed was purchased as to its origin.

Further information regarding the two forms as well as to other phases of the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program may be obtained from members of the County Agricultural Conservation Committee. The forms may also be obtained at the office located in the Court House at Auburn.

Four members of the DeKalb County Sheep Committee met Wednesday evening in the County Agent's office with Henry Mayo, Extension Sheepman from Purdue University and formulated a program for the year. On or about May first a lamb club tour will be held. Several farms will be visited. On one farm a dipping demonstration will be given. Mr. Mayo will be on the tour and will give pasture and feed recommendations.

On July 1, another tour will be held and a grading demonstration given, at which times lambs will be selected for the Fat Lamb Show to be held on July 15, at Fort Wayne.

A Fall tour will be held about the middle of August at which time a demonstration on control of internal parasites will be given as well as a sheep judging school.

Fish and Game Club Information

Fish and game club members will meet at The Town Hall, Thursday night for special business. All members are asked to turn out and learn what the club is doing.

DON'T LIKE THEIR OWN MEDICINE

Bonneville dam, on the Columbia River near Portland, Oregon, is about ready to use. Some $40,000,000 of public money has been spent for its development in a region already over-supplied with the cheapest power in the United States.

Bonneville will "undersell" the government's $60,000,000 dam development at Grand Coulee, a few miles further up the Columbia River.

So the fight is on: One group is seeking utilisation of Bonneville power at a rate based on its cost of production, which will include a big capital exenditure write-off for "navigation, flood control," etc., etc.; another group wants to lump Bonneville in with Grand Coulee and charge a higher rate (private companies would be prohibited from doing that) so that Bonneville will not compete with this other higher-cost government project and the Seattle and Tacoma municipal electric projects.

It's laughable to see one public ownership group cry because a larger socialistic venture threatens their own properties, which have shown no mercy to private investments.

As usual in such political ventures, the politicians are squabbling over who is to run Booneville.

Of course, no concern is shown over the private properties owned by private citizens and taxpayers who will be injured by this socialistic program, or the taxes that other property will have to make up if an electric distribution policy is adopted that cripples or destroys existing private plants which are now among the largest taxpayers.

The tax-exempt Bonneville project has prevented and will prevent, as has the TVA program in Southern states, private electric developments which would have cared for all the future needs of the Northwest, and at the same time been heavy taxpaying assets that would have helped relieve the already excessive local tax burden in all of these areas, not to mention Federal taxes.

You can't have your cake and eat it, too, and the people will find this out as government goes deeper into business in competition with its own citizens.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

C. H. Sailer says fish may not be able to think but every time he goes out to catch some they seem capable of reading his mind.

"The way for a girl to get a man to eat out of her hand," declares Joe Martin, "is for her to make a monkey out of him."

Some people throw their junk in an alley and other peole buy a tag for it and put it in the garage.

As Frank Williams sees it a man is usually well done after a woman rakes him over the coals.

"The only thing slim about some girls," asserts Sherman Wolff, "is their chance of landing a husband."

A judge says every man should tell his wife where he has been when he comes home late. But all the judges on the supreme court bench couldn't make her believe him.

The reason reformers have blue noses is because they are always given a cold reception.

Ed Storer says the age of discretion is when you get over the idea that one side is all good and the other side is all bad.

"A girl is bound to lose her head," declares Wilbur Yeiser, "if she is always giving somebody a piece of her mind."

We hear that Howard Krise has installed a new opera organ in his hen house for the benefit of the laying hens.

Keep your head and your temper. The driver who is easily upset by small things or who allows himself to become distracted so that he cannot give proper attention to driving is not safe behind the wheel of a car.

It is true that "hurrying" results in many accidents. But it is also true that "worrying" is responsible for many mishaps on the road. It is just about as bad to take your mind off your driving as it is to take your hand off the steering wheel.

If you have a load on your mind, get rid of it somehow before you get into the driver's seat. Driving nowadays, especially city driving, demands constant alertness. You cannot be a part-time safe driver.

TWO NEW MEMBERS OF WELFARE BOARD

Announcement of the appointment of two new members of the DeKalb county public welfare board was made Saturday by Judge Endicott.

They are the Rev. J. G. Bennett of Garrett, and Ward Jackman of Auburn. They succeed J. D. Brinkerhoff of Garrett, and C. E. McClintock of Auburn. Mr. Brinkerhoff resigned at the end of his first year in the office. Mr. McClintock's term expires April 1 and he declined reappointment.

Father Bennett is the pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church and Mr. Jackman, who formerly lived in Grant township, is a former county treasurer.

When the board was organized a year ago, Judge Endicott named Mr. McClintock for one year, Mr. Brinkerhoff and Mrs. Vern Sparks of Smithfield township, for two years, and John C. Hull of St. Joe, and Mrs. Della Kiplinger of Butler, for four years. The board appointed Miss Nora Brown of Butler, as director.

During the year the investigation of old age pension applications has been completed, as well as applications for assistance for children and for the blind. Reinvestigations are now in progress.

Mr. McClintock and Mr. Brinkerhoff declined to serve longer because of the pressure of other affairs.

COAL CAR TEARS UP B. & O. TRACKS

It has been a long time since there had been any railroad accidents in or near St. Joe, until Monday morning. A fast B. & O. freight, west bound, was stopped in St. Joe by a front truck of a hopper coal car leaving the track near the Bear Creek bridge.

When the air stopped the train, the track was badly torn up, as two wheels were almost crosswise of the track.

A total of 780 ties will have to be replaced from the Bear Creek bridge to the depot crossing.

St. Joe, Hicksville and Auburn Junction sections were called to recondition the tracks for traffic, by placing a few new ties in to hold the track in line.

The ties were made into regular kindling size pieces.

The wrecking crew of Garrett, was called and they soon put the car trucks in shape to be hauled into Garrett.

DOES NOT IMPROVE

E. M. Bishop, of 905 South Jackson, St., stricken with paralysis 2 weeks ago at the home of his sister, Mrs. Minnie Kagey, of the same address, remains about the same at the Dr. J. A. Sanders Hospital. He was somewhat weaker on Saturday.

SCHOOLS' MUSIC FESTIVAL HELD LAST SUNDAY

A large audience, that assembled at the Garrett gymnasium Sunday afternoon, was delighted with the entertainment furnished in the fourth annual DeKalb county schools' music festival.

The large massed girls' chorus was led by Gilbert Coble of Garrett, and the massed mixed chorus by A. G. Harshman, who directs the music in the St. Joe school. The Waterloo school contributed a cornet trio, the St. Joe school a girls' vocal trio, and the Spencerville school a violin trio. The Garrett schools were represented by Dorothy Wagner in an original accordion solo, while the Auburn school orchestra led by Press Wilcox played two numbers. The Auburn orchestra was composed of members of both the Junior and McIntosh high school groups.

Greetings on behalf of the schools were extended at the opening of the program by Mrs. Carrie Pierce of Ashley.

FARM HOME BURNS FRIDAY ABOUT NOON

The Joe Wappes farm home, 4 miles west of St. Joe, and just south of Bear Creek school house in Jackson township, was burned to the ground Friday noon. The St. Joe fire department responded to the call but was unable to save the home, although they were able to assist in removing some of the furniture.

The fire was not discovered by the family until it had a good start, there being a heavy gale blowing, made the destruction of the home very rapid.

Mr. Wappes was not at home. $1,200 insurance was carried. It is reported that in about 2 weeks rebuilding will start.

LEGION TO MAKE SCHOOL AWARDS

On Friday evening of this week, April 9, at the Community Gymnasium, the local Post of the American Legion will make its Eighth Grade School awards.

One winner has been chosen from each of the four schools included in the area from which this Post draws its members. The winners are: Paul Crothers, Spencerville; Elsie Hall, Newville; Evelyn Tustison, Newville Center; and Myra Keesler, St. Joe. They were chosen on the basis of Honor and Character, Leadership and Companionship, Courage, Scholarship and Service.

Captain Walter Stump has been secured to address the eighth graders and their parents at this time. Captain Stump, a Legionnaire, will discuss a subject of civic and patriotic interest.

Preliminary to the address, a short local program has been arranged, and the St. Joe High School Band will offer two selections to give the occasion the proper atmosphere.

The program begins at 7:30 and is as follows:

7:30 Invocation, by Spencerville Pastor.
7:35 Band .... St. Joe High.
7:45 .... Rev. Catron,
8:00 .... Walter Stump.
8:45 .... Post Commander.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ADDS NEW EQUIPMENT

Our new purchase is a tanic acid spray outfit, to be used in the treatment of persons being severely burned or scalded.

All fire departments are asked to carry such equipment. This is not a new discovery but is the best in the treatment of burns known to medical science.

This treatment which we are able to give is in line with the treatment the victim would receive at the hospital, in fact, hospitals highly praise the use of this treatment before patients reach the hospital.

We are endeavoring to give this community the best in fire service. We will be willing to answer any call within reasonable distance, and give this first aid treatment to any one being badly burned or scalded.

St. Joe Fire Department.

Things may be pretty slack in some industries but the bee-keeping industry is always humming.

Maybe they call it the sea of matrimony because most married couples are always sailing into each other.

Some fellows are so particular they won't eat at a filling station restaurant for fear of getting gas on their stomach.

The man who wants to beat the stock market should listen to the brokers and financial writers and then do the opposite.

Alcohol and gasoline have been mixed in Europe with some success as a fuel, but the result of mixing them behind the steering wheel in this country has been altogether bad.

Count the Cost NOW!

INSURANCE is the only commodity which cannot be purchased when it is needed most.

Don't wait for a fire to break out before you realize this Count the cost of inadequate insurance now and be prepared!

Let us ascertain the present value of your property and recommend the kinds and amounts of insurance you need.

FRED B. LEIGHTY
AGENT--St. Joe, Ind.

When it comes to mistakes, you've probably noticed that the supply exceeds the demand.

You've also possibly noticed that strong-minded St. Joe wives usually make the best husbands.

What profiteth it a man if he gets through the winter without a cold and then has malaria all summer.

Some movie stars can remember their husband's first kiss, and others can't even remember their first husband.

The hardest things to keep clean these days are a small boy's ears, a windshield and the front of father's vest.

If men can be made good by force of law, why do you suppose an all-wise Providence overlooked such a scheme?

Any St. Joe man can lay claim to strong will-power if he can take one salted peanut and leave the rest in the bag alone.

For safety sake keep all nuts on the car tight but remember that a tight nut at the steering wheel is a dangerous proposition.

It is good to know we are almost past the season of the year when some St. Joe motorists use warm language to start a cold car.

Beauty in men, declares a Chicago magazine editor, is as frequent as it is in women. Yes, but the men don't take care of theirs.

The citizen who let the recent election ruin his peace of mind is now getting the same effect thru worrying how we can keep out of war.

The honeymoon is also over when the bride starts complaining about the amount of noise the husband makes while he's getting breakfast.

NEVER SETTLED

With seeding time now on all over the country, the old argument bobs up again as to whether it is best to plant certain vegetables in the dark or the light of the moon. If you haven't heard the argument over it in St. Joe this year, just be patient, for you are pretty sure to before the planting season is over. It is as old as the hills, and will probably be here as long. You can find, without going very far along the street, the man who will argue that potatoes will "run to tops" and corn will mould in the ground if planted in the light of the moon. You can go a few steps farther and find someone who argues that it is just the other way, that it is in the dark of the moon—or when there isn't any moon, to be exact–when such things should not be planted. Then you ask a scientist, and he will tell you that both arguments are wrong, and that the moon has no effect upon seeding time. But no harm is done by this ancient old argument, and probably no one is the loser who follows either side of the argument. Right now the real loser is undoubtedly the man who doesn't plant at all.

THAT ILL WIND

The age-old saying "it's an ill-wind that blows nobody good" has probably left a lot of people around St. Joe wondering what good is going to come out of those recent floods in the Mississippi and Ohio River Valleys. Perhaps it will cause the construction of a great system of federal flood prevention that will protect these sections for all time to come; perhaps it will bring newer and better buildings to replace those destroyed; perhaps it will start a reforestation movement that will again cover barren hills and prevent the washing away of millions of tons of fertile land. If it results in all of these things, or in even a part of them, then some good will have come out of the floods to balance the destruction they wrought, and the "ill wind" will have blown much good after all.

BETTER NOT TRY IT

Some American cities are agitated over a plan to exchange German and American high school students for a few weeks each year. The American boys and girls will live with German families, and vice versa. Two things can be said for this scheme. The American kids might learn some manners and the German kids might learn some liberty. On the whole, though, it is hardly a good time for such an experiment. It would be too easy for the guest-students in both countries to get into trouble through patriotic seal. And as regards the gains suggested, our children might think German manners are just funny, and get sick of saluting Hitler, while the German children might be shocked by our informality, and their little taste of freedom might turn bitter when they got back home. It's a dangerous proposition, any way one views it. It is an experiment that both countries can very well let alone.

MORTUARY

COBURN

Jane Elizabeth Allen, daughter of William and Betsy Elizabeth (Brownlee) Allen, was born near Fountain Corners, Defiance County, Ohio, June 17, 1851; died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Keesler, in St. Joe, on March 27, 1937; aged 85 years, 9 months and 10 days. Of her immediate family, she is survived by one brother, Alonzo J. Allen. Two brothers, William and John, and three sisters, Mary (Warner,) Josephine (Wimot,) and Wyone, preceded her in death.

On February 5, 1874, she was married to Charles Coburn. To this union was born seven children, all of whom are living: Allen, Clarence, John and Lester are living at home. Clay, and the daughter, Belle Keesler, live in St. Joe; and Harlan lives in Boston, Mass. Beside these there are many grand and great grandchildren and some cousins living in Colorado. In or near the year of 1887, during a series of revival meetings conducted by Elder T. A. Hedges, Mrs. Coburn gave her heart to her Lord, and in obedience to His command, was buried with Him in baptism.

Though for years, due to infirmities of the flesh, she was deprived of the pleasure of attendance at church services, yet she was there in spirit, for her faith never wavered.

Of a quiet and retiring disposition, she sought no social honors, preferring, rather, the domestic duties which administer to the wants of her family, she seldom left the precincts of her home. Even in suffering, her chief concern was for her children.

Services were conducted from the Kinsey Funeral Home, Tuesday, March 30. Words of consolation were beautifully expressed by Rev. J. N. Scholes, who most fittingly chose for his text, Prov. 31: 10-31. Special music at services by Mark Williams, Roy Koch and Mrs. Lena Meek. Charles and Leroy Coburn, Walter and Henry Keesler, Wilbur Yeiser and Mark Williams were pall bearers. Burial was in Alton Cemetery.

WOODCOX

The funeral services for Ward Woodcox, were held from the Kinsey funeral home Saturday afternoon, with J. N. Scholes, officiating, and interment was made in Riverside Cemetery. His illness was of only a few weeks duration, being taken to the county home a week before his death. He passed away April 1, at the Sacred Heart Hospital, Garrett. Ward was born March 25, 1866, having attained the age of 71 years and 6 days. He lived in Concord township his entire life.

SEAL SALE SHOWS RECEIPTS OF $1,122.88

At Thanksgiving the DeKalb County Tuberculosis Association made their annual drive for funds by sending the Christmas Seals and Health Bonds to people all over the county they thought would be interested in helping fight tuberculosis, and the response was most gratifying and encouraging. Every city and township in the county increased their sales over last year, with a total sales of $1,122.88.

The officers of the association and the seal sale committee are grateful to all who in any way helped to make the sale a success and they wish to thank every one who purchased seals and bonds.

The amount of work done in a county depends on the returns from seal sale, 77c of each dollar remains in DeKalb county for county work, 23c is sent to the State Tuberculosis who in turn sends 5c to the National Association.

No part of the county funds are sent to Irene Byron or any other sanatorium to help in the care of the tuberculosis patients but are used in the county to find the cases, by clinic examination, by tuberculin, and by X-Ray, all contacts—those who have associated in home, work, school or play, with a person afflicted with tuberculosis, should have an examination by their Doctor or at the clinic held by the association every other month, the infection is wide spread and strikes the rich and poor alike, no one is immune from tuberculosis. Early discovery and proper treatment means an early recovery. When the public has learned the early diagnosis is all important in tuberculosis control and that early diagnosis means preventing the spread of infection much will have been accomplished.

Every city and township have a chairman who is glad to help any one in need of help of this nature. Your County Tuberculosis Association is always ready to serve you.

The returns from the cities and townships follow:

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

F. G. Gauntt says 70 may be too old for a judge but that most of our troubles have been caused by the dumbness of men who were much younger.

"Ive always noticed," asserts George Weaver, "that life is bright and joyous for those who can manage to keep their noses out of other people's business."

Even when a person hasn't very high ideals, it helps some if he lives up to those he has.

"Since England refuses to vote ex-King Edward a pension," says Ben Soule, "he ought to come over here and get a job with the WPA."

Elgin Curie says he can't see how France can vote five billion francs for war yet they can't pay us two sou on the war debts she owes us.

"Chickens come home to roost," declares Cora Curie, "but not until they have finished scratching up some neighbor's garden."

"Nowadays," says W. E. Baxter, "a son usually finishes college and his Dad at the same time."

Money still talks, and in most homes it speaks the mother tongue.

One of the old forgotten songs has been revived in St. Joe, and Joe Goldsmith is the fellow who is responsible. On Friday and Saturday his store sold 1,000 pounds of bananas. Before closing hour Saturday night, the supply had been exhausted. As late customers came in Joe would begin to sing, "Yes, we have no bananas, we have no bananas tonight." Being somewhat amused, the customers would get their grocery order and pass out laughing, forgetting that they had bananas on their list. But Joe really sold bananas for two days and had he supplied all his customers, he could have sold 1,500 pounds. Did you see how he featured them in his ad last week?

ALUMNI OFFICERS

Commencements in the schools supervised by Carl F. Stallman, county superintendent of schools, will start next week. The one at St. Joe will be held on the night of April 15th. Merle J. Abbott, superintendent of the Fort Wayne public schools, will be the speaker. The commencement date for Spencerville will be April 14 with Judge Clyde Carlin of Angola as speaker. The rural schools will close on April 16th.

NEW FARM "TALKIES" PLEASES LARGE CROWD

Something like 300 people enjoyed "Hidden Treasures" and a well-rounded program of talking pictures, presented last Saturday evening by Ben Levy Coal and Lumber Co., local Keystone "Red Brand" dealer.

More than 4,000 feet of sound-film was shown through courtesy of the Keystone Steel and Wire Company of Peoria, Illinois. Feature of the program was the drama "Hidden Treasures"—an entertaining, absorbing story of farm success that was, at the same time, full of practical and helpful ideas of soil handling and profitable methods. Good stock-tight fences, rotation of crops, legumes and livestock proved to be the secret of "Hidden Treasure" in the soil.

"Modern Steel and Wire Mills" was particularly interesting and educational. In this film, steel was traced through the great Keystone mills, from the molten stream pouring from huge open hearth furnaces, to finished wire, fence, nails and then products.

Added attractions on the full two-hour program of sound pictures were the popular "Hoosier Hot hots" playing, singing and clowning at a real old-fashioned "barn warming" and a funny animated cartoon comedy.

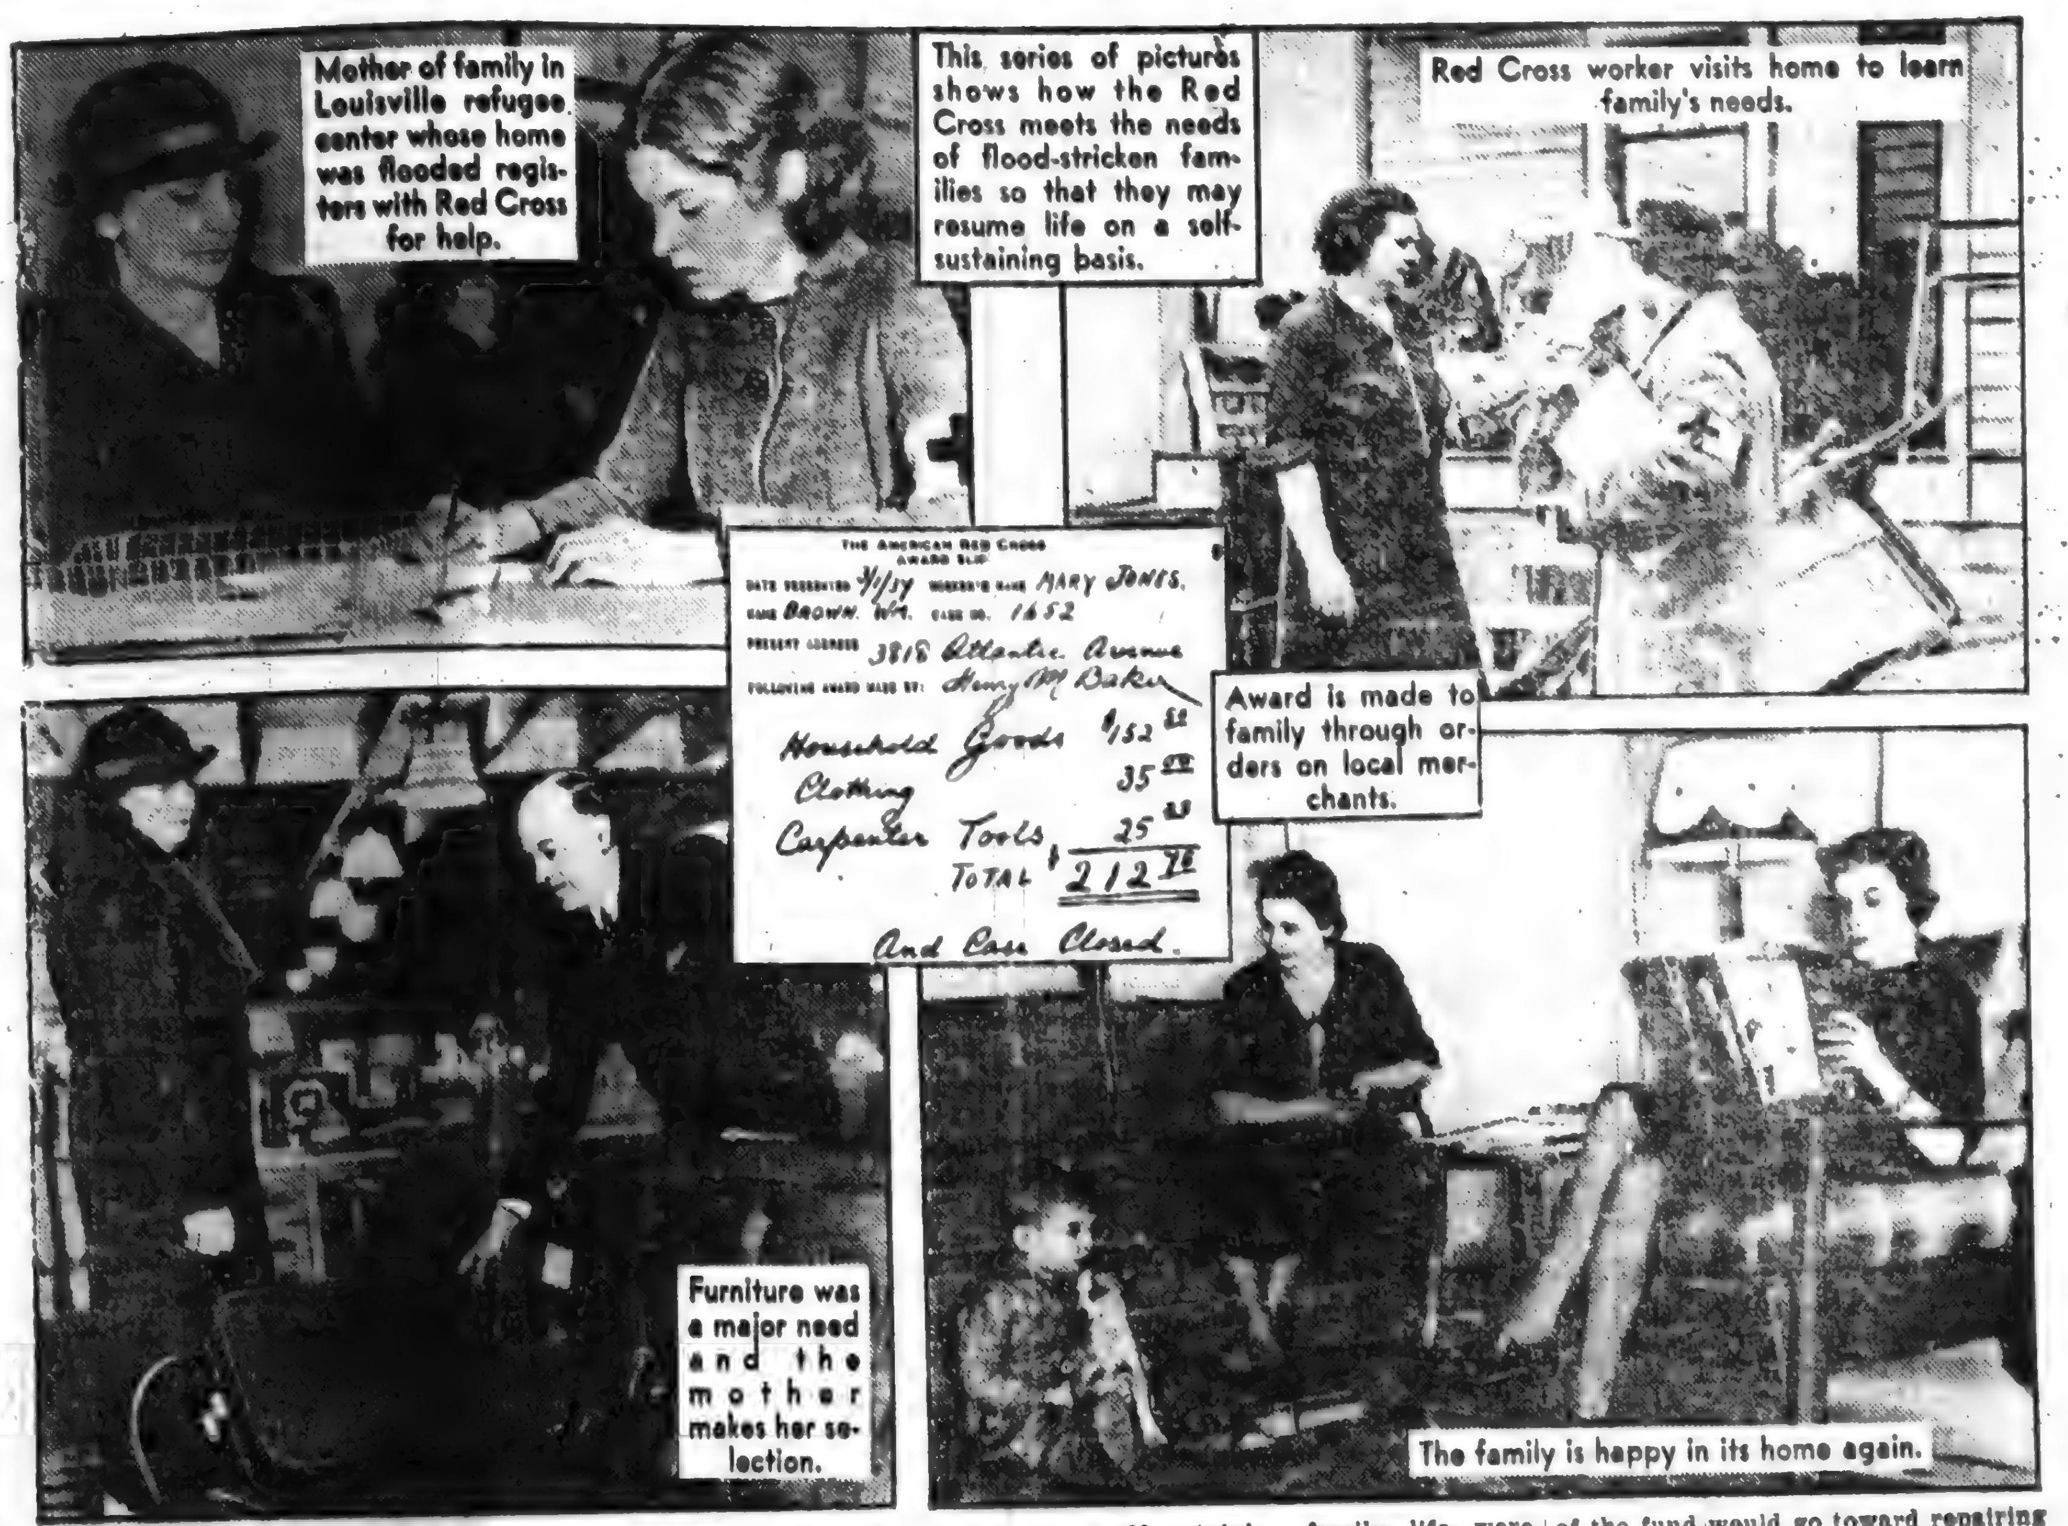
Refugee Families Are Restored to Homes As Greatest Flood in History Recedes



This series of pictures shows how the Red Cross meets the needs of flood-stricken families so that they may resume life on a self-sustaining basis.

Furniture was a major need and the mother makes her selection.

The family is happy in its home again.

WHEN the raging flood waters in the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys subsided, after a record-breaking rise in January and February, the Red Cross estimated that the homes of a million and a quarter persons had been affected. More than 750,000 of these victims came under the care of the Red Cross because they needed rescue, shelter, food, clothing and medical attention. Many thousands continued for six weeks or more in Red Cross refugee centers, before their homes were fit to live in again.

Work of restoring families to their homes was the second great task of the Red Cross. For those families who had no savings or credit or other resources, the Red Cross assumed responsibility, while several Government agencies prepared to lend money and help to others. Government, state and local agencies assisted in cleaning up homes. In thousands of instances the Red Cross repaired, rebuilt and refurnished houses. Where workmen lost their tools, these were supplied by Red Cross, just as any necessities needed for self-sustaining family life were given.

The American public gave $22,000,000 to the Red Cross flood relief fund, in contributions ranging from 10 cents to fifty thousand dollars.

This money was spent for maintenance of a vast rescue fleet of 2,700 boats; for maintaining 750,000 refugees in camps, their homes or with friends and relatives; for 253 hospitals; for food and clothing; and for rehabilitation of these stricken families. The Red Cross estimated that 75 per cent of the fund would go toward repairing and refurnishing homes and giving other necessary aid to families so that they could resume a normal life once more.

The assistance given by the Red Cross is a gift to the flood sufferers from the contributors to the fund; loans are never made by the Red Cross. The help given is on the basis of the family's needs and all accounts of the Red Cross are audited by the War Department and a report filed with the U. S. Congress.

NEWSWEEKLY SCRAPBOOK....

Week's Best Recipe

Salmon Loaf—Mix 2 beaten eggs, 1 cupful bread crumbs and 2 tablespoonsful melted butter with 1 pound canned salmon. Save the liquor from the salmon to use in the sauce. Salt and pepper to taste and steam for 1 hour in a buttered dish. Serve hot with a sauce made as follows: Mix 1 egg beaten lightly, 2 tablespoonsful melted butter and 1 tablespoonful corn starch. Add slowly 1 cupful scalding milk. Cook a few minutes and add the liquor from the salmon.

A Style Hint

Huge tulle or lace handkerchiefs a yard square are being worn. One sees them tucked inside a belt around a slender waist. A tulle handkerchief often has a lace monogram in one of its far-stretched corners.

In The Kitchen

Cider sauce makes something just a little different to serve with pancakes or waffles. Boil one cup of sugar and half a cup of cider for four minutes. Serve either warm or cold.

In The Sewing Room

For making rag rugs from discarded hose, assemble the hose and sort them according to colors. Although light hose may be dyed they will often give the desired light note into the rug if they are left just as they are. Cut out the feet and then, beginning at the top, cut around the hose in a strip that is one-inch wide. Long strips are much easier to handle than shorter ones sewed together.

For Flower Lovers

Labeling is a necessary evil for every gardener. If you don't label you forget and if you do the labels often can't be read. A permanent label can be made by using sheet zinc; strips four or five inches long and an inch wide will suffice. Insert them in the ground, or write or scratch name on zinc, then bend in shape of an L and insert long end in ground.

An Inspiration

Let life laugh loud, since laugh it must
Before it seals our mouths with dust,
Let life laugh low when it shall laugh
Our simple mutual epitaph.
For we shall lie together, friend—
It's yours as well as mine, this end
Of old obscenities and young.
So laugh until your bell has rung.

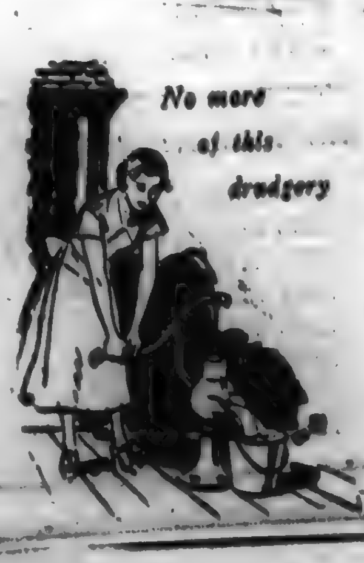
Electrically Pumped Running Water at the Barn



No more of this drudgery

WHETHER you want running water at the barn for the stock, in the poultry houses, or at the house, electrically pumped water anticipates farm needs and eliminates all of the old time drudgery. The value of electric pumping equipment lies in the extreme simplicity of operation and the unlimited volume available at the turn of a faucet or a switch.

Dairy cows, for example, will produce from 5 to 10 per cent more milk without increasing the feeding rations if they are supplied with drinking cups at the stalls. Horses and mules do better work when plentifully supplied with water. As an egg is two-thirds water, running water is important to poultry.

BACCALAUREATE SERVICE LARGELY ATTENDED

The Baccalaureate service was held at the Christian Church Sunday evening, with a large crowd attending. Rev. Catron delivering the message on the four essentials of success. Musical numbers were given by the choir.

Twenty-seven graduates were present, representing homes from four townships bordering on Concord.

MISSIONARY STUDY CLASS ENTERTAINED THURSDAY

A Missionary Study Class conducted by the Missionary Class of the Lutheran Church was held at the home of Mrs. Glen Cole on Thursday, April 8th.

Congo Crosses, a study of Congo Womanhood, was the book studied and reviewed by Mesdames Flossie Mavis, Cora Curle and Anne Sechler. To the African, "I will not call him black. He is my friend." Devotionals were conducted by Rev. A. H. Kunkle and Rev. C. J. Ferster. A trio, Lora Leighty, Avis Staman, and Edith Cole, furnished special music and led in the singing of negro spirituals.

At noon a delicious two-course dinner was served by the following committee, Mesdames Foltz, Reasoner, Sible, Perkins, Ridgway, Blue, Hamilton, Haller and Sechler.

There were present fifty people to enjoy the good dinner, the inspirational and educational program and the christian fellowship. The Lutheran Missionary Society of Butler, Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Kunkle, of Albion, Mrs. Alice Lewis, and Mrs. Everett Mavis, of Auburn, were guests. Beautiful cut flowers graced the dining room tables with their beauty and cheer, a gift from the Tombow Floral Co.

This study class is an annual event and is looked forward to and enjoyed very much. The first meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Julia Gengnagel at Butler on March 31st.

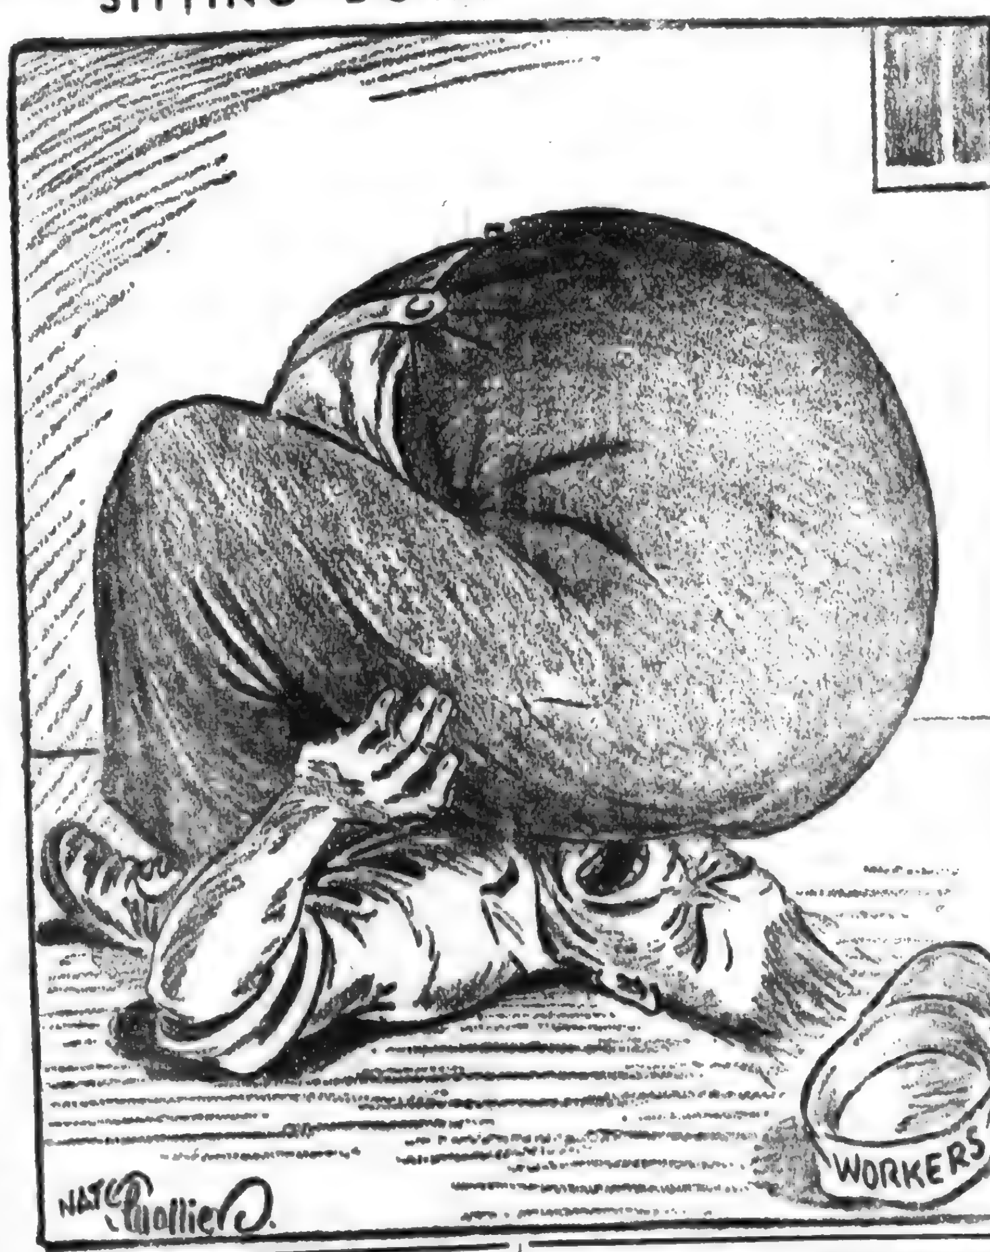
THE NEW ICE CREAM

There was a great deal of interest shown in the ice cream naming contest last Saturday. About one hundred and fifty samples were given and one hundred names submitted for the new ice cream. The flavor, which is a secret, was very popular and some one will get a gallon of ice cream for their suggestion.

SITTING DOWN ON HIMSELF



IS GIVEN DIVORCE

Stella Reasoner of Spencer township, complaining that Herman F. Reasoner failed to support her, squandered her money, cursed her and threatened to kill her, was awarded a divorce in the DeKalb circuit court late Saturday. The couple married Sept. 20, 1932, and separated July 2, 1935. The plaintiff had her former name, Stella Moore, restored and the defendant was ordered to pay $50 to apply on her counsel fees. She was represented by Atkinson & Sanders. The defendant defaulted and Wm. H. Husselman, prosecuting attorney, appeared for the state.

Mrs. Fred High called at the Harvey Hull home Thursday evening. She reports her sister, Mrs. Laura Baltz is improving slowly.

MORTUARY

WILMOT

Vernon Wilmot, aged 67, Fort Wayne, died Sunday at 2:30 P. M. at the Wabash Railroad Hospital in Decatur, Ill. He was an employe of the Wabash Railroad 25 years and was a crossing watchman in Fort Wayne at the time of his death. Mr. Wilmot had resided in Fort Wayne for eleven years and was a member of St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

Surviving are the widow, Margaret; two daughters, Mrs. John House, of Berkley, Mich., and Mrs. Minnie Kimes, of Ft. Wayne; a son, George Kimes, of Pontiac, Mich.; a brother, Arthur Wilmot, Fort Wayne; and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at 9:30 at the residence and at 10:00 o'clock at St. Patrick's Church, with the Rev. D. L. Monahan officiating. Burial in the Catholic Cemetery.

CLOSED SEASON FOR GAME FISH BEGINS SATURDAY, MAY FIRST

Hoosier anglers have two weeks fishing before the closed season on taking bass, bluegills, crappies, red-eared sunfish, perch, pike-perch, and pike goes into effect at midnight, Friday, April 30, Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, pointed out today.

The closed season, designed to protect the game fish during the spawning season, will remain in effect until midnight, Tuesday, June 15, after which these species can again be taken legally in Indiana waters. The closed season does not apply to suckers, catfish, carp, and other species not classed as game fish.

While the first of May marks the beginning of the closed season or most of the game fish, it will mark the opening of the trout season in fourteen northern Indiana counties—Lake, Porter, LaPorte, St. Joseph, LaGrange, Elkhart, Steuben, Newton, Jasper, Starke, Noble, Marshall, Kosciusko, and DeKalb. Regulations applying to rainbow, brook, brown and lock leven trout establish a daily limit of not to exceed fifteen of all species in the aggregate, and a minimum length of seven inches.

Special attention was called to the application of the state laws on fish and fishing in all Indiana waters, including ponds which may have been left by receding flood waters in the streams. Fish left in such flood ponds, are protected by the same regulations as govern those in lakes and streams and the same restrictions apply to the taking of fish in these "new" ponds.

MARRIED BY J. P.

Union township's new justice of the peace, Miles Baxter, performed his first marriage ceremony Monday afternoon, when he united Leslie Inlow and Lucille Gilson, of St. Joe. The marriage took place at Mr. Baxter's residence in Auburn.

DRILL FOR OIL IN TWO NORTHERN COUNTIES

Drilling for oil is in progress in Steuben and LaGrange counties, areas where previous operations have not been particularly successful. One well is being drilled near Ashley in Steuben county and the other near LaGrange, LaGrange county.

Unusual activity in drilling for both oil and gas is continuing in the southwestern Indiana fields where a number of producing wells are in operation.

PIANO LESSONS

I will give piano lessons this season in this community on Thursdays and Fridays of each week. Certified teacher of fourteen year experience. If interested leave word at Kinsey's Hdwe. Store or Mrs. Clayton, (Methodist Parsonage, Spencerville.)

PUBLIC MEETING AT HIGH SCHOOL GYM

There will be a meeting at the high school building, Friday night, at 8 o'clock for the purpose of organizing a Women's Field Army for the control of cancer. Dr. Harold Nugen, of Auburn, will be the speaker. Men and women both are urged to come.

CULTURE CLUB

The Culture Club held their last meeting of the club year at the home of Mrs. Cecil Wisler on Wednesday evening, April 7th, with fifteen members and one guest present.

The election of officers for the new year 1937-38 were:

President, Mrs. Wm. Hamilton.
Vice Pres., Mrs. Harry Hursh.
Secretary, Mrs. Glen Wineland.
Treasurer, Mrs. Roy Reidenbach.
Critic, Mrs. Ed. Leighty.
Ass't. Critic, Mrs. Anna Bachtel.
Press Correspondent, Mrs. Cecil Wisler.

After the business session, the entertainment in charge of Mrs. Wisler was in the form of contests and biographies. The hostess served ice cream, wafers and coffee. The mid-summer meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Clayton Wyatt, on Pemberton Drive in Fort Wayne, on July 21st.

Among the things no man can live up to are his mother's opinion of him and a silk hat.

Never argue with a fool. Listeners might get the impression that you are both that way.

The average motorist seems capable of detecting a rattle in his car quicker than he can one in his head.

Farmers around could breathe more easily if they could sidetrack their bills as easily as congress does.

A lot of this world's troubles can be avoided by learning not to give a darn how other people run their affairs.

As a general rule the man who argues loudest about his "constitutional rights" never read the constitution.

It's a funny country in which people make rules to guide the umpire and then cuss the umpire if he enforces the rules.

Every man should have enough insurance to keep his family from suffering, but not enough to keep them hoping that his health fails at an early date.

Some of these days, when people understand, they will rise up in their wrath and tear apart any man who tries to get them into a war.

A good many of the people who are grumbling about their income taxes this year are the same ones who were grumbling a few years ago because they didn't have any income to tax.

Another trouble with the world is that man has developed enough skill to destroy it and not quite enough sense to save it.

In Cleveland, supporters of the Committee for Industrial Organization, familiarly known as the C. I. O., and members of the American Federation of Labor, come into open physical clash. In the old days of volunteer fire companies, the partisans of rival organizations often expended more time and effort in keeping each other in the background than they devoted to the conflagration. The internal strife in the Republican party during the presidential campaign of 1884 gave rise to a cartoon based on the contending fire company idea. Mr. Blaine was defeated as a result of division in the ranks of those who might have been expected to form a united group behind him. The Democrats received similar instruction in the bitter school of experience when they split on the free silver issue. The title of the cartoon was: "Fighting While the Fire Burns." The phrase carries a timely warning to labor.

In many quarters, rich men, viewed in the most favorable light, are regarded as a nuisance. It is common to go further and state that they are definitely undesirable citizens and a menace to sound government. Cyrus H. McCormick, of Chicago left an estate of twenty-two million dollars. According to current newspaper print fifty-two per cent of what he accumulated went for state and federal taxes. Assuming that his active life covered the span of fifty years, he worked twenty-six of them to accumulate about eleven million dollars for the public treasury. That is not so bad a record after all. Probably Mr. McCormick would have registered an emphatic "No" had he been asked to make a free will gift of more than half his goods to the common purse, but that does not enter into the argument. The fact remains that the world found that it could use him, even though he happened to be a millionaire.

ROAD PESTS

List among the road pests of this modern age the man who takes his half of the road in the middle. If you are driving behind him and are in more of a hurry than he is, you always notice that while driving he is paying more attention to the scenery than he is to the condition of traffic. His car wobbles this way and that, and you are uncertain as to just what he is going to do. He never makes any sign as to his intention of changing his direction, and passing him on a narrow road is a dangerous operation. He may decide to swerve over in your direction any second. He drives more slowly than the pressing of traffic demands. He has no conception of the rights and courtesies of the road. He straddles the line marked out to direct traffic and is altogether a nuisance. He is hard to correct, for he never lays himself liable to arrest unless an accident actually happens. He is just another pest that decent drivers have to tolerate; just another menace to the safety of all who drive the same road he does.

NEW FARM MENACE

A little weed with a bell-shaped blossom has brought a new worry to the farmers of the United States, a worry so serious steps are being taken by the government to stamp out the menace. Already 2,000,000 acres of land west of the Mississippi River have been abandoned to this weed, and that fact alone should warrant farmers around in keeping watch for its appearance on their acres.

This newest pest is called "bindweek," and was carried to America from Europe a few years ago in shipments of oats or barley. It sends its roots down as far as 30 feet, and all attempts to kill it by cutting it off the ground have failed. When it gets a start it quickly spreads and in a single season will cover a field like a blanket, choking out all other vegetation. Already it has gained a foothold in Nebraska, Minnesota, Kansas and South Dakota, and latest reports are that it is beginning to appear in the states east of the Mississippi, having defied the drouth of last summer, when most weed pests perished.

There seems to be no possible way of protecting ourselves against foreign plant and insect pests. Already millions of elm trees have been destroyed by an insect imported a few years ago from England; the European corn borer and the Japanese fruit fly, or beetle, are likewise our heritage from the old world. Now comes this newest menace to be-devil American agriculture and to convince us, if we had not already been convinced, that the least of anything we import from foreign lands the better off we will be.

MORALLY WRONG

One of the main arguments used in defense of the plan to "pack" the Supreme Court is that a tribunal of 9 men is incapable of handling the large number of cases appealed to it. The intimation is that the Court is far behind in its work and needs new hands and minds to help it catch up.

This would be an excellent argument if true. But not long ago Attorney-General Cummings, in his annual report, gave the Court high praise for the manner in which it handled cases and kept its docket relatively small. And now new evidence to this effect comes from the highest authority on Court Procedure—Charles E. Hughes, Chief Justice of the United States.

In a letter to Senator Wheeler, introduced as testimony in the Senate hearings on the Court plan, the Chief Justice shows statistically that the Court is fully abreast of its work. At its last session, it actually heard cases in which writs of certiorari had been granted less than a month before. When the Court rose on March 15 for recess, only a handful of cases remained for disposition.

Then the Chief Justice said definitely that an increase in membership of the Court would not, in his opinion, be in the interest of efficiency and speedy disposition of cases. To the contrary, "There would be more judges to hear, more judges to confer, more judges to discuss, more judges to be convinced and to decide."

The truth of the matter is that advocates of the Court plan use such empty arguments as camouflage and window dressing. Honest witnesses in defense of the plan, frankly admit they want a Court with a different economic and social viewpoint—in other words, a Court which will "write" law rather than interpret it. In this connection, the American people would do well to ponder the words of Senator Burton Wheeler, an old-time liberal, 'If it is wrong for a private litigant to pack a jury, if it is morally wrong for a private litigant to pack a court, it's just as wrong for the government as a litigant to pack the Court."

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

"The whole art of government consists in the art of being honest."

This is one of the most famous utterances of Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, third President of the United States, and, in the words of a noted biographer, "the foremost expounder of the rights of man."

As, at this time, an entire nation observes the anniversary of his birthday, many other of his admonitions may well be recalled. Here are a few, whose value is as great today as when, in the early days of our Republic, they were first uttered by one of the greatest of our Presidents:

Liberty:

"Liberty is the great parent of science and of virtue; and a nation will be great in both in proportion as it is free."

"Our liberty depends on the freedom of the press, and that cannot be limited without being lost."

The Constitution:

"I wish support from no quarter longer than my object candidly scanned shall merit it; and especially, not longer than I shall vigorously adhere to the Constitution."

Respect for Law:

"Laws made by common consent must not be trampled on by individuals."

"The voluntary support of laws, formed by persons of their own choice, distinguishes peculiarly the minds capable of self government."

Individual Enterprise:

"Agriculture, manufactures, commerce and navigation, the four pillars of our prosperity, are the most thriving when left most free to individual enterprise."

Personal Rights:

"It would be a dangerous delusion were a confidence in the men of our choice to silence our fears for the safety of our rights."

Economy in Government:

"A rigid economy of the public contributions, and absolute interdiction of all useless expenses, will go far towards keeping the government honest and unoppressive."

"I think we have more machinery of government than is necessary, too many parasites living on the labor of the industrious!"

The People:

"The will of the people is the only legitimate foundation of any government."

Week's Best Recipe

Baked Indian Pudding—Thoroughly mix 5 tablespoons Indian meal, ⅔ cup molasses, 1 large tablespoon butter, ginger, cinnamon and salt. Stir into 1 quart of boiling milk. Let cook until thick, then turn into buttered dish and pour over 1 cup cold milk. Bake in slow oven three hours.

A Fashion Hint

The most popular ensembles this season are the two-piece thin wool suit (fitted hip-length jacket and a skirt or short-sleeved dress) a print jacket over a plain silk dress, or a print dress and a plain-color, three-quarter wool coat on straight, loose lines. There also are full-length fitted coats, lined with a right print to match one's dress.

For Flower Garden

For a perennial background there is nothing more attractive than Delphinium. Their tall, graceful spikes and exquisite color lend charm and delicacy to any yard. If seed is planted it should be put in the ground early as it germinates best in a ground temperature of 45 to 55 degrees.

Housecleaning Helps

Try a mixture of cornstarch and water to remove spots from wall paper. . . . A little spirits of camphor in the water will cut the grease dirt on picture glass and mirrors. . . . A small amount of paraffin placed in the water will give a brighter gloss and color to tiling.

In the Kitchen

Braising, boiling, simmering and stewing are the cooking processes to use for less tender cuts of meat. Try searing the meat first in a small amount of fat. Vegetables and seasoning may be added later. But the most important thing to remember is that a little water and long slow cooking are needed to break down the meat fibers and make them tender.

The Family Doctor Says

Don't urge the child to eat. You may succeed in getting him to take food yet fail in creating in him an appetite for food. Nature has implanted in each child an urge to eat, which only needs to be directed to the proper foods. But don't urge, and by all means don't threaten.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

Otto Ginther says that a necessity is a luxury that you see in a neighbor's home.

Mose Yeiser says he doesn't judge a man much by what he stands for. It's what he falls for that really counts.

"It's pretty hard to drive a real bargain nowadays," observed the fellow who had just purchased a $10 used car.

J. P. Buckingham says that "most humor is like history. It repeats itself."

"Time may be a great healer," says Herman Kessler, "but I can't say much for it as a beauty doctor."

"Green paint," says DuWayne Kinsey "can be removed from the seat of a pair of white trousers easily. All you need is some turpentine, a good brush, and a pair of shears."

Sweet Young Thing: 'I've half a mind to get married."

Frank Monroe: "Better go easy. The divorce courts are busy for the benefit of those who used only half of their minds when they got married."

And this is the season when the fishermen join the pugilists in the ambition to land a hook in the jaw.

John Wineland says that the best argument he has found for the foolish styles of today is a good look into the family album.

Ersa Reidenbach says she is a smart girl who uses little makeup for it makes people think she is a somebody who doesn't need it.

"Nature evens things up," says John Ulm, "only those who can afford a stomach specialist can afford the fancy foods that make 'em sick."

It is said that Germany has a "secret debt" of fifty billion marks. But it's no secret that she'll never pay what she owes us.

Mrs. J. R. Goldsmith says the modern girl doesn't seem to be afraid of anything but a stack of dirty dishes.

As Floyd Weikel sees it, the only creature that can go on a sit-down strike and still produce the goods is a hen.

Why couldn't the country have had all these sit-down strikes during the depression when there wasn't anything else for men to do?

"News by radio can't take the place of a newspaper," asserts Basil Sheffer, "because you can't hunt it up later to settle an argument."

100% DEPORTMENT GRADE

Speaking of school days and deportment of scholars, Chas. Koch had a number of the kiddies and older ones ashamed of their school record, when he revealed his boyhood record. Every grade card bore 100% in deportment after the first two months of school. As he went on meeting the doubtful listeners, he revealed the secret of his grades.

At noon hour he went to the nearby woods with some of the scholars to play and he discovered the teacher hiding behind a large tree smoking his pipe.

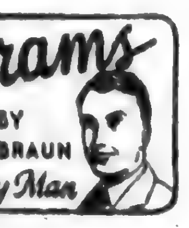
Boy like (?) Charles refused to reveal this to a single person and to reward him, his deportment card was marked 100 each month.

Even his parents were disturbed over the matter, while the subjects studied were not showing such efficincy, and they knew too, that his home conduct would not warrant such a perfect grade.

In order to prove this record in deportment, Charles says he has his card, and anyone doubting the statements made in this article may have the satisfaction of knowing for themselves, if they will but call at his home.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN
© The Safety Man



Another year of statistics has been compiled. It is estimated that 38,500 people have been killed by automobiles.

The pity of that total is this: Almost 50% of the people killed by automobiles were pedestrians. In spite of this, people still insist on jay walking at crossings, walking between intersections, and stepping out from behind parked cars. These are dangerous practices and can be stopped only when each and every person becomes safety conscious to the point that he feels he should set an example for others.

Walk right—stop, look, and listen.

Many times in this column I have brought out the fact that courtesy is a very important item in the prevention of automobile accidents. Personally, I believe that through the practice of courtesy on the part of pedestrians and the automobile driver, 90 per cent of our accidents could be avoided.

The other day I saw an unbelieveable thing! A truck driver stopped his truck at a busy down town crossing to help an old lady across the street to safety. One reads about these things occasionally, but this was the first time I had personally had an opportunity to see it. The action of this driver not only built up good will towards the firm he represented, but he impresed me with the fact that courtesy will prevent accidents. Had he been reckless, careless, or had he taken seriously the fact that the "Go" sign was with him, this old lady might have been involved in an accident.

Courtesy builds good will—courtesy prevents accidents. Try it!

Our merchants were well pleased with their trade last week, being really better than anticipated. People are beginning to learn of the extra price values obtainable in St. Joe. If you will scan the ads each week you will learn how to save on your purchases.

The Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Shroyer were Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Nichols and children, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Swander, the newly weds, Kenneth Sanders and lady friend, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shroyer and Byran Welch. They had a very enjoyable day together.

GETTING BETTER

More proof that the world is getting better comes in an announcement that one of the largest trucking companies south of the Ohio River has employed a minister of the gospel to devote his entire time to teaching its drivers courtesy and politeness. Of course every motorist who has ever had occasion to "argue it out" with a truck-driver will agree that it's about time the truckers took a few lessons in courtesy. But the trucker has his grievances, too. The main point of interest just now, however, is that the men who own the big trucking lines are undergoing a change of heart, and have reached the conclusion that if they get business from the people they'll have to treat the people in a courteous manner on the road as well as off of it. So it looks like the world is getting better.

The People Who Are Afraid

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Over much of the Old World today we are witnessing a swift and disturbing rise to power by self-appointed leaders of the People Who Are Afraid.

Afraid of what? Afraid of freedom. Afraid of themselves and their own capacities. Afraid of machines and their influence. Afraid of assuming responsibility for their own thoughts, their own efforts, their own lives. Afraid of the future.

That's why they are willing to turn to forms of government which offer to relieve them of that responsibility. That's why they are eager to scrap their own indentities for unsupported promises of security offered by Fascism or Communism or the various other isms which now tear Europe.

To the average American worker, proud of a national heritage of courage and self-reliance, this surrender to transient fears may seem a strange and remote thing. But the prophets of defeatism, both at home and abroad, are not convinced of the American's attitude. Hopefully they continue to seek converts here.

Their way should be a hard one. The American tradition remains one of freedom and achievement.

The American people are not afraid of liberty, or they could never have written a Declaration of Independence and a Bill of Rights. They are not distrustful of their capacities, or they could never have conquered a continent. They are not fearful of machines, or they could never have produced a Fulton or an Edison. They do not dread the future, or they couldn't continue the bold and ambitious plans for national progress so typical of the American spirit today.

Europe and its cynics may continue to chant their swan songs of despair. But of America we still say with the poet:

"I do not know beneath what sky
  Nor on what seas shall be thy fate;
I only know it shall be high,
  I only know it shall be great."

In such an outlook there is no room for fear.

Here is a tested recipe for PEACH ICE: Boil ¾ cup of sugar and 1 cup of water 5 minutes. Cool to room temperature and add ½ cup of corn syrup, and ¼ cup of lemon juice. Force 2 cups canned (not drained) peaches through a sieve and add to syrup mixture. Pour into still ice cream freezer and cover. Fill ice chamber with a mixture of chipped ice and salt (3 parts ice to 1 part salt by volume). Cover freezer and place in ice refrigerator. Freeze about one hour, stirring at 15 minute intervals. Serves 6 to 8.

Try this way of boxing fudge so that it does not crumble or get stale before reaching the recipient. Simply pour the fudge while warm into a tin pan lined with several thicknesses of wax paper. Leave sufficient paper to cover the top, wrap and send in the pan. When opened the candy can be lifted out of the box by lifting the paper.

To store cornmeal mush so that it is easy to slice for frying, take a No. 1 can from which the top has been removed smoothly, and pour the hot mush into it to cool. Then when the mush is to be fried, it can be slipped out of the can into a smooth, round cylinder and sliced into firm patties.

Here's a recipe for an excellent JIFFY CAKE MIX: Cream ⅔ cup shortening, add 1⅓ cups of sugar slowly and beat well. Mix and sift together 3 cups of cake flour, ¼ teaspoon of salt, and 1 tablespoon of baking powder; blend into the creamed mixture. Then place the mix in a modern air-conditioned ice refrigerator and it will be ready for immediate use when wanted. The moist, clean-washed air of the modern ice refrigerator will protect the mix against drying out and against absorbing the odors of other foods. On removing from the refrigerator, break up the mixture with a fork. Separate 2 eggs, and beat yolks until light and lemon colored. Combine with 1 cup of milk and 1 teaspoon of vanilla extract and add to the cake mix. Blend throughly; beat egg whites until stiff and fold into mixture. Then pour into 2 well-greased layer cake pans. Bake in moderate oven (375°) for about 30 minutes.

LUTHERAN BROTHERHOOD CONVENED

The Fort Wayne Men's District Brotherhood of the Indiana Synod met at St. Mark's Lutheran Church here on Sunday, April 18 for their quarterly meeting. The sessions were held in the afteroon and evening.

The program was as follows:

Registration of Members.

Opening Exercises and Worship.

Men of St. Joe Brotherhood.

Business.

Discussion. Objectives of the Brotherhood, led by L. A. Ridenour of Trinity, Fort Wayne.

Vesper Services. Sermon by Rev. R. H. Trojan, St. Luke's, Fort Wayne.

Supper. Rev. H. E. Turney, president of Synod, speaker.

The discussion of the Brotherhood objectives were:

1. The unsaved for Christ.
2. Development of the Christian life of the youth.
3. Bringing back lapse membership.
4. More men at services.
5. Promoting christian civilization.
6. Raising apportionment.

Rev. Trojan's address bordered on consistent christian living. The banquet address, given by the cratic nature of the Lutheran Church.

The next session will be held in October at Albion, Ind.

The officers of the district are, D. B. Ridgway, president, St. Joe; C. H. Romeiser, vice president, Auburn; Wm. J. Evans, secretary-treasurer, Albion.

CLEAN UP DAY SET FOR APRIL 30

Friday, April 30, has been designated by the Town Board of St. Joe, as a day when all citizens are asked to cooperate in the movement for everyone to comb their premises for trash, and place same at the alley in containers so that the truck may pick up and dispose of same.

Only with the whole-hearted support of the citizens in cleaning up their homes and surroundings, will the day be made a real success. There is nothing that can replace that pride which comes from a clean and well-kept home and well-developed community in which to live.

KEES GRAVEL PIT A DANGEROUS PLACE

For the benefit of the children of St. Joe, we are issuing a warning for their safety, by saying to them, stay away from the Kees gravel pit.

Parents had better warn their children to stay away also.

A gravel dipper is at work there and the banks are continually caving in and will for many weeks. Only this week two small girls weer there on the bank, feet hanging over and Mr. Kees saw them and called for them to go away, and within ten minutes this same bank caved in a distance of five feet from the edge.

Better take this warning kindly parents.

This warning is issued by Mr. Kees, owner of the pit, and he feels that he should not be liable for any accident.

SAM OPENLANDER DEATH VICTIM

Samuel Openlander, of Sherwood, for the past twenty years engaged in farming, and prior to that for thirty years employed by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad as telegrapher and agent at St. Joe, died at his home Tuesday at 5:40 A. M. He was 72 years old.

Funeral will be held Thursday at 2 P. M. from his home, conducted by Rev. Alfred Grether, of Defiance. Burial will take place in Sherwood Cemetery.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Mae Openlander; four brothers, D. F. Openlander, Defiance; C. W. Openlander, Garrett; George H. and Martin Openlander, Sherwood; a sister, Mrs. Emma Rock, Sherwood, and six nephews and four nieces. Two brothers, John and Jacob, and a sister, Mary, are dead.

Mr. Openlander had been in failing health most of the winter with heart leakage and hardening of the arteries. He had been seriously ill about a week.

ACCIDENTS OF WEEK

Carl Carpenter was severly cut on left arm when he was unrolling some barb wire.

Frank Loftus fell in the creek Tuesday afternoon, getting wet up to his waist.

Frank Curle also fell in the water Wednesday morning when his boat struck something and turned over. He had been feedin some nice pigs he has down on his farm and had to get to them in a boat.

Jesse Loftus cut his hand Tuesday evening, when leading a calf by chain. It ran, pulling the chain thru his hand and a broken link cut thru between thumb and first finger. Six stitches closed the wound. Mrs. Loftus was also thrown and received bruises.

SHRINE THEATRE POLICIES ANNOUNCED BY MANAGER

Local theatre goers will be interested in the announcement that the Shrine Theatre of Fort Wayne, recently purchased by the Kaplan Reality Company, Inc., will continue to book the leading theatrical attractions, and will not be used for commercial purposes as had been rumored before it was acquired by the Kaplan interests.

Frank A. Biemer, who will continue as manager of the theatre states, that under the new ownership it will be possible to bring a greater variety of attractions to Fort Wayne than in the past. Already negotiations are under way with the leading New York Booking Office for the outstanding musical and dramatic attractions that will be booked for next season, and at the same time it is possible that two or three will be brought to Fort Wayne this spring. While the Shrine Theatre was operated under receivership during the past several seasons it was impossible to book some of the big stage shows, but now that it has been placed on a substantial business basis, it will be possible to secure many of the outstanding stage hits enroute between New York and Chicago. In addition to the usual stage bookings, a number of concert attractions will also be secured, thus the theatre goers and the music lovers of this vicinity will have much to look forward to under the new ownership of the Shrine Theatre.

PLATTER—BAKER

A lovely wedding uniting Miss Violet Baker and Coral G. Platter, took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Anna Baker, 336 W. Washington St., Fort Wayne. Rev. Frank Engle, of Gary, Indiana, performed the single ring ceremony.

The bride was beautiful in a powder blue chiffon semi-formal and wore a coronet of pink rose buds in her hair. She carried a bridal bouquet of Killarney roses and white sweet peas. The attendant was Miss Helen Washler, of Butler, Ind., who wore a peach colored net semi-formal. Reign Schondelmayer of St. Joe was best man.

After the ceremony a tempting two course dinner was served, the color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the dining room.

Mrs. Platter is a graduate of Bluffton high school and Mr. Platter was graduated from St. Joe high school. Mrs. Platter has been employed at the WPA office in Fort Wayne for the past year and a half and Mr. Platter is a prominent farmer in the St. Joe community.

Mr. and Mrs. Platter have the best wishes of their friends and they are now at their newly furnished home seven miles northeast of St. Joe.

Guests present were Miss Ida Reed of Spencerville; Guy Platter and two daughters, Luella and Bonnie, of near Newville; Miss Ethelma Baker; Rev. Frank Engle and Jack McConahae, of Gary; Mrs. L. G. Fetters, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Baker, Miss Helen Washler, Reign Schondelmayer, Miss Helen Guemplein and Mrs. Baker.

Leonard's Garden Seeds in Bulk at Curle Hardware. 16t1p.

Mrs. Carl Carpenter and children are visiting her parents near Pioneer, Ohio.

Mrs. Cora Jennings, of Toledo, O., arrived Sunday, for several weeks visit in the Marion Jennings home.

A Wabash section hand will soon move into the Weikel property near Bear Creek. He now resides at Butler.

Frank Curle and Franklyn Sechler spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Curle in Garrett. Saturday morning they hiked all the way home from Garrett in order to pass their 14 mile scouting hike.

LEARNING A TRADE

Talk to some of the older residents of the neighborhood and they will tell you that when they were "growing up" fathers and mothers insisted on their sons learning a trade. Some can recall when boys were "apprenticed" to a mechanic, carpenter, cobbler or other craft, and his father usually paid for having a trade taught him. In the old days learning a trade was almost compulsory. Sons of the rich alone escaped it.

Today things are different. Parents are now more inclined to shove their sons into an already over-crowded professional field, insisting that they earn their living with as little work as possible, overlooking the fact that right now there are so many lawyers and doctors that only about one in ten is actually earning as much as an expert craftsman can make as a machinist, electrician, engineer or a hundred other trades that could be mentioned. The boy of today who hopes to get by the easiest way, and who reaches manhood without having learned a trade is pretty apt to find himself stranded—possibly an object of charity—when he reaches old age.

Parents of St. Joe boys should bear in mind that a trade is just as important as an education. They should remember, too, that it is a young man's best protection in the years ahead, and insist that their boys learn one. The day will come when he will thank his stars—as well as his parents—that he did so.

EVERYBODY'S JOB

So far as the general health of the community is concerned, citizens of St. Joe passed over the winter months with little cause for complaint. But that doesn't justify a single citizen of this place for letting down in their precaution against disease. The fact is, we are just now entering one of the most dangerous seasons of the year—the weeks which bring a shift form winter to spring temperatures.

Already a considerable number of housewives have set about the annual task of spring housecleaning, and they are to be commended for making an early start. They are also entitled to hearty co-operation from the man of the family, who is usually given to thinking that housecleaning is a woman's work and out of his province. Right there is where he makes a mistake.

The health of any community rests largely on the condition in which its homes and their surroundings are kept, so it is certainly every man's job to see that his premises are wholly free of cess-pool rubbish and all unsanitary spots in which disease germs can find a breeding place. That is why the age-old custom of spring housecleaning is a job every man should, and must, cooperate in if he wants to enjoy the protection that comes with living in a disease-free neighborhood. It might be well for housewives around here to read this aloud to their husbands.

ST. JOE WOMEN TO START CANCER DRIVE

A very interesting meeting was held last Friday evening at the gym, when Mrs. Frank Curie, who had been appointed Lieutenant of the Tri-Township organization of the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, to bring the matter before our people. Mrs. Curie had charge of the meeting and in a few well chosen words introduced the Captain of the county, Mrs. C. R. Clark, of Auburn, who explained the nature of this meeting, as this is a new undertaking in the county.

This was followed by a very interesting and helpful talk by Dr. Clayton Hathaway, of Butler, who explained in detail the danger and seriousness of the disease and the necessity of educating ourselves and our families in the control of same.

Great interest was manifested by those present, an organization has been perfected and the drive will begin next week, when members of the committee will call at your homes, soliciting your membership or donations that the work might be carried on.

This year the women of America are receiving mobilization orders for another war. Not of waste, destruction, and death, but a war to save human life. The enemy is the powerful and deadly disease Cancer. Its allies, ignorance and fear, are strong and cruel. Care of health is the special province of American women. And it is the women who will begin this year a war against cancer. There will be no guns, no poison gas, no bayonets. The battle cry will not be one of hate, but of hope: "Early Cancer is Curable. Fight Cancer with Knowledge." Education is the task of the Women's iFeld Army.

Each woman who enlists a recruit will contribute $1 to the Cancer War Chest. Men, too, may support the movement as contributing members. Seventy per cent of this dollar is returned to the state for its program. 20% retained by the society for expenses in the field and 10% placed in a contingent or reserve fund.

The duties of membership in the Army are not great but each member is expected to familiarize herself with the literature of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, to see that her family studies it, and to take part, if she has time, in the educational work of the State Women's Field Army.

This is the first campaign of many to follow. As it is the first, it will be the most difficult. There is no draft for this war. All enlistments are voluntary. But mobilization orders have been sent out. The war is on. There can be no turning back. The Women's Field Army is marching.

The following committee has been selected and the drive will start next Monday, April 26:

Lieutenant, Mrs. Frank Curie; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Frank Bowman; publicity, Mrs. Fred B. Leighty. Organization members of committee: Culture Club, Mrs. W. L. Hamilton; L. L. C., Mrs. Hollis Dilley; R. H. C., Mrs. Clyde Hart; Auxiliary, Mrs. Clark Scholes; P. T. A., Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser; Sptncer Twp., Mrs. Fred Hart; Newville Twp., Mrs. John Washler; Home Bureau, Mrs. Chas. Koch; Farm Bureau, Mrs. Ed Storer.

Have you renewed—If not, now would be a mighty good time to do so. Won't you please help get our mailing list up-to-date? Do your bit!

ITEMS ABOUT ST. JOE

Vance Woodcox, of Philadelphia, Pa., was a guest in the home of his father and mother, C. C. Woodcox and wife last Thursday and Friday. He was enroute from Kansas City to Detroit on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Miller and Mr. and Mrs. David Furnish, of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wyatt and daughter, Carol Sue of Fort Wayne, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hursh were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Andress, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Rogers and daughter, Joan, Mr. Chas. Frank, and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Frank, of Reading, Mich., and J. C. Hull and wife, were Sunday gueses of F. B. Leighty and wife. George Gelhousen and family, of Garrett, were evening callers.

Mrs. S. D. Rouls and daughter, Miss Janalyce, of Angola, attended the commencement here last Thursday evening and spent the night with Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole. Friday they went to Kokomo, Ind., where Miss Rouls attended the State Home Ec Convention, while Mrs. Rouls visited a sister, returning home Sunday.

Mrs. Lancaster Morr, of near Concord, attended the funeral of her brother, Henry L. Myers, of Toledo, who died last Wednesday morning following a heart attack in his office. He was employed by the American Floor Surfacing company of Toledo. Mr. Myers was 48 years of age and moved from DeKalb county 28 years ago.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Hart Thursday evening were: Mr. and Mrs. Fremont Tucker, of Ashland, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Brown and daughter and Miss Naomi Work, of Elkhart, Indiana, and Mrs. Elizabeth Jones and daughters, of Fort Wayne. They all came to attend the commencement exercises.

Automobile license plates for 1938 will be cream and crimson, it has been announced by Frank Finney, state commissioner of motor vehicles. Backgrounds will be cream and the numbers will be crimson. Incidentally, the numbers will be larger in size than they are on this year's plates. The plates will have the colors of Indiana University, and will be somewhat similar to those last year, when backgrounds were red and the numbers white. This year Purdue is in the saddle with old gold and black plates.

More Taxes—Or Less Spending?

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

News dispatches from Washington report that growing numbers of Congressmen, largely from the agricultural districts, are announcing their determination to stem the tide of rising taxes.

From the same source come reports of mounting living costs.

Probably the one statement explains the other. For, as the protesting Congressmen realize, high cost of government and high cost of living are indissolubly linked. They rise or fall together. And both levy their heavy toll at the same source—the income and savings of the American worker and earner.

How can that toll be reduced?

Advocates of a lighter burden of taxation offer the obvious answer: "Reduce government expenditures." Backed by official statistics, they point out that even though more tax money is pouring into the Federal coffers than in earlier years, outgo still exceeds income.

Cut the outgo, they insist, and taxes will not have to be increased. They may even be lessened, thus hastening the progress of recovery and widespread re-employment.

The American people are doing their part by paying taxes which, directly or indirectly, cut deeply into every worker's pay envelope and every housewife's budget.

It is not too much to ask that their representatives at Washington do their part, too, by eliminating unnecessary extravagance — even though political jobholders and political futures be endangered in the process.

There seems, in fact, no other choice. As a member of the Senate Finance Committee recently reminded his colleagues:

"It will be imperative that we impose heavier taxes if we do not cut down expenditures."

Like the Senator, the workers and earners of America know from bitter experience on whom these taxes will fall.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN The Safety Man

An automobile driver who will take his car out knowing that the brakes are not in the best of condition, ought not to be privileged to drive an automobile.

The ability to stop when it is absolutely necessary is very important. Can you stop? It is too late after the accident. It is, therefore, very necessary, that this part of your automobile be given regular and periodic inspections.

It is better to spend money for checking up brakes and having them adjusted than to have years of regret because of an automobile accident that you know full well could have been avoided had your brakes been in proper working condition.

After the accident has happened, many people know what should have been done or could have been done to have eliminated that accident, but how many think of these things while they are driving before the accident? Think!

Wore Prince Alberts

In the "nifty nineties," most United States senators wore Prince Alberts. The frock coat was a symbol of statesmanship and a beard was the mark of a man of maturity and subsiance.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

"It's easy to tell when a man is feeling healthy," asserts Laney Gee, "He thinks advice for keeping well is a lot of bunk."

Walter Stewart says that by the time a woman was ready to admit herself old enough to be president she'd be too old to hold the job.

A man's life must be pretty dull and empty when nothing interests him but somebody else's business.

According to Art Keester you can't get a job after you're 45, at 65 the government has to keep you, and at 70 you're declared unconstitutional.

"The cookbook," declares Mrs. Joe Goldsmith, "is another volume that is brim full of stirring passages."

In speaking about the rain Wednesday morning, ye editor inquired "can it rain any more," and John Crothers responded quickly, "no not any more, but it can rain as much." And that was well put.

Cal Laux says he read in a magazine where the world is due to come to an end in August, and he hopes we'll have nice weather for it.

Red Coral Always Prized

It is red coral that is and always has been prized, not solely for jewelry and buttons, but as a charm to bring safety, health and secrets not revealed to the ordinary person. As ancient Gauls rushed headlong into battle, they trusted their safety to their swords, strength and the "magic" coral imbedded in their shields or helmets. Many Italians and Indians regard coral as protection against the "evil eye." The world's red coral comes from the reefs off the Mediterranean coast of Africa, says the Washington Post, and is obtained chiefly by Italians.

NEWSWEEKLY SCRAPBOOK....

Week's Best Recipe

Stuffed Ham Slices—18 two-inch squares thinly sliced cooked ham; ½ cup white cream cheese; 2 tablespoons minced pimientos; 3 ripe olives, chopped; ⅛ teaspoon celery salt; ¼ teaspoon minced parsley. Place ham on a flat surface. Spread each slice with rest of ingredients, combined. Roll up, holding in place with wood picks. Chill until serving time.

Spring Style Hint

Spring dresses are simple and even severe in design, but the new hats are more ornate than they have been for many seasons. The shallow crowns (tall ones are completely out) are overloaded with fruit, flowers and feathers. Plums, peaches, cherries, and even miniature pineapples adorn the crowns of the new hats.

For the Gardener

Sow a row of marjoram to dry for poultry dressing. Likewise winter savery will come in handy . . . . Hunt up poles and grow some pole lima beans this year. You can get more beans to a pole than you can to six hills. . . . Inspect perennial borders and order seed of plants you want. Get them going now and you'll have plants all year.

In the Kitchen

Young, tender parsnips may be scraped like carrots, but old parsnips should be boiled until tender and then slipped out of their skins. . . . Cayenne pepper sprinkled on pantry shelves is sometimes effective in keeping mice away. . . . A half teaspoonful of baking soda added to boiling frosting will keep it from cork in your sewing basket. You will make pastry tough. . . . Onion juice will remove rust from tableware.

Those Who Sew

It's a good idea to keep a large can put the points of the scissors synod president was the Demo- or crochet needles or any other pointed instrument into the cork, protecting them from piercing the bag or from piercing your hand when you are rummaging through for thread or thimble.

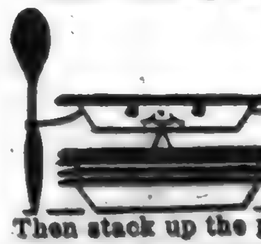
When making a dress, sew a piece of the material on the underneath side of the hem. Then if the dress ever needs a patch, one which matches the dress exactly will be available.

* * *

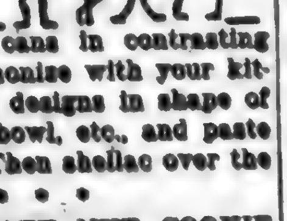


When making pie crust ahead of time, instead of leaving it in a lump, just roll it out and fit into pie pans. Then stack up the pastry-lined pans with wax paper between, and store in ice refrigerator. This enables one to make one-crust pies in record time.

* * *

Instead of spending a great deal of time peeling small potatoes, boil them with the skins on in salt water, then put them through a potato ricer. The skins stay in the ricer, so there is little waste and a lot of time is saved.

* * *



To make an attractive set of kitchen cannisters, try this idea: save cans of various sizes that have lids and paint the lids and cans in contrasting colors to harmonize with your kitchen. Cut out designs in shape of teapot, sugar bowl, etc., and paste on the cans. Then shellac over the design.

* * *

A CHOCOLATE NUT COOKIE RECIPE that you'll want to try: Melt 2 ounces of unsweetened chocolate and ⅓ cup of shortening over low flame. Cool slightly. Add 1 cup of brown sugar and 1 well-beaten egg; mix thoroughly. Then mix and sift together 2 cups of flour, 2 teaspoons of baking powder, and ½ teaspoon salt and add alternately with ¾ cup of milk. Add 1 cup broken nut meats. Then place in a modern ice refrigerator and reserve for future use. The mixture will not dry out or absorb odors in a modern ice refrigerator. When ready to bake, remove from refrigerator and drop by teaspoonfuls on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (375°) for 15 minutes.

* * *

If the baby tosses his toys on the floor just fasten these toys on strings and hang them on each side of his high chair just off the floor. Then change the toys frequently.

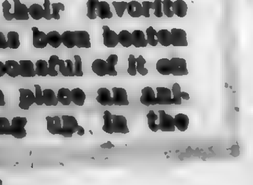
* * *

M-m-m! A Lemon Sherbert Recipe. Combine 1½ cups of granulated sugar and 1 quart of water and boil for 5 minutes. Soak 1 tablespoon of gelatin in 2 tablespoons of cold water and dissolve in the hot syrup. Cool. Add ¾ cup of lemon juice and a few drops of yellow food coloring. Pour mixture into freezing container of still ice cream freezer. Cover and surround with a mixture of chipped ice and salt (3 parts ice to 1 part salt, by volume). Cover freezer. Place in modern ice refrigerator. When partially frozen, make a meringue of 2 egg whites and 2 tablespoons of powdered sugar and add. Freeze about 1 hour. Stir at 15-minute intervals.

* * *

Cracked ice, in an ice bag or wrapped in a cloth, will often cure a headache when applied to the head, neck, or soles of the feet. Use manufactured ice, because it is frozen solidly and will last much longer than other ice.

* * *



You don't have to go around slipping on icy streets. To avoid this, stick some adhesive tape on the bottoms of your rubbers or galoshes.

* * *

Here's an "easy-to-do" idea that will give the small kiddies a treat. Make a batch of their favorite fudge and when it has been beaten just enough, drop spoonful of it on vanilla wafers. Then place an animal cracker, standing up, in the fudge on each wafer.

WORLD'S NEWEST BIG SHOW TO BE NEAR HERE

The world's largest circus, traveling on three trains of double-length steel railroad cars, with 1,080 people, 30 elephants, 812 menagerie animals and 500 horses will exhibit in Fort Wayne, Ind., Thursday, May 6 and throughout this section plans are perfecting for the attendance of every man, woman and child—so it seems—at one of the performances.

JUANITA HOBSON

Everybody wishes to see the Cole Bros.-Clyde Beatty Circus this year, which returned early in 1935 from a triumphal five year tour of Europe, and it is a foregone conclusion that the world's largest tent, seating 10,000 persons, will be filled to the last chair afternoon and night. Six rings and stages and the hippodrome track, to say nothing of the vast aerial maze for the earth's foremost arenic talent—400 acknowledged kings and queens of daring, grace, skill and incredible agility. Sixty clowns will project ten times that number of mirth waves. Countless new foreign features and innovations new to America are introduced on the gigantic program of the world's greatest amusement institution. Clyde Beatty's gigantic trained animal exhibition will be presented in the main performance.

Ken Maynard, the screen's greatest Western star, will personally be seen at every performance. Maynard has starred in 97 pictures produced at the major studios in Hollywood. He is by far the greatest prized star ever to be seen with a circus. Appearing in his wild west show this season will be scores of champion cow boys and cow girls, Indians and Cossacks.

One of the largest, finest and costliest street parades will be seen at 11 A. M. Hundreds of horses, five herds of elephants and two caravans of camels from the great desert will be seen. In the picturesque line of march will be more than three score of elaborately carved and gilded allegorical floats, tableau wagons and open dens and cages displaying the Clyde Beatty menagerie. Doors to the big show and the menagerie will open at 1 and 7 P. M. The big shows start at 2 and 8 P. M.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LII. (52 Years.) (In The St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA. THURSDAY, APRIL 29, 1937 NUMBER 17

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

On Monday afternoon, April 19th, twenty Girl Scouts, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Leighty, Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser and their Captain, Mrs. J. R. Goldsmith, had a picnic along the river south of St. Joe. The affair was planned by Leila Hurni and Jean Goldsmith and gives the girls credit on their First Class badge. Trail signs were laid and followed by the girls. Fires were built and fire tests passed by Mary Louise Woodcox, Rosemary Yeiser and Maxine Woodcox. Weiners and marshmallows were roasted. After several nature games were played the meeting was adjourned. April Bowser was a guest of the troop.

Ruth and Myra Keesler left on Thursday for Bellwood, Ala., for a few weeks visit. They plan to bring back a number of nature specimens for our collection.

Frances Reidenbach, Patricia Maxwell, Leila Hurni, Beverly Wade and June Goldsmith passed their Housekeeper's test Tuesday eve. Mrs. Fred Leighty gave the examination. Ruth and Myra Keesler passed the test before leaving for Alabama.

Martha Hart and Carol Reed joined our troop last week.

HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI CHOOSE 1938 OFFICERS

Following the banquet Saturday night, when the 27 members of the St. Joe graduating class became full fledged Alumni members, the election of officers for 1938 took place and Clark Scholes was chosen president; Vernie Monroe, vice president, and Mrs. Gladys Shull, secretary and treasurer.

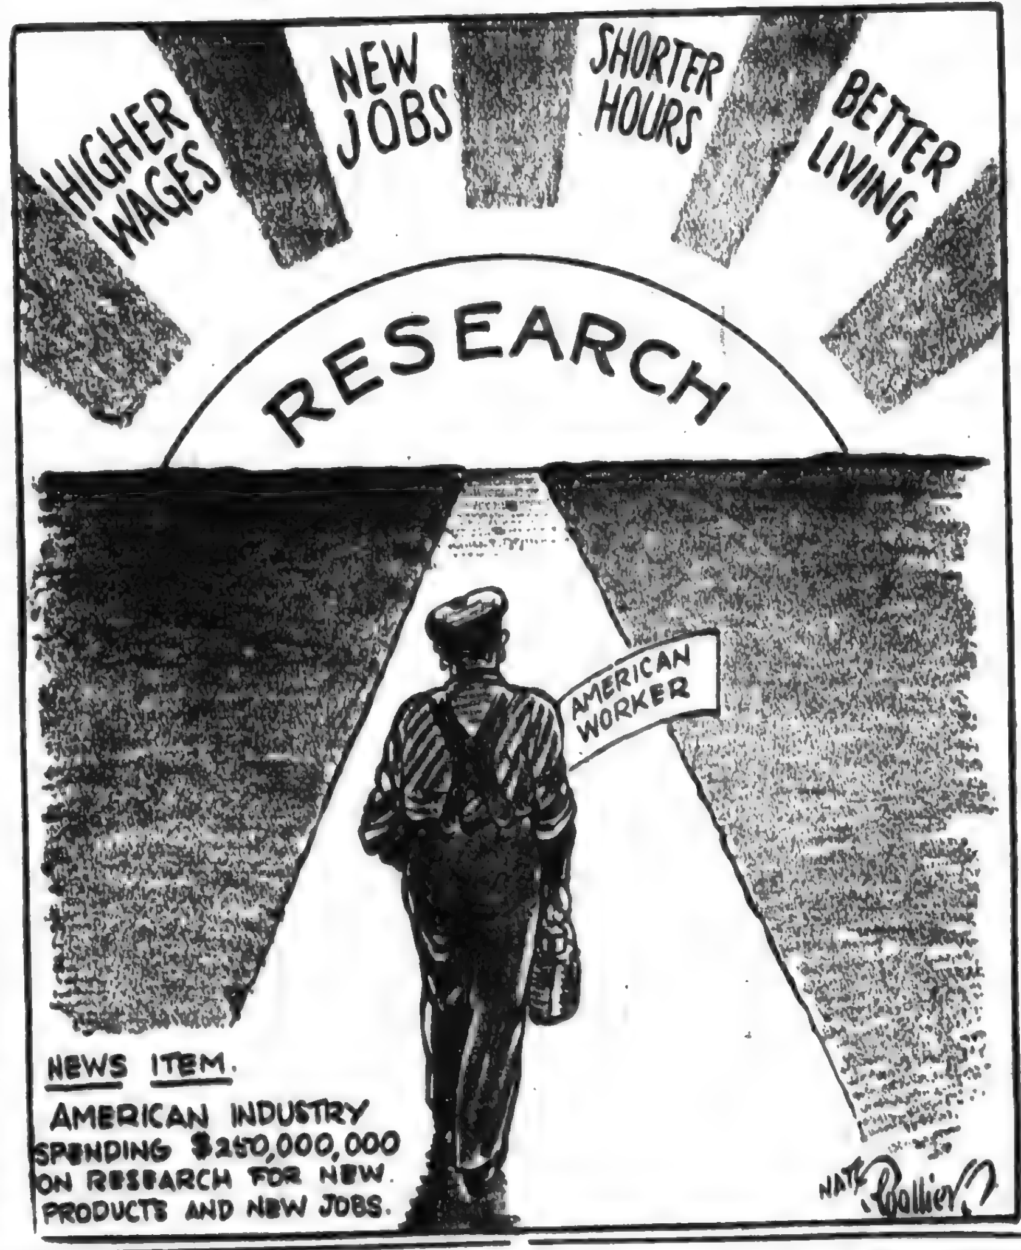
Lee O. Tustison acted as toast master with the following program being rendered:

Saxophone Solo, DuWayne Kinsey, accompanied by Earl Kinsey.
Selection....Mrs. Carleton Shull.
Welcome.....Margarette Wisler.
Response .... Charles Hart.
Banquet
Lee Tustison, "Food for Thought"
First Course
Dr. Clayton Hathaway "Food as a Physical Element"
Second Course
Reign Schondelmayer "Food for 1937"
Social Hour.

The serving was done by the Domestic Science girls and the food prepared by Mrs. Frank Williams and Mrs. Harley Like.

The guests were seated at small tables about the gym with the graduates at one large table. The evening was pleasantly spent with a number of former graduates from a distance in attendance.

THE RISING SUN



SPRING COUNCIL HELD NEXT SUNDAY

L. A. Ertzinger, of Huntington, has been engaged as principal speaker for the spring council meeting of the DeKalb County Sunday School Association to be held in the First M. E. Church in Auburn, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock (DST.) Mr. Ertzinger served for many years as president of the Huntington county association. He is also the oldest member, in point of years of service, on the board of directors of the Indiana State Council. The workers from every township are urged to attend this meeting.

TRI-TOWNSHIP FARM BUREAU

The next meeting of the Tri-Township Farm Bureau will be held in the gym at St. Joe on May 4th, at 7:30, (C. S. T.) with the following program:

Band Concert ...... St. Joe Band.
Community Singing.
Devotions .... Rev. Hubbartt.
Duet, Elsie Hall, Sylvia Washler.
Business Session.
Music .... Scudder Loucks.
Talk on Indiana Farm Bureau Insurance, Mr. Otto Waterman, County Director, also Carl Hart and Merritt Sechler.
Music by the Band.
Playlet .... Jackson Twp.
Dismissal.

The public is very cordially invited to attend these meetings.

ST. JOE WOMEN TO START CANCER DRIVE

The Women's Field Army drive for the control of cancer started Monday, April 26, and will continue throughout the week in St. Joe and vicinity.

The purpose of this drive is to build, throughout the country, "An enlightened lay group" thru the dissemination of sound, conservative material on the methods of cancer control.

Previously the educating lay public has been less successful, largely because less emphasis has been placed upon it. However, since 1920 the improvement in the percentages of five year cases has been so great and startling in those communities in which the educational campaign has been most intense and there cannot longer be any doubt that, until a special cure or prevention of cancer is found, the only method of control is through education of the public.

The Journal of the American Medical Association declared in 1935 that one of the pre-requisites of cancer control was "an enlightened lay group presenting itself either periodically or early, while the lesion is local, to a well informed family physician who is able to entertain symptoms who appreciates his limitations and who will refer his cases to a competent group or individual for diagnosis, prognosis and outline of treatment."

This is the first campaign of many to follow.

The enlistment is purely voluntary. The membership is $1. Smaller contributions are acceptable.

NOTICE, DOG OWNERS

Complaints have been made by citizens in St. Joe, to the town board, regarding dogs running at large and destroying garden plantings. Citizens of St. Joe owning dogs, and allowing them to roam about and trespass, are hereby notified to keep same on their own premises or same will be taken care of by our marshal. This same warning applies to chickens left to roam about.

16t2. ST JOE TOWN BOARD.

CLEAN-UP, APRIL 30

Rubbish of all kinds will be taken from your property if placed in boxes, barrels, or old containers and placed at the alley, Friday, April 30, so that it may be available for truck. No ashes will be removed.

The average woman's greatest wish is to be weighed and found wanting.

A man's word may be law in his home, but usually his wife is the Supreme Court.

Europe's new slogan seems to be: "Billions for war equipment but not a nickel for war debts."

And remember, paying taxes brings a feeling of relief even if it doesn't bring a feeling of satisfaction.

It may be all right to tell a man "if the shoe fits you, wear it," but a woman always wants one about two sizes smaller.

The world must be getting better. You seldom hear anyone trying to get a laugh now by telling a mother-in-law joke.

Beads of perspirations caused by honest toil seem to be out of the picture this day and time as a fashionable decoration.

Women probably know best, but most of us can recall some mighty good looking ones who depended wholly on soap and water for a make-up.

There are now three classes: The noisy and vulgar lower class, the sedate and sensible middle class and the noisy and vulgar upper class.

No matter what kind of a winter it may have been, there's always someone standing round to tell you the peach crop has been killed.

This day and time nothing can make a father madder than to be told by a 15-year-old offspring that he's "living in the past."

According to the papers, the coronation of King George VI will be attended by Yeta III, paramount of Barotesland a casual but humiliating item which reminds us that there are lots of things that we don't know.

When private citizens meet by chance in the barber shop or on the street, it is common enough to ask: "How's business?" but no one puts that inquiry to the government, perhaps because it does not go to the barber shop, although it does get trimmed now and then, as the unpaid war debts bear witness. If asked, the well known and important character called Uncle Sam, whose name is not in the telephone book or directory, would have to admit that business is just so-so. Revenue has fallen off, particularly that expected from income taxes, and so it comes about that something will have to be done. The President has asked for an appropriation for relief and recovery, adding in substance that hereafter we must cut more nearly in accordance with our cloth. To that sound suggestion, both Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress seem inclined to lend support. Longfellow's village blacksmith was said to be able to "look the world in the face, for he owes not any man." If he had been compelled to manage the federal budget, probably he would have looked out the window, and if the government had nothing but a blacksmith shop on its hands, there would be no talk about being in the red. In any event there is some satisfaction in the thought that those in power glance forward to the day when the cork can be put in the red ink bottle and hammered home.

Speaking of money matters, any one who thinks that the U. S. A. puts its foot down hard when the tax collecting Doomsday comes around, will do well to turn his attention to Britain for a moment. Over there they are going to have a twenty-five per cent levy on incomes, and for arming and defense, at that. It is to be hoped that carrier forgot to deliver at the door of the income tax unit in Washington, the particular morning paper which contained that bit of news. It might put bad notions into heads that have enough bad notions already. A twenty-five per cent tax on incomes can be reduced without difficulty to a statement which all can understand easily. It is equivalent to getting 75 dollars in the pay envelope instead of 100 dollars. Pay and profits, by the way, cannot be considered merely as the cash which appears in hand under those heads. They are, rather, the money that remains after someone who holds the club has taken out his portion, whether or not the other fellow likes the proceeding.

The state of Michigan used to have a road which was said to narrow down to a foot path, peter out into a squirrel track, run up a tree and end in a squirrel hole. The plan to work changes in the Supreme Court seems to be following just such a highway. According to report, Justices McReynolds, Brandeis and Van Devanter will retire from the benches within the next few months, and it is predicted that Congress will let slide what promised to be definite action on the necessity for overhauling of the federal courts. Such a course would be doubly unfortunate. Upon the one hand, it would lay those who think that a change in the personnel of the court is necessary open to the charge of getting what they want, through the working of an unlooked for happening. Upon the other hand, it would deprive those who are satisfied with things as they are, of the opportunity of fighting to a finish in which the question would be settled for many years to come. Either the court needs a shaking up or it does not. The issue is of too vital a nature to be thrust aside temporarily by chance or expediency. Neither side will gain in the respect of the general public by dodging through a loophole of escape.

SEED CATALOGS

A penny postcard will bring to any St. Joe citizen who cares to invest a seed catalog that from an artistic standpoint is a whole art gallery in itself. And yet the seed catalog with its pretty pictures isn't as old as one might think. It was not until 1865 that a seed catalog was printed in the United States with colored illustrations, and even that first one carried but a single page in colors, so costly was such form of advertising in those days. But as the result of steady improvement in color printing, seedsmen are today able to distribute catalogs that are of the highest artistic type and that bring joy to the eyes of millions of flower and vegetable lovers, at a cost to each one of but a penny postcard. So it is with many other things which we enjoy for a trifle today, but which our ancestors had to do without, or purchase at prices which placed them beyond the reach of the great mass of people.

DOING OUR DUTY

This newspaper, or any other newspaper for that matter, would be neglecting its duty to its readers at this time if it failed to sound a warning against further delay in getting their spring cleaning and repairing done. It could cite a dozen good reasons why such work ought to be rushed as never before, but one seems sufficient at this time. That is the sure but steady advance in the price of everything, everywhere in the U. S. You don't have to take any man's word for this. Just keep on delaying the repair work or building you have been planning to do, and you'll discover its truthfulness. Local business places can sell you the things you need as low —in many cases lower—than they can be bought anywhere else, but the local merchant can't prevent price increases. The producer regulates that, and from all appearances they have only just started to boost them. So accept this timely advice. Buy what you need now, or pay more later.

OUR RESPONSIBILITY

Most everyone in St. Joe is bound by heartstring ties to children, and realizes what anguish always follows injury to anybody's child. A normal person would not deliberately kill or hurt a little child, yet statistics show that many are killed or hurt by careless and reckless drivers who probably are in every other respect what can be called normal. We suggest that every motorist, every time he steps in a car, think of a child—his own or any child—then drive every moment so as to protect all children. Keep before you as you drive the mental picture of some healthy, happy youngster you know. Then drive as though this same youngster were at play in the street ahead of you, or riding in a car that you are about to pass. And don't forget—when you drive to protect a child you are also driving to protect everyone. You seldom ever hear of an auto accident being caused by too much precaution on the part of the drivers.

THEN AND NOW

One of the most amazing things to the average citizen is the seemingly short space of time that has elapsed since it was next to impossible to buy fresh vegetables in a St. Joe grocery during the winter months. Thirty years ago about the only thing in this line a grocer could offer his customers were carrots, onions, potatoes and turnips. Now it is possible to get vegetables of every variety right in the dead of winter, if the procer chooses to carry them.

Today grocery display of vegetables in every section of the United States is just as attractive in December or January as it is in June or July. Beans, peas, tomatoes, lettuce and radishes alternate in colorful rows with beets, carrots, parsnips, and celery. Improved transportation, modern methods of refrigeration and hothouse growing of garden truck have brought about this change.

Prices are, of course, lower when these vegetables are in the season locally, and when gardens are producing. But even now prices for these same things in winter months are becoming lower each year as growers and shippers learn more and more about packing them and keeping them fresh for long periods.

Fresh vegetables the year round is something to be thankful for. It means better eating and better health in the home, and that certainly is in itself sufficient to cause every citizen to rejoice that he is living in an era of year-round vegetables.

SOME LOCAL BRIEFS

Albert and Forest Rowe spent from Saturday until Wednesday in the home of their sister, Mrs. Ellen Dewitt, near Auburn Junction.

Rev. Catron, Sam Keesler and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kees were at Indianapolis last week attending a church meeting.

Ed Leighty had an accident at Auburn a few days ago when his truck damaged the fender of a car to the extent of $8.00.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Benner and Mr. and Mrs. Verle Benner and daughter, Nancy Lee, of Mt. Clemens, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Forest Fusselman, of Newville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Laney Gee Saturday and also called on other relatives in St. Joe.

Mr. and Mrs. Biglow Ramp and Mrs. Phoebe Collar, of Columbia City, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Feist and two children, of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. John Beard, Mrs. Buell Smalley and little daughter, Ileta Kay, of Waterloo, were afternoon and evening callers in the Mrs. Jane Randall home, Sunday.

Sounding the call for more volunteers for this summer's Citizens' Military Training Camps, Army Headquarters at Fort Hayes, Columbus, Ohio, announced that 5,400 young men of Indiana, Kentucky, and West Virginia had filed applications to attend. Six thousand applications are sought.

Mrs. Parlia Hull and son, of South Bend, were home from Friday evening until Sunday, to attend the Alumni banquet. Also Mr. and Mrs. C. Crook, of Lafayette, were here for this annual event. Mrs. Crook will be remembered as Miss Ethel Green. They visited in the O. E. Ginther home.

A birthday dinner was enjoyed last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morr in honor of their sons, Samuel and Norman, whose birthdays fell on Friday of last week, and Tuesday, this week, respectively. Relatives present were Mr. and Mrs. Silas Reasoner, of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Am Reinhart and two children, Wilbur and Wilma, Mr. and Mrs. Lancaster Morr, Mr. and Mrs. DuWayne Baker and two children, Isabel and Norma Jean. The little fellows thoroughly enjoyed the honor as well as the older guests present.

Mrs. Alice Zimmerman, a former resident of Auburn, died on Sunday morning at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Minne Jennings, of Denver, Colo. The deceased, aged 88 years, was a sister of E. M. Bishop, a patient in the Dr. J. A. Sanders hospital following a stroke of paralysis, and Mrs. Minnie Kagey, also of Auburn. She left Auburn eight years ago to reside at Denver. Mrs. Zimmerman was born and reared on a farm west of Spencerville and was the widow of Sylvester Zimmerman. He died in 1906. She was one of a family of six boys and three girls and lived in Auburn for about 45 years. Besides the daughter at whose home she died, Mrs. Zimmerman is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Lena Anger, of Amarillo, Texas.

Mrs. Lehr Wilder was R. H. C. hostess Tuesday afternoon and gave a very interesting description of their Florida trip and displayed many souvenirs.

Mesdames Ada Berry and Mary Betz spent Saturday night and Sunday in the home of their niece, Mrs. Ed. Bryan, and family of near Columbia City.

Mrs. Leland Callaway is spending two weeks with her husband, traveling through Ohio and Pennsylvania. Miss Norma Rickerd is staying with the children.

Mrs. Walter Keesler and three daughters, left Thursday morning for Bellwood, Ala., where they will visit Mrs. Keesler's mother, Mrs. George King. They made the trip in two days with her nephews, Willard and Frazier Bryan, who came for them. They will remain for a couple of months at least.

"SOMETHING ROTTEN IN DENMARK"
Act I—Hamlet

Don't* LET IT HAPPEN IN YOUR REFRIGERATOR

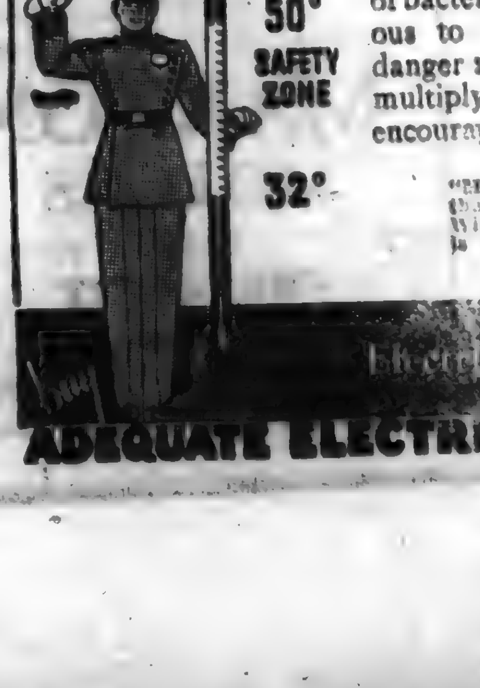
WHEN Hamlet, prince of Denmark, first suspected the murder of his father, there was no foul stench to assail his nostrils . . . not until a ghost walked did he become fully aware of the decay within his household.

So it is with food: You cannot always depend upon sight and taste in deciding the edibility of food. Oftentimes food that smells all right has reached a stage of bacterial development which is dangerous to life. Above 50 degrees is the danger zone for storing food, as bacteria multiply rapidly and mold growth is encouraged.



"Mechanical Refrigeration" means the production of cold by a machine. With Mechanical Refrigeration, there is no substitute for Electric Power.

MORTUARY

SOWERS

Wm. Sowers, 71, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Mark Murphy in Newville township, on Monday and burial was made from Scipio, Wednesday afternoon with Rev. Clayton, officiating.

Mr. Sowers was born in Allen county in 1866. Four daughters survive, Mrs. Clair Miller and Mrs. John Nugen, of Auburn, Bernice Sowers, Hicksville, and Mrs. Mark Murphy. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Malinda Shilling of St. Joe and Mrs. Katie Brace, of Hicksville, and five grandchildren.

Mayola Kinsey & Son had charge of the burial.

SHULL

Joseph Smith Shull, son of Daniel and Mabel Susan (Newcomer) Shull, was born in the community of Coburntown, January 11, 1851, and died at his residence in Spencer Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, April 20, 1937, having attained the age of 86 years, 3 months and 9 days.

Mr. Shull and Lucy Frances Jones were united in marriage on November 28, 1869. Four sons and one daughter were born to them. William C., Clemant A. of near Hicksville, O. K., of St. Joe, Daniel L., of Bucyrus, Ohio, and Mrs. Mabel Hart, of Hicksville, O.

The larger family circle includes 20 grandchildren, 22 great grandchildren, and one great great grandchild.

Mr. Shull's entire life was spent in the Coburntown community, his death occurring less than a half mile from his birthplace. In this community he engaged successfully in farming, the manufacture of brick, drain tile and other occupations suited to the development of the country. His eighty-six years covers a period that reaches far back into the early experiences of this section of Indiana.

In early manhood Mr. Shull united with the local Christian Church, wherein he lived consistently and faithfully until his death. Many years ago, when the congregation was engaged in rebuilding the church house, Mr. Shull was selected as one of the committeemen who led in that important undertaking. His service was highl yefficient and honorable.

Mr. Shull's family remained unbroken until a few years ago, when his wife and oldest son, William C., were called in death.

No vain boast now mars his finished task. He lived humbly among his fellows. He did a generous share of the necessary toil. He was a devoted family man and a credit to his home community.

The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. N. Scholes from the Coburntown Church, Thursday afternoon with burial in Alton Cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire in this manner to thank our friends and neighbors for their many kind acts and words of consolation, during our bereavement.

The Children.

SUMMER TALKIES TO START SATURDAY NIGHT

First of the Summer Programs To Begin Saturday Night May Eighth

Weather permitting, the summer programs in the open air, will start with talking movies Saturday night, and we anticipate a large crowd of eager folk to witness the opening night's program.

Seats will be provided as far as possible for the crowd, by the town, while the merchants will sponsor the program.

Make it your business to start in with the first night's picture and follow through the summer.

The release of pictures for the first night will be Lew Cody in Parisian Romance; Warren Williams in "Love Past Thirty;" or Bob Steele in "Riding Fool," together with good selected shorts.

UNUSUAL BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION, SUNDAY

Jay Snyder and Mrs. Grover Morr celebrated their birthdays, Sunday, May 2nd at the home of Jay Snyder and family. They started the day by having Sunday School, the lesson being taught by Mr. Clarence Woodcox with great success. There were 21 present. The collection amounted to $1.15 and will be given to the Church of Christ Sunday School. Following this dinner was served to 49 persons, those present being Mr. and Mrs. Jay Snyder and family, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Morr and family, of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Snyder and son, Jr., of Grabill, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Snyder and son, Bob, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Hade and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Newell, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Severns, all of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stonebraker and family, Bob Campbell, of Corunna, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Woodcox, Mr. and Mrs. Catron and family, of St. Joe, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Goll, of north of Fort Wayne.

In the afternoon they were entertained with music by four boys from Fort Wayne, and all thoroughly enjoyed the day.

SPENCER TWP. 4- H CLUB

The Spencerville 4-H Club met at 1:30 in the school house Thursday afternoon, with 13 members present. Our song leader, Fara Lee Walter, led in singing "Little Jigger," and "When My Dream Boat Comes Home." The roll call was answered by my favorite hobby. Mrs. Carl Hart gave a talk on parliamentary practice. Evelyn Shook gave a very interesting demonstration on hemming a towel. Mrs. Boger was present and helped the girls pick out their dress patterns and taught the second year girls how to darn socks. After the work hour we played games and then adjourned. Keep up the good work girls, we already have two new members.

Carol Reed, Club Reporter.

A THING OF BEAUTY TO BEHOLD

It is not often that one has a chance to see a hundred acres of flowers, yet when the orchards at St. Joe come into bloom this week there will be more than that in the square mile in which these orchards are located.

The prediction now is that the bloom will begin to appear about Friday of this week and be well out by Sunday. It is well worth a long drive to see these blossoms for as everybody knows the apple blossom is the most beautiful of all fruit flowers.

The famous cherry blossoms at Washington are not in themselves nearly as rich in color and variety of shades as these apple blossoms, but of course have a more romantic setting near the water at the nation's capital, and the additional interest of their history and origin. At any rate a trip to these orchards at blooming time well repays the effort.

TOWN BOARD HAD A BUSY SESSION

The Monday evening session of the town board was full of interesting business matters.

DuWayne Kinsey made a report of his inspection as health officer and the board accepted same, with the assurance that a cleaning up will have to be made by everyone, and that they would back the health requirement law.

The matter of drains was discussed and the marshal was ordered to complete the drain in the west end on the north side of the street and also to prepare open side ditch west of Frank Porter's to take care of street, also to change up catch basin at the Sam Armstrong alley.

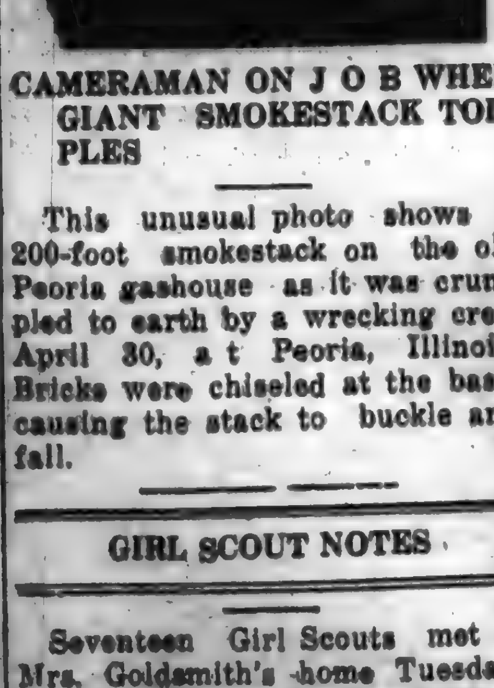
The board agreed to furnish material in changing up drain from the M. E. Storer home east on Main Street to allow the drainage of basements.

A permit was given Sam Armstrong for the use of his pop corn machine in front of the Schondelmayer Store. The permit gives him a 10-foot frontage next to the sidewalk.

Leslie Meek was given a 25 year lease on a 30-foot roadway on the east side of the land purchased for city dump, of the Wm. Curie estate, so that he may have access to his land. A $25 lease fee was charged. Also a 10 year lease was given him for the remainder of the low land for family purposes at a $10.00 per year fee. The town owns 2.31 acres of land here.

Ben Soule requested an alley line drawn west past his house. He bought three lots of Earl Smith on the west and he wants to eliminate trespassing.

The water works situation has reached a serious stage for the board. Last word from the WPA and PWA puts the matter of complete financing up to St. Joe, with a probable refund of up to 45% of cost of project. The project is estimated between $42,500 and $44,544 and the board is of the opinion that the matter is beyond their reach.



CAMERAMAN ON J O B WHEN GIANT SMOKESTACK TOPPLES

This unusual photo shows a 200-foot smokestack on the old Peoria gashouse as it was crumpled to earth by a wrecking crew April 30, at Peoria, Illinois. Bricks were chiseled at the base, causing the stack to buckle and fall.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

Seventeen Girl Scouts met at Mrs. Goldsmith's home Tuesday. Three girls joined the Troop, Mary Elizabeth Catron, Opal Kinsey and April Bowser.

The Tenderfoot Girl Scouts were passed on part of their Tenderfoot work by Mrs. Doris Yeiser. Mrs. Goldsmith and the Second Class Girl Scouts worked on their First Class Observer badge.

We continued reading the book, "The Song of the Cardinal."

Mrs. Doris Yeiser has been appointed Second Lieutenant of our troop.

Our meeting day has been changed from Monday afternoon to Tuesday afternoon of each week.

Patricia Maxwell, Scribe.

New Staff Artist

B. C. CURTIS

When Mr. Curtis was some years younger he was invited to lend his talents to the political campaign of the Governor of a mid-western state seeking reelection. His cartoons played a major part in the success of the campaign and also started him off in a new field in which he has been spectacularly successful. Mr. Curtis' early life was spent in a small rural community, he later attended the Morgan Park Military Academy, Colgate University and studied art at the Chicago Art Institute. The artist's hobbies are cartooning and golf at which he occasionally breaks at 72. Mr. Curtis combines the talents of the artist with the nose for news of the newspaper man. He is keenly observant, an avid reader, an individual with thousands of contacts with people of all types. While Mr. Curtis has a well developed sense of humor, he also has a full appreciation of the more serious aspects of world wide affairs. The character of his cartoons will be impressions of "breaks" in the days news, graphically presented, and always of current interest to our readers. These cartoons will appear exclusively in The St. Joe News.

It sounds old-fashioned, but few problems would remain if all men told the truth and acted square.

The depression was not all bad. It gave the people temporary relief from high-powered salesmen.

Voting isn't easy. It takes some figuring to have anybody left after you've finished voting against those you don't approve.

Peace conferences are a good deal like prayer meetings. The people who need them most are the ones who don't attend them.

The laziest man in the country has been located. He turned his entire 1936 income over to the government and told it to figure out the rebate to him.

THE IDEAL WIFE

What kind of wives do farm boys want? That is the question recently asked of students attending the University of Iowa, and the answers they gave would also probably apply to the average young man living around St. Joe. In the first place the boys insisted that their wives should come from the farms or small towns; that they do not smoke; that they be 'not bad looking;" that they be able to dance, and that they be good pals. And according to the requirements of a large majority of the students filling in the answer blanks, so the girls who may have been doing a little wondering along the same line can now go right ahead and make their future plans accordingly. Meeting any of the requirements should not be difficult—not even to the last one. This day in time changing ever from a blonde to a brunette is only a matter of hours, even though there might be a lot of work attached to keeping up the deception.

PROFIT AND LOSS

One of the most common fallacies now current, which muddles the economic thinking of the people, is the idea that when one man makes money another loses it. This false belief makes good material for the demagog and helps to make class hatred. Statistics show that the total wealth of the nation has decreased more than $100,000,000,000 during the last six years. This wealth is gone, no one has it. Present values depend on prospective earnings, and during a depression earnings disappear and values evaporate. In other words, in our case we have discounted our future earning prospects by more than $100,000,000,000. This can be seen more clearly when we consider that if, in 1929, we had lost the total bank deposits of the nation and all the gold in the treasury, our losses would not have exceeded $50,000,000,000. That's all there is to it, and the man who tells you that a certain class got rich off of the depression he is a demagog and is trying to deceive you.

FARM "SIT-DOWNS"

If the new fad of sit-down strikes ever hits the farm it's going to bring everyone around St. Joe a lot of good laughs. Just think of a farmer, as he goes to feed the hogs, for instance. He would sit down on the pig pen and sit there until the price of pork advanced. Then the housewife, when half through with her churning would stage a sit-down strike until the price of butter advanced. Not another lick would she churn, but just sit there, dasher in hand, unconcerned as to whether the butter came or not.

The farm hand, too, going out to milk would sit upon his milking stool and when about half done would cease his labor, take a chew of tobacco, stretch out his legs in comfort and remain there until his wages were raised. Night would come and the farm hand would lay his manly head over against old Bossy's side and fall to sleep until the dawning of another day, but without another drop of milk being forced down into the pail.

Yes, there's going to be a lot of fun when the sit-down strike fad hits the farm, and yet it might prove a good thing. It would shut off the food supply of the city sit-down strikers, and without the farmer's meat, milk, butter, eggs and vegetables a sit-downer would quickly surrender. Maybe a general sitting-down on the farm would stop all that sort of silly—and costly—nonsense on the city when nothing else could.

ROASIDE VANDALISM

It's hard to understand just what it is in the makeup of some people that enables them to derive pleasure out of destroying other people's property. Just try to imagine how forlorn the countryside would be around St. Joe without flowers and trees and shrubbery along the roadways. Then you will be in a position to wonder more than ever how anyone can find joy in such ruthless and unnecessary vandalism as you frequently see enacted. Breaking the limbs off of flowering trees and carting them off by the auto load seems to be a sort of mania with some people; an outdoor sport they appear to derive pleasure from. They seem not to realize that they are not only taking that which does not belong to them but they are robbing others of the joys that natural beauties afford. Nature has been generous with this community. For that reason she deserves a better fate than is meted out to her by the roadside vandal.

POOR SPELLERS

Taken as a whole, our school system may be far more efficient than it was a half-century ago, but in one respect it is sadly lacking. The present generation of spellers is the poorest this nation has ever known. Grandpa may have been lacking in many of the things which now go to make up a general education, but the generation to which he belonged could outspell the present one both ways against the middle.

This is not said with any desire to cast a reflection on school methods now employed in and around St. Joe because it is nation-wide in scope. The ratio of poor spellers among those of high school age is no higher here than elsewhere, nor is it any lower. Back in the old days, before pupils had the wide variety of studies now embraced in a common school course, the three R's claimed the whole attention of the scholar. He learned to read and write, and he learned mathematics and, having but these three studies he learned them thoroughly. In those days being a poor speller was looked upon as more or less of a disgrace. Today it seems to be viewed by the average high school boy or girl as an accomplishment.

In recent years there has been a tendency throughout the country to revive the old-fashioned "spelling bee." Even the radio stations are finding them a source of entertainment. It is an idea worth encouraging, since it seems to be about the only means left of improving that fast-declining accomplishment. The old-fashioned "spelling bee" helped make the older generations good spellers. It ought to likewise prove of value to the present generation, the poorest generation of spellers this country has possibly ever produced.

THE MEMORIAL POPPY

The idea of the poppy as a memorial flower for the World War dead sprang up as naturally as the little wild flower itself grows in the fields of France and Flanders. The flower was the one touch of beauty which survived amid the hideous destruction of war. Along the edge of the trenches, beneath the tangled barbed wire, about the ragged shell holes and over the fresh graves it raised its brave red blossom. It seemed to be the one immortal thing in that region where death reigned. The soldiers of all nations came to look upon it as the living symbol of the sacrifices of their dead comrades.

The Auxiliary's poppy program begins in the late fall and early winter when the manufacture of the poppies is started by disabled veterans in government hospitals and in special convalescent workshops maintained by the Auxiliary. Throughout the winter and spring months the disabled men are given profitable employment shaping the little red flowers. The program comes to a climax in May when, on the Saturday before Memorial Day in most communities the sale of the poppies takes place on the streets.

The work of making the poppies is a true God-send to many hundreds of disabled veterans. They are paid for the flowers they shape, and if not too badly disabled can earn a fair day's wage without exerting themselves to a harmful extent. The work is given only to men receiving little or no government compensation, and for many it is the only possibility of earning money during the year.

As each completed poppy leaves the hands of a disabled man it means monetary help for the necessities and comforts not supplied by the hospitals, a small amount of money added to the little store for the veteran's use when he goes from the hospital to face the battle of winning back a place in the economic life of the country, or help toward buying food, fuel and clothing for his family at home.

The poppy sale now takes place almost everywhere on the Saturday before Memorial Day. The sale is conducted entirely by volunteer workers and every penny received goes into direct relief for the disabled men and the dependents of the dead and the disabled.

If, when a price is asked, the workers say "there is no price—give what you can" the heart is the dictator and the donations often are large.

Sale will be conducted by the local Auxiliary.

MOTHER'S DAY

In all our long list of holidays none carries a sweeter sentiment and none should be more generally observed than the one which falls this year on May 9—Mother's Day.

Unlike some of them, here is one the celebartion of which carries no thought of military glory, no harsh reminder of marching men and bloodsoaked battlefields. Peace, with far more victories than war can ever claim, is the spirit of this, the sweetest of all our more recent holidays—peace and the mother-love which passeth understanding. Patience and self-sacrifice are other virtues that stand forth as we enter again into the celebration of Mother's Day, virtues that are the very soul of motherhood and that help to make the foundation on which this old world rests. You may overlook or ignore most holidays and be none the worse for doing so. But it is different with Mother's Day, just as mothers differ from all others whose affections we enjoy. Mother never forgets; mother-love never falters; the mother heart is always loyal to those who drew their life blood from it.

And so as we come again to the observance of this sweetest of holidays let it be said that every heart in St. Joe was mindful of it and paid its silent memorial to her. A word of cheer, a letter of greeting, a flower in the lapel or a little bloom placed upon her last resting place—these will serve as your tribute to one whose goodness mankind has not yet been able to measure. Pay that tribute this Mother's Day, and as you pay it hope in your heart to always be worthy of her.

DAMAGE CAUSED BY THE APRIL BLIZZARD

The above picture shows U. S. Highway 12 between Milbank and Summit, S. D., after the snow and wind storm in late April. More than 200 poles were blown down in addition to other damages due to the storm.

PURELY PERSONAL

Free Talkies Saturday night.

Four miles of steel is being distributed along the west bound B. & O. tracks this week.

Airports in the United States represent an investment of more than a hundred million dollars.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Hendricks and family, of Auburn, called on Mr. and Mrs. John Wineland, Saturday.

The great essentials of happiness are something to do, something to love, and something to hope for.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moody and daughter, of Garrett, called at the Wilbur Yeiser home, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wyatt and little daughter Carol Sue, of Ft. Wayne, spent over Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hursh.

Mrs. J. C. Hull attended the Mother and Daughter banquet at the M. E. Church, Auburn, Monday evening as the guest of Mrs. Wm. Quance.

Ercil Steward and wife, of Butler, and Mrs. Hazel Steward, of Spencerville, were Sunday afternoon callers of Mrs. Mary Betz and Mrs. Berry.

Herbert Curie and family, of Garrett, Garold Cook and family, of Hicksville, Miss Ruth Curie and Wm. Moore, took Sunday dinner in the Frank Curie home here.

Shooting of rifles in the incorporation is again attracting much attention from St. Joe citizens. Boys are more or less careless in this and parents really should prohibit this practice.

Mrs. Delora Curie left Tuesday for Norwalk, Ohio, where she will spend a couple of weeks with her sister, Mrs. Frank Boyles and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Quance and children, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Quance and daughter, of Auburn, and F. B. Leighty and wife, took supper Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull.

The Economy Cleaning company of Auburn, has bought the Garrett laundry. Theron George, who has been associated with the Economy Cleaning company, will operate the laundry. Extensive improvements and reconditioning of the plant at Garrett and the addition of new equipment will be made before the laundry is reopened.

It is evident that a number of dog owners about St. Joe have failed to read the notice issued by the town board, so we think it is advisable to call the attention of the dogs to this notice. You had better stay at home, or near there so that if you see the marshal coming your way, you can beat him to it, by being on your premises.

The Women's Field Army drive for the control of cancer started last week and will close this week end throughout St. Joe and vicinity. The committee is very anxious to contact everyone in the community, but should anyone be missed and you desire to make a contribution, will you please see Mrs. Frank Curie or Mrs. Frank Bowman by Friday evening.

GINGER BREAD HOUSE

Good to look at and good to eat. PEOPLE OF OUR TOWN

THIS TOWN IS GOOD ENUFF FOR ME!
CHARLEY JOHNSON

Here's to the Prosperous Citizen who has Money Enough to live Anywhere, but Prefers to stay Right Here in Our Town. He says there are Larger Towns but no Better Ones, and he thinks the Home Folks are the Best in the World. Them's Our Sentiments, Too!

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE!

Expressed here are the ideas of our readers under their signature and their own responsibility.

PREFERS TOWNSEND PLAN

I want to wirte a few lines about the Townsend Plan. I read in the Ft. Wayne Journal Gazette a few weeks ago, an article written on the Townsend Plan. He said that the Townsend Plan was perfectly sound and workable and would have to become a law and would pass. But now is a Townsend Blunder. He said Franklin D. Roosevelt has a plan just like the Townsend Plan, and he, (Roosevelt) was going to put his across, (another fooler.) If Roosevelt has a plan just like the Townsend Plan, it will not be in the way of financing, as we know all of his financing has been through the Federal Banks.

Here Is A Good First Chapter

Day after day during the past weeks, banks have been dumping U. S. Bonds. Why?

Is it because the Bankers regard U. S. Bonds as worthless?

The Federal Reserve, we are told, is buying U. S. Bonds to save their marketes. What with?

Are not Federal Reserve Bank Notes issued against Bonds in the first place?

I only state the above to show that the money that Roosevelt has been furnishing has largely been by Government Bonds and this is what I believe the people are trying to get away from. The Townsend Plan is truly a recovery plan. The money is issued and given to the people direct at the age of sixty or over.

Where the Money Is Coming From

The Federal Reserve board and other competent authorities have testified that in 1929 the total business transactions in the United States amounted to twelve hundred billion dollars. Right now the annual business transactions are approximately nine hundred billion dollars. A two per cent transaction tax on this sum will amount to one billion five hundred million dollars the first month, or the amount required to disburse $200 each to approximately seven and a half million of our Fathers and Mothers, who will be the prosperity agents of the Government enforcing this money into circulation each month, by spending all of it in our stores and various useful purposes and under sane business regulations.

Petillo Returns to Wheel in 500-Miler

I QUIT RACING
KELLY PETILLO
I DON'T THINK I WILL!

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — A champion never quits even though he may announce his retirement.

Kelly Petillo, hard-driving Italian who won a spectacular victory in the 1935 Indianapolis 500-mile race, told the world that he had definitely hung up his goggles but he came back to the Hoosier track last year as a car owner.

He turned his sleek speedster over to Doc MacKenzie and was contented to let that be-whiskered pilot do the work until trouble started to happen at 355 miles. MacKenzie had been running in fourth place when he came to the pits to adjust a balky carburetor. He spent two minutes and 35 seconds in this operation and, so hot was the competition he dropped from fourth to eighth position, Ted Horn, Mauri Rose, Chet Miller, Rex Mays and Floyd Roberts passing him.

This was entirely too much for Kelly's racing blood and he went back into competition taking the car himself, caught and passed Miller and Rose and finished the car in third money position when Shorty Cantlon, Roberts and Mays ran out of gasoline.

Kelly has entered his car again in the Silver Anniversary race this year on Monday, May 31, and named another driver but few believe that he will remain in the pits for the entire race.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

Sam Armstrong says in a free land every man has a right to be wrong until he sets himself up as a guide.

Clark Scholes says he can't help but wonder if peace is worth what it costs to fight for it.

"Nowadays," asserts Carleton Shull, "an accident is any mishap followed by a groan and a lawsuit."

Maybe Providence gave us an imagination so we could use it to dream and forget what a mess we're in.

Acording to George Baker one wife can find more wrong with a man than the consultation of half a dozen doctors.

A lot of men wake up to appreciate great truths—after it's about ten year too late.

J. P. Buckingham says he can't understand why it always seems to takes a pair of squeaky shoes so much longer to get anywhere.

"In the spring," asserts Ted Strouse, "a young man's fancy turns to what the girls have been thinking about all winter."

"If you want to be happy," says Rev. Ferster, "forget the good you have done to others and the evil they have done to you."

NEWSWEEKLY SCRAPBOOK....

Week's Best Recipe

Boston Cream Pie—4 tablespoons butter; ½ cup sugar; 2 eggs; one-half cup milk; one-half teaspoon vanilla; ¼ teaspoon lemon extract; 1½ cups pastry flour; 3 teaspoon baking powder; ⅛ teaspoon salt. Cream butter and sugar. Add rest of ingredients and beat two minutes. Pour into two small layer cake pans fitted with waxed paper. Bake twenty minutes in a moderate oven.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Two fruits often are more appetizing than one, especially in the opinion of the child who becomes tired of looking at stewed prunes or peaches. Try mixing stewed dried apricots or peaches with the prunes, or adding a little pineapple juice to the other fruits. Such combinations will add new interest to the meals for the youngsters.

FOR WASH DAY

Adjust the washing machine to your height for added comfort. Although many machines come with adjustable legs, others do not. If your machine does not have adjustable legs, place small pieces of wood under them to raise the tub to a working level that is comfortable.

In the Kitchen

Paprika gives a pungent flavor and also a dash of color to many foods. ...Approximately two cups of stuffing are required for a four-pound shoulder of ham, veal or pork. ....If you put a heavy Turkish towel in the bottom of a basin in which you are washing valuable china or glassware the danger of chipping will be virtually eliminated.

For the Gardener

Frogs, toads, hornets, garden spiders and dragon flies are some of the desirable friends in your garden for they feed on the larvae of harmful insects. ......Arsenate of lead is the only really successful preventive for Japanese beetle. Before using get detailed instructions as it is very poisonous...... Lime is not a plant food. Its value is in correcting a sour or acid soil condition and in making clayey soils looser and more priable.

A large birthday cake, baked by Mrs. Hazel Washler was the main attraction of the feast.

THE FIRST WIRELESS

Connected with the early history of Illinois are the Mound Builders, a tribe of Indians who built large mounds. These served as burial grounds and heights to signal from. At night signals were transmitted by shooting arrows at different elevations, the tips of which were first heated "RED HOT." We here picture a statue of the Mound Builders using the first, WIRELESS. The Indian kneeling is heating the Arrows while the other is sending them through the air. The sculptor, Mr. C. A. Beaty is at work on the model.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN
© The Safety Man

Recently, a test was given high school students on motor vehicle regulations, and some of the questions were so good that I want to repeat them here.

It is well for us to make a test of our own driving ability by answering the following questions:

1. At an intersection which is controlled by traffic lights, do pedestrians or vehicles have the right-of-way?
2. Does the same situation exist at uncontrolled intersections?
3. What is your state's definition of "right-of-way?"
4. What should a driver do when being overtaken and passed by another vehicle?

Take inventory of your driving habits. Be honest. Be sincere. Answer these questions yourself, and see whether or not your driving habits comply with the answers you give.

It has often been said, and in this column, too, that accidents do not happen.

The cause of any particular accident may be attributed to a careless driver, to a pedestrian, to a defect in the highway, to a mechanical defect, to hazardous weather conditions, or to a combination of a number of these factors.

Yearly statistics, as prepared by all states and bureaus, indicate that the human element is the outstanding cause. The driver of the automobile is usually the cause of all the trouble.

When the actions of drivers have been carefully checked according to the statistics given in recent years, it is found that two out of every three accidents involve mistakes by drivers. Excessive speed caused 7,240 deaths in 1935. Driving on the wrong side of the road caused another 3,940 deaths, and so on.

We are to blame—not the machine.

MORTUARY

MASON

Erie Jay Mason, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Mason, was born in Swan Township, Noble County, Indiana, September 12, 1894, and entered into life April 28, 1937, being 42 years, 7 months and 16 days of age.

He was educated in the DeKalb County Schools. In early life he united with the United Brethren Church, and continued in the faith till the time of his death.

May 30, 1916 he was married to Miss Venus Mildred Horn.

He was a devoted son, a true and loving husband, and friend.

Beside his wife he is survived by his father, Abraham Mason, of Spencerville; and one aunt, Mrs. Ella Pence, of Garrett; and two uncles, Mr. George Mitchel, of Auburn, and Mr. George Mason, of Harlan.

"A marvel seems the universe
A miracle of life and death
A mystery I cannot pierce
Around, above, beneath.

"Oh, Light Divine we need no fuller test
That all is ordered well;
We know enough to trust that all is best
Where love and wisdom dwell."

Funeral services were conducted at the Lutheran Church in Spencerville Friday afternoon by the Rev. C. J. Ferster. Interment in White City Cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

In this way we wish to express our appreciation to the many friends and neighbors who assisted during the sickness and death of our loved one and for the beautiful floral offerings.

Wife and Father.

NEWVILLE CENTER

Ira Hook and daughteer, Eloise, spent Sunday afternoon in St. Joe.

Donald Davis, of Lorain, Ohio, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Davis.

Callers in the Ira Hook home Wednesday were Mr. and Mrs. Yoland Stauffer and family, Gay Roberts, Walter Miller, Nellie Hook, and Isaac Hook.

Callers in the Lyman Bidlack home during the week were Pauline Beree, Agatha Roberts, Mrs. Amos Walford and granddaughter, Glen Snyder and C. A. Miller and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hook and family called on her brother, Claron Hilbert and family in Hicksville, Sunday evening. On Wednesday evening they called at the Arthur Sherman home. Mrs. Serman has been ill, but is somewhat improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Bidlack were called to Ft. Wayne Sunday evening due to the illness of their daughter, Mrs. Glen Snyder, who was operated on for ruptured appendix. She is getting along as well as can be expected. Mis Bidlack remained for a few days with her sister, Mrs. C. A. Miller, so as to be near her daughter.

The 4-H Club held its second meeting with Alice Moore, Tuesday, April 27. Alice Moore gave a demonstration on cake baking. Leitha Mae Hook taught the clothing girls how to make pin cushions. All the members were present. Mrs. Boger, the county leader, of Auburn, was also present. The club has decided to retain its original name, "Willing Workers." The hostesses served dainty refreshments. The officers and leaders will go to Auburn Saturday to attend training school.

Higher Taxes— Or True Economy?

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

During the past few weeks there have been increasing demands on Congress for curtailment of reckless spending.

From official sources have come warnings that the choice lies between a program of reasonable economy and a series of fresh additions to the already heavy burden of taxes.

Which of these two courses will Congress follow?

Each has its advocates.

To bureaucrats and politicians who must depend for their jobs and their popularity on a continued program of public spending, the decision will seem an easy one. Naturally they would have Congress oppose any program of economy.

To the average citizen who, either directly or indirectly, pays the taxes which officialdom spends, the answer will be similarly obvious. He wants to see his Congressman reduce, rather than increase, the steady drain on earnings and savings which now consumes so large a part of his income.

Unlike the bureaucrat and the politician he believes that the way to balance budgets is not by raising his taxes, but by cutting down the bills which he must pay.

By its decision Congress can demonstrate whose voice registers stronger at Washington—the politician's or the constituent's.

And in that demonstration the voters and taxpayers of America can find effective guidance when they are called upon to decide at the polls who shall represent their interests in Washington.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LII. (52 Years.) (In The St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, MAY 13, 1937 NUMBER 19

ST. JOE FLOUR MILL CHANGES HANDS

Monday morning the St. Joe Flour Mill started operation in its usual manner with exception of Roscoe Walter being the owner instead of Bursley & Co., of Fort Wayne, who have operated the mill for the past four years.

A change in the business policy of this great wholesale company, resulted in the selling of the local mill, as have their other sources of supply at distant points.

The mill under the management of F. G. Gauntt, has been one of the most successful during their four years of ownership.

When the mill was purchased, it underwent a complete remodeling before they tried to operate, and the capacity was then 25 barrels per day. It continued at this rate for some time and they were unable to keep up with the retail demand. Immediately the mill was remodeled to double the capacity.

The wheat supply has been exhausted for miles around St. Joe, and many times a premium was paid for Valley wheat, in order to keep the wheels moving. Under the present ownership, the Auburn and Spencerville elevators will be a source of supply to the mill and this will save Mr. Walter shipping much of his supply of grain.

The Bursley Co. will continue to sell Burco flour made at the St. Joe Mill, and Mr. Walter will consume the feed at his retail outlets, all of which he was compelled to buy from manufacturers heretofore.

The mill is now in a position to make for the new owner a profitable milling business, with everything in the best condition in years. The present milling force will be maintained by the new owner throughout, with some additions later.

With the weekly payroll of possibly $200.00, the mill has meant much to St. Joe and community, and to those employed.

We bespeak for Mr. Gauntt, who took charge of this mill when it was at its lowest, and with wise planning and expenditure of money, turned the mill into one of the best and most widely known in this part of the state, a greater measure of success in whatever line of business he may undertake in the future.

The News wishes the Walter Grain Co., success in branching out in the field of business and hope that the local mill will prove to be the best adventure yet.

NIE SHEFFER DIES AT STATE PRISON

Nie Sheffer, an Auburn murderer, died Saturday at the Indiana state prison at Michigan City. He was serving a life term for the slaying of his brother, James W. Sheffer and wife who lived at the corner of Indiana Avenue and Ninth Streets in Auburn.

Word of the prisoner's death was received by his sister, Mrs. John Lawrence, of Auburn, the only surviving member of a family of four boys and two girls, at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Heart disease was the cause of his death. The body was brought to Auburn Saturday night. Mr. Sheffer was 57 years of age on February 28th last. He was born in Jackson township.

He died maintaining his innocence of the crime.

CONSERVATION MEET

Important meeting of the Conservation Club will be held Thursday evening at the town hall and all members are asked to be present to transact the new business

CHILD BITES TONGUE NEARLY OFF

Harold, 21 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Huber Carr, living at the Orange Herrick home west of town, met with a terrible accident Saturday afternoon, while playing in the yard alone. He came to the house with his tongue partly cut off, and how it happened, will probably never be known.

Dr. DeMuth was called and the youngster was rushed to Souder's Hospital, where a number of stitches were taken. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Perkins were about to go to Auburn when this happened, so they took the child and his parents.

Harold has been very brave all this time, having cried but very little, and is getting along fine. Stitches will be removed this week.

JAY PENLAND GETS INTO TROUBLE

As the aftermath of getting intoxicated and threatening members of his family, Jay Penland, 46, a WPA worker, residing in Garrett, faces a more serious charge, that of incest.

Penland was placed in the DeKalb county jail Thursday night by C. H. Minnick, deputy sheriff, after it is alleged he mistreated members of his family and made threats that he was going up town and get a gun to shoot them. He was arrested on Randolph St. He made the statement, it is alledged that if the sheriff or his deputy would come after him he would shoot them also.

On Friday, Gladys Penland, his wife signed an affidavit prepared by William H. Husselman, prosecuting attorney, charging Penland with the crime of incest on his daughter, LaVonne, 17, on February 4, 1934.

Penland is said to have spent his wages on liquor and also took a check away from a son who is in a CCC camp and spent it for liquor.

Jay lived in Concord township for a number of years, just east of the S. S. Wyatt Corners on Road 8, and drove the school bus for some time before moving to Lagrange county.

Saturday morning Penland was given a term of 10 months at the farm by Judge Endicott, but stated that he deserved every day of a 2 year sentence in the penitentiary.

GIRL SCOUT NOTES

Our Scout Troop met Tuesday evening for a weiner roast in the yard of Mrs. Fred Leighty. Eighteen girls were present. Two guests of the troop were Evelyn Shook, of Spencerville and Betty Nicholls. A generous lunch around the fire was served, consisting of hot dog sandwiches, pickles, fruit and wafers, and hot chocolate.

Nature games were played. Patricia Maxwell presented each person attending two plants ready for transplanting.

After a "Thank You" in unison, the meeting was adjourned.

Our next meeting will be Tuesday afternoon, May 18, at 2 P. M., D. S. T.

Patricia Maxwell, Scribe.

AUXILIARY NOTES

Sunday, May 16th is American Legion visiting day at the Veterans Hospital in Marion.

Every Legionnaire and Auxiliary member should take the opportunity in visiting the hospital.

Several thousand are expected to visit the hospital next Sunday. Will you be one of them?

Notice change of time of American Legion Auxiliary meeting to 8 o'clock, D. S. T. every 2nd and 4th Tuesday night of each month.

The Fourth District meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, will be held at the First Methodist Church, Ossian, Ind., on Thursday, May 13th. Dinner will be 40c per plate. Election of District Officers will be held at this meeting.

Mrs. Nellie Plattner, of Auburn, and Mrs. Wave Kellar, of Fort Wayne, Unit 82, are candidates for Fourth District President for next year.

The meeting will open at 11:30, D. S. T.

Those desiring to go to this meeting get in touch with Mrs. C. F. Scholes.

Mrs. Inez Chapman spent a few days the past week in Fort Wayne with Mrs. Catherine Mahoney.

IF THE POPPY TALKED

If the little red poppy, with its official label of the American Legion Auxiliary, could speak to every one on the street on Poppy Day, May 29, it would say: "Buy me—I represent the sacrificial blood of the men who sleep in Flanders' Fields, where poppies grow. In reverence and remembrance, wear me, Buy me—I stand for service. I enable some disheartened veteran in a hospital to earn much needed money. In appreciation of that service, buy me.

"Buy me. Every cent you pay for me is spent by the American Legion Auxiliary in service for those for whom the war is not yet over. In a spirit of helpfulness, to those who saved America for you, wear me."

ORCHARD BLOOM LOOKED FOR NEXT SUNDAY.

The orchard bloom failed to materialize for Sunday visitors, due to the coolness of the weather, but now it looks as though by the last of the week, the bloom will be at its best, and will possibly last for over Sunday. Should a heavy rain fall the latter part of the week much of the bloom will be destroyed, but here's hoping for a beautiful week-end so that visitors may see this most beautiful sight.

The last war was fought to end all wars and the next one will be fought to end all debts.

You've also probably decided by this time that too many of the present-day doctrines need doctoring.

As Marsh Andress sees it, you seldom hear of a man with callouses on his hands hollering for any sort of help.

Harry Hursh says it seems as if the American home can't be run any more without a bridge table, a cocktail shaker and a budget.

Another trouble with our economic system is that most of us can't sit down fast enough to keep up with the rising cost of living.

Max Dressel says a "raise" is the increase in pay you get just before you go into debt for a lot of things you could get along without.

If a woman won't tell her age when she votes she should at least brush away the powder so the clerk can see the rings under her eyes.

"There wasn't so much misery in this part of the world," asserts W. L. Hollabaugh, "back in the days when people were not always wanting more than they could possibly get."

IMPORTED SEED

For several years past there has been a noticeable increase in the amount of imported seed coming into this country. As a rule the imported article sells at from eight to ten cents a pound below the American grown varieties, and farmers anxious to save a few cents forget about quality and go in for price. As a result a new warning is being broadcast by the federal government, and everyone around St. Joe who buys seed should heed it. Imported clover and alfalfa seed, according to the warning, is not always adaptable for successful growth in this country and even if it is lower in price it is more costly in the long run because it is unfitted for a vast part of American soil. The warning should be heeded, and it would also be a good idea to go still farther and treat everything else imported from across the sea with a measure of suspicion.

FIRE AND CHILDREN

Statistics show there's a fire a minute in the United States, and two-thirds of all of them occur in homes. With that in mind parents should take steps immediately to safeguard their children more than they have been accustomed to in the past.

Don't leave small children at home alone, and don't harbor a fire hazard when you know it exists. Hundreds of fires are started annually by children playing with matches; in other instances a stove door is opened or a lid lifted off by a child while its parents are out of the house and fatal results often follow the pouring of gasoline or kerosene on a fire by a child too small to realize the consequences. All small children love to play with fire, and no precaution should be overlooked in restraining them.

Another thing to be avoided is hanging clothing too close to stoves or pipes. These can easily become ignited during your absence and the home reduced to ashes—along with the children if you have left them at home alone—within a few minutes time. Waste of all kinds, such as rags and paper, should be disposed of as it accumulates or stored in metal containers, and electric wires that have become frayed should be replaced before a short-circuit ignites carpet or rug. Fire is this nation's most destructive agent, and no community is immune. Your own home may be the next one to go around here. Don't suffer the double calamity of losing your children, too, by leaving them in the house alone.

THE AGE LIMIT

For some reason we're not hearing so much about the "age limit" in industry now that jobs are becoming more plentiful. And it is well. If there ever was a foolish argument it is that a man loses his usefulness after he passes the age of 45.

Possibly no man is better qualified to speak on the subject than is Henry Ford, largest individual employer of labor in the world. He is on record as saying that a man's most valuable years are those after he is 40; that he has not, lacking experience, the sound judgment needed in most lines of industry. And the majority of men in key positions in Ford's plants, and the men closest to him, are men past the 45-year mark.

Glance around and note the good work being done by men who are over 45 years old and you will have a better idea of how foolish this "age limit" talk sounds. Go anywhere else and you will find the proportion as great as it is here. Young heads are essential in buisness and industry, of course. But the day has not yet arrived when the world can get along without older heads, men of experience, and judgment, and calmness and wise counsel when it is desperately needed. The lamented Will Rogers, speaking some years ago on this same subject, said: "Young men are all right in industry, but I've noticed it's most always an old man that owns the whistle—and an old man that blows it." And it will always be so, regardless of any argument that a man's usefulness departs when he passes life's 45th milestone.

WHAT TIME IS IT ANYWAY?

Washington is accustomed to argument. A matter that the town clerk would take care of elsewhere, or the mayor's secretary embody in a letter that would be signed without reading, is attended in the capital with public hearings and newspaper letters from "Subscriber," "Interested Reader" and all the rest of the party that has supplied copy for years and probably will continue to do so for generations to come. Just now it is daylight saving that furnishes the ground for debate. For the city man, daylight saving amounts merely to turning the clock ahead an hour, yawning a little earlier than usual for a day or two and then forgetting the matter. Who knows what time it really is anyway? Standard time is correct for a single thin line only. When it is six o'clock in a man's bedroom, is it not six o'clock strictly speaking in his garage. Less well known is the fact that even the sun slows up for six months, until he is eight minutes behind and then hustles along for the next six months until he is eight minutes fast, a circumstance of which ordinary watches and clocks take no account whatsoever. Pontius Pilate is set down as a sarcastic skeptic because he asked: "What is truth?" He could have scandalized posterity just as much by inquiring: "What time is it?"

DRIVING WEATHER

Strange as it may seem, it isn't during the bad driving months of winter that most accidents happen but in good weather, the kind of weather we will now be experiencing for several months to come. Not all motorists may realize this, yet accidents are far more numerous during the pretty days of spring and summer than when highways are covered with sleet or snow or rain or fog. That's because favorable driving weather promotes carelessness; one is apt to trust more to luck when the roadway is dry than when the same road is in a wet and slippery condition. Evidently the death toll in this country will go down when drivers realize that the prettier the weather and the better the road the greater the danger of getting hurt. But getting them to realize it is a difficult thing, as you'll soon begin to notice now that the season of pretty driving weather is starting.

TOO MANY EXPERTS

Just where the idea originated that nothing can be done any more without calling in an "expert," no one seems to know, but the fact remains that it has come to be a habit with almost every town and city in the land. One side brings in experts to prove it is right; the other sinde brings in experts to prove that the other experts are wrong. The use of good, old-fashioned common sense seems to have gone out of style despite the fact that this country was founded on it and thrived on it for more than 400 years. Cities and towns all over the United States are spending vast sums yearly for expert advice when there are wise heads in those same communities capable of solving their problems without outside if local politics and local "pull" could be kept out of it. You'll find few calls are being sent out for experts in communities where citizens pull together, work for the common good of all and refuse to recognize the man, or the group of men, who always have an axe to grind.

TIMELINESS IS IMPORTANT FACTOR IN A SUCCESSFUL FARM BUSINESS

Studies made of the farm records on several hundred Indiana farms kept each year in cooperation with the Farm Management Department at Purdue indicate that timeliness in performing the various jobs on the farm is one of the most important factors contributing to a satisfactory farm income, states County Agricultural Agent T. E. Myers. Doing the job at the time it should be done often makes the difference between profit and loss for an enterprise.

Making entries in the Farm Account books is one of the many items on the farm where timeliness pays. An item entered in the record book at the time it occurs is apt to be correct, and will not be forgotten and omitted.

Some of the items for consideration at this time, suggests County Agricultural Agent Myers, are as follows:

1. Be sure the beginning inventories of real estate, improvements, equipment, livestock, feeds, other crops and supplies are entered.
2. Enter receipts from crop sales, livestock sales, labor off of farm, A. A. A. or Soil Conservation payments and other miscellaneous receipts.
3. Enter expenses on crops, livestock, improvements, equipment, hired labor, feed bought, feed grinding, seeds, taxes, interest and miscellaneous expenses to date.
4. Enter the number of sows farrowed and number of pigs saved.

"Million Dollar Monument to Folly"

This steam shovel, dubbed a "million dollar monument to folly," now at the mercy of wreckers, almost bankrupted Renville county, Minnesota, 20 years ago during the drainage craze. Before the general public realized what was happening a scheme was underway to plow a huge drainage ditch througout the length of the county. Scores of farmers lost their homesteads through the resulting ditch taxes and the county was plunged over a million dollars in debt. For 20 years the huge machine stood on the Gil Hawes farm on the Renville-McLeod county line while the ditching corporation attempted to secure rights to continue operations through McLeod county.

IN LOVING MEMORY

(A Memorial to Fanny (Milliman) Smith, who died May 13, 1927)

In all my recollections of the days of "Auld Lang Syne,"
The sweetest are my memories of that little Wife of mine:
And I look o'er her mementoes with a longing in my heart
To have their tales retold me, 'tho I know each Sacred Part;
The lamplight seems to glimmer, so I turn the wick down low,
As I sit in silence, longing for the days of long ago;
And, as I sit here, dreaming, in a Reverence Divine,
I think in adoration of that dear, sweet Wife of mine.

There's something seems to beckon me from out the days of yore,
As if they wished me to return, and live that life once more,
To wander through the fields again, or sit beneath the tree
Where so often in the evening sat my little Wife and me.
And visions pass before me of those places which are dear,
And I have a sudden feeling that my loving Wife is near;
And I have such consolation in these Reveries Divine,
These Blessed Recollections of that Darling Wife of mine.

Ah, Sweetheart, years have left the lines of Sorrow in my face;
Tho I've looked around I ne'er have found the one to take your place.
I've found girls good, and sweet, and true, I've found them young and fair,
They're good as any can be found; still something's lacking there!
They do not have the same dear eyes in which I loved to gaze,
They do not speak with the same sweet lips your words of love and praise,
They may have hearts as good and true, they may be just as fine;
But still they are not just the same as that Darling Wife of Mine.

And so I sit and dream again, in lonely solitude,
Of all the years that have gone by, which nothing can seclude.
I feel the flood of blessed Love, which of Her was such a part;
I know the joys of Worship from the bottom of my heart.
I know the pains of loneliness, when dreaming of the Past;
I know the aches of sorrow, which the loss of Her has massed.
But there's Golden Consolation in these Reveries Divine;
And I thank God for these Memories of that Dear Sweet Wife of Mine.

—Philip F. Smith, Cassandra, Pennsylvania.

WELFARE CONTRIBUTION TO DEKALF CITIZENS

During the first three months of 1937, needy aged, needy blind, and dependent children in DeKalb county received a total of $12,944 under provisions of the Indiana Welfare Act and the federal Social Security Act, according to the records in the office of the county director of welfare.

The 277 needy aged in the county received $10,047 of which the federal and state governments contributed approximately 80 per cent. The county's share of this type of assistance amounted to $2,009.40 or 20 per cent of the total amount granted.

No part of the $245 granted to the 6 indigent blind of the county was paid from local funds. The state and federal governments each contributed half of this assistance. The only expense to the county in this form of public assistance is the costs involved in invetigation of the applicant. Investigation and recommendation are made by local authorities to the state department of public welfare which makes the award on the basis of the county's recommendation.

Assistance granted to 99 dependent children in the homes of qualified relatives in the county amounted to $2,652. The county's share of the costs of this type of assistance amounted to $714.27 for the three month period, the records indicate.

During March a total of $736,153.80 was distributed throughout the state for all forms of public assistance under provisions of the state and federal Acts. The needy aged received $559.684.60, an average of $15.10 per recipient, the blind received $29,169 with an average of $17.86, and dependent children $147,300.20, making the average grant per child $11.85. The average old age assistance grant in March last year, when the Welfare Act first became effective was $7.94, according to the director.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

EUROPEAN BINDWEED

While working in the field this spring every farmer should be on the lookout for European bindweed, the most dangerous of all field weeds. The weed has gained a firm foothold in Indiana and is threatening many farms.

Bindweed is a morning-glory-like plant having arrow-shaped leaves and white or pinkish-white blossoms. Often the blossoms are white with pink stripes at the base. The flowers are bell-shaped and approximately one inch in diameter, the vines grow to a length of three of four feet and have a habit of climbing on nearby objects. If the plants are growing alone they form a heavy mat of vegetation, completely covering the ground.

Bindweed is a perennial, spreading from both seed and root parts. The root system is of the lateral type with a number of plants arising from one root stalk. The yellowish-white roots of bindweed grow to a depth of several feet in the ground. It is not uncommon to find them ten or fifteen feet in the soil. The extension root system acts as a store house for an abundance of plant food, making the plant difficult to eradicate.

If plants of the type discussed are found take them to the county agent's office or send them to the Botany Department, Purdue University at Lafayette, Indiana, for identification.

County Agent T. E. Myers reports that there is a new disease of wheat, known as mosaic, that is becoming prevalent in the state. On very susceptible varieties it will stunt the plants and completely prevent head formation. On moderately susceptible varieties the plants will be stunted but may produce small heads.

In order to prevent the spread of this disease and to determine its extent in DeKalb County, Mr. Myers asks that farmers bring the plant to his office, advising him what variety it is.

Iowa to Have More Trees

Again this year the Iowa conservation commission is planting hundreds of thousands of trees and shrubs in Iowa's park preserves and dry lake beds to replace trees that have died, to beautify new areas and prevent soil erosion. Other states are considering similar plans. An 80 acre tract of land near Ames, recently purchased by the state, is being developed as a nursery for the Iowa Conservation Commission. Above photo taken last week shows Herb Colby, field superintendent, and Jack Stevens, conservation officer unloading trees which they are planting near the fish rearing pond north of Clear Lake. Colby is handing down one of the trees to Stevens.

FOR SALE:–Now is the time of year to use tobacco dust. I have about 2500 lbs. which has been especially ground on a hammermill grinder, insuring uniform size and strength. Tobacco dust has very many uses, for worms in stock and chickens. It is very cheap and easy to use. It will keep moths out of clothing and upholstered furniture and from under rugs, will keep mites off of chickens if applied as a dusting powder and as a spray for the poultry house. It will keep bugs and worms away from the roots of flowers, shrubs and vegetables if a small handful is applied to the roots of each plant. It makes a good spray to kill cabbage worms, potato and melon bugs. By analysis this tobacco dust is guaranteed to contain 8% nicotine and 15% potash, which makes it a good fertilizer. 5c per pound, 25 pounds for $1.00, or $4.00 per hundred pounds, while it lasts. Lou Meyer Tries for Fourth 500-Mile Win

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—The "Flying Dutchman of the Roaring Road" is ready to ride again towards a record which may not be possible in a generation—four victories in the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Louis Meyer, who started young to win in 1928, and won again in 1933 and 1936 to become the only three-time winner of the world's greatest speedway race, will be back at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on Monday, May 31st, no less a threat than he was last year when he headed a brilliant field in the gruelling grind.

The most consistent pace-driver of all times, Meyer drives every race to the schedule he selects to win and if his calculations are correct, and they have been in the past, he is certain to be close to victory in the last 100 miles.

This year Meyer will have Wild Bill Cummings, 1934 winner and Chet Miller, who finished fifth last year, as team mates running under the colors of Mike Boyle of Chicago.

The Silver Anniversary of the 500-mile race promises to be the most interesting in 25 years of racing history.

TRUCKS NEED TEN TICKETS TO ATTEND 1937 500-MILE RACE

A new ruling will control the admission of trucks to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway during the running of the 500-mile race this year, Monday, May 31st.

Trucks of more than one-half ton capacity will require a minimum of ten general admission tickets before being allowed to enter.

The Vesper Service on Wednesday evening featured a sermon by the Rev. J. L. Morgan, D. D., of Salisbury, N. C., and special representative of the U. L. C. A. Mr. Ezra Horn and Rev. C. J. Ferster, attended from Spencerville.

Safetygrams

Monotomy produces fatigue. Statistics show that some of our most serious accidents—in fact, the great percentage of them—are caused by drivers smashing up on straight roads.

Possibly the solution is to have winding roads, well marked, so that the attention of drivers will be on their driving at all times. While many accidents do occur, of course, on hills and curves, a great many others occur on wide, straight, smooth highways.

It's all very well to increase your alertness when the road is full of twists, turns and hills. Never let yourself take it too easy at any time while driving an automobile.

A. R. COLE FATALLY INJURED WHEN HE FELL FROM WAGON

Is Found Unconscious by a Neighbor

Alfonso Ralph Cole, a venerable resident of Garrett, succumbed at Sacred Heart Hospital Saturday morning at 8:10 o'clock to injuries received Thursday morning in an accident.

Mr. Cole lived with his wife, a son, George, and a daughter, Miss Fairie, on a small farm at the south edge of Garrett. Some of his land was being plowed Thursday by Glenn Hawver, who lives south of the Cole home. Mr. Cole started from his barnyard to take a "float" to the field where Mr. Hawver was at work.

The "float" was attached to the rear of a wagon and Mr. Cole sat on a box on the wagon, driving a team of horses. In a manner unknown, Mr. Cole was thrown from the wagon. No one saw the accident, but twenty minutes later a neighbor, Chas. Sarchiz, noticed the team and wagon standing in the lane and he went to investigate. He found Mr. Cole on the ground beside the wagon, his head in the box and his feet in the air.

The aged man was removed at once to the hospital. He was unconscious from a skull fracture and remained in that condition until his death. Dr. B. O. Shook, of Spencerville, the coroner, in an inquest Saturday held that death was accidental. What caused Mr. Cole to fall from the wagon is not apparent.

The body was prepared at the Dilgard-Zimmerman funeral home. Services were held at the residence Monday afternoon at 2:30. The Rev. Price Roberts of the Garrett Church of Christ and the Rev. Cletis R. Brown of the Garrett Baptist Church officiated and interment was made in Riverside Cemetery, St. Joe.

Married in 1882

Mr. Cole reached the age of eighty-five years last Nov. 5. He was born at North Manchester, and was married to Lorinda Wineland, of St. Joe, Oct. 1, 1882. They remained at St. Joe for a time and then lived on a farm near Goshen before locating in Garrett. Mr. Cole was employed as a locomotive fireman by the Baltimore & Ohio and later in the maintenance of way department. He left the company's service eighteen years ago.

Surviving are the widow and four children. Those besides George and Fairie Cole are Albert A. Cole of Garrett, and Rayford Cole of Chicago. There are also three grandsons, Franklin and Lowell Cole, sons of Albert A. Cole and Robert, a son of Rayford Cole. A half sister, Mrs. Alonzo Powers, lives at Charlevoix, Mich. Mr. Cole was a member of the Church of Christ.

Mr. Cole's father was a lieutenant in the Union Army in the Civil War and was killed in battle at Champion Hill, Miss., May 16, 1863.

COUNTY TRUCK AND D-X OIL TRUCK COLLIDE

Louis McDougall, of Auburn driver of the D-X gas truck of Auburn, had his right hand cut deeply and received cuts on his face at about 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon near the Widney orchards, two miles north and east of St. Joe. The big gasoline tank truck he was driving was badly damaged. The entire left front from the cab forward was ripped and the engine is out of alignment. All of the glass in the cab is broken.

Mr. McDougall was driving south on State Road No. 1 when a state highway truck going west, driven by Wm. Keeler, collided with his machine at a highway intersection. Mr. McDougall had almost stopped his truck when hit. He was taken to Spencerville by Ralph Sechler, who witnessed the crash, where first aid was administered then he was taken to Souder Hospital at Auburn where Dr. Hines and Dr. Geisinger dressed the severely cut hight hand.

Melvin Marks, 16, was riding with Mr. McDougall at the time and was scratched up some. Being on the opposite side from where the car was hit, he did not sustain any severe cuts. Franklyn Sechler administered first aid to young Marks.

Mr. Keeler said he did not see the approaching truck, when he drove onto road one from the east.

Mr. McDougall was enorute to St. Joe with a load of gas, 600 gallons for Martin's Garage, and by the time the truck was put back in the road, only 75 gallons remained for delivery.

Mr. McDougall is about, but suffers much with his hand and right arm.

Declared Champion Egg Eater of Butler

Waldo Baker, proprietor of a Butler, Indiana, service station was recently declared the champion egg eater of Butler for 1937, at the annual egg eating contest, which is sponsored each year by the K. of P. lodge. Baker nosed out the defending champion, Harold Carpenter by four yolks, downing 21 eggs in the evening to Carpenter's 18. Baker says he almost lost out early in the evening when he ran into a bad one, but after a short rest his appetite came back and he downed five raw ones to take the lead which he held throughout the remainder of the evening.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

The Girl Scouts held their regular meeting at Mrs. Goldsmith's home, Tuesday at two o'clock. Mrs. Yeiser and part of the second class girls passed the tenderfoot girls on their knots. Mrs. Goldsmith and the second class Girl Scouts made maps of a block or street in St. Joe, then they guessed which block or street it was. They continued to read the book, "The Song of the Cardinal." After a spirited game of "Dodge Ball" the meeting was adjourned.

Fish and Game Club Information

At the Conservation Club meeting last week the boys ventured into an entirely new field of activity, that of interest to those who have hunting dogs.

On Sunday, June 13, a coon dog field trial day will eb held at the Mansfield farm, 3 miles north of St. Joe on Road 8. The club appointed the following committees to take charge of the day's activities:

Gate: Wm. Keeler and Grant Baltz.

Parking of Cars: Clayton Chorpenning and Art Guilford.

Entry of Dogs: Lester Coburn, Ed Storer and Roy Reidenbach.

Trail Men: Boyd Mansfield, Albert Moore and Henry Mansfield.

Line Judges: Everett Pressler and Harry Smith.

Tree Judges: Walter Baker, Harvey Kimes and M. M. Mansfield.

A lunch stand will be provided and will be in charge of Roy Wade and Howard Williams.

The Club also appointed a county representative in the person of M. E. Storer, with the secretary, F. B. Leighty, as alternate. The county committee meets tonight (Tuesday) at the court house.

Lawns should be mowed when the lawn mower will take off one-half inch of grass. Many lawns are mowed too closely. Permitting the grass to grow too tall is harmful to the lawn if the grass is then mowed as the lower leaves of the grass have been shaded and will appear bleached when the top is mowed. Frequent light waterings of the lawn are apt to cause shallow rooting of the blue grass. This grass will survive without watering but will go into a dormant stage in hot weather and the tops will turn brown. To keep it growing, water must be applied but this should be done only once a week and enough water should be used to soak the ground to a depth of three or four inches.

AMERICA'S Verdict-

THE 1937 FORD V·8 IS

"THE QUALITY CAR IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD"

● And America has backed up that verdict by purchasing more than half a million Fords so far this year! Join the jury — see the new Ford V-8 at your nearest dealer's. Drive it. Make your own "traffic test," and your verdict will be the 1937 Ford V-8. You'll find it gives you everything you want in performance, economy, safety and comfort!

ONLY FORD COMBINES THESE FINE-CAR FEATURES

CHOICE OF TWO V-8 CYLINDER ENGINE SIZES—85 hp. for top-notch performance; 60 hp. for rock-bottom economy. The Ford "60" is available in 5 standard body types.

NEW OPERATING ECONOMY—Both engine sizes give outstanding economy. Many owners report from 22 to 27 miles per gallon of gasoline with the "60."

NEW MODERN APPEARANCE—Distinctive streamline design from grille to tail light; new beauty.

NEW ALL-STEEL BODIES—A single welded unit; not an ounce of wood in entire body structure.

NEW EASY-ACTION SAFETY BRAKES—Faster, smoother, straight-line stops with "the safety of steel from pedal to wheel."

NEW COMFORT AND QUIET—Smoother, quieter Center-Poise Ride. Big, roomy interior. Smoother, pressure-lubricated spring action. Easier steering.

$25 A MONTH, after usual down-payment, buys any model 1937 Ford V-8 Car — from any Ford dealer — anywhere in the United States. Ask about the easy payment plans of the Universal Credit Company.

Murders and scandals and supreme court arguments come and go but taxes run on forever.

They say weak coffee causes a lot of divorces, but that doesn't seem like sufficient "grounds."

It may not be possible to always preserve American lift but a good portion of it will always be pickled.

No man has a right to believe everything is going to be all right until he does his best to make it that way.

Another trouble is too many people are willing to give a piece of their tongue but unwilling to lend an ear.

The only sit-down that appeals to the average man is the one a fellow does when he has a fishing pole in his hand.

They may be soaking the rich, as they threatened to do, but it does not seem to have softened them very much.

A good deal of bitterness could be avoided if everyone could be made to understand that there are two sides to every question.

Doctors prescribe spinach and parsnips this time of year, but most men prefer to take their medicine and their food separately.

The lie detector has never been invented that could sift the false reports from the true in news now coming in from the old world.

Another tragedy the younger generation escapes is growing up without knowing what the inside of the old family woodshed looked like.

Another thing this state can't get away from is that new laws would seldom be necessary if the old ones were more strictly enforced.

CHANGE OF HEART

When the proposal to increase the membership of the Supreme Court was first made, it was widely believed, by the bill's opponents as well as backers, that it would be endorsed in the Senate by a handsome majority.

Today, the most authoritative surveys and estimates indicate that the majority in favor of the bill is extremely slim—two or three votes. A number of senators originally believed to be for it have recently come out in opposition.

What has caused this change? Several elements are involved—but the most important of all is the force of public opinion. It is no secret that every congressman's mail has bulged with letters discussing the proposal, and that the majority have opposed it. The metropolitan and rural press is overwhelmingly opposed. So are most of the nation's most respected political and economic commentators.

More and more, partisanship is disappearing in regard to packing the high court. The people and their representatives are realizing that here is one of the most vital issues the country has yet faced, and that it must be debated on grounds of principle, not politics. That is a heartening sign.

A $35,000,000,000 Debt—and H.C.L.

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

Within the past few weeks the nation has heard protests from two great groups of citizens against increasing costs of living. They ask protection from the threat of further rises.

During the same period it has learned that our national debt has passed the thirty-five billion dollar mark—reaching an all-time high.

To economists these facts bear an interesting relation to each other.

Why?

Not only because a thirty-five billion dollar debt means a mortgage of $270 against the future earnings of every man, woman and child in America. . . .

Not only because public debt has an unpleasant habit of stretching over future generations, and thus constitutes a lien on the labors of future generations. . . .

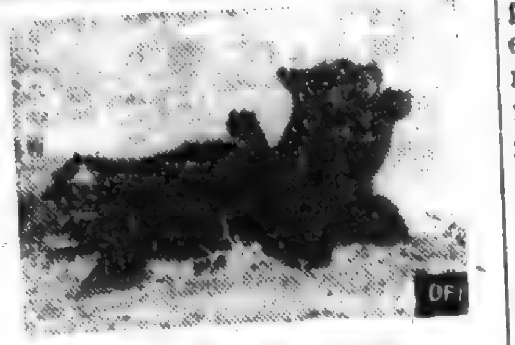
Not only because public debt means, in reality, postponed taxes, which both this and the coming generation must pay. . . .

But also because excessive public debt is generally recognized by economists as the road to inflation—with all its ballooning of the cost of living.

Despite promises of balanced budgets, our national debt has continued its steady ascent during recent years. Billion by billion it has climbed to its present altitude.

Again Washington has promised that the mad ascent will cease. Congress must be reminded of that pledge.

For if our public debt continues to mount, and brings the threatened inflation in its train, fantastic rises in the cost of living will no longer constitute a mere threat. They can become a grim and tragic reality.



BEAR CUBS MAKE FIRST PUBLIC APPEARANCE

Taken from their mother, a large Alaskan black bear, after she had killed and devoured one of her young, the two surviving cubs of the triplets born nine weeks ago in the Washington Park Zoo at Michigan City, are shown above as they frolicked in their private indoor pen near the zoo hospital. Both females, the cubs were taken from their mother a few days ago to prevent a reoccurrence of the tragedy that befell the third offspring. Triplets among bears in captivity are rare.

THE BEST REMEDY

The greatest menace on the highways today is the drunken driver and so far but one remedy to curb his kind has been discovered. That is a jail or workhouse sentence. Taking away their driving rights or levying a fine do not have the desired effect. Fear of the law is the only thing that will wipe out drunken drivers, and there is no substitute for it. Paying a fine doesn't discourage a drunken driver, and neither does suspending driving rights for either a long or short period. But if a few thousand of them are locked up—and kept locked up for a good long sweat—it will serve to create a fear and respect for law, and it won't be long until this greatest menace to safety is wiped out for all time to come. It is a case where the punishment must fit the crime, and a good, stiff jail or workhouse sentence seems to just about fit where a drunken driver is concerned.

THE JOB-HOLDERS

Despite the efforts of politicians to hide actual figures on the matter, it has been established that something like 2,500,000 employes of state and local governments throughout the U. S. pay no federal tax, and that about 1,000,000 federal empolyes pay no state income taxes. All of which sets up a condition that is unfair to the taxpayers of the nation. Government employes have no more reason to be tax-exempt than any St. Joe taxpayer has that right, nor should there be any state jobs providing tax exemption. All of us should share the expense of government according to our ability to pay. Government and state job-holders are no better than anyone else when it comes to footing the bill, and discrimination is not justified in any single instance. Any man with a state or government job that pays him a wage or a salary should be shouldering his share of the cost of government and the sooner voters start looking into the matter and finding out why so many of them are not doing so the better off the country will be.

A BAD SUMMER

It looks like a bad summer for those insects which eat what man wants to eat. Last year grasshoppers alone destroyed an estimated $80,000,000 worth of farm products, despite the fact that the government paid an army of 25,000 men to join with rural residents in an attempt to exterminate them. Now comes word from the government that while billions of grasshoppers were destroyed, there is every indication that the battle will soon have to be fought over again and the odds will be just as heavy against the growers.

Years ago it wasn't necessary to spray fruit trees. Today they must be sprayed four or five times each season if a crop is to be harvested. Why this change has come about no one knows, yet everyone around St. Joe realizes that far greater destruction is being caused in this, and every other community, by insect pests than ever before, whether it be the work of grasshoppers, boll weevil, corn borer, Japanese beetle or what-not.

The return of higher temperatures is bringing out the insect pests and from now on eternal vigilance against them is the price of a decent crop of any description. Neglect to start warring on them until they have multiplied a thousand-fold is sure to prove costly. The time to launch the fight is right now, and there must be no let-up if you expect to keep them even partially under control. Uncle Sam will aid you with advice if you want it, but the real work and constant watchfulness will always be up to you.

STILL HOLDS GOOD

Back in your grandfather's day there was a saying that it didn't pay to be "dollar wise and pound foolish." What it meant, in words anyone can plainly understand is that you can't save dollars unless you first save pennies. And the best place to save your pennies, steadily, consistently and all the time, is right here at home. Home merchants are honest, and offer honest value for your money. They can't afford to be otherwise. They depend on the same customers over and over again and for that reason cannot afford to overcharge you, get your money and then turn their attention to another victim. If there is any place on earth where merchants just have to be square with every customer it's in the smaller towns. They can't stay in business long if they are not. So be glad that you have this opportunity to save your pennies, instead of traveling to a distant market and parting with your dollars. Stick to your home town merchant—and help yourself and the entire community at the same time. Read their ads in The News each week and see what money saving prices are being quoted.

Week's Best Recipe

DATE CAKE—½ cup fat; 1 cup sugar; 2 eggs, beaten; ⅔ cup milk; 2 cups flour; 3 teaspoons baking powder; 1 teaspoon vanilla; ¼ teaspoon salt; 1 teaspoon cinnamon; ⅔ cup chopped dates; ½ cup of nuts (optional.) Cream fat and sugar. Add eggs, milk flour, baking powder, vanilla, salt and cinnamon. Beat 2 minutes. Pout into shallow greased pan and sprinkle with dates and nuts. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve fresh.

The Stylist Says

Good old pre-war materials are again in vogue. Tricotine, serges, hard-finish wools, worsteds, kashas and the ribbed kind of twills that were famous back in 1915 are now very much in style. There are nubby weaves but the nubs are neat and have definite shape.

In the Kitchen

The housewife who would have a regular supply of bread crumbs for thickening soups, making stuffings, meat loaf, croquets and escalloped dishes should keep these dustless while drying. A convenient system is to keep a cheesecloth bag in a cupboard which closes, and to place in this all scarps of bread left from a meal. They will be enough exposed to the air to dry, since the bag is porous, but will be shielded from dust.

For Flower Growers

Evergreens should have plenty of water. Spray the foliage frequently to wash off the dust and dirt and keep down the attacks of red spiders. . . . .If you work in the garden without gloves, rub a little soap under the nails to keep them from staining. . . . .In setting out bedding plants be sure and put them lower in the ground than originally. This is a good general rule for all transplanting.

An Inspiration

A dreary place would be this earth
Were there no people in it;
The song of life would lose its mirth
Were there no children to begin it.

"Model Boy" Held with Girl, tells How He Shot Three

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—Lester Brockelhurst, 23 years old, a paroled convict, former Sunday School teacher, and a "model boy" who doesn't smoke or drink, waiting in the Dutchess County jail here with his sweetheart, Bernice Felton, 18, an expectant mother, while the three states of Illinois, Arkansas, and Texas and Federal authorities seek his custody for three murders, innumerable holdups and thefts. After their capture, May 14, he freely admitted his crimes and told how he had shot all his victims from behind or without warning, because they would not take him seriously or believe that he was a hard-boiled gunman.

MAY

Car Wrecks Bridge

This bridge, over the Winnebago River, 6 miles north of Forest City, Iowa, was wrecked Friday evening, May 14, when T. O. Carlson lost control of his automobile as he approached the bridge. The car hit the guardrail and then up onto the truss beam which pulled loose from the cement pier—shown at the left in the picture. The loosened iron truss beam caused the bridge to collapse. The car was thrown over the approach and fell twelve feet. Mr. Carlson suffered three fractured ribs and some cuts and bruises.

Fannie Frosh Gets Even

Bloomington, Ind.—Franie Watkins, Indiana University coed, finally gets her opportunity to get back at upper classmen for the punishment she took recently during "hell week" when she was hazed by sorority sisters of Pi Beta Phi. The object of Franie's "affections" is Joan Bilby of Lawrenceburg, Ind., and Dorothy Williams, of Indianapolis, assists her.

To Preach Own Funeral Service

Although saddened by the death two weeks ago of his 72 year old wife, Wade Millman, 88 year old wealthy farmer living near Danville, Ind., preached his own funeral oration in the Canaan rural church, May 16. He is shown above riding his 36 year old horse, "Bill." He prefers this mode of transportation, he says, "Because Bill stops when you say, 'whoa' ".

After Many Long Months

The Duke of Windsor and his fiancee, Mrs. Wallace Warfield, as they recently posed for photographers in the grounds of the Chateau de Cande, near Tours, France, after the Duke had arrived from Austria to end their long separation. Mrs. Warfield had received her final decree only a short time previous to his arrival.

CLOSING OUR EYES

Reliable observers say there is already a German Fascist army in this country holding military drills in Nazi uniforms. There is a daily paper published in New York by and for Communists, while papers and magazines advocating Italian propaganda are being regularly carried in U. S. mails and distributed in every section of this land.

Is there any St. Joe citizen dumb enough to believe that this sort of activity is being conducted in the interest of the U. S? Communists, cleverly organized and directed from abroad, are stirring up trouble among our workers, encouraging them to disregard our laws, defy our courts and violate our property rights. The recent shipping strike on the west coast, which cost millions of dollars, was an example of what stirring up can accomplish and the confusion and suffering it aims to bring about. We have the finest nation on earth now. Why let a lot of self-seeking outsiders come in and tell us how to run it?

The time has passed when it is safe to close our eyes to facts, or to take it for granted that nothing can undermine our liberty or our institutions. The danger is already here, and it is too serious to be longer ignored. As a good citizen you owe it to yourself and your country to start right now denouncing foreign propaganda in every form in which you encounter it, and to seriously ask your neighbors to join with you in doing the same thing.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

Harry Hursh says some men are known by their works and others by the work they refuse to do.

"A girl's smile often tows a young man in," asserts "Rusty" Goodwin, "and her father's foot sometimes toes him out."

The more a woman knows about the affairs of her husband, the less she has to say about them.

As Clayton Chorpenning sees it, a woman's back and a man's stomach are natural channels for money.

"After a man gets bald, fat and forty," says Joe Foltz, "he doesn't know whether or not his wife's jealousy is a compliment or just dumbness."

When you see anybody spenidng money with careless generosity, somebody else is doing the hard work that earns it.

"It's all in the way you look at things," declares Dr. Price. "The rain that spoils one man's picnic helps another man's garden."

Frank Akins says what the world needs along about this time of year is less argument and more strawberry shortcake.

"Some men are like pins," says Doris Yeiser. "They have their good points, but they are pretty apt to stick you."

Horn Had Race in the Bag But Didn't Know It

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Ted Horn could probably have won last year's 500-mile race at Indianapolis but didn't know it until the run was over.

Horn was crowding Lou Meyer close in the last stages of the race, as a matter of fact he was but a half-lap behind.

What Horn didn't know, and the old veteran Harry Hartz, who owned the car and was running his pits, also was unaware of, was that Meyer was running low on fuel in his car although he had an ample supply in his pits.

Rather than take his chances of losing second place, Hartz ordered Horn to be satisfied with second position and rather than attempt to catch the "Flying Dutchman", Horn held his position. Had he been aware of Meyer's predicament, he would have speeded up, forced Meyer to run at top-speed and used up his scant supply of gasoline. Horn would have taken the lead had he forced Meyer into the pits for fuel and, within the short time left in the race it would have been almost impossible for Meyer to have overtaken the California youngster.

Both Horn and Hartz promise that it won't happen again in the running of the Silver Anniversary race here on Monday, May 31st.

BIGGER AND BETTER THAN EVER BEFORE

President, Chas. R. Morris, of Salem, Indiana, is very familiar with Fair work, having been secretary and connected with his home county fair for the past 29 years. Therefore, he is also very much interested in the Indiana State Fair, having been a member of the Board for the past several years.

Mr. Morris states, "With the building activities now in progress on the State Fair Grounds, such as the new light harness horse barn, three new speed barns, curbing the streets, levelling the machinery field, building up the track with new dirt, levelling the infield of the mile track, where autos may park without interfering with the races, re-roofing and repairing the roofs on the buildings throughout the grounds, building a new fence around the entire grounds, the Fair Grounds will be one of the finest in the world. This is a large program but at Fair time those who attend will see a great improvement throughout the grounds, including better entertainment and a larger Fair, which will be held from September 4th to 10th, inclusive.

TOWN BOARD HAD A BUSY SESSION

Monday evening the town board had a lengthy session discussing drainage on the Don Keller, Mabelle Thornton and Glen Wineland properties, at the rear, and one in which the town and Harry Kees are interested in. Some of the tile empties on top of the ground near the B. & O.

Don Keller also appeared in the interest of drainage at his garage, but no discision was reached. It was of the opinion that the state had control of this but they had refused to do anything for the board.

The establishing of the alley line between Ben Soule and M. C. Blue has developed into a situation not so pleasant for the board and those interested. Clayton Chorpenning was secured to survey and place boundary line stakes. Not being able to find a record showing the dedication of the alley, it was rather difficult to decide. He surveyed the lots on both sides and determined the ally to be 12 feet. According to the marshal this was satisfactory until Mr. Soule placed a fence on the south side, and now according to Mr. Blue, has rendered it impossible for him to drive in and out of his garage. Mr. Blue ordered the board to have the fence removed or else he would file damage charges against the town. To one looking on this has developed into a typical neighborhood dispute and the town board is in the middle of the alley.

Waterworks Situation

R. C. Lennox, architect and engineer, of Indianapolis, who has made surveys for the local waterworks project was present and explained the letters that the board has been receiving from the WPA headquarters. After listening to him, the board signed up the applications complete, placing the matter up to the government for aid in this work. When finally passed the matter will then be submitted to our citizens for vote. Up to now the board has not assumed any obligation whatever.

There is a possibility of a water system for St. Joe yet.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

Two recent cases in Chicago. Overland bus driver, enroute, suddenly collapsed at wheel. An alert passenger sitting next to him grabbed the wheel and stopped the bus, probably preventing a serious smashup.

In another instance, a father, sitting at the wheel beside his son, suffered a heart attack, slumped over the wheel and died almost immediately.

Such cases certainly emphasize the necessity for drivers keeping in first-class physical condition at all times through right living and periodic physical examinations.

A PRAYER

Old manuscript found concerning Father Coburn's Prayer and presented to us for publication by Rev. Walteer Coburn, a decendent.

Back to the Coburntown Church, is where I want to go!
Back to see the folks again, that I used to know.
I want to go in winter, while protracted meeting's on
And hear the prayers and gospel hymns of those that now are gone.
And hear the prayers and gospel hymns of those that now are gone.
O, take me back, sweet memories, and let me linger there
And hear, as in my youth I heard, Father Coburn's prayer.

I want to drive old Fox again, those two long miles or more,
And tie him to the hitching post, as in the days of yore.
Then go inside and warm my feet beside the stove red-hot,
And hear the congregation sing, "O Lord Forget Me Not," and
"Jesus Lover of My Soul," and "Meet Me Over There."
But most of all I want to hear Brother Coburn's prayer.

The Amen Corner, as it was, I want to see again;
The women sitting on the right and on the left the men.
I want to hear them testify, just like they used to do,
And hear them sing of Canaan's gate, that now they've journeyed through

No greater joy could come to me, none other could compare
With hearing all those songs again and Father Coburn's prayer.

I want to see Brother Alton again; the preacher that we had
And James Hadsell and the rest; 'twould make my old heart glad.
I want to shake the hands again of those I knew so well,
And hear the truths about their souls they always loved to tell.
'Tis but in fancy now for me, but when I get up there,
With them I'll kneel and hear once more, Father Coburn's Prayer.

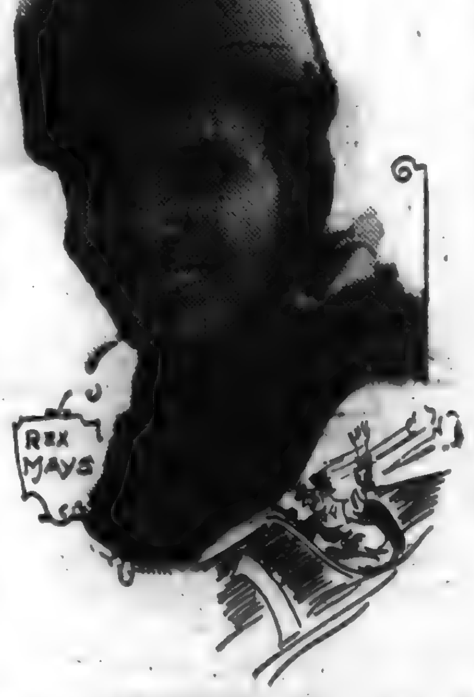
Mays, Pole Sitter No. 1, Idolized at Indianapolis



INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — It's becoming known as the Mays Pole in the 500-mile race.

And it won't be surprising at all if Rex Mays, king of the California speedsters, wins the pole position for the Silver Anniversary of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway classic May 31.

Mays by dint of establishing the fastest qualifying time in the 1935 and 1936 speed trials "sat on the pole," honor position of the race, these two years in succession.

His speed was 119.644 miles per hour for the twenty-five mile qualifying test in 1936, just a fraction below the previous year's and this while staying within the two and a half gallons of fuel allotted for the run.

This year Mays is slated to drive one of the foreign cars—the Alfa Romeo purchased by Bill White, California sportsman, from the winning Italian team after the Vanderbilt Cup race in New York last Fall.

With Wild Bill Cummings, Wilbur Shaw, Louie Meyer and other 500-mile fast finishers also out for the pole, it looks as if the scramble will be the most thrilling in the 25 years of the race.

But the followers of Rex still insist it will be a Mays Pole.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LII. (52 Years.) (In The St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, MAY 27, 1937 NUMBER 21

FROM OUR ST. JOE HOMESPUN PHILISOPHER

The party in power: The one that's able to convince the most people against their better judgments.

After all, that fact that she is a widow with four children is a better reason than we usually have for putting a person in office.

The bird who bragged to his family that he drove the car 18 miles in 16 minutes, thinks Junior impossible because he wrecked it the next evening.

How we do things: Half believing the jokes about the dumbness and crookedness of the politicians. Electing these politicians to do our lawmaking for us.

A sure sign of a three-hour visit: "No, I can't stay but a minute."

Human life, man's prize possession is not even considered if he goes around you when you thot he couldn't.

It's a safe bet he was in the thick of it during the war if you ask him if he was in the army and he says, "Yep."

The ones who yelled, "Bravo!" loudest at his inauguration are the ones who yell, "Impeach him," because there aren't enough slices to go around.

MEMORIAL DAY

For the soldiers of all wars, living or dead, the sentiment of Memorial Day must forever be perpetuated. From the heroes of Colonial days down to those of the World War, there must always live in the hearts of true Americans a spirit of honor and respect.

And it is in this spirit the nation reaches an anniversary dedicated to the sacrifices they made that we might enjoy liberty and peace.

In a nation in which all sectionalism has long since been set aside; a nation that is great because every part of it can lay claim to greatness; a nation founded on the principles of equality and a free ballot, Memorial Day carries a significance all its own. It speaks the spirit of loyalty and freedom from tyranny and oppression; it is dedicated to the future safeguarding of that spirit. On a thousand battlefields in a dozen wars American soldiers have sacrificed that we who follow them might enjoy the blessings that today are ours. So on this Memorial Day, set aside for paying tribute to those who gave much and those who gave all, it is fitting and appropriate that the entire nation should join.

In those struggles of the past St. Joe and surrounding community furnished a generous quota of defenders. Today many of them rest "on fame's eternal camping ground." But the sacrifices they made are not forgotten by our people; the loyalty they displayed in defense of the flag still serves as an example this and all coming generations should emulate if America is to continue in her greatness. That we may not lose sight of this great truth, we have Memorial Day. And the noble purpose to which it is dedicated must not be lost sight of.

FROM ABOUT ST. JOE

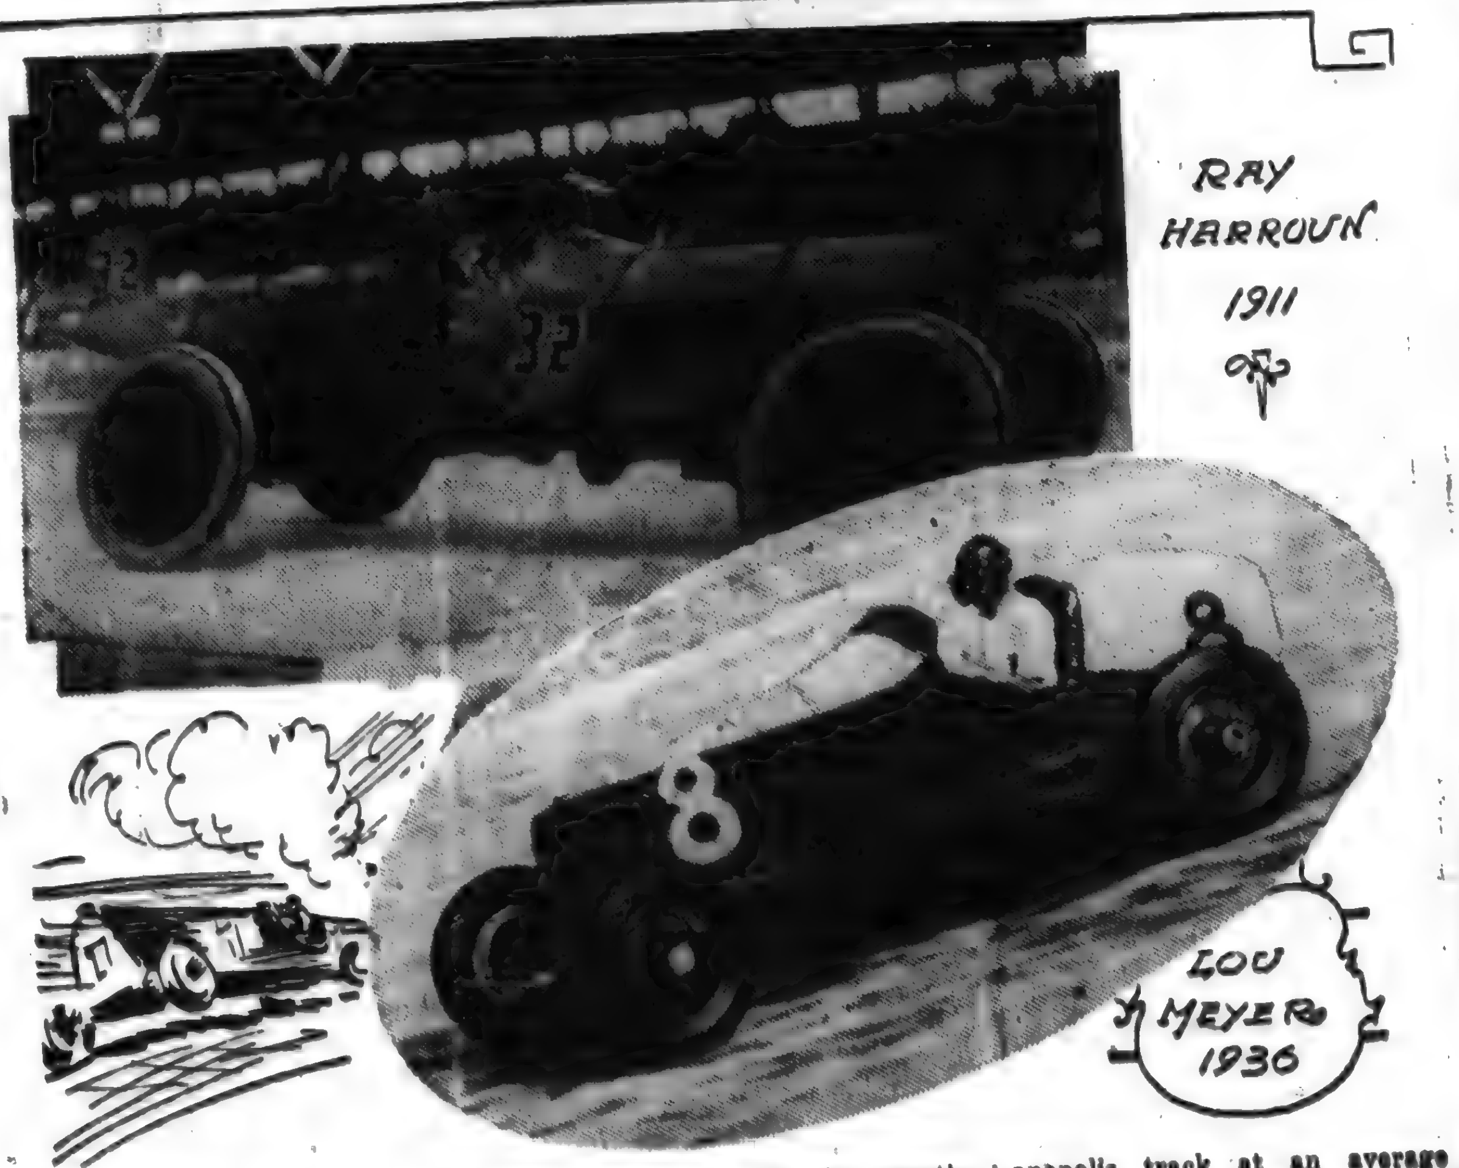
HARROUN'S FIRST REAR-VISION AUTO MIRROR IN 1911 REFLECTED PROGRESS AT INDIANAPOLIS



INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Ray Harroun was looking backward with his first rear-vision automobile mirror in 1911, but he was looking well into the future with the design of his winning race car.

There was a difference of two hours, seven minutes and four seconds between Harroun's time for the 500-miles and that of Lou Meyer a quarter century later in 1936, but science closed the gap.

The very latest in fast racing automobiles will be seen during the 25th annual race, the Silver Anniversary of the 500-mile contest at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway this Monday, May 31.

While passenger automobiles of twenty-five years ago look antiquated compared with the smartly-designed, high-powered models of today, the designers of Harroun's car were looking forward.

They used stream-lining for the first time, converted the Marmon Wasp into a six-cylinder car, and they proved that an automobile could be made safe even in a gruelling 500 miles of racing competition.

Harroun, grim-faced and black-helmeted, drove his long, snaky racing machine over the Indianapolis bricks at an average of 74.59 miles per hour, defeating DePalma, Mulford, Wishart, Bruce-Brown and other famed racing men of the past.

Meyer's compact, four-cylinder speed creation roared 200 times around the two and a half mile Indianapolis track at an average of 109.069 miles an hour, an all-time and an astonishing record. The great three-time winner of the classic consumed only four hours, 35 minutes and three seconds compared with Harroun's six hours, 42 minutes and eight seconds.

Improvements that engineers of Harroun's era dreamt had become actuality for Meyer. Stream-lined speed, power in the turns, balloon tires, four wheel brakes all had contributed to Meyer's victory.

But those racing men of 1911 in that first 500-mile race deserve a cheer from the motoring public They blazed the trail of advancement to the automobile industry over those blazing Hoosier bricks.

So long as a man has a friend, or can be a friend, his life is not in vain though he do nothing but live.

One of the very first symptoms of old age is when you begin to realize that nights were made for sleep.

It may be true that there isn't much to see in the average small town but what you hear makes up for it.

In nine cases out of ten the man who is wise enough to take advice is superior to the man who gives it.

A pipe is the cheapest smoke. You don't have to offer one to everybody present when you start to light up.

The world is full of anxiety, most of which is revealed in the five little words: "What will the neighbors say?"

Old-time St. Joe citizens were not dumb. They could tell the difference between red flannel underwear and the itch.

Some women are so broad-minded they believe there are always two sides to a question—their own and their mother's.

If you want to discourage a girl who is learning to smoke, hand her a chew of tobacco when she asks for a cigarette.

A news dispatch says France is importing many bath tubs. She must be getting ready to clean up some of her war debts.

Talk about stubbornness, some St. Joe men won't even believe there is an egg in the custard unless they find a bit of the shell.

The way some stock selling frauds are discovered every once in awhile makes some people wonder how many are not discovered.

The politician who advises his constituents to "stick to the middle of the road" evidently doesn't know much about driving an automobile.

Americans have solved the problem of what to do with their leisure time. They just hop in a car and go out and kill themselves or somebody else.

How times change. The old-fashioned St. Joe couple, according to J. R. Shilling, began with a cow and a cookstove and the modern ones begin with a diamond ring and a coupe.

In spite of other matters of interest which come and go, the Supreme Court issue holds its own and will not be downed. It is not surprising, therefore, that the papers gave large front page headlines to the word that the Senate Judiciary Committee, by a vote of 10 to 8, had set the mark of disapproval on the Administration plan for revising the court, and those who ought to know say that the committee action may be regarded as a definite index to what the rank and file in Congress will do when the measure comes to vote on the floor.

The statement of Justice Van Devanter that he will retire about the first of June, coupled with the rumor that two other justices will retire if the assault on the court ceases, puts the entire conflict of opinion in a condition wherein both sides win. On the one hand, the ancient framework of the court remains unchanged. On the other hand, if there are three vacancies to be filled, a balance of power can be created which may alter the viewpoint of the court materially, for some years to come, at least.

Retiring from public service is not confined to Supreme Court Justices or to the United States. Mr. Baldwin, Prime Minister of England, is about to relinquish his place. In what he calls his last speech while in the office he now holds, the Premier takes a backward look over the years that have passed since the Great War and make some observations which appeal to others than Englishmen.

Mr. Baldwin is of the opinion that the League of Nations, and the Treaty of Versailles which closed the war, did not to any substantial degree accomplish what was expected of them; that although Europe cannot now be said to be at war, neither can it be said to be at peace; and that for every soldier who perished at the front and for every piece of war munition that was destroyed, there is another soldier to fill the vacated place, and another deadly engine for the destruction of human life ready for operation. European dictators get a skinning which is none the less complete though phrased in well-chosen words: "Freedom for the common man, which was to have been the fruit of victory, is once more in jeopardy because it has been taken away from common men in other lands." All of the foregoing seems sound, but what is Europe going to do about it? Indeed, what can anyone do about it?

Over in Spain, they have formed a new cabinet. No issue of a newspaper is complete unless it contains an account of the resignation of an entire cabinet on the other side of the pond. In the United States, if a single member of the President's cabinet resigns, it is commonly supposed that something of national importance has happened. With us, many capable individuals refrain from becoming advisors to the President because they cannot spare the time or because the pay is too small. In Europe, a person who has a steady job need not quit in order to hold down a cabinet place. He knows that the cabinet place is not permanent and that he can attend to it after hours, just as anyone may work in the gas house in the daytime and operate a taxi or a popcorn stand at night. Talk about America being the land of opportunity must be accepted with a grain of salt.

A citizen of Coatesville, Ind., preaches his own funeral sermon, a proceeding somewhat out of the usual run of events but not sufficiently novel to demand extended comment. A single statement from the discourse, however, ought to be preserved. The orator declared that he never worried about anything, because worrying made one roll over and wear out the bed clothes. If the Indiana man's no-worry course could be followed generally, there would be more alive at eighty-eight, and cheerful enough to conduct their own last rites in advance.

THE HITCH-HIKER

With the arrival of warm weather and the return of insect pests comes a return of that other insect, or pest, or whatever you may want to call him—the hitch-hiker. From early indications it looks as though he is going to be present on highways around St. Joe in even larger numbers than for several summers past.

While several states have sought to wipe out the practice of hitch-hiking by passing laws against it, it would take a standing army to enforce such laws. Hitch-hiking has long offered an easy and inexpensive way of bumming a way about the country, and it will be continued just as long as there are motorists willing to stop and pick up a thumber. Warnings in the newspapers against picking up strangers, and the fact that some cold-blooded murders and many cases of banditry have been committed by hitch-hikers, doesn't seem to be very effective in eliminating them. There are thousands of hitch-hikers who are honest, gentlemanly and worthy of a lift. But on the other hand there are thousands who are criminals at heart, and not to be trusted.

There seems to be but one solution to the problem; but one way whereby a motorist may be absolutely sure of not becoming a victim of the bad type of hitch-hiker. That is to refuse to pick up any of them.

LOCK YOUR CAR

As far as St. Joe residents themselves are concerned, your car is just as safe standing on the street unlocked as it would be at home in the garage. But for several months to come this and every other part of the country will be overrun with transients, and quite often the temptation of an unlocked car is too great for one of them to overcome. You may have a little joke with yourself that your car isnt worth stealing, or you may be in such a hurry to get about your business you won't spare a moment it takes to lock it. But you're wrong. An unlocked car, regardless of its value, is a temptation to the man who desires to get somewhere else in a hurry, and believing he can use it for that purpose without being apprehended, he doesn't hesitate to take it. Eventually you may get the car back. But you have helped on his way a boy who might have gone straight had you not placed temptation before him. Always lock your car.

THE BIGGEST BUSINESS

Ask the average St. Joe man what he considers the biggest industry in the U. S. and chances are he will answer either the steel or automobile industries. But either answer would be wrong, for the dairy industry is larger than either of them, counting that it gleans most of its profits from ice cream, cheese and by-products other than fluid milk. American farmers produce forty-five billion quarts of milk a year of which 25 per cent is used on the farm, 30 per cent is distributed in bottles, 33 per cent is made into butter, 5 per cent into cheese, 4 per cent into evaporated, condensed and dry milk, 2 per cent into ice cream and 1 per cent is used for miscellaneous purposes. Milk constitutes approximately one-fourth of all the, 500 pounds of food an average person consumes in a year. So hats off to the dairing industry, the biggest business of which our great nation can boast.

MORE SAFETY

Traffic problems will not be wholly solved nor accidents entirely eliminated by any and all safety devices, even though it must be admitted there is merit in most of them. Experts in the federal bureau of roads see in the establishing of special roads for faster traffic a scheme that will promote safety and at the same time permit traffic to flow steadily. They would widen all main highways, with most of them four-lane roads. They would, they say, have separate walks for pedestrians along each road. They believe it is only a matter of time until the nation is a network of these super-highways. So here is a situation in which federal state and local highway officials and the public should cooperate. While it is well to have speed limits, the establishment of more lanes and the building of better highways throughout the nation will lessen the chances of collisions and wrecks.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN
© The Safety Man

There is only one important element in the matter of accident prevention and safe driving on our highways. That is "brains."

There is nothing difficult or mysterious about safety. Neither is there anything to be ashamed of. It requires no extraordinary genius, college degree, or special training to be safety minded.

The application of a little horse sense will prevent most of the accidents that now occur on our highways. Safety is 99 per cent common sense; accidents are 99 per cent thoughtless hurry.

We cannot blame the automobile for the causes of our accidents, because senseless machines have never caused an accident. Let's apply some brains to our driving and watch the results. It's smart to be careful.

My BEAUTY SECRET! ....JUST PLENTY OF HOT WATER

THERE'S no mystery about my "beauty" treatments—Plenty of Electric Hot Water.

Don't be silly—I'm not beautiful, but I do pride myself on daintiness and a healthy skin. My treatment is the oldest in the world—an invigorating bath in the morning—frequent hot water "facials" during the day and then a delicious hot bath at night to cleanse the pores of fatigue poisons, dead cuticle, imbedded make up . . . and so to bed.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

Recommendations In Regard to the 1937 Agricultural Conservation Program.

Mr. Ralph Bartles, Chairman of the DeKalb County A. C. A. received the following telegrams from L. M. Vogler, Chairman of the State A. C. A., which will be of interest to all farmers.

We are recommending for approval by Secretary inclusion of sown corn as a crop which can be used to fill up soil conserving base. Sown corn means corn planted in such manner that the plants are so thick that under no circumstances will kernels form on the ears. Such corn may be (1) sown broadcast or drilled or, (2) planted in rows on half the normal distance apart or, (3) planted in rows the normal distance apart but with at least eight plants to the hill. Positive proof will be required when performance is checked that corn was sown as specified and grain has not formed on ears.

Following statements made by Secretary Wallace in Press Conference, "Nobody can say at present time whether there will be a corn loan this fall. It depends upon the size of crop to some extent and also to some extent on how well the ever normal granary program is worked out. It would be difficult to have a corn loan program with safety unless there was an ever normal granary program." Asked whether if there is a corn loan this year it would be available only to those who cooperate in the Agricutlural Conservation Program Secretary replied, "I don't see how there would be any other way of going about it."

Corn Judging Contest

Twenty boys from five Vocational schools in DeKalb County competed in the Corn Judging Elimination Contest held Tuesday in the Court House Assembly Room.

Ray Heffley, an Auburn boy, was high scoring individual in the county with a score of 89.5%. Oscar Deetz from Ashley, was second high scoring individual with a score of 87.2% while Billie Van Fleit of Garrett was third with 84.3%. These boys will compose the corn judging team that will represent DeKalb County in the State Contest held at the Purdue 4-H Club Round-up June 16-18. Wilbur Johnson was hign scoring boy from Butler with a score of 69.8%. These two boys will attend the Round-up and do individual corn judging

The corn was very hard to judge and the boys are to be praised for their good decisions. The Vocational Instructors who trained the boys are also to be complimented for their good work.

A livestock judging team from Garrett High School trained by Paul Bateman, Vocational Instructor, will also compete in livestock judging at the Purdue Round-up June 16-18. This team consists of Delbert Dannenburg, Joseph Kearns, Finley Custer, Lloyd Peters, and James Griffin. The team will be in charge of the Garrett High School Principal, E. V. Minnear.

The project leaders of DeKalb County met at the McIntosh High School May 18. Under the direction of Miss Aneta Beadle they studied eggs. Their course included grading eggs, candling eggs and egg cookery.

They prepared Fluffy omelet, Cheese Souffle, and Baked Custard. At noon they enjoyed the finished products and a delicious pot luck dinner.

PRISON RESEMBLES ARMY ENCAMPMENT

In January when the roaring Ohio flooded the prison at Frankfort, Kentucky, prisoners were hurriedly moved to a hastily constructed camp on higher ground—the top photo shows the prison at the height of the flood, the photo below the prison camp today. Each tent is occupied by seven men, heat is obtained by means of the small cone shaped stove used by the army.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Walker and daughter, Agnes, Mr. and Mrs. Elza Moore and daughter, Alice, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curie, daughter, Ruth, and son, Frank, William, Ira and Bert Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moore and daughter, Mary.

Possibility that Indiana's production of crude oil will be increased as a result of deeper wells is reported by the conservation department. A rotary drill, similar to those used in Texas and Oklahoma fields has recently been moved into the state. Using this equipment the operators expect to reach new oil pools in the Trenton formation in southwestern Indiana which has not been tapped in the past, due to its depth. In this section of the state the Trenton formation is approximately five thousand feet underground, or about five times as deep as the northeast part of Indiana where the first productive wells were drilled.

RECORD OF DEKALB COUNTY RED CROSS NURSING SERVICE ACTIVITIES, JUNE 1, 1936 TO MAY 21, 1937

Interesting projects carried out during the year were as follows: the summer months were spent in visiting the homes of preschool children, who were entering school in the fall. The Nurse acted as superintendent of the Free Fall Fair Health Contest. As a result of this work, 165 infants and children up to 5 years were examined by our county physicians. Sixty-five prizes, given by the merchants in our county, were awarded to mothers with the healthiest infants or children.

A nursery was conducted at the same time in the firemen's room at the City Hall. The Red Cross Nurse's office and the assembly room in the court house were used by the American Legion Auxiliary ladies and the Red Cross Nurse for sorting and packing clothes sent to the flood sufferers. Hundreds of boxes were filled with clothing for babies, men, women, girls, and boys. Every attic, closet, basement and bureau drawer was emptied of clothing not needed by the people of our county. Coats were piled on chairs as high as the ceiling. Coffin boxes were filled with coats.

A dental survey was conducted in the grade schools in Auburn. Four hundred fifty-one children out of 570 examined had defective teeth. Of this number 257 had baby cavities, 130 permanent cavities, 109 needed teeth extracted and 150 needed prophylactic care by Dentist. Twenty-six children were taken by the Nurse to receive free dental care and the means supplied by the Parent-Teachers Association of DeSoto, Riley and Harrison schools. Scarlet fever broke out in St. Joe schools during the latter part of January and continued until April. All spare time was devoted by the Nurse to visiting stricken pupils and some adults.

During the year the Nurse rendered service to individuals in the following manner: 5 interviews and 10 visits were made to pre-natal cases, 8 visits to maternity cases with 10 visits to new born babies; non-communicable 6 interviews and 8 visits; tuberculosis 4 interviews and 5 visits; other communicable 15 interviews and 39 visits; health supervision to infants 1 interview and 21 visits; 180 visits to preschool children, 1-6 years; school children 138 visits and 33 interviews; adults 18 visits; orthopedic cases 3 interviews; 14 preschool children 4-5 were visited; 16 visits and 18 interviews to render social service.

The group activities in the schools included 570 dental examinations by Drs. D. Graham and Fox, 2,026 annual inspection of children, 106 given special attention, 2,214 rapid classroom inspections, 50 parent consultations, 4 teachers meetings attended, 4 teachers assisted with health program, 22 sanitary inspection of schools and grounds, 15 sanitary toilets installed, 12 schools installed with electricity for lighting, 75 schools from 120 rooms visited for the first time, 109 schools revisited including 169 rooms. Defects found among school children were as follows; teeth defective 1,202, vision 62, hearing 120, throat defects 179, skin defects 42, 68 glandular defects, 2 orthopedic defects. Preschool children's defects: teeth 31 defective, vision 1, hearing 9, throat defects 19, skin defects 7, underweight 6. Three hundred thirty-five school children received dental care, 93 were fitted with glasses, 15 had tonsils and adenoids removed, 41 skin defects were taken care of, 25 glandular defects cleared, 2 orthopedic cases are under treatment. Many children will have defects corrected during the summer months and cannot be counted in this list.

Administrative work included 6 meetings attended, 410 visits and interviews in behalf of general activities, 500 visits and interviews in behalf of nursing service, 800 articles on health mimeographed for teachers, 1,825 pieces of literature distributed.

The total time distribution of the Nurisng Activities were spent in 296 hours of field visits and interviews, 26 social service visits and interviews, 424 hours in schools, 58 in classes and talks, special projects 237, administrative 600 hours, travel 357, other Red Cross Activities 51 hours. The total time spent was 2,049 hours with 12 hours in out of town meetings and 258 days on duty.

The following are narratives of interest carried out this year. A 14 year old crippled boy was sent to Riley Mospital, a deaf boy was sent to Indianapolis School for the Deaf, and a little first grade girl was sent to the School for the Deaf and Blind at Indianapolis. Three mothers were found suffering with Pyorrhea. The Nurse assisted a father to secure a temporary position for his daughter, who suffers with ragweed hayfever. The position was in Petosky, Michigan. Articles of clothing for a mother and her two infants were secured and daily visits were made to them with the County Commissioner of Health. A home was visited where a child had scarlet fever and no physician had seen the child. A physician was called so that the child would not return to school. Another child was found coming down with the disease. The Nurse assisted the Red Cross Roll Call Chairman to secure chairman for their respective townships and towns. A pregnant woman who had left her husband was assisted by finding a home and care during her accouchement. She was outfitted with clothing for herself and infant. In a school in Garrett, children in the first 4 grades had given the teachers and Nurse an anxious time. Pediculosis seemed to reign supreme but after 5 years work the heads are practically clear of these pests.

A father called at my office to show me his boy who suffers with curvature of the spine which has developed during the last 6 months. I took him to Judge Endicott who arranged to have him go to Riley Hospital for examination. Since our interview the father has taken him twice to Riley for examination and observation. A little girl in one of our country grade schools has developed curvature of the spine. I interviewed the mother and advised her to care for this at once.

A call was made on a mother, after an interview with a physician about her boy, 7 years old who is running a temperature after a throat infection. Plans are being made to have him attend a T. B. Clinic to be held on June 2 in Auburn.

This report covers the period from June 1, 1936 to May 21, 1937.

Catherine Eoll,
Red Cross Nurse.

Champion Mauri Rose Dodges the Headlines

EXTRA MAURI ROSE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Mauri Rose didn't realize how many friends he had until he hit the wall at 110 miles an hour just before the 1936 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The little Dayton, Ohio, dare-devil had always played a lone hand. He didn't want publicity, he didn't want any fuss about his driving. All he wanted was to get out and drive.

But after the crackup in which his car was wrecked, Mauri got headlines, and plenty of aid from folks about the Speedway. He managed to get his car in tip-top shape and went out and drove a masterful race. During the year of competition, he piled up enough points to nose out Lou Meyer, Indianapolis winner, for the National AAA Championship. And now he can't escape the headlines in the Silver Anniversary 500-mile race on Monday, May 31st.

HOME BUREAU

On Friday, May 21st, the Concord Township Home Bureau met at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick. Meeting was called to order by Laura Washler. Songs, "You Can Smile," and "Neath the Crust of the Old Apple Pie," were led by Mary Krise. The secretary's report was read and accepted and 21 members responded to roll call with favorite household helps.

Mother's Day poems were read by Mrs. Anna Rickett and Mrs. Clara Foltz. They were beautiful poems and enjoyed by all. Mrs. Borthwick gave some very good points on child health. For project work Mrs. Foltz demonstrated the making of Swedish tea rings and orange rolls. Mrs. Boger gave a short talk, and all members are urged to send their recipes to Mrs. Mary Krise or Harriett Draggoo not later than June 3.

The meeting was closed by singing "Smile." The committee served a tasty lunch of rolls, cake, casserole chicken and coffee.

VOL. LII. (52 Years.) (In The St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JUNE 3, 1937 NUMBER 22

MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVANCE

Memorial Day was fittingly observed here on Sunday afternoon with a very nice crowd at the gym to hear the splendid talk by J. N. Scholes. Many of our former residents, now living elsewhere, made their annual pilgrimage to St. Joe to decorate graves of their loved ones and to visit with other homecomers on this annual event.

The program was given its usual support throughout with a fine parade. Lehr W. Wilder and Chas. Bassett were color bearers performing their service with dignity. The Band, American Legion, Spanish American, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, children all carrying flags, made up the line of march from the gym to the cemetery, and it was a beautiful sight. Decorating the graves of the soldiers and sounding taps, concluded the ceremony.

The cemetery presented a beautiful appearance, lawn neatly mowed and trimmed, graves bore potted plants, cut flowers and blooming shrubbery.

Among the visitors we contacted at the services were Mr. and Mrs. Lee O. Tustison of Defiance; Mr. and Mrs. Delvin Armstrong, Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. Nick Funk of Butler; Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Hathaway, of near Kendallville; Mrs. Guy Deardorf and sons of Michigan; Wm. Beam, of Lakeville, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Abel, Montpelier, O., Mrs. J. G. Davenport, Ft. Wayne, or better known as Sunshine Hart.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Crick, of Anderson; Coral Simanton and family, of Auburn; John Sechler, Kendallville; Mr. and Mrs. John Goldsmith, of near Ft. Wayne; Dr. and Mrs. Carey, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Patterson, John Draggoo and family, Arthur Wilmot, Mrs. Millie Wilson, Merritt Milliman and Mr. and Mrs. George Bartlett and daugghter, Bessie, of Ft. Wayne, and Mabelle Thornton, Washington, D. C.

The first burial in the K. of P. Cemetery was that of Frank Engle, March 25, 1889.

SPENCERVILLE YOUTH DIES ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING

Marion Akey, aged 14 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leavitt Akey, residing at the north edge of Spencerville, in the J. P. Buckingham property on road one, was the victim of a fatal shooting Thursday afternoon. He died a half hour after the bullet from a .22 calibre repeating rifle entered his abdomen.

Dr. B. O. Shook of Spencerville, DeKalb county coroner, who was called to hold an inquest, gave as his verdict death from an accidental shooting.

Marion, his brother, Wilbur, a year his senior, and Max Maurer, aged about 15 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Maurer, were shooting frogs along Mud Run, a creek running through the Chaney farm, a mile and a half west of Spencerville about 1 o'clock. The gun jammed. Maurer was holding the stock and Marion had hold of the muzzle of the rifle. The boys were trying to release the shell. The gun went off, the bullet striking Marion in the right of the middle part of the abdomen, two inches below the ribs and it went up through the liver and lung.

His companions tried to help Marion to the Chas. McCrory home, a distance of sixty rods, but he collapsed after walking only a third of the distance. Dr. Shook was summoned and he arrived within a short time, but Marion died before his arrival. Death was due to internal hemorrhages. The body was removed by Dr. Shook to the Walter funeral home in Spencerville.

Marion was one of a family of eight children of whom five boys and two girls survive. Also surviving are the parents, paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Akey of Leo, and maternal grandmother, Mrs. Nettie Lochner of Spencerville.

An unfortunate circumstance in connection with the tragedy was that an insurance policy taken on the deceased boy lapsed the day before he died.

The funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock DST from the Methodist church at Spencerville, with the Rev. J. J. McKinley, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, Auburn, officiating. Burial was made in the cemtery at Leo.

Billy Rose Vetoes Venus at Exposition

BILLY ROSE, whose two mammoth productions are the feature of the new 1937 Great Lakes Exposition at Cleveland, which continues open for 101 days until September 6, rose in his wrath this week and banned Venus de Milos from his 5,000-seat Aquacade.

"Even if she had arms I wouldn't let her in the chorus," shouted Billy. "She'll have to reduce before she can typify the modern American stream-lined beauties who are in my shows.

"What I want is a Greek statue that looks like my No. 1 Aquabelle, Eleanor Holm Jarrett. Take that fat woman from Milos away—Eleanor can tie her hands behind her and beat her any day."

Rose's other show, the Pioneer Palace at the big 150-acre Exposition which has more free attractions than any other ever held, is headed by Tom Patricola. More than 5,000,000 people will visit Cleveland's big show this summer, many camping in Trailer City there.

Without expressing an opinion as to who was right and who was wrong, it is a fact of not very remote history that the Supreme Court dropped a monkey wrench into the Administration machinery a while ago, when the N. R. A. and allied projects were set aside as unconstitutional. Within the past few days, the Court has validated the Security Act, putting its o. k. on job insurance and old age pensions, job insurance having a close shave at 5 to 4, and old age pensions making a better showing at 7 to 2. Although the specific measures passed upon are important in themselves, the main point to be noted is that the Court it is said, has come to take a broader view of what is called the general welfare provisions of the Constitution. It would be wrong to assume that the Court has hedged because of the attacks upon it. Every tub must stand on its own bottom, and the same is true of trials at law. To praise the Court for following the course known as falling into line is a doubtful and unwarranted compliment. Its latest decision undoubtedly was governed by the law that applied to the particular point under consideration. There should be assurance for all in the circumstance that the Supreme Court unholds one administrative measure today and throws another down tomorrow. Consistency and safety reside in the fact that the highest judicial tribunal in the land can deny another branch of the government support in one instance, and come forward with a ready support in another, if the law and the facts are not the same in both.

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., familiarly known as John D., has gone to his reward at the age of 97. Once perhaps the most bitterly criticized man of his time, public opinion mellowed toward him with the passage of the years, partly because the world looks kindly on a person whose head is whitened by the snows of almost a hundred winters, but more especially because of his benefactions. Born in 1839, Mr. Rockefeller began life at a time when people were finding their way about at night by the light of tallow candles. Into a candle-lighted world he brought oil. Not without profit to himself to be sure, but out of his gain much money went back directly or indirectly to those who contributed the profits which rewarded his enterprises. Regardless of what one thinks of Mr. Rockefeller, all must admit that he was a public character whose repute spread around the globe. Few can state offhand who was Vice President with Mr. Hayes or even with President Wilson. Not one in a thousand knows who was Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States in 1900. Everyone knew who was referred to when the papers stated that John D. was dead, and the fact that he had long been in retirement did not dim his celebrity.

Down in Georgia, a prisoner who had confessed assault and double murder was shot while trying to escape. His body was taken from the morgue, dragged around the public square and then burned. On the surface, and perhaps unconditionally, such conduct must be disapproved as an exhibition of childish or primitive rage, yet it is safe to say that the same offence will not be committed in the same locality for some time to come. All must turn a face of cold disapproval on lynching or anything that resembles it, but on the other hand one is entitled to speculate as to whether criminal law is not a little too soft, too uncertain and too slow in its operation. In the days of the Old West, order was brought out of turbulence, in more than one place by vigilance committees who tried criminals at eight o'clock in the morning and executed them before sundown. Self-appointed judges and hangmen have no place in modern civilization but the success which sometimes has followed their efforts points to the conclusion that, after all, a careful study of their work may yield helpful suggestions to those who think that the rules and regulations governing the punishment of high crimes need a shake-up and revision.

GASOLINE TAX BIRTHDAY

On Tuesday, June 1st, Indiana Gasoline Tax celebrated its fourteenth birthday.

From an innocent looking youngster ,it has grown in fourteen years to a financial giant. Indiana's famous hard-road system has been transformed into one of concrete and asphalt. The automobile and truck have replaced the horse-drawn vehicles. Distances are no longer barriers to transportation. The economic life of a great state has been changed. The man who owns and drives a motor car has seen all this take place in the past fourteen years. All this has been possible through his payments of a state gasoline tax and other types of taxes.

This type of levy was first imposed in 1919 in Oregon as an additional and special benefit tax to be paid by the consumers of motor fuel for the purpose of financing state highways.

Other states recognizing the advantages of gasoline tax laws followed the example of Oregon, until each state and the District of Columbia have imposed this levy on the motorists at rates ranging from two to seven cents per gallon.

The 1923 session of the Indiana General Assembly passed a bill placing a tax of two cents a gallon upon gasoline. The effective date was June 1, 1923. The tax was increased to three cents from 1925 to 1929, at which time it was increased to four cents per gallon.

The six months' period of 1923 yielded only $1,309,925.73 in gasoline taxes. With the increases both in the rate of tax and the number of motorized vehicles this amount has increased in 1936 to $21,119,042.35.

From June 1, 1931 to the close of the fiscal year on June 30, 1936, the motorists of Indiana have paid $188,630,491.23 in state gasoline taxes. Another 20 million dollars will have been paid by June 1st, which will increase the amount to 208 million dollars.

The motorists of Indiana have paid this enormous sum into the state for the purpose of financing a state highway building and maintenance program. In addition to the 208 millions they have also paid millions more in license fees and other forms of taxation upon motor vehicles. And in addition to this, they pay all the other taxes that non-car owners pay. Since 1933, this special group of taxpayers has seen $10,000,000 of highway funds diverted to other than highway uses. The diversion of this amount has seriously imperiled the highway program as well as prevented a reduction of any of the motorists' taxes.

The 1937 session of the General Assembly adopted a resolution proposing a Constitutional Amendment to prohibit the diversion of highway funds. This resolution must be adopted by the 1939 session before it can be submitted to the voters in the 1940 general election. This is a matter in which every motorist is vitally interested and this action upon his part reflects the growing sentiment spreading throughout the nation.

Four states, Colorado, Kansas, Minnesota and Missouri, have amended their Constitution in order to prevent the diversion of their highway funds. Several states, including Maine, Alabama and North Dakota, have passed laws prohibiting diversion of road funds.

Gasoline taxes reasonably levied and conscientiously spent upon the highways will produce adequate revenue to finance our highways. Reasonable gasoline taxes are easier and cheaper to collect, proportionately more remunerative. Illinois and Michigan have had a three cent gasoline tax for several years while the Indiana motorists have paid a tax of four cents for each gallon of gasoline since 1929.

Special recognition was paid by the state of Indiana to its motorists on Tuesday, June 1st. A state benefactor of the first rank is the motorist taxpayer. It is the custom of this state to honor its benefactors and to preserve the memory of its citizens who have made noble contributions to its welfare. No group has contributed more generously than has the motorists to the outstanding development of Indiana.

Since the motorist taxpayer contributes so substantially to these state benefits, as well as to the state income, the honor and consideration justly do him as a benefactor of Indiana was asked upon the 14th anniversary of the state gasoline tax. This tribute took the form of an expression of appreciation for the contribution which these motorist taxpayers have already made to the progress of our state and that out of appreciation for this contribution, they should be defended not only against any proposal to further increase their tax burden but encouraged by a reduction where disportionately excessive.

SPEED MANIA

While there is nothing in the way of evidence at present to justify the assumption that in some dim future date the human race will become intelligent enough to regulate the speed of automobiles and therby save thirty to forty thousand lives a year, it is possible that day will come. There is no reason for the speed at which the modern day machines are operated. There is nothing of such pressing importance as to call for traveling 75 to 80 miles an hour. The car manufacturers have placed a dangerous plaything in the hands of drivers and there are too many who are unable to resist the temptation to "step on it." Since the drivers are unwilling to observe safe speed, and inasmuch as speed laws seem to have been made to be broken in disregard to all rules of safety, it might be that the only method of control left is to require speed regulators on all automobiles.

MAILING MISTAKES

Uncle Sam put $230,000 in his pocket in 1936 because the public was careless in addressing mail. Exactly 12,250,000 pieces of mail went to the "Dead Letter Office" because of insufficient addresses, and 108,454 of that number contained money. Since there was no return address on the envelopes, and it could not be returned, the government got it. All of which should impress our readers with the importance of having a return card in the upper left-hand corner of every envelope they mail. This day in time when printed return cards on envelopes is so inexpensive, and the only guarantee of a letter's return if it is improperly addressed, there is no excuse for mail going to the "Dead Letter Office." Whether it is a business or a social letter, make sure your name and address is in the upper left-hand corner of the envelope in which it is mailed. Then if it isn't delivered you will get it back, and have the satisfaction of knowing why it came back.

"BUY AMERICAN"

Probably not one St. Joe citizen in a hundred ever looks to see where the article he is purchasing was produced, though if more would do so, and more would refuse to buy products shipped into this country from abroad, conditions over here would quickly improve. In China and Japan a wage equal to 15c a day in our money is considered fair; Germany is not much better and Russia and Belgium are not far behind. How can an American workman compete with wages like that, or how can living conditions over here be kept at their present standard if he has to? If Americans would look to see where the merchandise they are about to buy was produced, and then refuse to buy it if it came from a country where starvation wages, long hours, sweat shops and unsanitary conditions are the rule it would go far toward solving this country's employment problems, and do much to prevent future depressions. "Buy American" should be every loyal American's slogan from now on.

GOOD NEWS

As a general thing the kind of news sent out by the weather bureau isn't good news. But now and then there is an exception, and a forecast regarding a repitition of last year's drouth is an example. It is the kind of weather news everybody around St. Joe will enjoy reading.

According to this new prediction the country will witness a more moderate summer than the last one. The experts say temperatures will be more normal; there will be no long, record-breaking hot spells such as we went thru in 1936. While there has been more than the usual amount of moisture already this year, the weather men think there still will be a sufficient amount to meet all needs and vegetation will not suffer as it did during last June, July and August. In other words, Uncle Sam's weather bureau does not believe that the country is in for another drouth year.

Along with this cheerful forecast comes one just as rosy from the Department of Agriculture to the effect that while many sections are below normal crop conditions owing to excessive spring moisture, the general outlook is good and warrants the prediction that bumper crops of all kinds will more than make up for the shortages caused by a lack of it last year. Putting the two reports together it makes the kind of news every reader likes to get hold of, and the kind of news every newspaper likes to print.

NEWSWEEKLY SCRAPBOOK....

Week's Best Recipe

Macaroni and Ham—1 medium size can cooked macaroni in cheese sauce; 1 cup ground cooked ham; ½ cup bread crumbs; 1 tablespoon melted butter. Place a thin layer of macaroni in a buttered casserole and top with a layer of ham. Repeat layers, until all are used. Mix bread crumbs with butter and sprinkle over top. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 20 minutes, or until well heated through and crumbs have browned. Serves four.

A Style Hint

The vogue for white influences many materials this year. The new tweeds have white thread mingeld with pastel or darker shades. White polka dots of all sizes are still very smart. Check and plaid materials show a lot of white and white stripes, ranging from the shadow to the thick bar stripe. White stitching and white braiding are also largely used on dark tailored suits.

In the Kitchen

The flavor of hot prune juice may be improved if a little spice and lemon juice are used. .....A little mustard spread over chops or steaks to be broiled or baked will greatly improve the flavor. ... ..Left over cooked ham blends well with veal, pork and beef in salads, sandwich mixtures, potpies and hash.

For Flower Lovers

If you are bothered by cats and dogs in your garden spray with nicotine solution as the odor is distasteful to them. Use 1½ teaspoons of 40% nicotine sulphate in a gallon of water. ....Rock gardens are desirable, but keep in mind that much of the charm depends upon its naturalness and it takes genius to create a natural-looking rock garden.

Good Thing To Know

An easy way to stamp hooked rugs is to draw design on paper, then trace all lines on design with wax crayon. The more wax you can get on the better. Then lay wax side down on burlap and go over it with a hot iron. This will stamp the rugs as good as any you can buy.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

Albert Moore says June is the month of brides, the other eleven being devoted to divorces.

As Foster Gee sees it, the clothes that make the women are the clothes that break the man.

One of the best ways to attain success is to find a location where everyone is dumber than you are.

This day and time the woman with a worthless husband goes out and gets a job instead of starving to save her pride.

"Life is at best just a zig-zagging affair," declares Laney Gee. "Most of us are zigging when we ought to be zagging."

"The hen with one chick," declares Sherman Wolff, "has nothing on the girl with one pair of silk hose when it comes to being fussy."

Joe Martin says maybe the reason why women spend millions every year for cosmetics is they want to improve the face value of things.

"How some women can even pretend to be proud of their husbands," asserts Avis Staman, "is a mystery that other women can't understand."

Orange Herrick says there was a time when it was complimentary to call a young woman a "corn fed" but that was before the stuff began selling for a dollar a bushel.

Fish and Game Club Information

At the Conservation Club meeting last week the boys ventured into an entirely new field of activity, that of interest to those who have hunting dogs.

On Sunday, June 13, a coon dog field trial day will eb held at the Mansfield farm, 3 miles north of St. Joe on Road 8. The club appointed the following committees to take charge of the day's activities:

Gate: Wm. Keeler and Grant Baltz.

Parking of Cars: Clayton Chorpenning and Art Guilford.

Entry of Dogs: Lester Coburn, Ed Storer and Roy Reidenbach.

Trail Men: Boyd Mansfield, Albert Moore and Henry Mansfield.

Line Judges: Everett Pressler and Harry Smith.

Tree Judges: Walter Baker, Harvey Kimes and M. M. Mansfield.

A lunch stand will be provided and will be in charge of Roy Wade and Howard Williams.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN

The Safety Man

You cannot blame the drunken driver for the majority of the traffic accidents last year. He was involved in only approximately six per cent of them.

You cannot lay the record of 38,000 motor vehicle fatalities at the door of the physically unfit.

You cannot blame bad weather when four out of five accidents occur when it is clear and dry.

You cannot blame poor roads when four out of five accidents occur on our best highways.

No, there is no use trying to pass the buck on this traffic accident proposition. It's the driver himself—the careless and thoughtless things he does—that sends the accident rate soaring.

It's smart to be careful.

PREHISTORIC TEETH

Huge blocks of ivory, conceded to be the teeth of a prehistoric monster, have been unearthed from the Kishwaukee River bottoms near Marengo, Ill., by Herman Schauer, dredge operator. Scientists from Field Museum and Smithsonian Institute have expressed belief the molars indicate existence of prehistoric's skeleton, probably far below river bed. This picture shows D. C. Force and J. L. Baseley examining the teeth which weigh 12 pounds each.

Printing
Is But a Small Part of the Cost

IN getting out a circular, circular letter or other piece of printed matter. The paper, the addressing, the mailing easily total more than the printing. Yet, in a large measure, the Results Depend Upon the Printing.

NO COLLECTIONS IN THIS CHURCH

Versailles, Ind.—Pictured above is the new $150,000 Tyson Methodist Temple in Versailles, Ind., the gift of Mr. James H. Tyson, of Chicago. The Temple was built in memory of Mr. Tyson's mother, a former resident of Versailles. As it is an endowed church no collection of any kind will be taken up at any of its services. The Temple was dedicated in May.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

Receipts at the local yards totaled 231 for this week's sale. All of our regular buyers were on hand and bidding was active in all departments. There was an increased demand for all grades of calves and also for brood sows with pigs at heel. Following is an outline of prices:

Hogs: 160 to 180, $11.10. Light Yorks averaging 110 lbs, $7.60 to $10.30. Fat sows, $9.00 to $9.80. Boars up to $6.00. A Chester White sow with nine pigs brought $59.00. Feeder pigs sold slightly higher than a week ago.

Veals: Tops $9.50 with a good demand for lighter inferior grades from $8.00 to $9.00. There were only a few "Deacon" calves offered for sale this week and brought fully fifty cents to one dollar more per head than last week.

Cattle: Steers, $5.00 to $8.50. Heifers happened to be of higher quality than steers this week and sold from $7.00 to $9.50. Fat cows made a top of $7.70. Canners from $3.25 to $4.80. Bulls $6.00 to $7.20. Milk cows from $31.00 to $71.50 per head.

"IT CAN'T BE DONE"

Come to the June Tri-Township Farm Bureau program to be given on Tuesday evening, June 8, at the gymnasium in St. Joe and see if it can't. The program will start at 7:30 Central Standard Time. In view of the fact that this is a very busy time for Farm Bureau members a short program is being arranged with dismissal by 9:00 o'clock, C. S. T.

The meeting will be opened with community singing. Devotional in charge of Mrs. Grace Dilley.

Business session in charge of chairman Fred Hart. Mrs. Mildred Grogg, of Auburn, county leader for the Farm Bureau Credit Union, will present and outline the Credit Union plan. Not every farmer has an established bank credit. The Farm Bureau Credit Union offers short time loans to farmers when in need of ready money at a reasonable interest.

On the other hand it furnishes a sound and safe depository for small depositors, and a method by which our people may pool their finances and thereby help each other. DeKalb county has 114 members, last year made 28 loans. Since the date of organization, April, 1932, the sum of $8,815 has been loaned to DeKalb county farmers.

It being co-operative all profits are returned to depositors. Hear Mrs. Grogg explain this move fully at the Farm Bureau meeting.

Musical numbers will be a vocal duet by Harold and Leora Bell Wilmot, "My Blue Ridge Mountain Home," and a solo by Jimmie Kees, "Wildbird's Love Song."

A play entitled "It Can't Be Done," will be presented with the following cast: "Jack" Dean Kees; "Joan" his sister, Gwenevere Jenkins; "Darby" Charles Hart; "Jill" his sister, Louise Sechler.

You'll forget your late planted oats, and the rainy days that kept you off your corn ground, when you hear Jack and Joan a New York city brother and sister, unexpectedly in charge of a farm, explaining how they make butter out of butternuts, "about two bushel a week." You'll enjoy Darby and Joan, really from the country but pretending they're from the city telling how Madison Square Garden has been moved into Grant's Tomb. The most of us didn't know it, but a milking stool is for the cow to sit on while she's being milked. Come and enjoy this program which we promise will not be lengthy. Public invited. No admission charge.

TWO U. S. ARMY DIRIGIBLES GO OUT OF SERVICE

Two Scott Field Dirigibles to be dismantled, are the larger Blimps shown in the photo. The other, a smaller size airship, was built as an experiment. The Helium Gas from the C.11 and C.14 (one of the largest semi-rigid dirigibles in the world) will be salvaged. The dirigibles will be stored. The C.11 is about 185 feet long and the C.14 about 300 feet long. The crew of the smaller ship was eight men. While the larger carried fifteen. It is said that the "Hindenburg crash has no bearing on this change as it was considered for some time."

FISHING "ALL WASHED UP" FOR 1937

Here's a small section of the 40 tons of fish washed up on the shores of Lake Ripley at Litchfield, Minnesota. The entire fish population of the lake smothered due to the depleted water level and the fact that there was no midwinter thaw to crack the ice and let air into the water. Another contributing factor was heavy fall of snow which covered the lake preventing sun rays from penetrating to the plant growth under water. When the plants died they ceased giving off oxygen, causing fish to die in huge numbers. The dead fish were hauled away in trucks and used as fertilizer on nearby farms.

VOL. LII. (52 Years.) (In The St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JUNE 10, 1937 NUMBER 23

STALLMAN ELECTED FOR A THIRD TERM

Carl F. Stallman, of Auburn, was re-elected county superintendent of schools Monday by the township trustees of the county in session at the court house. It was the first time in many years that a superintendent has been elected for a third term. Mr. Stallman was first given the office in 1929 and he was again chosen in 1933. He had no opposition Monday and was re-elected by acclamation. The new four-year term will start Aug. 16th.

Mr. Stallman was graduated from Tri State college, Angola, with the degrees of Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Pedagogy. He also attended Chicago university for two terms and he received his master's degree from Indiana university. He was principal of the high school at Hamilton when he was elected county superintendent. At that time he was living in Franklin township. Mr. Stallman is a Democrat.

The next meeting of the trustees will be held August 4, when they will hold their annual picnic. Dode Houlton of Franklin township, is in charge of the arrangements, being appointed by the chairman, Frank E. Rhodes of Spencer township.

The new term of the district schools will start Tuesday, Sept. 7.

FORMER ST. JOE TEACHER MARRIES AT EVANSTON

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Nelen Ditmars of Garrett, to John E. Baker of Crown Point, on Saturday, May 22, in Evanston, Ill.

The couple was married at the chapel of the First Methodist Church in Evantson by the Dr. Ernest Tittle. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Knott. Mrs. Knott is a sister of the bride. After the ceremony the couple motored to Lake Geneva, Wis., for a few days.

Miss Ditmars is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Ditmars, south of Garrett and for the past three years has taught in Hebron, Ind. She formerly taught at St. Joe. She received her degree from Purdue university, is a member of Pi Chapter of Sigma Phi Gamma sorority and of the American Association of University Women.

Mr. Baker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Baker of Odon, Ind., and has been teaching at Crown Point, Ind. He received his A. B. degree from DePauw university where he was an active member of Delta Chi fraternity.

In a few days the couple will leave for Minneaoplis where Mr. Baker will enter the University of Minnesota to complete his master's degree. Mrs. Baker is a sister of Mrs. W. J. Lonergan, Jr., of Auburn.

Her many friends here extend congratulations.

CLARK SCHOLES ELECTED TO OFFICE IN FORTY AND EIGHT

When DeKalb Co Voiture of La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux met in Garrett last Thursday evening for their annual election of officers, the honor and fun Degree of the American Legion chose as their second in command Clark Scholes, Commander of the St. Joe Post of the American Legion. This organization, which has for its officers the names, in French, of a French train crew, commemorates the little box cars in which the soldiers rode in France. A sign painted on the sides of these tiny cars informed all and sundry that their capacity was 40 Hommes au 8 Chevaux or 40 men or 8 horses. Of this simple statement was born the society of the forty men and eight horses. Composed of White male members of the American Legion who have performed outstanding service to their posts for a period of at least a year La Societe refuses to admit the serious side of the war and commemorates the other side of it. The complete list of next year's officers follow:

Chef de Gare—Clayton Bailey, Garrett.

Chef de Train—Clark Scholes, St. Joe.

Commissaire Intendant and Correspondent—R. L. Crothers, Garrett.

Conductuer—Lester Smurr, Garrett.

Garde a la Porte—Alfa Hoeffel, Garrett.

Commis Voyaguer—Virgil White, Garrett.

Cheminot—John Pockl, Garrett, C. H. Phelps, Butler, John Moore, Auburn.

Aumonier—Waldo Grimm, Garrett.

ST. JOE PASTOR IS CHOSEN CHAIRMAN

Rev. J. N. Scholes, of east of St. Joe, was chosen chairman of the DeKalb County Ministerial Association for the next year, at the Monday morning session at the Auburn Y. M. C. A. Rev. H. F. Craven was chosen vice chairman and Rev. Earl Burger, of Waterloo, as secretary.

Aside from the business session, the entire forenoon was given over to dicussion of the county fair and the part that the ministers should take. Mr. Hart, president of the fair association, F. B. Leighty and Albert Yoder, representing the county Sunday School Association, were also present and participated in the discussion.

The meeting selected Rev. M. C. Wright, of Auburn as general chairman for the fair participation, and they decided to have a booth, where religious education materials might be dispensed. The planse are yet young for this new venture but you may expect DeKalb county to be represented in a religious way at the fair.

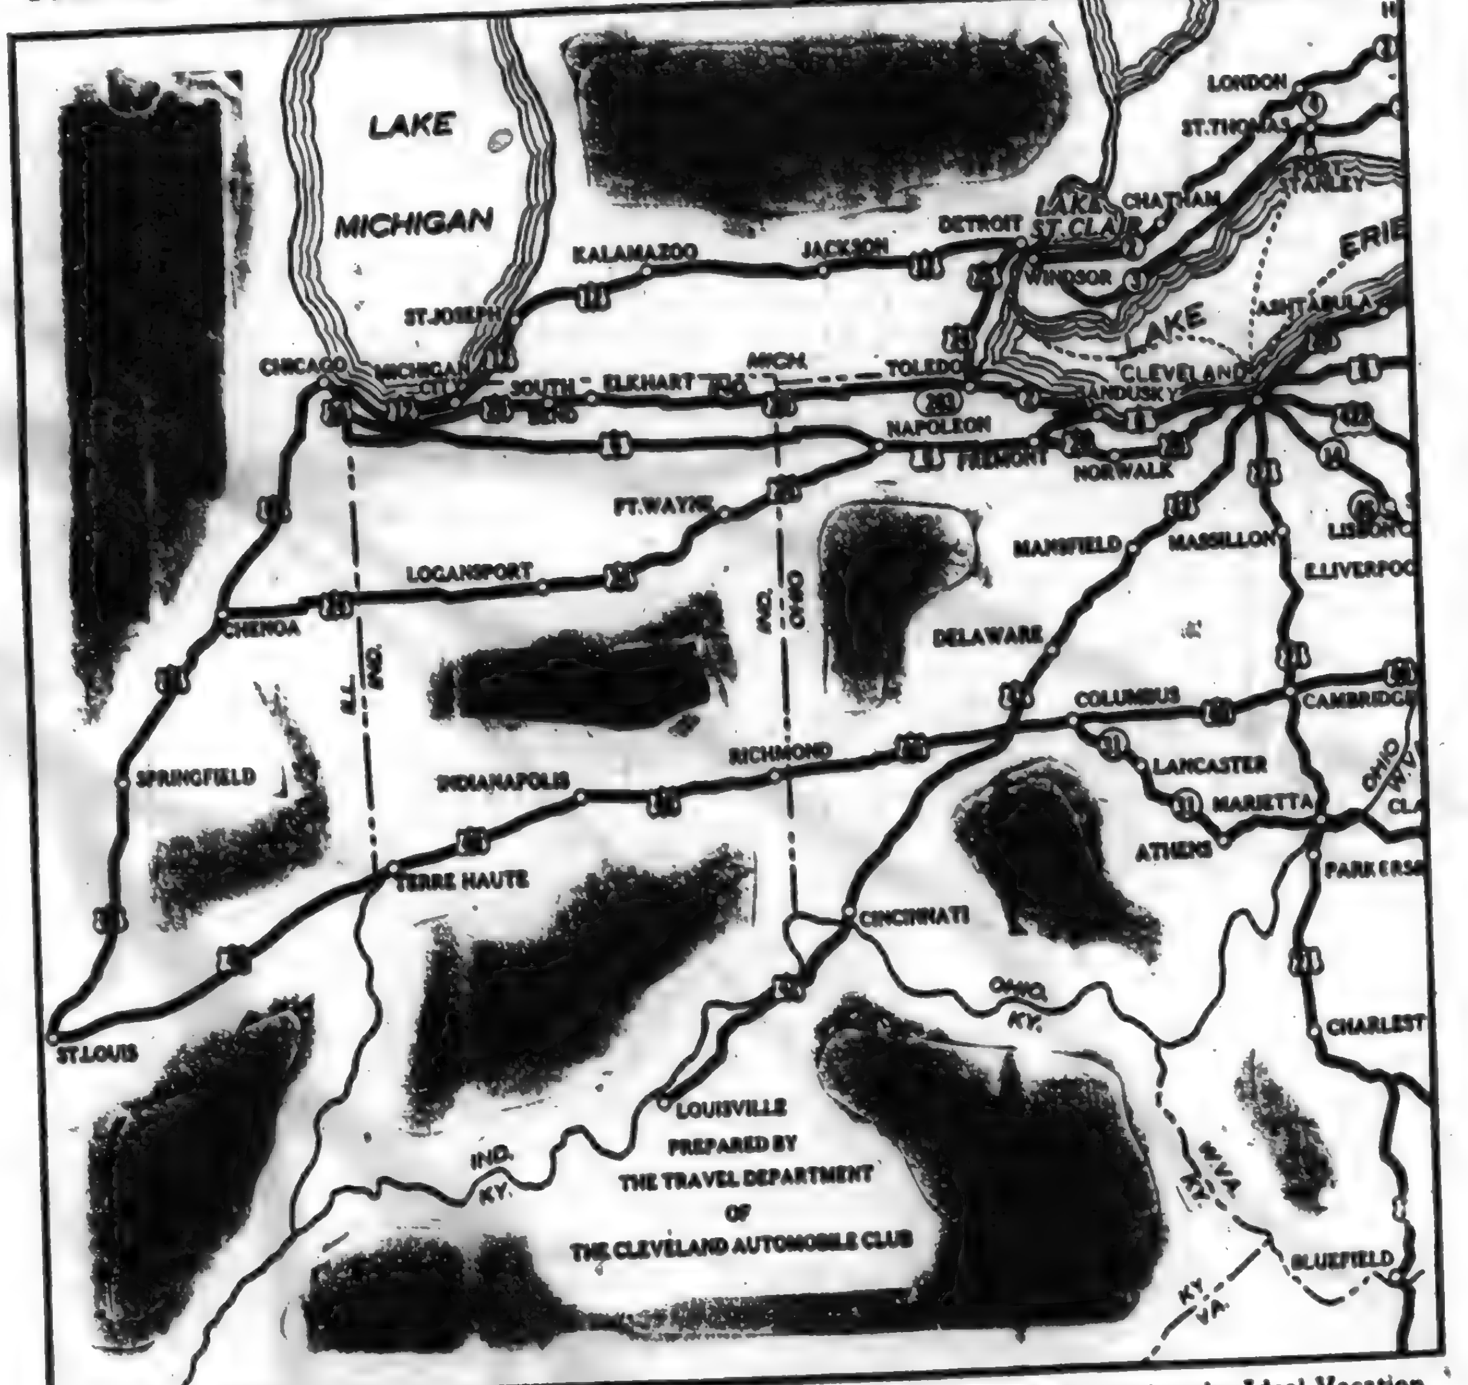
All Roads Lead to Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland



ALL NEW AND GREATER the Great Lakes Exposition Runs Through September 6 as the Ideal Vacation.

Middle-age is that period in a man's life when he can look both ways without seeing much.

Free speech isn't enough for some orators. What they need is a way to make other people listen.

America may have more crime than all the other countries, but she didn't raise all the criminals.

Another exciting game is to be riding at night, meet another car and guess which headlight is out.

Wonder if it would be proper to say that these new sit-down strikes are among the "stern" realities of life?

Parents should never teach their children to be good unless they are willing to set them a few examples.

The average man never needs to worry much about his summer vacation. His boss tells him when he can go and his wife tells him where he's going.

Maybe the Good Samaritan of Bible days did such fine work because a lot of curiosity seekers didn't crowd around to tell him what to do and how to do it.

Matrimonial bonds are like the other kind in one respect—they're not worth much unless the interest is kept up.

A 100 per cent American is one who orders ham and eggs when he runs into a lot of French words on a bill of fare.

The surest way to win in this world is to be willing to suffer and sacrifice and endure more than the other fellow.

A statesman is a fellow who is willing to do everything possible for the dear public if it will help his political cause.

Physicians say the insane are happier than the sane. Maybe that's because they don't have to worry over doctor bills.

The best place for most men to hide their money so their wives won't find it is to put it in the basket with their undarned socks.

Washington weather is warm, hot in fact, with the thermometer at 94 degrees. It has been quite as warm in Congress. The rise in temperature there arose from opposition to a bill supplying a billion and a half dollars for relief without specifying so clearly as some wished, the particular manner in which the money was to be spent. The bottom dropped out of the opposition in the House a few days ago, and the appropriation went through, after informal indication from the White House as to the channels through which a part of the cash might be expected to flow.

The relief matter beyond the lower house at least, attention is being directed to the President's pointed message to the effect that something must be done to put a curb on wealthy tax evaders, who, according to common belief have larger loopholes of escape than those of moderate means, and a keener eye for loopholes. Neither the rich man nor the tax collector is popular. How is a person to know which side to take? We growl about paying our taxes and in the same breath berate those who are able to avoid payment. Perhaps the whole matter boils down to the adage that misery likes company. In this instance probably it is entitled to larger company. That, in any event, is the President's view.

Spain bombs a German ship. Another German vessel drops a carload of shells upon a Spanish town in order to "liquidate the crimial attack." From the German view point, the incident is closed, but the navy has its guns ready, in the event of what are called "new aggressions." Mr. Mussolini joins Mr. Hitler in voiding the neutrality pact and decided to stop Soviet ships carrying supplies to the Spanish Loyalist party. Parenthetically, it may be remarked that in these days, times have changed. Hitler is Germany and Mussolini is Italy. The next stop seems to be up to Soviet Russia. Quoting from memory, the poet Tennyson wrote something about the era "when the war drums beat no longer and the battle flags are furled, in the parliament of man, the federation of the world." The doings concerning Spain may be nothing but a flare-up. A good many hard words may be exchanged before blows are struck. Considering, however, the delicate poise of chips on numerous European shoulders, even the most optimistic will have to admit that in June, 1937 Mr. Tennyson's "when" is not yet.

The royal family in England have their gifts for Wallis and Edward in the mail, under separate cover, charges prepaid, which reminds one that a wedding is a wedding, the world over, and with the high as well as the lowly. Among the problems that have escaped the notice of the League of Nations and legislators everywhere is the necessity for a safe and sane wedding, so far as gifts are concerned. Not a few couples start life with six sugar bowls, or four cocktail shakers when neither of the contracting parties drinks, and as the merchandise is viewed, there arises the sobering thought that the second payment on the house must be due next month. It might be a good plan for both donors and recipients to lay aside false pride and get right down to business at the start. Why not announce frankly that the ceremony will be conducted on a five dollar cash basis, for example. Thus saving the guests a lot of running from store to store in the hot sun, and would also relieve the wedded pair of the necessity for carrying a dozen smoking stands as surplus stock, the proper article being brought down from the attic when the well-meaning relative who supplied it writes that he is coming for a visit.

A WORD OF WARNING

The time-honored family medicine cabinet has become an institution in this country, and we daresay there are few if any homes in St. Joe that do not boast one. Since early days the medicine cabinet has served well its safeguarding health in the home. It has been a godsend in thousands af emergencies. And yet danger lurks in almost all of them.

Utmost care is used by the manufacturers of medicines containing poisons, and druggists are also careful in labeling bottles so there can be no reasonable excuse for mistakes. Bus as soon as poisonous medicines reach the home the safeguards seem to break down. The box or bottle is placed in the medicine cabinet with a conglomeration of other boxes and bottles, and left where children of the household can easily reach them, or where an adult can get one by mistake while reaching for some harmless box or bottle in the dark. Many have been poisoned in this way.

The danger lurking in family medicine cabinets has become so great that the U. S. Health Service has issued a warning in which it declares that the average person "messes up everything from common baking soda to bichloride of mercury tablets, despite the fact that doctors have issued warnings about the danger of having poisons in the home." So if poison of any kind must be kept in the house the proper way is to see that it is out of reach of children. Equal care should also be taken to see that any medicine containing poison is so placed that there will be no danger of a grown person mistaking it for a harmless remedy.

LAND OF OPPORTUNITY

It's not unusual to hear the growing St. Joe boy complain of a lack of opportunity in this country, and that a fellow has to have money or "a pull" to get on in the world. Parents of boys who make such statements now have an excellent chance to disabuse their minds of such belief.

Point out to them the case of William Knudsen, who was chosen president of the General Motors Corporation just a few weeks ago. Knudsen came to this country 30 years ago, a poor emigrant boy, with but $30 in his pocket and not an acquaintance in the entire United States. But he had the determination to make something of himself—and the perseverance to stick by the resolve. He started in as an errand boy, earning just enough each week to pay for his board and clothes. He spent his leisure hours studying in free night schools and reading in free libraries. Today he is at the top.

America is still the land of opportunity, and this latest evidence of that fact should be pointed out to every boy who feels that it's not. There is still a chance for success awainting any boy who is honestly determined to work for it, and willing to put the best of his life in whatever he sets out to do. But each must work out his own problems. Success is to be gained in no other way. There is always room in America for more Knudsens.

AIDING CRIME

It is generally understood that the people of this country expect their officers to rigidly enforce the law. However, many are today doing everything in their power to break down the work of juries and judges. Through petitions and political pressure thieves and murderers are being turned loose every day to prey on their sentimental benefactors, and the parole laws of this country have become little more than a sham. Far more than one-half of the criminals now being arrested are found, on investigation, to have been guilty of earlier crimes and to have gained their liberty through parole. It is not often that the citizens of St. Joe are asked to attach their names to a petition for parole, but when they are it would be a good idea for them to weigh the matter carefully. Sentiment is a fine thing, but sentiment becomes dangerous if it leads to the release of still another menace to the peace and welfare of the general public.

ANOTHER CRUSADE

The action of the women of Virginia in sounding a battle-cry of freedom against unsightly billboards along motor highways gives promise of developing into a great national crusade, and before the summer is over you need not be surprised to find the women of St. Joe enlisted in the fight. They declare the signs not only mar the natural beauty of miles upon miles of highways, but that quite often they set up a serious hazard by attracting the attention of a motorist at the very second his whole attention should be devoted to the road ahead. In their fight for laws that will sweep away the objectionable signs with which practically every highway is now cluttered they have the support of thousands of motorists who feel just as they do about it. Heartened by this support they are lining up for battle, and Virginia's legislative halls will be the battleground. It will be a battle, too, that will be watched with deep interest in every part of the country.

WASTE IN THE AIR

With the destruction of the dirigible Hindenberg still fresh in everyone's mind, it will surprise many to learn that Germany has already started laying out the framework of another giant aircraft exactly like it. The first to enter the lighter-than-air fiield, Germany proposes to stick to it, cost what it may. After Uncle Sam's sad experience with zeppelins, however, they are looked upon here in an entirely different light, and this country has ceased to build them. Mankind advances by the trial and error method, and maybe some day Germany will make a dirigible as safe from calamities as the modern ocean-going liners. But the average American, who pays the taxes and foots the bills for such experiments is not at this time willing to have any more of his money spent on them. He consideres the building of dirigible airships a waste of money and he sees their operation so far as a terrible waste of human life. So Germany can, it appears, count on very little opposition from this country in that branch of the flying field for a long time to come.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

Sylvia Ginther says at forty a woman quits patting herself on the back and begins patting herself under the chin.

"Some men wake up to find themselves famous," asserts Wm. Staman "and others stay up all night and find themselves notorious."

If it took nature millions of years to develop a man why expect us to develop a good one in forty years?

Flag Day, 1937

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

"It is a whole national history. It is the Constitution. It is the Government. It is the free people that stand in the Government, on the Constitution. Forget not what it means; and, for the sake of its meaning, be true to your country's flag."

That admonition was spoken by a great American, long decades before the observance of Flag Day on June 14 of each year became our national custom. It gains in significance as the years roll on.

For the American flag is known to the world as the symbol of human liberty. It was born in a struggle for freedom. It has carried that message wherever flown—not only over our own continent but on all the winds of the world.

Today much of the world could welcome its message. For freedom and democracy are still under fire; in many lands the rights of liberty of speech, of thought, and of endeavor—symbolized by the Stars and Stripes through its century and a half of existence—are still imperilled.

And from the political scrapheaps of those nations which exalt domination by the few over government by the many, are frequently imported ideas which, if accepted, could dilute or destroy our own clear concepts of liberty.

Flag Day, 1937, will serve a noble purpose if it reminds us of those things. It will serve a still higher one if it refreshes in all of us the determination to preserve for our own posterity that precious freedom which our fathers won for us, and which their flag and ours still proclaims to all the world.

E. A. McClintock says as a last resort a farmer can go to the city —where his sons and his profits went.

Speaking of the movement of youth from the city to the farm, Dell Draggoo says he thinks it should be limited—to about 45 miles an hour.

There are two kinds of fishermen around here. Those who fish for sport and those who catch something.

As Roy Maxwell has it figured out, many a general who is covered with medals was never covered with guns.

"When company stays too long," suggests Glen Kinsey, "just treat them like one of the family and they'll soon beat it.

As Harry Hursh sees it, many a man stays home nights because he has the house to himself.

NEWSWEEKLY SCRAPBOOK....

Week's Best Recipe

Veal Loaf—(Ham flavored) 1½ cups chopped veal; 1 cup chopped cooked ham; ⅔ cup soft bread; 2 egg yolks; 1 tablespoon minced parsley; 1 teaspoon minced onion; ¼ teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon paprika; ½ cup milk; 2 tablespoons melted butter; 3 tablespoons catsup. Mix the ingredients and pour into a buttered loaf pan. Bake 25 minutes in a moderate oven. Unmold and serve hot or cold.

A Beauty Hint

Necklines have almost the same effect upon the face and neck as a necklace. The principles involved are almost identical in both cases. The woman with the round, full face should avoid rounded necklines. For her the oval, or V-shaped necklines are far more flattering.

In The Kitchen

When you make your next layer or loaf cake take out enough batter for four or five cup cakes. Bake them in small pans or paper cups and then save them to put in lunch boxes, since they keep better than individual pieces of cake and may be packed more easily.

Worth Knowing

Rub the iron over a cloth which has been moistened with kerosene when ironing startched clothes. When starch clings to your flatiron sprinkle salt on a piece of brown paper and run the iron over it. Keep a damp sponge at hand when ironing for dampening wrinkles or spots which have become too dry.

The Sewing Room

When using buttons for trimming on a wash dress, place a toothpick or match stick across face of button and sew through eyes just as though fastening button to the dress, quite naturally catching the toothpick under the thread. Then remove the stick and use a small safety pin for catching the threads to the dress from the under side. When the dress is ready to be laundered the buttons are easily removed.

Safetygrams

By Fred W. Braun
The Safety Man

Mr. Asher Frank, State Safety Director of Florida, has this to say about automobile accidents:

"There is no such thing as an unavoidable accident. If somebody didn't do something wrong, there wouldn't be any accidents."

Mr. Frank is right. The traffic accident hasn't happened yet that could not have been avoided. Somewhere there was a defect—maybe in the road, possibly in the vehicle, or most likely in the driver.

To say that accidents are unavoidable is to close your eyes and mind to the truth.

All accidents are avoidable. Think that over.

The annual social and community gathering of the Boots School will be held at the Boots school house in Jackson township, on Sunday, June 13. Pot luck dinner and you are asked to bring table service. Friends are invited. Grace Houk, secretary and treasurer and Clarence Sponhour, president.

Last week we over looked mentioning the fact that the John Wineland home had taken on a new appearance with the applying of the new asbestos-cement shingle on the sides of the main part of their home. This is the first home in St. Joe to have this modern improvement and is one of beauty. They can now say goodbye to paint.

Mrs. Calvin C. Kain, of Auburn, who suffered second and third degree burns on Monday, May 31, is now in charge of a registered nurse. Mrs. Kain either slipped or tripped on the basement stairs while carrying a pail of scalding water. About two-thirds of her body is burned. Mr. Kain has also been confined to his home with heart trouble.

Spring housecleaning is practically over and now let everyone be careful about throwing rubbish on our streets. A clean door yard and trash on the streets do not go well together. Let us also suggest that the town board or the boy scouts provide rubbish containers throughout the business district and then gather at stated times. Do you not think this worth while?

A straw shed was set on fire Tuesday afternoon at the Carl Hart farm home by his son, LaVon and Master Marion Coburn, who were attempting to smoke out rats. The fire company responded to the call but their services were not needed. A chicken house standing near by was not destroyed. Carl lives on the old Orr farm south of Coburntown, and it will be remembered that the large bank barn here, burned and Mr. Orr lost his life. The youngsters were not frightened in the least.

Otis Jones, a brother of Mrs. Frank Akins, is in a critical condition at a Chicago Hospital, as a result of gun shot wound received on Memorial Day during the Republic Steel Plant strike. Mr. Jones lives at New Holland, Ill., and was visiting in Chicago at the time. He had gone to the scene to try to induce a nephew who worked in the plant to return home with him, when a stray bullet hit him. He was rushed to the hospital and the bullet was removed but he remains helpless. It is feared meningitis will result. Later: Word was received Wednesday morning that Mr. Jones was not expected to live and Mr. and Mrs. Akins left immediately for Chicago.

Rockefeller Leaves Bulk of $25,000,000 to Grandaughter

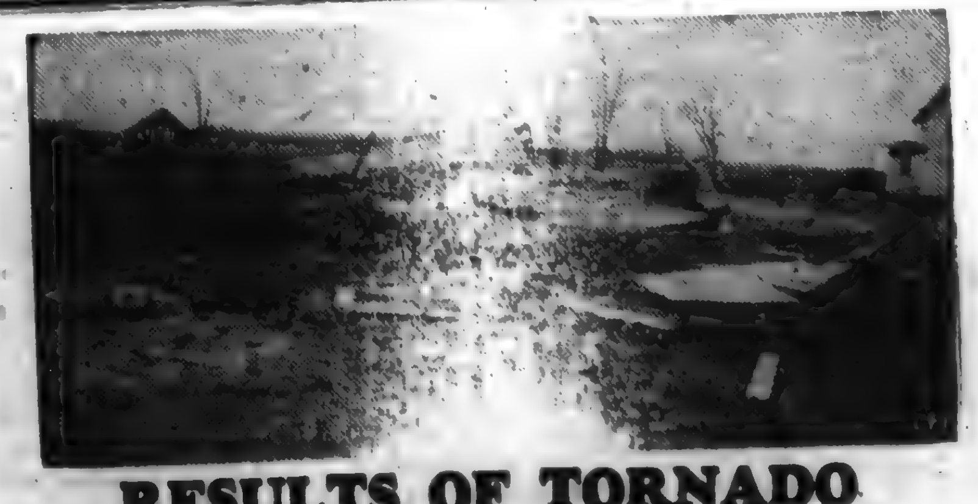
WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—Mr. and Mrs. George de Cuevas. Under the terms of the will filed here today Mrs. de Cuevas, the daughter of John D. Rockefeller's oldest daughter, Bessie, was named chief beneficiary of Mr. Rockefeller's estate of $25,000,000. Federal and state inheritance taxes are expected to reduce this amount to $5,500,000.

Searching Parties Combed Snowdrifts for Missing Plane

Here's one way searchers went about attempting to locate the missing WAE airliner lost in Utah since Dec. 15 with six persons aboard. The searcher at left is probing a deep snowdrift with a length of wire. When the wire struck a solid object, other soundings were made to determine the size of the object. Some snowdrifts encountered in the search area 30 miles south of Salt Lake City range up to 40 feet in depth, enough to cover wreckage of a transport plane.

FUTURE PRIZE WINNERS

Here are two of the five guernsey calves purchased by members of Grant County 4-H clubs here recently. The calves were purchased from registered guernsey cows with high butterfat production records. The trip to St. Joseph County to purchase the calves which cost more than $50 was sponsored by the Grant County Guernsey Breeders' Association. Boys shown in the picture are Milford and Robert Adams of Fairmount township.



RESULTS OF TORNADO

Untold damage was caused to farms in Minnesota recently when a violent windstorm struck about 11 o'clock at night. Pictured above is the destruction caused on the farm of Henry Schutjer where heavy timbers were hurled through the side of the house and rugs and pictures whisked out of the broken windows. Mr. and Mrs. Schutjer had just vacated their bed when a heavy timber came through the wall, struck the bed and whirled it around. All the windows were blown out of the car seen in front of the house.

MARKLE

Jeremiah E., son of Ephriam and Elizabeth Markle, was born in Pickuaway County, Ohio, Sept. 6, 1845 and departed this life at his home in Spencerville on Sunday morning, June 6, 1937, at the age of ninety-one years and nine months.

When only six weeks of age, he with his parents, came to Indiana and settled in Allen County, where he resided until about thirty-six years ago.

On October 18, 1865 he was united in marriage to Catherine Anne Wise. To this union were born three sons and one daughter, the daughter, Ada, E., dying in infancy.

In 1901, he with his family, came to DeKalb County, settling in the old home where he spent the rest of his life.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Catherine Anne, on October 26, 1918.

He was a member of the Springfield Center Lutheran Church and although his membership was never transferred he claimed the Spencerville Lutheran Church as his church home.

He was the oldest resident of Spencer Township and was the last of a family of eight children. He was a kind and loving father and grandfather, a good neighbor, always ready to help in time of need.

He is survived by the three sons, Frank and William of Spencerville and Delmar of Fort Wayne, seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren and a host of neighbors and friends.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. C. J. Ferster in the Lutheran Church Tuesday afternoon. Interment in White City Cemetery.

‡limit of 25 in the aggregate of these species.

All persons eighteen years of age of over must have a license to fish in the State of Indian except upon their own premises.

Indiana's open season for the taking of game fish begins after midnight Wednesday morning, June 16, Central Time, with every indication that a record number of fishermen will celebrate the opening of the season, Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, reported today.

Community celebrations observing the opening of the fishing season will be held at a number of points throughout the northern lake region with thousands of anglers expected to attend. In these centers ringing of bells, bursting bombs and screetching whistles will announce the end of the closed season and the start of the open season.

Reports from all parts of the state predict the best fishing that Hoosiers have enjoyed in recent years. Veteran anglers along the streams say that the high waters during the early spring carried fish into the smaller creeks in greater numbers than for many years past. The increasing number of low log dams in the streams and the lessened menace of pollution are also pointed out as contributing to better stream fishing.

From the lake regions reports of better fishing are equally optimistic. Lake levels as a rule are higher and an unusual number of nests have been reported. Efforts to control the predatory enemies of the game species are having a marked effect in many lakes. At scores of lakes the summer cottages, vacation homes for thousands of Hoosiers, have been opened and will be the scene of many fishing parties.

Activities of the Department of Conservation in increasing the artificial propagation of game fish at the state hatcheries and enlisting the co-operation of more than a hundred and fifty conservation clubs in similar programs, are becoming more evident in the improved fishing in Indiana lakes and streams. A foretaste of what the bass and bluegills fishermen may expect during the coming season, was experienced by the hundreds of anglers who have been taking trout in northern Indiana streams during the past month.

Only two changes have been made in Indiana sport fishing regulations, the legal length for pike-perch has been reduced from 13 to 10 inches and a bag limit of six has been set on pike or pickerel.

Other general regulations require every person eighteen years of age or older to have a license to fish except upon their on premises; make it unlawful to sell, offer to sell, buy or offer to buy any game fish whether caught in this state or not; to sell minnows or to have more than 500 minnows in possession without having a permit from the Division of Fish and Game; to fish or operate a power-propelled boat over any area designated as a spawning ground; to use dynamite or other explosives, electric current or any other substances to kill, destroy, stupify or poison fish; and to fish with, use or set any trot line, set line, or throw line within fifty yards of any dam in any of the waters of this state.

On Sunday, June 13, a coon dog field trial day will be held at the Mansfield farm, 3 miles north of St. Joe on Road 8. The club appointed the following committees to take charge of the day's activities:

Gate: Wm. Keeler and Grant Baltz.

Parking of Cars: Clayton Chorpenning and Art Guilford.

Entry of Dogs: Lester Coburn, Ed Storer and Roy Reidenbach.

Trail Men: Boyd Mansfield, Albert Moore and Henry Mansfield.

Line Judges: Everett Pressler and Harry Smith.

Tree Judges: Walter Baker, Harvey Kimes and M. M. Mansfield.

A lunch stand will be provided and will be in charge of Roy Wade and Howard Williams.

GIRL SCOUT COURT OF AWARDS

The Girl Scout Troop No. 1 of Joe held their Court of Awards at the Lutheran Church, Thursday eve, June 10th. A short program was given pertaining to subjects that were studied during this period.

The meeting was opened with the regular Scout ritual—Salute to the flag, and repeating the Laws and Promise of the Scout—followed by the Scout Chant.

Maxine Woodcox gave a very interesting article on Fire Prevention in the Home, giving the best ways to leave a burning building, how to tell if it is safe to enter a hall and strongly advocating fire drills in the home.

Marcia Wade told of many bandages and aids learned in the First Aid Class and when to use them.

Frances Reidenbach played a piano solo entitled "Spinning Wheel." Jean Goldsmith gave some interesting facts about our flag and when and where it is permissable to use our flag.

The Court of Awards was then held, each examiner presenting their badges and explaining the work done to win the badge.

The badge, the examiner, and the girls receiving the badges are as follows:

Laundress, Mrs. Curie: Patricia Maxwell, Frances Reidenbach, Marcia Wade, Beverly Wade, June Goldsmith, Ruth Keesler, Myra Keesler.

Housekeeper, Mrs. Leighty: Leila Hurni, Patricia Maxwell, Frances Reidenbach, Marcia Wade, Beverly Wade, June Goldsmith, Ruth Keesler, Myra Keesler.

First Aid, Mrs. Hart: Leila Hurni, Ruth Keesler, Myra Keesler, Candace Loftus, Patricia Maxwell, Frances Reidenbach, Marcia Wade, Beverly Wade, Jean Goldsmith, June Goldsmith.

Second Class, Mrs. Goldsmith: Stella Hart.

Scholarship, Miss Violet May: Ruth Keesler, Myra Keesler, Patricia Maxwell, Frances Reidenbach, Candace Loftus.

Wild Flower, Miss May: Patricia Maxwell.

Bird Finder, Miss May: Jean Goldsmith.

Rambler, Miss May: Jean Goldsmith.

Dressmaker, Mrs. Reidenbach: Jean Goldsmith.

Junior Citizen, Mrs. Goldsmith: Jean Goldsmith, June Goldsmith.

Observer, Mrs. Goldsmith: June Goldsmith.

Child Nurse, Mrs. Goldsmith: Marcia Wade, Beverly Wade, Stella Hart, Jean Goldsmith, Leila Hurni, June Goldsmith.

Scout Pins, Mrs. Yeiser: April Bowser, Jean Hurni, Martha Hart, Carol Reed, Mary Ellen Rude, Mary Louise Woodcox, Maxine Woodcox, Rosemary Yeiser, Opal Kinsey, Evelyn Shook, Dorothy Stewart, Gladys Stewart.

After the Court of Awards the Ladies Literary Club, sponsers of the Troop, served light refreshments to the girls and their mothers, who were special guests of the evening.

SALARY SET FOR COUNTY WELFARE

The DeKalb county council in special session at the court house Saturday set the salary of the director of the county welfare department at $150 a month, that of the deputy director at $75 a month and that of an investigator at $80 a month.

The council also allowed $3,500 additional for assistance to dependent children for the remainder of the year and $300 for destitute children, as well as $200 for mileage of members of the welfare board and investigator.

In asking for the meeting of the council, the welfare board set a tentative salary of $200 for a deputy. The board also asked for an appropriation sufficient to pay for two investigators for the remainder of this year at $115 a month each. The council limited the number of investigators to one, considering one sufficient under the present set-up. It is expected that more than one will be needed when the law goes into effect next year reducing from 70 to 65 years the age limit for assistance for aged persons.

At its June meeting the DeKalb county welfare board considered the reports of thirteen investigations of old age assistance applications. Four new awards were granted, two applications were rejected, three were continued at the same amount as before, two applicants were given increases, two applications were rejected and one application was withdrawn. It was reported that five deaths had taken place among old age assistance beneficiaries within the last month. One application for assistance for a child was rejected.

NOTICE—CHILDREN

In order to protect the shrubbery and flowers about the Lutheran Church property, we are asking that all children refrain from playing on the church lawn. Parents are asked to co-operate with the request of the Board.

LUTHERAN REDEDICATION SERVICES

The rededicatory services, at St. Mark's Lutheran Church Sunday were well attended, and very much appreciated by all present. After the savory repast of the noon hour, an opening hymn was sung; and for two hours a real spiritual feast was manifest. Those taking part in the program were: D. B. Ridgway, Rev. and Mrs. A. K. Mumma, Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Kunkle, Hollis Dilley, Mrs. Harry Hursh, Layton Tombow, and the Rev. C. J. Ferster. Two special musical numbers were given by Mesdames Cole, Leighty. and Staman. Mrs. Hollis Dilley officiating at the piano.

The new floors, the redecorated walls, the new clock and altar, and also the beautiful floral decorations, and the inspirational program made the service one that will be remembered.

The Albion, Springfield, and Spencerville parishes were well represented in the audienc. The St. Joe congregation rejoices in their church edifice, and the hearts of all go out in gratitude and praise that we may worship Him in the beauty of holiness.

ANGLERS READY FOR FISHING SEASON

A few last-minute reminders were given by Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, to the thousands of fisherman who celebrated the opening of the fishing season Wednesday morning. Among the suggestions were:

"Don't forget to get your 1937 fishing license before you start out and see that you have it with you when you start to fish. Everyone eighteen years of age or over must have a license to fish except on their own premises.

"Don't fail to ask permission before entering upon private land and after entering treat it as you would your own property.

"Don't take more fish than you can use; a limit catch is not a badge of good sportsmanship. Put the little ones back to grow up for next year.

"Wet your hands before handling a fish so that it will not be subject to disease if it is put back.

"It is against the law to sell, offer to sell, purchase or offer to purchase, any game fish whether caught in Indiana or not.

"Keep away from areas where signs designate spawning beds; give the eggs a chance to hatch.

"It is unlawful to fish with, use, or set any trot line or throw line within fifty feet of any dam.

"Remember that the future of your sport depends upon your observance of regulations established for its protection. The violator is no friend of the real fisherman."

NOTICE

A meeting of the membership of the St. Joe M. P. Church will be held at the Church on Friday evening, July 9, 1937, for the purpose of considering the future course of the Church.

By order of Church Trustees.

FATHER HAS HIS DAY NEXT SUNDAY

After a year of comparative oblivion, the man who brings home the bacon and pays the bills will come into his own next Sunday—for that is the date set aside for the nation-wide celebration of Father's Day.

Mother had her day for several years before some one realized that an equally-important member of the family–Dad–was being neglected. Now every Dad has his day, too.

It's the usual custom to present Father with a gift on this day—a necktie, or a box of cigars, or perhaps that fishing tackle he's had his eye on for weeks.

He may have to pay for it himself at the end of the month—but that's several days off and, anyway, it's the spirit behind the gift that counts.

Penguins Unique Attraction at Great Lakes Exposition

ONE-THIRD OF THE TOTAL penguin population of the United States is living this summer aboard the Admiral Byrd ship, at the Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland. The above picture shows five of the six Adelie penguins in their air conditioned cage on the deck of the old whaling vessel, which is commanded by Capt. Ralph Von Suboff.

Col. Leo McDonald, Admiral Byrd's personal representative for the past dozen years, states that the six penguins at the Great Lakes Exposition are very choicy about their food. They refuse to pick up fish from the deck, eating their fish either from the hands of Capt. Suboff or from the water in their tank. They eat twenty pounds or more of fish daily and immediately after dining proceed to take a nap! The Exposition continues thru Sept. 6.

What Strange Beast

MARION, IND.—This donkey, often seen on streets here and of neighboring towns is not half-cow but the faithful servant of "Old Mose", familiar darkey trucker of that region for the past 25 years. "Mose" and "Sam" have been throuhg eight auto wrecks together and have worn out six wagons in their business. When "Sam" was a youngster he was injured by a boar, according to his strange shape.

It's the small change clinking in the church collection box that makes the most noise.

It's as hard to determine who wins a strike as it is to figure out who won the World War.

The passing of Jean Harlow was marked by sadness, even among those who knew her only as a flickering and transcient phantom on the motion picture screen. There are votive stones to mark the places where great commanders spoke the word that laid thousands low. It was not Miss Harlow's mission to give the world a heritage of sorrow, but she should not be forgotten simply because her stock in trade did not happen to be the unpleasant things in life, which, unfortunately, recollection treasures longest. They also serve, and serve well, who lead us out, even for a brief hour, into the pleasant land of make-believe.

The Duke of Windsor, once was the most popular person in England. Today, according to a newspaper writing for a Washington daily on affairs abroad, the English verdict is that "he let us down." If Edward happens to be reading Scott's verses, or if he has a memory that serves him in the hour of need, he can fire back a shell which the poet might have prepared for the present occasion:

"Hear'st thou" he said, "the loud acclaim
With which they shout the Douglas name?
With like acclaim the vulgar throat
Strained for King James their morning note.
Who o'er the herd would wish to reign,
Fantastic, fickle, fierce and vain!"

ABOUT ADVICE

You may disregard advice, but listen to it. Don't sneer at it, no matter who the person is that offers it. Even the worst advice presents one side of a question. A clever and successful merchant once said that he always wanted advice—not necessarily to follow it, but to help him make up his mind. If you have time, listen to everything everybody has to say. If you haven't the time, always listen to anything that is presented earnestly and intelligently, whether or not it agrees with your present opinion. You may find it necessary to change your opinion some day. Above all things—never scoff or make light of the criticism—with its implied advice—of any enemy. It is there that your weakest points are exposed. If you are wise you will be thankful for the opportunity to strengthen them.

A BIG FRUIT YEAR

In this country where dust storms and drouths and floods and insect pests are of common occurrence it's next to impossible to predict accurately what kind of fruit crop to expect. But at the close of May reports from all sections of the country indicated that housewives can prepare for plenty of fruit, of almost every variety, for canning purposes. A mild winter was general throughout the country. While this in a way encouraged insect pests it also proved of value to fruit trees of every description. An unusual abundance of moisture during the first three months of the year has also served to enhance the outlook, so all in all, taking the coutry as a whole, there should be an abundance of fruit for canning and preserving purposes. Old-timers say that good fruit years mean good years from every other standpoint, especially for those who lean heavily on canned goods to get through the winter. Look to the St. Joe Valley for fruits and berries of all kinds this year.

BOYS AND CRIME

Parents of St. Joe boys who have neglected to encourage them to affiliate with the Boy Scouts or a like organization wherever it is possible for the boys to do so, will be interested in an announcement by federal secret service authorities on the subject. They say the percentage of juvenile crime in America is far less in communities where Boy Scouts and similar organizations are maintained than in those communities which either discourage such organizations or fail to take any interest. "If we are to prevent crime," says one federal investigator, "we must begin with the high chair instead of the electric chair." Combatting crime is a responsibility of all citizens, and not merely of law-enforcement officers. Those who help the boys of this country to grow up into useful, law-abiding citizens are helping to prevent crime, and there can be no doubt but aiding and encouraging the Boy Scouts and like organizations is an excellent way to go about it.

THE WHEAT OUTLOOK

Government forecasts now assure us that, barring unforeseen difficulties, the winter wheat crop in the U. S. for 1937 should be the largest for many years. The Department of Agriculture estimates it now at 654,000,000 bushels. Added to this will be the spring wheat crop which, though there is no certainty about the prediction at this time, may amount to 200,000,000 more bushels. So as things now stand the nation's wheat crop this year is going to be larger than at any time since 1919.

There are to be found around St. Joe no doubt some to contend that a bumper crop does not mean better times for the reason that it will serve to drive down prices and producers will be no better off. Government experts, however, point out the falsity of such claim by stating that for the last three years the crop has been 50,000,000 bushels below domestic needs each year and this country has been forced to import wheat. They say a crop of 854,000,000 bushels, as now predicted, will still be short of domestic demand, thus insuring a good price for the growers. If there should be more than is needed for home consumption, there is always an export market to take up the excess production.

It's cheering news, this prediction of a bumper wheat crop for 1937, and here is hoping that it comes true.

SLOW DOWN AT SUNDOWN

A new slogan is being offered the motorists of America by safety experts, and if they will adopt it and abide by it there will be a far happier story to tell when this year's deaths and accidents are counted.

"Slow down at sundown" is the new safety slogan, and when motorists around St. Joe realize that 60 per cent of all auto accidents in 1936 occurred between sundown and sunup they will see the wisdom of obeying it. With more cars on the highways than ever before; with every indication that this will be the biggest touring year in the nation's history; with the undeniable fact that driving has become more dangerous since the drunken operator has been added to the list of hazards; when all these things are taken into consideration it's a pretty dumb driver who spurns the new slogan and continues to his as fast a pace at night as he is accustomed to in the daytime.

From now until the fall months it is going to be far more dangerous to operate an auto anywhere in the U. S. than it has been at any time in the past. The only hope of keeping down the death and accident rate—even now 15 per cent greater than for the same period last year—will be through the use of even greater care in driving. Even then there is no guarantee that the safest driver will escape. Slowing down to moderate, sensible speeds after sundown, or avoiding night driving altogether where it is not absolutely necessary, is about the only way left to reduce the national auto death toll. Unless each and every driver resolves here and now to do so we may prepare to read the most gruesome lot of figures at the close of 1937 that American newspapers have yet been called upon to publish.

NEWSWEEKLY SCRAPBOOK....

Week's Best Recipe

Rhubarb Marmalade—2 medium sized oranges; 1 medium sized lemon; 5 pounds sugar; 4 pounds rhubarb, diced; 1 pound seedless raisins. Force oranges and lemons through the food chopper; mix with other ingredients and let stand a half hour. Cook slowly 45 to 60 minutes or to marmalade consistency, stirring often. Place in hot, sterilized jars and seal. One No. 2 can of shredded pineapple can be used instead of raisins if preferred.

For Flower Lovers

To keep flower pots from toppling off porch railings, drive a blindheaded nail 3 or 4 inches long into the top of the rail so that it will fit into the hole in the bottom of the pot. ....Sowing seeds in rows has many advantages over sowing broadcast. It makes it much easier to recognize the seedlings as they appear. Cultivation and the removal of weeds is also facilitated.

In the Kitchen

The maker of delicious soup never allows her soup to boil rapidly. She watches it until it reaches the boiling point and then turns it low and lets it simmer for hours until the meat is completely done and ready to fall apart. Doing that adds to its flavor and body.

Things Worth Knowing

Keep apples light after paring by dropping them into water to which a few tablespoons of lemon juice have been added. ....To hasteh the setting of jelly place mold in a basin containing cold water in which salt has been dissolved. ......When sandpapering surfaces that are to be painted the work is made much easier if the sandpaper is folded over a small block.

For Those Who Sew

Always use a short needle in hemstitching. When hemstitching on linen the thread may be easily drawn if a yard stick is laid along a straight line, being careful to insure the proper margin on the outer edge of the piece. If a piece of hard white soap is rubbed along the linen, the threads may be drawn with ease.

An Inspiration

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

Additional Ruling To The 1937 Agricultural Program

Following is a copy of a telegram received by Ralph Bartles, Chairman of the DeKalb County Agricultural Conservation Association, from the Director of the North Central Division, relative to the cutting of small grains and annual legumes for hay.

Re: Small grains and annual legumes for hay. If oats, barley, flax cut for hay not more than ten per cent of the kernels on plants in field can be advanced beyond the milk stage of matuirty, and at time of cutting all parts of plant must be of a uniform green appearance, except that under dry conditions the lower part of the plant may be yellowish green or yellow in color. Some standards for wheat, rye, emmer, and speltz cut for hay except none of kernels can be advanced beyond milk stage of maturity. If soybeans, cowpeas, field peas, buckwheat cut for hay, seed cannot have advanced beyond half grown stage of maturity and at time of cutting plant must have uniform green appearance, except that under conditions lower parts of plant may be yellowish green or yellow in color. Note that there is no requirement that hay be cut with mower. However, farmers must have satisfactory proof that any of the above crops cut for hay have met above standards. Most satisfactory proof signed statement by community committeeman, stating that he has inspected field at time of cutting. Next best proof similar statement signed by two neighbors. Statements to be held by farmer until called for by farm reporters.

Signed: Claude R. Wickard.

Safetygrams
BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

This message is an appeal to truck drivers. The trucking industry has achieved some remarkable results in accident prevention. There has been a great improvement in the past four or five years, not only in the conduct of these drivers, but also in their personal habits and their driving.

Occasionally, however, you will find several large trucks driven along our highways very close together. This makes it difficult for private passenger cars to pass them because of the speed involved and the length of time it takes to pass two or three of these large trucks.

Truck drivers should maintain the proper amount of space between trucks in order that private passenger cars and others traveling at a faster rate of speed can turn in when passing these large trucks. It is an added measure of safety, and the same principle can also apply to private passenger cars traveling close together.

This is a dangerous situation and one that we can all help to correct.

Preparing a Breakfast for 1,000,000 Grasshoppers

Midwest farmers will not be caught asleep at the post this year when grasshoppers invade their fields for what threatens to be the worst infestation in history. State, county and community grasshopper control committees have seen to it that every farmer has had a chance to obtain bait and learn how to mix it. In this picture, Fred Johnso, left, Oscar Beery and Homer Hosler, Piatt County, Ill., farmers, are using a home-made seed treating machine to mix their bait. The Piatt county farmers are using a formula recommended by the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, consisting of 100lb of bran, 2 gallons of oil (SAE 20–30) and 4 pouids of white arsenic. A well prepared bait will have some poison on every particle of bran. It is estimated that in 1936 grasshoppers ate up more than $17,000,000 worth of farm crops in Illinois alone.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

A general strengthening of the livestock market and heavy rains which kept farmers out of their fields made a noticable increase in receipts for this week's auction. Following is an outline of prices.

Hogs: There were no top weight hogs this week but weights from 80 to 210, $11.30. Roughs reached a top of $9.75. A few feeder shoats changed hands at steady to strong prices and sows with pigs at heel are in good demand.

Veals: The good calves in this week's offering brought from $9.00 to $9.40 with light thin calves correspondingly lower.

Cattle: The top of the heifer offering brought $9.70. Fat cows were higher than last week and sold from $5.00 to $7.00 with canners down to $3.50. Bulls seemed a little high for surrounding markets and anything with coverage enough to kill went to packer buyers rather than to other markets the top was $6.25. A new top was reached in the number of milk cows sold but what looked like an over supply was taken freely at prices steady with last week. There is a good demand in this market for young bulls, especially of the dairy type.

Indiana Asking Aid In Rounding Up Police Killers

SLAIN POLICEMAN

Paul Minneman, 33-year-old state policeman from Logansport, was slain from ambush by Brady gangsters May 25. All law enforcement officers are mobilized to track down the gangsters.

ALLEGED SLAYER

Clarence Lee Shaffer is one of the Brady gangsters sought in connection with the ruthless slaying of Paul Minneman, state policeman, May 25. He is 5 feet, five inches, 120 pounds, and has fair complexion and dark brown hair.

GANG LEADER

Alfred Brady, 26-year-old hoodlum, is sought as the leader of the gang which ambushed and fatally wounded Paul Minneman, state policeman, May 25. Brady is 5 feet, 5¼ inches, 150 pounds, dark complexion, dark brown hair and medium blue eyes.

FUGITIVE GANGSTER

James Dalhover is sought by all law enforcement officers as one of the Brady gangsters who fatally wounded Paul Minneman, state policeman, in an ambush May 25. The Brady gansters are short men, all under 5 feet, 5½ inches.

Governor M. Clifford Townsend and the Indiana State Police have asked the co-operation of the public in capturing the slayers of State Policeman Paul Minneman.

Officer Minneman was fatally wounded May 25 near Royal Center, Ind., when his body was riddled with 24 bullets during an ambush. State Police named Alfred Brady, James Dalhover and Clarence Lee Shaffer, Jr., jail breakers and alleged murderers, as the killers.

As Minneman and Deputy Sheriff Elmer Craig stopped their car near a crossroads in search of bank bandits, the gangsters opened fire. Minneman fell from the car, mortally wounded, and one of the hoodlums then fired into his back from close range. While Craig was unconscious from wounds in his shoulder and foot, he was robbed of his purse.

Originally jewel thiefs, the Brady gangsters are alleged to have robbed five banks (Greenville, O., and North Madison, Carthage, Farmland and Goodland, Ind.,) and killed three policemen and a Piqua, (O.) grocer.

Brady uses aliases of J. A. Barton, James Barton, John A. Barton, Earl Gentry, James Reid, Joe Reid, Al Borden, Elmer Borden, James A. Reed. He is 26, 5 feet, 7 inches; weighs 160 pounds, has medium build, grey eyes, light brown hair and a ruddy complexion.

Dalhover uses aliases of James Williams, James Miller, Jack King, Ted Stewart, Albert Goins, James Dalhober. He is 30, 5 feet, 4½ inches, 134 pounds, medium small build; blue eyes, light brown hair and ruddy complexion. Shaffer uses alieses of Lee Jackson, Al C. Layton, and is 20, 5 feet, 5 inches; 123 pounds, medium build, brown hair, grey eyes, dark complexion and small scars on back of hand.

The hoodlums escaped from jail in Greenfield, Ind. They have been using license plates 340-756 Indiana, stolen in Richmond, Ind., on a 1937 black Oldsmobile sedan and a 1936 black Ford sedan. Small town bankers are urged to scrutinize carefully strangers coming to their establishments. One of the Brady gangsters, carrying a brief case, generally "cases" the bank before a holdup. Ohio police believe the gang may have used Ohio licenses 243WJ or 774AS.

Visits Relative From the West

Joe Goldsmith was called to Ft. Wayne Monday to meet Melvin Gengrich, of Washington, Iowa, who is on a trip east. Having married into the Goldsmith family, he was interested in knowing which limb of the family tree that the Allen county folks fell off. In Iowa two counties are very well represented by this family.

Twister Causes Great Havoc

This new $2200 barn on the farm of Hans Meier northwest of Woodward, Iowa, was one of many buildings in the vicinity demolished recently when wind of cyclone size struck the area. Trees were uprooted, much growing grain was destroyed in the fields and homes and farm buildings were damaged. We have been fortunate through the St. Joe Valley region to have never experienced such a disaster.

SPONSOR CHOOSING OF HARVEST QUEEN AT DEKALB COUNTY FAIR

A Harvest Queen will be named and crowned in the Court Theatre Wednesday evening, September 8th, as a part of DeKalb County's Fair celebration staged in Auburn September 28th to October 2nd.

The St. Joe News and the Court Theatre and the DeKalb County Home Bureau, have been officially designated sponsors of the Harvest Queen contest to name a Miss St. Joe and Miss Concord Township who will compete with the County's most beautiful girls for the "Harvest Queen" title.

The girl selected as "Harvest Queen" and two maids of honor will take official greetings of the DeKalb County Fair Association to the President of the United States in Washington D. C. The Queen and two escorts will remain in Washington for a week. Washington is far more than a city beautiful. It is the heart of the United States, reflecting with fidelity the glamour of the nation's past, the tempo of its present and the promise of its future. Here, national and international history has been made—is in the making. Consequently, it is a place that every citizen wants to see and should see.

They will see many points of interest outside of Washington—the quaint old town of Alexandria, Va., Mount Vernon, Washington's old home and burial place—The Nation's Shrine; Annapolis, Home of the U. S. Naval Academy—Capital of Maryland. At 3:00 P. M. except during their early summer vacation, the Cadets go through their daily drill—truly an impressive sight. All expenses of the "Harvest Queen" and her two escorts will be paid, including all railroad fare, accommodations with private baths, all meals enroute, at hotels, etc., all sight seeing guides, lectures and admission fees as per itinerary.

The Queen and escorts will leave Fort Wayne at 5:07 P. M. on the evening of Sept. 12th on the Crack Pennsylvania Harvest Queen Limited, composed of special roomy, all-steel, air conditioned Pullman coaches with plenty of room for everyone to ride and rest in comfort, to relax and to sleep—perchance to dream of Washington—the Dream City come true.

The Queen's Court, representing the girls who appeared in the finals will await the return of the Queen and after she returns they will be banqueted and feted in a manner which will make them feel that they are really Queens for two or three weeks and will remember their experiences as a high spot in their lives.

While their is no promise of future theatrical work for "The Harvest Queen" and member of her Court, there is opportunity in participation in the contest, motion pictures and screen tests will be made during the Fair activites and many film stars have been winners in far less important beauty contests.

The DeKalb County Home Bureau will sponsor the "Harvest Queen" Contest in each city, town and township with the following officers and directors in charge:

President, H. E. Hart, Auburn, Ind.; secretary, Fanny Boger, Auburn, Ind.; treasurer, Harry Casebere, Auburn, Ind.

Township Directors

Mrs. Clarence McClintock, Union; Mrs. Helen Ulm, Concord; Mrs. Walter DePew, Jackson; Mrs. Zona Abel, Spencer; Mrs. Doris Cline, Wilington; Mrs. Mattie Kepler, Troy; Mrs. Roy Robbins, Franklin, Mrs. Laura Husselman, Grant; Mrs. Eva Miller, Smithfield; Mrs. Lydia Zumbrum, Richland; Mrs. John Dannenburg, Keyser; Mrs. Edith Davis, Butler; Mrs. Alma Diehl, Stafford; Mrs. Orlo Deetz, Fairfield; Mrs. Rose Tustison, Newville.

City and Town Directors

Mrs. O. B. Rose, Garrett; Mrs. R. S. Weilert, Waterloo; Mrs. Vern Bachtel, Waterloo; Mrs. Harry McCleery, Butler; Mrs. Helen Ulm, St. Joe; Mrs. Zona Abel, Spencerville; Mrs. Lydia Zumbrum, Corunna; Mrs. Eva Miller, Ashley; Mrs. T. E. Myers.

TORNADO STRIKES NEAR EDGERTON, OHIO, SUNDAY

One need go but a few miles to witness the devastating results of of a tornado. A section about 2 miles long west of Edgerton, O., and north of road six, was struck by this destructive force on Sunday evening, leveling trees and farm buildings to the ground. Tuesday evening we drove to this area to see, every barn and out building in the path had been lowered to the ground and in many cases part of the houses had been torn away but only one was completely gone. Here, the family had hurried to the basement, thus being saved. The father, who was taking something to the basement was blown about 500 feet into an onion patch and his leg injured was the only bad effect of this wild experience.

Trees of every size and description were either up-rooted or twisted off. Fields for great distances from each home were strewn with boards. Boards were seen standing end-up in corn fields, fences were literally covered with straw and grass. When the wind subsided a downpour of rain came to add to the terror of the inhabitants of this district. Luckily no one was killed.

75 YEARS ON TUESDAY

J. C. Hull celebrated his 75th birthday Tuesday by having new home grown potatoes, but unlike other years, only one little "tater" was to be found in the patch. Due to ill health, J. C. has not been permitted to work in the garden and he thingks his wife planted the potatoes up-side-down, and of course that accounts for the scarcity of new potatoes from the garden. Mrs. Hull had prepared everything necessary for a birthday dinner and then F. B. Leighty and wife were called in to enjoy it.

The snapshot you'll want tomorrow must be taken today. Let The News do your finishing.

BOY SCOUTS AT DECATUR CAMPOREE

One Patrol, 8 boys from the St. Joe Troop attended the Camporee at Decatur on Saturday and Sunday, June 12-13. Those attending were James Maxwell, Franklyn Sechler, Frank Curie, Jr., Jack Goodwin, Paul Keller, Maurice Hurni, Marcel Pugsley and James Draggoo. They were under the leadership of James Maxwell, patrol leader.

The boys registered at 8:00 on Saturday and were given a camp site. They put up their tents, ditched their ground, made their beds, set up their kitchen and erected their patrol project. At 11:00 they prepared their own dinner. The judges who ate with them report they did a fine job.

In the afternoon they were exained in some of their scouting work: judging, trail signs, knot tying, artificial respiration, fire building and signaling. They did very well, but some had some experiences they'll not forget. Ask them about it.

In the evening there was retreat, supper, campfire stunts and Court of Honor.

Sunday was a full day, too: revellie, breakfast, church, dinner, games, breaking camp and the awards. Everything was inspected, judged and points given. Our boys gained 754 points earning a green ribbon and ranking well up among the 48 patrols, which is good considering they have only been in scouting for 6 months and this was their first trip.

The boys returned home tired but happy and anxious to go again. From their talk they learned many things and have many projects in mind for the near future. Plans are being made for the whole troop to go on an over night hike.

SPENCERVILLE BANK ROBBER SENTENCE IS COMMUTED

The prison sentence of Walter Dills, sent from DeKalb county to the state penitentiary in 1929 for bank robbery, commuted by the state clemency commission Monday.

Dills was given a sentence of 18 years by Judge Endicott. The state commission commuted this to a term of 10 to 18 years. He thus becomes eligible for parole at a much earlier date.

Dills was with Jas. Fagan and John Lester Benton when they held up Wm. G. Erick and Clyde Rectenwall at the Farmers & Merchants bank at Spencerville. The loot consisted of $1,000, but the robbers were soon caught.

Fagan was given a 20 year term and Belton was sent for 12 years.

HOLD WINELAND FAMILY REUNION

The annual reunion of the Wineland family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Wineland last Sunday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Pontius of Elkhart, Mrs. A. R. Cole, son, George and daughter, Fairie of Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Hendricks and children, Mrs. Gayl Rugman and son, Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Stroh and son, Wayne of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hollabaugh and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Steward and family of Spencerville, Virgil Dorsey of Scipio, Mr. and Mrs. David Johnson and daughter, May of Hicksville, Mr. and Mrs. Delphos Micalson and daughter, Sandra, of Antwerp, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Freeburn and family, Mr. and Mrs. Derwood Ridgway and son, Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wineland and son, Walter Ervin, Mr. and Mrs. Donald McCann, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dorsey and daughter, Flossie Jane, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Baker and sons, Miss Ethel Freeburn and Miss Mary Stewart of Fort Wayne.

BLAMES IN-LAW FOR MARITAL TROUBLES

The marital troubles of Freida C. Peters and Herman E. Peters of Jackson township, centered around the latter's mother, according to allegations made in a divorce complaint filed in the DeKalb circuit court Thursday.

Mrs. Freida Peters had been married before and has two children, LaNetta LaCroix, 9, and Beverly Jean LaCroix, 5. Freida and Herman Peters were married Nov. 27, 1934, and the former states that her husband did not provide a separate home for her, but took her to his mother's residence. She declares that her mother-in-law is of a fault-finding disposition and told her she couldn't do anything around the house without her authority.

The plaintiff also asserts that she and her children were treated with disrespect and contempt. Her husband told her he would have to be governed by his mother and on two occasions he ordered her to leave and not return. The separation took place Thursday.

It is stated in the complaint that the plaintiff and defendant acquired about $1,500 worth of personal property and the plaintiff demands $500 alimony. She also wants $6 a week for support pending the trial of the cause and an allowance for counsel fees. She is represented by Howard S. Grimm.

Balloon Ascension for Fair.

H. E. Hart, president of the DeKalb County Free Fall Fair association, Monday closed a contract with Mrs. O. E. Ruth of Indianapolis, to make one balloon ascension each day of the fair. Mrs. Ruth will make three parachute drops with each ascension, the first from the clouds and the last near the earth. This will be one of the many free attractions during the fair.

DEKALB COUNTY IN HONOR CLASS AGAIN

Two counties in Indiana are 100 per cent counties, according to the judging at the annual convention of the Indiana Council of Religious Education, which closed its meeting Thursday at Winchester, Ind. The only two counties in the state receiving this recognition are DeKalb and Randolph.

DeKalb county is also a gold crown county for complying with all of the requirements and paying its county quota. DeKalb county has been a 100 per cent and gold crown county continuously since 1927. Other gold crown counties were Randolph, White, Tipton, Shelby and Crawford.

Winona Lake will entertain the 1938 convention.

C. I. O. MEETING FAILED TO MATERIALIZE SATURDAY

The proposed mass meeting called for the organization of a C. I. O. in Auburn Saturday offernoon was called off. An organizer for the union was on hand at the assembly room of the court house with a half a dozen other men, said to be from Fort Wayne, to deliver an address. The hour had been set for 3 o'clock, DST. At 3:30 o'clock no one had entered the room to attend the meeting. At 3:45 the organizer and his friends left.

TO SHOW AT THE FAIR

At a meeting of the Swine Breeders association held at the county agent's office Tuesday evening, Harry Provines of Jackson townhsip was named president for the ensuing year. New by-laws were also adopted. J. C. Stemen of Spencer township, was appointed field man to fill the vacancy of Harry Provines. Members of the association agreed to show more and better swine at the Free Fall Fair this year, and also to have all hogs in pens by Tuesday evening of fair week.

Snite Enroute to Chicago in "Iron Lung"

Frederick Snite, Jr., of Chicago, being taken from ship to train at San Francisco in "Iron Lung," for the last lap of journey which made Medical History. Reported "resting well," Snite arrived in Chicago on Tuesday, June 21. Beside the youth's head is Doctor Claude Forkner, who has been in charge of the patient for two years and accompanied him from Shanghai. Beyond Dr. Forkner is the patient's sister, Loretta Mary Snite.

OTHER DENIM: Dye only coats outside strands of the yarn. When dyed strands wear off or the dye washes off—the white shows through!

STA-BLU DENIM: Dye has penetrated through to the very center of the yarn. Cannot wear white because all strands are equally blue and dye washed off the surface is replaced by more from inside.

HERE'S something all you overall wearers have been wanting for years and of course—you get it first in OSHKOSH B'GOSH! Never again need your overalls show ugly white spots and streaks where wear is greatest—never again need they have that faded, washed-out look! Now OSHKOSH B'GOSH Overalls will stay the same rich, deep blue until worn through entirely. They'll be just as neat and new looking the last day you wear them as on the first. They're made of the same super-tough, wear-defying denim as always but it's dyed a new way so that the dye can't wash out or wear off. So, wear OSHKOSH B'GOSH after this and have overalls you can always be proud of.

Doctors say babies should be a robust pink, but most of them are robust yellers.

At that, many a back-seat driver has a husband who cooks from the dining room table.

Experience may be the best teacher, but she seldom finds any apples on her desk.

The average man lives 31 years longer than he did in 1800. He has to get his taxes paid.

The wife of an airplane pilot is the only woman who is glad to see her husband down and out.

Another bad feature of the divorce evil is that you can't keep a cook now even by marrying her.

With traffic growing heavier, the pedestrian who allows the grass to grow under his feet may soon have it growing over his head.

After wondering all their lives how to fix her hair some women compromise by having it cut off.

Still another thing you never heard of was a man complaining that his parachute didn't open.

It's always a good idea to sidestep the fellow who wants to make you rich but who is broke himself.

A man's enemies seldom bother to kick him when he's down; they stand aside and let his friends do it.

In earlier days in St. Joe, girls used to kiss and make up, but now the makeup comes ahead of everything else.

The man who gets the most fun out of spending money is the one who has learned there's also fun in earning it.

Don't worry so much about the business outlook. The best thing to do now is to keep on the lookout for business.

After he reaches 50, the average man realizes that fun is like insurance. The older you get the more it costs you.

The main trouble with quite a few people is to make their earning power keep up with their yearning power.

Many of us are thankful for what we have, but how many have ever been thankful for having more than they deserve.

Last week it was suggested in this column that the Supreme Court issue had entered upon a Rip Van Winkle snooze, which goes to prove that the prophet's mantle may become uncomfortable. As a matter of fact, the plan to reorganize the court seems very much alive. The report of the Senate Judiciary Committee has been turned in, is unfavorable, and the whole business is laid open for discussion on the floor. It is said that indications are that the measure will be defeated, the chances that a compromise will be turned down being by no means so certain. Regardless of which way the pendulum swings, no one can deny that the court issue has given the country something to think about and fight over. Thinking and fighting at least have the merit of taking one's mind off the hot weather.

Without going too deeply into details or committing himself as to ways and means or exact results to be accomplished, the President states that he is at work in the direction of enlarging the wealth of the nation, raising incomes in the lower paid areas of the population, and increasing the purchasing power of the dollar there. That is a huge task, beside which repairing the Supreme Court and providing temporary relief shrink to the small dust of the balance. So great an undertaing is more than a one-man job, and the President recognizes it as such. During the World War it was said that many uniformed and commissioned federal officials wore spurs to keep their feet from sliding off their desks. Heads and not feet will be over desks if the President puts into operation the movement which as yet he has but faintly outlined.

But for the events of the Civil War, the town of Gettysburg would be unknown, a sleeping Pennsylvania village, sizzling in the summer heat of the surrounding plain, and it is due to Napoleon's activities that we do not have to address the information bureau of some newspaper to find out where Waterloo is located. Johnstown, in the state of Pennsylvania, might have rested in a like obscurity had not the course of events brought it repeatedly to the front.

At present the little city is entertaining a strike, involving the Bethlehem Steel Company, the American Federation of Labor, the C. I. O. and thousands who have no direct connection with any of the organizations mentioned. It is a strange coincidence that Johnstown should appear before the public eye almost on the anniversary of what may be said to have been its first appearance on the pages of history. On the 31st of May, forty-eight years ago, a dam above Johnstown broke, with a loss of more than 2,000 lives. It was about that time that a flood took a toll of almost a million persons in China; and so it appears that the United States, and Johnstown in particular, is not the worst place in the world in which to live, the didoes of men and the wild actions of nature to the contrary notwithstanding.

Science Baffled in Child Operation

PORTLAND, OREGON—Beautiful little Barbara Stobie, 13 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Stobie of Camas Valley, Oregon, lay smiling after a few hours rest from coming out of ether from an embroy operation. Dr. C. W. Brunkow, surgeon in charge, said it was the first case in modern science where a twin had ever been found in a body. The twin was five inches in length. X-ray method discovered the child's abdominal distress.

Back in those days, disaster could be relieved only by a passing the hat when something happened. Concerts and benefits of one kind and another were devised to help the sufferers, but many of them had to continue to suffer for some time before the cash actually reached them. Today the Red Cross and similar bodies are on the ground the next day, not merely sympathetic but equipped to meet the emergency. Such service means preparation and preparation costs money. The donating public perhaps has been a little too hard in its statements that a great deal of what is given to organized charity goes into overhead.

Taking a long step across the ocean seventy workers in a French mill fainted, the cause being unknown. Since nobody was seriously hurt by the experience, it may be commented upon in a light vein. Maybe the thought of those unpaid war debts overcame them. If the indebtedness ever troubled Europe to the fainting point, this seems to have been a complete victory. The papers say that the French mill hands received about $6.25 a week. If they had their minds on the possibility of having to pay up, no wonder they fainted.

BACK ON THE JOB

One of the surest signs that the depression is a thing of the past is the way the old folks and phonies that flourished before it struck are coming back. Some of them are garbed in a new dress, but underneath they are the same old schemes that were used to separate the sucker from his hard-earned dollars, and while there may not be as many dollars at present as before the depression, there are just as many "suckers."

Every mail that arrives in St. Joe is now pretty well burdened with the alluring attempts of the mail-order schemers to extract a few dollars from local citizens, with oil and mining stock offers still taking the lead. Quite a few new schemes have also been added to the list, with questionable life insurance and doubtful "investment bonds" being glaringly exploited. Printing presses are again running overtime in turning out the catchy, tempting literature, and new "sucker lists" are being compiled to include practically every postoffice in the land. Today the "something for nothing" offers are flooding the mail and Uncle Sam is swamped in his efforts to stop the worst of the fakes before the promoters reap their harvest and hunt their holes.

It was true before the depression that "a fool and his money are soon parted," and everyone who receives an alluring "something for nothing" offers, or one that promises riches for very little outlay should remember that the same old rule holds good today. With banks now insuring deposits, and paying fair interest, there is reasonable excuse for being gypped by the fake investment offers reaching you through the mails. With your banker friends willing to advise you as to the best way to invest your surplus dollars, there is no excuse for letting some mail-order faker lead you astray. You couldn't get something for nothing before the depression, and you're not going to get something for nothing now that it has passed.

FIRE ON THE FARM

According to the National Fire Protection Association, farm fires cost the U. S. $100,000,000 and 3,500 lives in 1936. Including both farm and rural communities, the toll is $270,000,000.

Fire is a serious menace on the farm—vastly more serious than to the average city or town resident. Modern engineering has brougnt improved roads and science has brought better fire-fighting equipment. But with all this advancement there have come new risks and new fire hazards from such causes as defective electric wiring, incubators and brooders, oil stoves, water heaters, careless storing and handling of gasoline and kerosene so that we do not seem to have made much actual reduction of total losses from farm fires.

The season for getting out in the open is again here. More camp fires will be constructed in the woods and along the highways as more motorists seek a touch of outdoor life. And every fire that is made in the open will carry a certain amount of danger to forests and fencing and buildings—and human life. There is no way to prevent the making of campfires, and no one wants to do so. But there is a way to handle them so they will not prove destructive. That method is througn care and common-sense. Let everyone who makes a fire outdoors guard it carefully, and make sure that it is completely extinguished before leaving it. Only in that way can our rural fire loss be reduced in 1937.

4-H CLUB JUNIOR LEADER MEETING

The June meeting of the DeKalb County 4-H Junior Leaders was held on June 11th at Mrs. Chisholm's home near Garrett. There were 17 members present. The business meeting was conducted by the vice president, Deloss Crooks. We discussed plans for publishing the Big Nus and also for the Camp at Milford, Indiana.

The following officers were elected; Deloss Crooks, president; Phyllis Olinger, vice president; Doris Mertz, secretary; Dorothy Wappes, yell leader, and Florence Thomas, news reporter. We voted to retain the entire paper staff also the treasurer, Ralph Phefferccorn, and corresponding secretary, Willidene Kimmell.

We all enjoyed very much a weiner and marshmallow roast, also coffee served by the hostess.

Our next meeting will be held at the Auburn Park on July 9th at 7:30 o'clock.

Florence Thomas, Reporter.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN
© The Safety Man

The other day I was asked, "Why do we have all these accidents in spite of the fact that so much safety work is being done?" I told this person frankly, "As long as people feel that safety work is some one else's job and not their own, we will have automobile accidents."

When each of us realize that the prevention of automobile accidents is everybody's job, then we will have a safety-consciousness that will be valuable in the prevention of accidents.

It is my job and your job; it is everybody's job to prevent accidents.

R. H. C. GUEST DAY

The banner R. H. C. meeting of the season was held at the beautifully decorated home of Eleanor Crothers on June 8, when each member brought a guest to help celebrate the club's 24th anniversary.

Those who enjoyed the afternoon were the following members, Inez Hadsell, Winifred Hart, Gladys Hart, Minnie Gee, Grace Laub, Hazel Washler, Elizabeth Hart, Bernice Wilder, Troas Carpenter, Nellie Perry, Leone Mason, Eleanor Crothers, Ellen Hart, Lillian Scholes, Marie Trostel, Edna Jenkins, Pluma Hamilton, Dora Wilder, and Mildred Curie, and the following guests: Margaret Wisler, Blanch Petty of Roan, Flora Wilmot, Mary Wade, Beatrice Laub, Gladys Murphy, Myrtle Pugsley, Mary Donley, Cleo Reed, Agnes Paschen, Cora Curie, Ono Moore, Pearl Lay, Lenore Laub and Harriet Coburn.

The afternoon's activities consisted of group singing, a welcome by the retiring president, Minnie Gee, a brief business meeting, during which each member and guest responded to roll call by giving her maiden name, a piano solo by Elizabeth Hart, a reading Edna Jenkins, snap shot "Guess Who," a flower contest, and a fish contest after which the group retired to the yard for a rolling pin contest, (some of the husbands better beware) and a Farmerette Review.

Dainty refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake, strawberries, and ice tea with airplane favors were served on prettily decoarted tables.

FATHER AND SON GRADUATE LAST WEEK

Harry Kinsey graduated from Bloomington on June 14, together with about foutreen hundred others, in all different departments. Harry had been taking the extension work at Fort Wayne all winter, and was awarded his Master of Science Degree.

Gawayne Kinsey, son of Harry Kinsey, graduated June 10, from the Fort Wayne Art School, and was immediately given a position with the Bonsib Adv. Co. He won a scholarship for two years and while a student he taught art under the NYA, last winter in the CCC, thus providing the many necessary expenses of school work.

The two are to be congratulated upon their accomplishments, again demonstrating that young men with determination can usually reach their goal.

Greatly Expanded Production Required for Full Recovery

By HAROLD G. MOULTON
President, The Brookings Institution

WASHINGTON — Recovery in the United States has gone far, but it has been marked by two striking characteristics—slowness of the gains in the durable goods industries and the persistence of a great volume of unemployment. At the Brookings Institution, we have made a comprehensive analysis of the American situation which included a detailed study of the production requirements for full recovery. The production task ahead—if standards of living are to be restored even to their former level—is found to be as follows:

1. To make good the actual deterioration of plant and equipment sustained during the depression.

2. To increase productive capital in line with the growth of population.

3. To expand the output of consumption goods in accordance with this growth of population.

The study was made under a grant from the Falk Foundation of Pittsburgh. In it, we sought to estimate how great an increase in output would be required to restore by 1941 a per capita level of production and consumption equal to that of 1929. The results of the survey of the situation in the fields of housing and other forms of durable goods, steam railroads, public utilities, industrial enterprises, etc., are striking. It would be necessary to produce such durable goods at the rate of approximately 33 billion dollars annually from 1937 through 1941, as compared with actual production of only 21 billions in 1936, and of 25 billions annually in the boom period between 1925 and 1929.

In other words, to make up for what it did not produce in depression years, and to provide for the needs of an expanding population, the nation would have to produce annually 60 per cent more durable goods than in 1936. Three times as much housing construction would be necessary. In the field of non-durable, consumption goods which are such things as food, clothes, and amusements, such a large expansion would not be needed.

Labor Shortage Might Result

The production program required in the field of durable goods would necessitate—at present working hours—the employment of from 8 to 9 million additional laborers. Making allowance for additional workers needed to produce consumption goods, it appears certain that unless working hours were lengthened, there would be shortages of both skilled and unskilled labor.

Since standards of living cannot be restored to former levels unless productive output is restored, any further shortening of the working week will restrain the expansion of output and thus restrict the raising of standards of living. It should be borne in mind that working hours have been reduced since 1929 by approximately 20 per cent, as compared with only 13 per cent in the preceding 30 years.

The present recovery movement has been marked by steadily increasing wage rates as compared with prices, and this has increased purchasing power among the masses. The employment of more workers as production has expanded has increased the flow of money to the working population; and at the same time those already employed have been able to buy more with their wages. During the same period, profits have been greatly increased from low depression levels as a result of the expansion of output and an increase of efficiency. This efficiency increase has been about in proportion to wage rates.

The recovery movement between 1934 and 1936 was thus soundly based. Production was steadily mounting, purchasing power was being spread broadly among the masses, speculation was not excessive, business men had not stocked up with heavy supplies of goods, and the general balance between production and consumption was satisfactory.

At the end of 1936, therefore, the stage seemed set for a period of great expansion. Production requirements were adequate to absorb all the unemployed. The recovery movement was steadily broadening; the economic system as a whole was in reasonably good balance, and at the same time the possibility of the government balancing its budget appeared somewhat brighter.

Further Expansion Threatened

In recent months, particularly since February, the situation has changed in one vitally important respect. Rapid increases in raw material prices and in wages have laid the basis for an old-time vicious spiral of inflation. While the particular labor groups who receive higher wages may stand to gain for a time, and while the industries in question may temporarily pass on higher costs to consumers, further broad expansion of business activity appears to be threatened.

The advance in the prices of such basic products as iron and steel and other metals, building materials, etc., may hamper expansion of production in certain very important lines. Only recently have the railroads gotten into a financial shape that would permit them to spend much money on new equipment and the building of better roadbed and track. Now, with the price of steel rising, and with wage increases also in prospect, it is doubtful whether the railroads will be able to carry out the extensive programs of rehabilitation which they have planned. Similarly, the building of new houses, apartments, etc., may be held back by the rising prices of building materials. If this turns out to be the case, it will check the reemployment of idle workers, and the attainment of the higher standards of living which are so greatly desired.

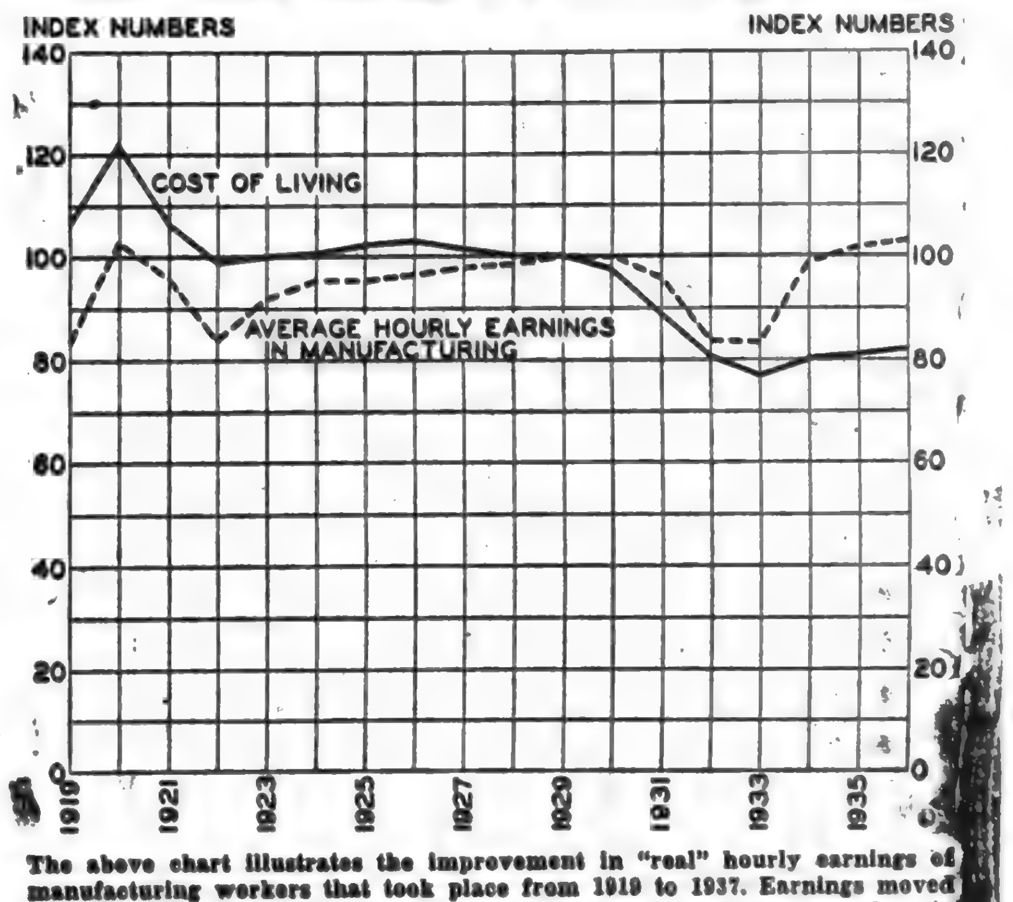
Large sections of the population would soon suffer as a result of a rapid rise in prices. Among them are farmers who do not work for wages, individuals on fixed salaries; and those living on incomes from investments. These constitute more than half the total population. Perhaps the most serious phase of the problem is the possibility of a new disparity between industrial and agricultural prices which may result if wages force industrial prices upward.

Stimulation Only Temporary

The adverse effects upon production may be considerably delayed, because a rise in prices usually stimulates business for the time being. With prices going up, business men and others hasten to place orders and buy extra quantities in order to be ahead of the price advance. This speeds up business activity and for a time increases the demand for labor. Such expansion of demand in turn serves to increase the demand for products and to raise prices the more rapidly. In due course, however, price relationships are so disturbed that certain groups of people lose purchasing power. This, in turn, sets in motion forces which tend to reduce prosperity.

Fortunately, the dangers inherent in this situation appear to have been recognized, and efforts are being made by both business and the government to restrain price advances.

"Real" Hourly Earnings in Manufacturing, 1920-36



The above chart illustrates the improvement in "real" hourly earnings of manufacturing workers that took place from 1919 to 1937. Earnings moved upward, while the cost of living went down, making it possible for workers to buy more for their money. This is particularly noticeable in the recovery period since 1932. It should be kept in mind, however, that the average number of hours worked has been substantially reduced in recent years. On the other hand, the buying power of the consumer's dollar has increased somewhat more than is indicated because of improvement in the quality of goods and services used in the cost-of-living index.

Miss Violet Pflaumer, Ruth Hawk and Miss Dirrim, three DeKalb county young lady school teachers, are now making an auto trip to California, and will be gone until July 5.

James Reddy, of Fort Wayne, was a guest of Wilbur Shroyer and wife over Friday and Saturday. Sam Moss, also of Fort Wayne, came this week to work on the Shroyer farm.

FORM OF ACCIDENT REPORTS NOW REQUIRED

Indianapolis, June 23.—Statewide operation of the new accident reporting law will begin July 1, Don F. Stiver, State Safety Director, announced today.

The accident reporting law is one of the stringent safety laws enacted by the 1937 Legislature as a part of Governor M. Clifford Townsend's safety program.

State police have received instruction on the law, and information and forms will be sent to local police departments by July 1. Two forms will be sent out—a green for operators to fill out and white for law enforcement officers.

Reporting Hoosiers will describe the accident on simple diagrams supplied to them. Such conditions as condition of driver and pedestrian, traffic control, weather, light, condition of vehicle, roadway character, type and condition of surface, road width and lanes well be explained on the form.

The law provides that the driver of every motor vehicle involved in an accident resulting in injury to or death of any prsons, or total property damage of $25 or more shall within 24 hours forward a written report to the Safety Department.

If the report is inadequate, the Safety Department may require a supplemental form. Whenever the driver is physically incapable of making a report and there are other passengers in the car, the report should be made by one of them.

Failure or refusal of any person to make a report may mean forfeiture of the operator's or chauffeur's license or a fine of not to exceed $100. The report cannot be used in court. A permanent record in the State Motor Vehicle Bureau will show every accident in which a driver has been involved and will permit easy reference to the complete accident report.

Purpose of the report is to enable authorities to make a thorough and intelligent study of Indiana's auto accidents both from the engineering and enforcement angles.

Kirk A. Keegan, assistant statistician of the National Safety Council, assisted Mr. Stiver in setting up the standard administrative procedure for accident reporting.

The accident reports will be cross-referenced and filed in such a manner that they can be conveniently used in the administration of the state's strengthened driver's license law and to assist the State Highway Commission in eliminating hazards.

Reporting blanks can be secured at St. Joe Filling Station and at Furnish Motor Sales, Spencerville, when needed.

Mrs. Elizabeth Speheger, of near Berne, Ind., is learning to walk again at 104 years of age. Mrs. Speheger is believed to be the oldest living person in Indiana. Following an illness when she lost the use of her legs, she is recovering and learning to walk again.

STATE TO IMPROVE ROAD

The improvement of the road leading from Garrett by the way of West King Street through the Main Street of Altona to state road 3, one mile south of Avilla, has been recommended by Earl Crawford, chairman of the state highway commission, and Roy Biberstine of Fort Wayne, state highway engineer in this territory. This assurance was given Saturday. The improvement will take place under the federal road system, and work preparing it for drainage and tiling, placing in condition for tarring will be ordered soon.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LII. (52 Years.) (In The St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JULY 1, 1837 NUMBER 26

TO SELECT HARVEST QUEEN IN DEKALB COUNTY

A Harvest Queen will be named and crowned in the Court Theatre Wednesday evening, September 8th, as a part of DeKalb County's Fair celebration staged in Auburn September 28th to October 2nd.

Each contestant participating in the Harvest Queen Contest in each city, town and township in DeKalb County, shall be not less than 17 and more than 25 years of age; she shall be non-professional theatrically, never have been married and shall have resided in DeKalb County not less than six months.

Merchants, sororities, clubs, lodges, high schools, individuals, etc., are urged to promote and sponsor a girl of their own to compete for their local community and town. It is the civic duty of the organizations as well as the civic duty of every girl to assist in the staging of this great county wide celebration.

The program being worked out to honor the Queen and her Court will require finances; votes will be sold by contestants in each city, town and township at a penny a vote, votes will be printed in the following denominations, 5–10–25–50–100. Example, the five vote coupon will cost 5c, the 10 vote coupon 10c, etc. Contact Mrs. Helen Ulm for St. Joe and Concord township; Mrs. Zona Abel for Spencerville and Spencer township, and Mrs. Ross Tustison for Newville township, for details of Harvest Queen Contest.

"The Harvest Queen" Contest is a part of that largest of industries "Show Business," therefore it is most logical and practical that we solicit the aid of theatre operators to assist in this gigantic enterprise. The Queen Contest Division of the DeKalb County Fair Association will participate in the gross receipts as a result of the various local eliminations held in the various theatres in the county.

The following schedule (subject to change) will give you the name of the theatre, city, town and township and dates of local elimination contests.

Contestants may sell votes up to day before the local elimination contest, the contest must then close in order to count the votes.

Again, may we remind you the three contestants having the first, second and third highest votes will participate in the selection of Miss St. Joe and Miss Concord Township.

Butler Theatre, Sept. 2, Wilmington Township.

Auburn, Sept. 2, Newville, Troy and Stafford Townships.

Auburn, Sept. 3, Auburn and Union Township.

Harvest Queen Finals, Court Theatre, Auburn, Wednesday evening, Sept. 8th.

Each city, town and township winner must report to H. E. Hart, Court Theatre, at 4 P. M. Sharp, Daylight Savings Time on Wednesday, Sept. 8th with credentials from the city, town or township identifying her as an official entry.

Brief instructions will follow, the girls will then go to the Hotel Auburn where room reservations have been made and they may rest preparatory to the Contest.

They will be served a six o'clock dinner in the private dining room of the Hotel Auburn as guests of the Fair Association and following this—the selection of the "Harvest Queen."

The DeKalb County Home Bureau will sponsor the "Harvest Queen" Contest in each city, town and township with the following officers and directors in charge:

President, H. E. Hart, Auburn, Ind.; secretary, Fanny Boger, Auburn, Ind.; treasurer, Harry Casebere, Auburn, Ind.

Township Directors

Mrs. Clarence McClintock, Union; Mrs. Helen Ulm, Concord; Mrs. Walter DePew, Jackson; Mrs. Zona Abel, Spencer; Mrs. Doris Cline, Willington; Mrs. Mattie Kepler, Troy; Mrs. Roy Robbins, Franklin, Mrs. Laura Husselman, Grant; Mrs. Eva Miller, Smithfield; Mrs. Lydia Zumbrum, Richland; Mrs. John Dannenburg, Keyser; Mrs. Edith Davis, Butler; Mrs. Alma Diehl, Stafford; Mrs. Orlo Deetz, Fairfield; Mrs. Ross Tustison, Newville.

City and Town Directors

Mrs. O. B. Rose, Garrett; Mrs. R. S. Weilert, Waterloo; Mrs. Vern Bachtel, Waterloo; Mrs. Harry McCleery, Butler; Mrs. Helen Ulm, St. Joe; Mrs. Zona Abel, Spencerville; Mrs. Lydia Zumbrum, Corunna; Mrs. Eva Miller, Ashley; Mrs. T. E. Myers.

ASKING DAMAGES

A demand for $1,000 damages is made by Bernice Wood in a complaint filed in the DeKalb circuit court against Morris Kline of Newville Township.

The plaintiff was riding in an automobile with her husband on state road 6 June 30, 1936, when she says that at a point two miles east of Butler the defendant drove out from a side road and a collision occurred. She was thrown about in the car, she says, and suffered cuts and bruises.

Bert Gee moved last week from the Grace Sheffer residence into the John Gablick home.

Wm. Strouse and family, Ted Strouse and Miss Helen Tustison were Sunday guests in the Harold Strouse home at Rome City. W. D. Yeiser and family were afternoon callers.

SCHONDELMAYER—WASHLER NUPTIALS

The home of Mrs. and Mrs. Adrian Washler was the scene of a very pretty wedding, Sunday, June 27, 1937 at 12 o'clock, when their daughter, Helen, became the bride of Reign Schondelmayer, son of Rev. and Mrs. H. K. Schondelmayer, of Macy, Indiana.

The couple was attended by Garnet Washler, sister of the bride, and Robert Schondelmayer, brother of the groom. The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. H. K. Schondelmayer. The bride wore a gown of blue flowered chiffon and the groom a suit of dark blue.

The young couple are both graduates of St. Joe High School. The bride is now a music teacher and the groom a grocer in St. Joe.

They will be at home to friends in St. Joe after a week's wedding tour at Great Lakes Exposition at Cleveland, Ohio, Niagara Falls, and points in Canada, returning through Michigan and spending the week-end in the home of his parents at Macy, Ind.

The guests were Rev. and Mrs. H. K. Schondelmayer and sons, Robert and Harold, of Macy, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Wyatt, Mr. C. A. Washler, Mr. W. L. Strong and Rev. and Mrs. P. A. Hubbartt. At the noon hour dinner was served to the friends.

LAUX, EMENHISER, WORMAN, NUPTIALS

A very pretty double wedding was solemnized at the Lutheran parsonage at Spencerville, Saturday evening, when Loa Laux became the bride of Ronald Emenhiser, and Betty Worman became the bride of Loyd Laux. The Ring Ceremony was read by the Rev. C. J. Ferster.

Loyd is the son, and Loa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Laux. Loyd is the Superintendent of the Lutheran Sunday School, and Loa is a faithful worker in the Sunday School and the Church. Ronald Emenhiser is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Emenhiser of New Haven, Indiana. Betty Worman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Worman of St. John's, Indiana.

After a wedding trip to Michigan these young people will make their home in Ft. Wayne where Ronald is employed by Danner Construction Company, and Loyd will continue his work for the Wabash R. R.

Their many friends extend congratulations.

Scenes from Edgerton, Ohio Wind Storm Occuring June 20

A severe electrical storm struck Northeastern Indiana and was accompanied by a downpour of rain and a violent wind struck also in the neighborhood of Edgerton, O., causing severe damage to homes, barns, crops and livestock. Over four inches of rain fell during the night following the storm immediately, inundating the fields, damaging crops and blockading roads. Pictures show damage done by the wind to farm buildings, and were taken by ye editor Tuesday evening. The lower picture being that of the Johnson barn. Their home being completely destroyed while the family sought safety in the cellar. Fish Creek and the St. Joe River were greatly overflowed, the highest in 25 years it was said. Hundreds of acres of Corn, Wheat Oats and Hay were covered for days making a tremenduous loss to the Valley farmers. The river is now receeding fast.

DESSERT BRIDGE

Mrs. C. F. Scholes delightfully entertained in honor of Mrs. DuWayne Kinsey Friday night at a dessert Bridge.

A color scheme of pink and blue was used with pink roses and blue delphinium. Individual corsages formed the table decorations.

After four games of Bridge were played, prizes were won by Mrs. Joe Sabrowski first, Mrs. Glen Cole second, Mrs. F. R. Bowman third.

The guest list aside from the honor guest and the hostess included: Mrs. William Staman, Mrs. Glen Cole, Miss Ersa Reidenbach, Miss Eloise Bowman, Mrs. R. H. Reidenbach, Mrs. F. R. Bowman, Mrs. C. R. Baumgartner of Spencerville, Mrs. Joe Goldsmith, Mrs. George Simanton of Auburn, Mrs. Carlton Shull, Mrs. George Wade, Mrs. Mayola Kinsey, Mrs. T. H. Moran and Mrs. L. Dale Green, of Garrett and Mrs. Joe Sabrowski of Los Angeles, California.

CHILDREN HOME SUNDAY

A party of fifteen came over from Vanlue, Ohio, Sunday to spend the day in the J. P. Buckingham home. There were children, grandchildren and great grandchildren.

RESIGNS LOCAL SCHOOL

The resignation of Mrs. Priscilla Simanton as teacher in the local school, was received by A. W. Trostel, trustee, this week. She and her brother, Ronald, are in California visiting their brother, Russel, for the summer, leaving the same week school dismissed.

She will begin her new term of school in a Wyoming town, and at a nice advance in salary. Mrs. Simanton gave splendid satisfaction in the local school and Mr. Trostel stated that he would have great difficulty in filling her place.

ENTERTAINED AT BUSCO

Eighteen persons representing the local Legion Post and Auxiliary, were in attendance at the Churubusco Unit meeting, Monday night. The meeting was an enjoyable one and after the business was cared for, a short program was given followed by a fine pot luck supper.

Those attending were: Mrs. Wm. Wilder, Mrs. Clyde Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Lehr Wilder and children, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sechler, Mrs. Hollis Dilley, Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Leighty, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Baltz, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Reidenbach, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Scholes, Paul Perry, Roscoe George and Emmett Carper.

NOTICE

BAD LUCK STILL FOLLOWS SHOW BOAT

The old jinx still follows the showboat, Dixiana. Above, the ship which has been through much legal storm and strife, is shown after it had heeled over and sank in the Michigan City Harbor, after it was brought here for a summer's showing of "Tobacco Road." City officials had refused to issue a theatre permit to ship owners, but they threatened to take the issue to court and docked here regardless. No sooner had the ship been docked than water poured through old seams and sank the craft. It was later pumped out and raised.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

With the old world entangled in the bitterest controversies since the World War and the lessons of that conflict forgotten, it would seem that the United States, now at peace with the world, has reason for making this Fourth of July a memorable one.

Any St. Joe citizen who cannot find in his heart just cause for celebration this year is lacking in appreciation of the blessings of peace. All one need do to feel proud of our own position is read the daily reports of new entanglements, new hates and new threats carried by cable from foreign shores and of the tales of actual bloodshed and carnage as other nations go rushing headlong toward another bloody war. Thru it all America enjoys the blessings of peace and domestic comfort, with no hatred in her heart for those who put greed and power above all else. At peace with neighbors to the north and south, separated from old world turmoil and tragedy by many miles of neutral waters, the heart of every citizen who dwells beneath the stars and stripes should now swell with patriotism and love of country.

So hang out the good old flag and set off the fireworks. Forget for the moment all business cares and the little things that vex. Be glad you are a part of the most wonderful nation the sun ever shone upon, a nation of freemen who through their love of home and free institutions will see that it remains great. Never were there more reasons for patriotic thankfulness than now. Never was there greater reason for making this a Grand and Glorious Fourth.

VACATION TIME

Vacation time is well under way and though it has yet to reach its peak reports from various sources lead to the belief that this will be the greatest touring season in the history of the nation. Thousands upon thousands of motorists are now traveling the highways, and steam roads and bus lines are said to be smashing all records for the number of passengers carried up to this time, with the volume constantly growing heavier.

For those who take their vacation trips by bus or train, there appears to be no need for special warnings before they set out. But for those who go by auto, who build campfires in the open, a word of caution is not amiss. Be careful with matches and campfires. There is not a motorist anywhere around who would deliberately endanger the natural resources of this country, or the personal property of others. But it is so easy to thoughtlessly toss a match or cigarette stub out of the car window to dry grass along the roadside; it is so easy to forget to extinguish every particle of a campfire before leaving it, that this warning is necessary. No matter in what part of the country you spend your vacation, keep the fire hazard constantly in mind. Be watchful. Be careful of the fire fiend every minute you are in the open or driving along a highway.

AT THE CROSSING

The railroads of this country have established a fine safety record during the past few years. Today railroad wrecks are uncommon, and very seldom is a passenger killed. But for the grade crossings, the railroads would have almost a perfect record. However, despite all the work of elimination thousands of these crossings still exist, in every part of the country, and while the railroads are not responsible for deaths at grade-crossings they are charged up against its safety record just the same. For the next three months the toll of death at these crossings will be heavier than during the other nine months of the year combined, and the railroads will not be able to prevent it. That is wholly up to the motorists of the country. If they still persist in trying to beat the train, or if they are not watchful when driving in strange territory, the slaughter will go right on. That's a good thing for every reader of The News to remember when he sets out on this season's vacation jaunt.

GOOD READING

Widely scattered about the country are many former residents who keep in touch with affairs "back home" through the columns of this paper. But their old friends have, in many instances, lost track of them and would be glad of an opportunity to hear how they are getting along, what they are finding to do and something about the community they are now living in. An occasional letter for publication from any of these former residents will be welcomed to the columns of this paper at any time and they will be appreciated by those who knew the writers in days gone by. You may be sure your old home town still has an interest in you, and your welfare. Anything you care to write for publication, any message you would like to have your old friends and acquaintances read comes under the head of "news." Send it along, for such letters always make good reading.

IT MIGHT WORK

A New Jersey legislator favors a stamp or label on every article sold to let the purchaser know how much of the price of it consists of taxes. The idea is not new, but it might work, if the politicians will ever consent to the disclosure to consumers of the extent to which the latter are soaked by indirect taxes. And yet, until consumers are made vividly aware that they are paying taxes from the time they get out of bed in the morning until they get into it again at night, they will not raise a loud enough howl for their various state governments to listen to them. The cost of government, the waste of public money, will never come down until some way has been discovered to open the eyes of the tax-paying public to the size of the tax load which it is allowing its taxing bodies to impose upon it.

As Symbolical as Father Time

The old grandfather's clock in the home of R. J. Mock on Lake Dewart, Ind., has kindly ticked the march of time in the Mock family for more than 110 years. In 1827 for a cow, a two-year old heifer, a shot-gun, and $15 in cash the clock was purchased by Jacob R. Mock, pioneer farmer. While the exact age of the clock is not known it is believed to be more than 200 years old.

Independence Day 1937

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

With a spirit of reverence, as well as of patriotism, America observes this year the 161st anniversary of the Declaration of Independence.

At the same time it commemorates the 150th anniversary of the United States Constitution.

Between these two celebrations there is a close relationship. Together they commemorate the fact that our nation was created and constituted the Land of Freedom.

It was the Declaration of Independence that proclaimed to the world that all men are created free and equal, that they are endowed with certain inalienable rights, that to secure these rights governments are instituted.

It was the Constitution of the United States that gave those principles strength and permanence.

Without that Charter of Liberties, the freedom won by the courage and the self-sacrifice of our fathers would have perished.

To the men who, through those two historic documents, gave substance to our national ideals, all Americans owe a debt of gratitude today.

To realize what they established for us, it is necessary only to consider the growth in area, in prestige and in the well-being of its people that America has achieved.

To realize from what they protected us, it is necessary only to observe the repression of human rights and of the human spirit which today afflicts so many nations abroad.

Independence Day, 1937, thus becomes a dual anniversary. It commemorates our birth as a nation, and it demonstrates that only through the power of human liberty and through government instituted to secure such freedom, can a country progress and endure.

EXPERIENCES COLLISION ON RETURN HOME

Walter Keesler received a telephone message Monday morning from Elizabethtown, Ky., stating that his family were detained there by an auto mishap, enroute home from Bellwood, Alabama, where they had been visiting Mrs. Keesler's parents since in April. It would require at least three days to repair the car, so he and Wilbur Yeiser started after them landing there at 3 o'clock and by 1:30 Thursday morning they were back in St. Joe.

About midnight they had a collision in Kentucky practically demolishing the frame of their car. Harry Bryan, driver, had his nose broken but the others were just slightly bruised. Willard and Loraine Bryan were also in the party.

The collision happened on a narrow bridge without railing, how they ever escaped being thrown into the stream is a miracle. The two nephews remained to see about the repairing of the car and then may come on to Indiana.

Don Hindman of Michigan, was in town last week calling on old friends. He was at Ft. Wayne visiting his mother, who is quite poorly, also visiting other relatives about here.

Eugene Gee gave his parents quite a scare Saturday by being away from home all day. When he failed to show up for supper they began to worry, but late at night he was located in the house.

Joe Goldsmith and family drove to South Bend, Sunday to meet his mother, Mrs. Joseph Goldsmith, of Gary, who is here for an extended visit. She makes her home with the daughter, Mrs. Claude Shutt, of Gary.

Miss Gertrude Lewis returned Saturday to Preston, N. J., where she will teach school, after enjoying a two weeks visit here in the J. N. Scholes home. Mr. and Mrs. Scott Scholes and son, of Fort Wayne, were here Sunday.

Howard Gee, wife and daughter, Marjorie, of Los Angeles, Calif., are here for a few weeks visit among relatives. Tuesday they took Mrs. Flora Gee to Antwerp to be the guests of Mrs. Frances Nelson, a sister to Mrs. Gee. Mrs. Lucille Koch and two children accompanied them.

Found on our porch Monday evening two quarts of delicious strawberries, and we discovered on the wrapper later that they came from Elizabeth Hart. The berries were a fine quality and ye editor and wife are grateful for this gift and for the thoughtfulness of the doner. Thanks.

Leslie Meek starts his annual fishing trip today (Thursday) and will be accompanied by Chris Sailer. They will not return until Tuesday of next week, when it is supposed that all the fire crackers will have been exploded. The two fishermen will visit northern Indiana lakes and should their luck fail, go on into Michigan.

Descendants of the John Widney family held their reunion at the Walter Bowen home Sunday in Fort Wayne. St. Joe folks attending were Vernie Monroe, Wm. Staman and Hollis Dilley and families, Merritt Sechler and Mrs. Mary Sechler. Mrs. Sechler remained for a few days visit and then will go to Kendallville to visit her son, John Sechler, and family.

Frank Curie has taken over the delivery of the evening News-Sentinel. Earl Kinsey having resigned as agent after several years in the carrier service.

CLOSING ON MONDAY

Most of the St. Joe Merchants will take Monday off and close their places of business from 10 o'clock for the day. Included in the closing list: Goldsmith's Store, Schondelmayer Grocery, Postoffice, J. C. Hull, L. B. Meek, Kinsey Hardware, St. Joe News, and possibly others.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

On June 29, the Girl Scouts had their last meeting until September. The meeting started at two o'clock and lasted until five. The meeting took place at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser. Games were played and then the Troop was served refreshments. Two new members were added to our Troop Jean Hurni and April Dawn Bowser.

DEATH TAKES NO HOLIDAY

The Fourth of July well be celebrated on Monday and, therefore, the highways will be crowded with automobiles and people. Thousands upon thousands of cars will wind their way to various spots for picnics, visits with relatives, outings, and other forms of amusement.

At the end of the celebration, hundreds and hundreds of people will be dead because of failure to comply with safe practices.

Avoid congestion—control your speed—put your car in perfect mechanical condition—and above all—drive carefully.

It's smart to be careful—death takes no holiday.

"HITCH HIKE" BABY FINDS HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Bottorff, of Blair, Nebraska, have been granted formal adoption papers making them the legal parents of Donna Jean Allen. Her hitch hiking parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Allen, of DeKalb, Ill., had given Donna Jean to Bottorffs last June, when she appeared to be dying of exposure and undernourishment on the road. After the Bottorffs had nursed her back to health, Mr. Allen appeared and demanded return of his child. Judge John A. Carrigan ruled in favor of the Bottorffs thus bringing legal objections raised by the Allens to a close. Picture shows Donna Jean and Mrs. Bottorff.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

Total receipts were about fifty head below last week. Noticable changes in prices were in evidence in line with general market conditions. Reflecting the trend in Chicago and Eastern markets calves and hogs were higher than a week ago while butcher cows were from twenty-five to fifty cents per cwt. lower. Lambs were firm with last week the top going at $10.30.

Hogs ranging in weight from 200 to 225 reached a top of $11.60; the bulk of the offerings changing hands at from $11.00 to $11.50. Light shoats averaging around 100 to 125 were mostly $9.50 to $9.75. Fat sows $9.25 to $10.15, Stags $8.10 to $8.50, Boars $5.50 to $6.15. There was a good demand for feeder shoats but very few on sale.

Pasture cattle of all weights and breeds were noticably higher, there was not enough to go around and bidding was in many cases several dollars higher per head than last week. Butcher cows were from twenty-five to fifty cents lower the best going from $6.00 to $7.20. The top steer brought $9.20 and heifers from $6.75 to $8.70. Veal calves made a top of $10.60.

Signed FRANK E. LYON,
Auditor of DeKalb County.

POOR RELIEF SITUATION IN DEKALB COUNTY

Records in the office of County Auditor Frank E. Lyon reveal that the indebtedness of the townships to the county poor relief advancements has been reduced to $25,386.75, as compared with an all-time high of $108,000 a year ago.

Before the June distribution of tax collection recently, the townships were "in the red" $55,432.22. The auditor in making the semi-annual distribution credited the townships with $34,768.38.

The deficit, or indebtedness of the townships for poor relief, has been greatly diminished in the last year, due to higher tax levies for the purpose and lower expenditures by the township trustees. After the credits were given by the auditor this month, it was found that five of the townships have balances, but ten still are recorded with deficiencies.

The largest balance is for Keyser township, in the amount of $3,400. The largest deficit is that of Union township, with nearly $16,000.

The figures for all the townships follow:

Butler township, credit $472.97; deficit $343.63.

Concord township, credit $2,607.60; deficit $4,119.25.

Fairfield township, credit $318.22, balance $26.96.

Franklin township, credit $810.34, deficit $670.11.

Grant township, credit $2,399.67, deficit $651.89.

Jackson township, credit $615.26, deficit $530.78.

Keyser townshdp, credit $12,087.27, balance $3,405.39.

Newville township, credit $335.08, balance $130.77.

Richland township, credit $1,168.99, deficit $1,804.07.

Smithfield township, credit $720.75, deficit $527.20.

Spencer township, credit $446.13, deficit $48.30.

Stafford township, credit $525.93, deficit $713.79.

Troy township, credit $135.67, balance $244.28.

Union township, credit $10,131.28, deficit $15,977.73.

Wilmington township, credit $1,993.32, balance $1,042.22.

Heretofore the law provided that tax levies be made by the townships sufficient to pay their overdrafts. By the terms legislation enacted by the recent general assembly, the auditor is mandated to fix levies that will not only liquidate any overdrafts existing, but will provide working balances for the ensuing year. The law contemplates that the county will cease acting as banker for the townships in poor relief.

IN SOCIETY

ker, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Baker, of Decatur, Henry Dehner, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dehner, Sr., and Miss Katharina Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Meyer, of Monroeville, were married in a ceremony at 9:00 A. M. Thursday, June 24, at the St. Rose Church in Monroeville, in the presence of 200 guests.

Rev. Theodore V. Fettig read the single ring ceremony, before the altar banked with pink roses and many candles were lighted during the ceremony. The church organist presented a fifteen minute musicale prelude.

White satin was chosen for the gowns of the brides and they carried arm bouquets of white roses and feverfew. Miss Lovell, of Van Wert, O., and Miss Grace Dehner, of Ft. Wanye attended as Maids of Honor and were gowned in pink and blue chiffon, and carried arm bouquets of pink roses.

Harley Baker of Decatur, and Ludwig Meyer Jr. of Monroeville, served the bridegrooms, as best men.

After the wedding, a breakfast was served to 100 guests, at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dehner, Sr. Pink roses in pretty arrangement decorated the tables, and the brides table was adorned with two large wedding cakes.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker will reside in Decatur where Mr. Baker is associated with the Yost Gravel Co., and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dehner, Jr., will reside in Ft. Wayne where Mr. Dehner is associated with the John Dehner Construction Co.

Among the guests to attend were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kessler and Mr. and Mrs. Clark Scholes, of St. Joe, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ulm and family, of Butler.

Miss Georgia Knisley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Knisley, of Auburn Junction, was married Monday evening at 8 o'clock to Floyd Werner of Hicksville at the home of her parents. Rev. B. O. Gray, pastor of the Nazarene Church at Garrett, performed the ceremony in the presence of the members of the immediate families. Mr. and Mrs. Wernes will live on a farm between Hicksville and Ft. Wayne.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LII. (25 Years.) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, JULY 8, 1937 NUMBER 27

Estimate 4,000 Attended the Tri-Township Farm Bureau

For the fourth consecutive year the Tri-Township Farm Bureau, composed of Concord, Spencer and Newville Townships, held their meeting out doors at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hart in Spencer Township.

Mr. Hart is Tri-Township Chairman of the Farm Bureau, and the success of these meetings has resulted largely from his untiring efforts to bring them to a successful conclusion.

Mr. Hart called the meetin gto order and a Colored Quartette, the Golden Star Singers were introduced and entertained by singing several songs.

A short welcome was given by Clyde Hart, which was responded to by Albert Yoder, County and District Chairman of the Farm Bureau.

Invocation was given by Rev. J. N. Scholes. Miss Virginia Poper's vocal solo was well given and well received, she was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Frank Baltz of Auburn.

The Pilgram Singers, a Colored Ladies Quartette, from Fort Wayne, sang several numbers, after which Jones Accordion Orchestra was introduced and given the stage. This Orchestra has appeared before in these communities and is a delightful feature on any program.

They have quite a varied program consisting of musical numbers, group and solo singing, tap dancing, buck and swing, acrobatic, and novelty dances. All were beautifully costumed, and with many changes, presented a really lovely appearance for each act.

Short talks were given by Sen. Larry Brandon, Sec.-Treas., of the Farm Bureau; Hassie Schenck, State President, and Mrs. Lilly D. Scott, State S. & E. Leader. Mrs. Scott being introduced by Mrs. Grace Dilley, De-Kalb County S. & E. Director.

Other musical numbers followed: a solo "Indiana" by Loren Dale Laub, with Mrs. Dr. Baumgartner at the piano; a solo by James Hart, and a trio from Richland Township. These numbers were all fine and well given to the appreciative audience.

A telegram from Gov. M. Clifford Townsend, advising the chairman of his inability to be present and address the meeting, failed to dampen the spirits of the hugh crowd, and at the conclusion of the program the people mingled and visited as in the old-fashioned community meetings. All pronouncing the event a grand success.

The crowd was estimated at four thousand, all adjoining counties being represented.

Among those who attended from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Morris Hanson, of Angola; Mr. and Mrs. Almer Armstrong from Ridgeville; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Linn, Union City; Joe Needler, Indianapolis; Lilly D. Scott, Hassil Schenck, Ada Richards, Mary Rike, Katharyn Runyon, Mrs. Thiess, Elsie Wade, Walter Davis, Dorothy Newland, Mr. and Mrs. Ringer, E. Eversmyer, Paul Edwards, Addison Drake, Jim Cummings, Raymond Bowers, Albert Russell, Joe Wise, T. I. Ferris and Larry Brandon, all from the State Farm Bureau offices in Indianapolis.

There were plenty of refreshment stands on the grounds. Boy Scouts and 4-H Club Girls helping to serve the crowd.

Mr. Hart had had a standing order in with the weather bureau for many weeks, and the result was the delivery of a perfect evening for an outdoor meeting.

Our congratulations and thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Hart and all others who helped in this event.

CHANGES IN THE DRUNKEN DRIVER LAW

A lot of noise is now being made and much credit is being claimed by the State Department of Public Safety concerning the change in the law in Indiana as to drunken drivers by the last General Assembly.

Prior to last winter the law in Indiana provided for a fine of not exceeding $500.00, and provided that a jail or State Farm (Penal Farm) sentence SHALL be imposed of not less than thirty days nor more than six months.

This former law provided that a second or subsequent offense was a felony, and provided for a prison term of not less than one year nor more than five years.

The new 1937 law, about which so much is being said as to its possibilities as an additional protection to the public, provides for a fine of not less than $10.00 and not more than $50.00, and provides that a jail or State Farm sentence MAY be added for not less than ten days nor more than six months.

This new law provides that a second or subsequent offense is a feloey, and provides for a prison term of not less than one year nor more than five years, as did the old law.

The new law does provide that sentence shall not be suspended.

It will be observed that the old law requires the court to impose a prison sentence in all cases, while the new law does not so provide. It therefore follows that the provision in the new law against suspension of sentence means nothing, for the reason that any court not desiring that a drunken driver shall serve a prison sentence, need impose only a fine. Thus it is now possible under the new law for a drunken driver to escape a small $10 fine. For the new law provides only that a sentence of imprisonment MAY be imposed, and not SHALL be imposed, as provided in the law prior to last winter.

Anyone, who knows anything about enforcement of the drunken driving law, knows that an officer cares little about a fine. What these persons dread, and what makes the law effective, is the prison sentence and being deprived of driving a car.

The law has not been changed as to not operating a car except that a full year is fixed for a second offense. The old law stated not to exceed one year.

Moreover, there is nothing to prevent law enforcement officers from imposing the punishment for the first offense upon those guilty of a second or subsequent offense.

It may thus be clearly seen that instead of aiding the courts by passing a more stringent law for offense of this kind, the last legislature has really loosened the provisions of the law.

Whatever motive the Legislature may have had for thus easing the provisions of this law, it would appear that it should not be claimed that the public has been more fully protected by this new law.

It will noon be observed over the state in communities where law enforcement officers are indifferent or opposed to the enforcement of the drunken driving law, that many of these offenders will escape with small fines.

This statement as to this important law, which affects the rights and protections of our good citizens upon the highways, is submitted to the public to correct the false statements now being advanced that their interests are more fully protected.

Respectfully submited,
Wm. P. Endicott.

National Birthdays

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

The United States has been described as "the only great country with a known birthday."

Many Americans undoubtedly recalled that famous statement as they particicipated in recent Independence Day celebrations throughout the nation.

And many probably wondered whether America, as a nation, was indulging on its anniversary in that bit of self-study and self-searching which a birthday usually inspires.

Certainly July Fourth offered a splendid opportunity for America to compare its national spirit today with the hopes and the aspirations of its founders.

Does the spirit of liberty, we could ask ourselves, glow as brightly in our own hearts as it did in the breasts of the men who in 1776 pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor to its perpetuation?

Does a sense of personal responsibility for government still animate our citizens as it did those who made sacrifice after sacrifice, first to win, and then to build, a nation?

Does the fierce pride in democracy—in government by the people—still dominate our citizens' thought as it did the generation which faced death and privation rather than suffer despotic rule?

Those were the aims of our nation in its earliest youth. Are they still the dominant ideas of that nation on its more mature birthdays? Are we still fighting to preserve those high ideals?

If the answer is "Yes," then we can continue to count our birthdays with pride. If it is "No," then we are in the tragic situation of the man who wistfully recalls the dreams of his youth, only to realize how he has fallen short of all their splendid aspirations.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Stuck, of Garrett, were over Sunday guests of Mrs. Eva Shull.

J. W. Perry and family, of Columbus, O., are here visiting in the Geo. Wilson home.

Fred Reeder and family, of Auburn, were Monday guests in the Jesse Loftus home.

Betty Coburn, of Fort Wayne, is spending the week in the John Crothers home east of St. Joe.

A number of our citizens witnessed the fireworks display at Foster Park, Ft. Wayne, Monday evening.

Mrs. Arthur Flynn and Mrs. Jud Davis, of Chicago, spent Sunday in the Hattie Widney-Stone home.

Mrs. Kate Happeny, of Elkhart, spent from Saturday until Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Mark Morr.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Brown, of Hicksville, O., are here for a few days visiting in the Frank Curie home.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gee and daughter, left for South Bend, Tuesday after spending ten days visiting with Mrs. Flora Gee. They will start for Los Angeles, Sunday.

The various activities at Winona Lake are getting under way in a splendid manner, and this promises to be Winona's best season for several years. On next Sunday afternoon the Band program at 3 o'clock, furnished by the Petrie Band Camp which is now running to capacity. The Warsaw-Winona Chorus and the Winona Quartet present a Sacred Musical program on Sunday evening at 7:45.

ANNUAL GATHERING OF SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

Mrs. DeLora Curie was pleasantly surprised on last Wednesday, June 30, at the home of Mrs. Pauline Baumgartner at Spencerville. Members of her former Sunday School Class of the Methodist Protestant Church met to spend the day with her. The occasion was a complete surprise to Mrs. Curie, as she was ushered in by the hostess and greeted by the matronly faces of the one-time girls a little older grown, yet very distinguished in personage.

After greetings were over we grew very reminiscent each one relating some event of our class life which binds us so closely together and naught but death can sever.

Mrs. Baumgartner had arranged the banquet table, clad in linen, silver and china and a silver urn persolated delicious coffee for all. The Girls brought baskets of delicious viands to eat filling the table to over flowing and ending with ice dream and cake. Prayer was by Mrs. Curie.

We spent nearly two hours at the banquet table. We remembered those who have passed on to their reward, the memory of them still lingers.

Mrs. Curie was honored with a seat at the head of the table and at her plate was a beautifu lbox which contained a handsome handbag of silk moire presented by the class which was gratefully received. The afternoon was spent in a social way.

The class will meet with Mrs. Flossie Widney next year at Columbia City.

Those present besides the hostess were, Mrs. Helen Benninghoff, Melba Wyatt and daughter, Velma Mohney, Flossie Widney, Inez Daub, Inez Girardot, Jean Curie, Belle Barney, Bessie Willet, DeLora Curie, Madonna Wade and son, Mayola Kinsey, Edna Perkins and daughter, Catherine Bowser, Marie Draggoo and Neva Hursh.

INJURED EYE RESULTS FROM CELEBRATION

Paul Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Keller, was the victim of a fire cracker explosion Monday evening, when his right eye was badly cut. Paul and Ned Keller were continuing their celebration at the Keller Garage, when about 5 o'clock Paul was struck in the eye by a cartridge in which the fire crackers were placed and lighted.

He was rushed to Dr. DuMuth and they hurried him to the Lutheran Hospital. A number of stitches closed the wound and he was brought home Tuesday evening.

It will be many weeks before he will be able to see clearly.

If a St. Joe man dresses shabbily his wife apoligizes for him but if he always looks neat she says she picked out his suit.

Hollywood has no competition in one respect. It's still the town of permanent waves and tempoarry wives.

The government is still preaching economy, but most of the politicians never get beyond the preaching stage.

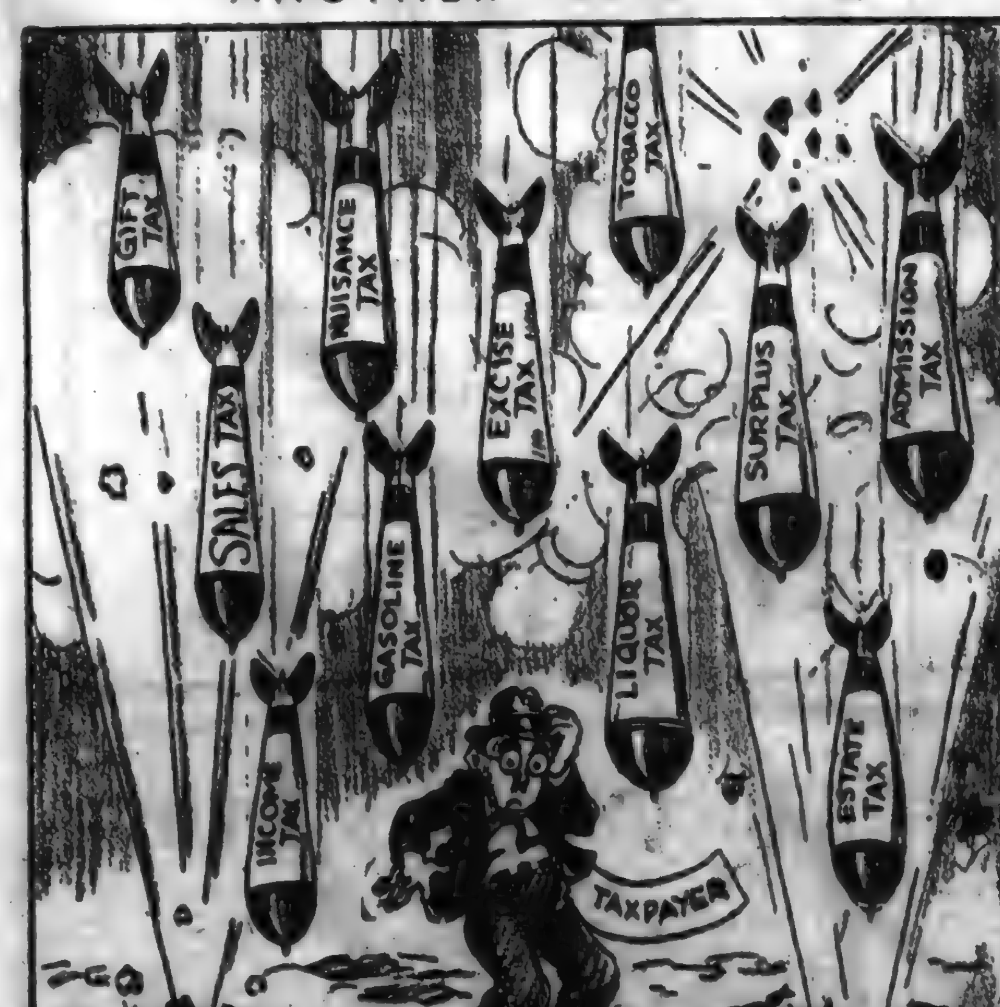
This day in time a specialist is a man who thinks you've got what he specializes in.

The only kind of lying that increases your popularity is saying you feel fine when you really feel rotten.

Life evens things up. Most every citizen has relatives he is ashamed of and also a few who are usually ashamed of him.

Quite a few St. Joe citizens can recall that back in horse-and-buggy days the horse had one advantage. He was able to get home at night without running into a lot of telephone poles.

ANOTHER AIR RAID



Over in China the girls like their rice with chopsticks but over here it seems they prefer to have it thrown at them.

Most people are optimistic. They'd pay the doctor more promptly if they expected to need him again.

Pedestrians have plenty of rights in the courts. Now if they could get a few on the streets and highways everything would be all right.

Maybe that Indiana farmer who preached his own funeral sermon did so for fear some preacher would tell the truth about him later on.

A lot of movie stars marry for the better or worse but few of them seem to marry for keeps.

What this country seems to need most right now is a little more perform and a little less reform.

As a rule, when you see a St. Joe man who doesn't want any more money he's holding a lily in his hand.

The first thing a brand new widow does is to get her hair bobbed and the first thing a brand new widower does is get his mustache shaved off.

THE NEW DEAL

The average man gets all mixed up trying to follow the New Deal around. For quite a while we read every day about the sins, crimes and other misdeeds of the predatory rich and malefactors of great wealth. This campaign of defamation was directed to the rich as a class and the DuPonts in particular. It might have been laying the ground work of calss hatred so that the strikes against the automobile makers would be popular, the DuPonts being heavily interested in General Motors who were first attacked by the strike campaign. The talk could not have been very serious for now we read of the U. S. army being called out to keep order and protect the guests at the wedding of one of these DuPonts. Most of us have to look out for ourselves when we get married.

We were fed a lot of hooey about the forgotten man and how a job was to be created for every man who wanted to work and a lot of bureaus and departments were created to make this come true even if work had to be created to do it out of the public treasury, and now comes along the New Deal Governors of two states who call out the militia to keep men from working. They had to fight for the right to go to their regular jobs and were doing very well at it until the New Deal came along and used the militia.

Don't try to undertsand it, unless you like a dizzy feeling.

HEADING WEST

A little over a hundred years ago courageous and intrepid pioneers in covered wagons were blazing a trail from the Mississippi river into the great northwest territory, a route today familiar to most everyone around here as the Oregon Trail. Just now, according to government reports, a new trek is under way. This time the fortune seekers are using autos and trailers instead of covered wagons, but their object is the same. They are home hunting.

Today the going is easy. Modern bridges span turbulent streams that exacted a heavy toll of life and property in the early days of pioneering. Perfectly paved roads shorten the distance to hours instead of weeks. In three years, it is carefully estimated, 25,000 families have arrived in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana, most of them from the drouth-plagued states. Some are able to purchase land, erect buildings and buy farm machinery. Others, however, arrive in broken-down old cars and are penniless. They must rely upon state or government agencies not only for their existence but also for a chance to develop a new home.

Few realize better than residents of the northwest themselves the problems arising from the influx and already organized effort is under way to discourage the migration of those who are not able to finance themselves and pay their own way. It is a matter worthy of serious study by anyone contemplating a change of location.

COURTESY PAYS

When a Connecticut man died a few weeks ago and his will was read it was found that he had left a tidy sum to a lad who once retrieved the old gentleman's hat and refused to accept the ten-cent reward that was offered. Of course there are not many instances in which courtesy is thus rewarded, but the instance is of value to St. Joe parents in impressing their children with the fact that even though they may never be mentioned in somebody's will, courtesy always pays. Elderly people are always quick to notice and appreciate courtesy on the part of the young. It reflects favorably, too, upon the parents of those boys and girls who are thoughtful and polite, and who gladly assist those about them with no thought of compensation. There are times when it seems courtesy on the part of the young has suffered a slump in this country. Maybe the case of the old gentleman who remembered the boy who retrieved his hat will serve in a small way to impress a few youngsters with the age-old fact that "courtesy always pays."

WATCH THE WATER

While some states now carefully mark the source of drinking water along their main highways, as to its purity, it would be a good idea for every motorist who plans a drive into a strange territory to keep in mind the importance of such information. Drinking any kind of water that is handy when one is thirsty is extremely dangerous, and it is much better to continue on a little further until a source of supply that is known to be pure can be obtained. Rather than take a chance on being forced to drink impure water many motorists carry a bottle or jug in their car, refilling it at each stop where fresh, wholesome water is obtainable. Typhoid and kindred ailments most frequently spring from the drinking of contaminated water, and the seriousness of such ailments are too well known to be ignored. There is a good and bad drinking water in every comunity. Don't take a chance on your own or your family's health by guessing which is which.

TOO MUCH MUSH

Without taking a survey or sending out a questionnaire we'll warrant the prediction that about 99 per cent of the American people are so disgusted with the Duke of Windsor-Wally Simpson affair that they don't care if they never hear any more of it. Speaking for this community, nobody gives a whoop whether they "live happy ever after" or get a divorce tomorrow. The affair hasn't helped in the least to boost the sacred institution of marriage, and if it hasn't glorified divorce and caused many to look more lightly upon it, then nothing ever will. Now it's over, from all appearances, and the American people can see just how foolish they were in working themselves up over it in the first place, when it couldn't have added anything to their happiness; no matter how it turned out. Let's forget it, and turn our thots to other and more helpful things. The whole world has had enough of this sort of mush to last it for a long, long time.

Why The Nation Demands Civil Service

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Again Congress has been asked to provide for selection of job-holders in various new federal agencies now under consideration, on the basis of merit and ability, rather than of patronage.

It is a familiar request. It is a fair one, too. Since the workers and earners of America foot the bill for our constantly expanding political payroll, it is only natural that they should ask a reasonable return for their money.

In other words, the American people want what an equitable Civil Service System attempts to assure—public servants who understand that the people are their employers, and whose loyalty is therefore to them and to the country as a whole.

They want the public service geared to the wheels of national progress, rather than to the complex cogs of various political machines.

This is hard to achieve when a public job is granted on the basis of whom one knows, instead of what he knows. It is hard to achieve when politicians and officeholders use such jobs as a means of paying off old political debts, or buying new political power—all with other people's money.

The spoils system is unfair not only to the people who pay the bills, but to any capable public servant, himself. There is little incentive to seek a career in government or to do one's best after the job is obtained, if the spectre of political patronage continues to haunt the roads to appointment and advancement and permanence.

A more thorough application of the Merit System would mean not only less waste in government, but greater efficiency and service to the public as well.

And the way for the public to get such service and efficiency is to continue to demand them.

LOOKING AHEAD

It hasn't been so very many years ago, as most citizens will recall, when the easiest way to get an argument out of a man was to mention "good roads." The auto was just beginning to become popular, though sentiment was about evenly divided as to whether it would prove a permanent method of transportation or a passing fad. The good roads question was a national issue, and it was possible to find whole families divided as to the wisdom of building any better roads than those in use for horse-drawn vehicles.

Today there is no argument about it. Everyone from coast-to-coast, and lakes-to-gulf, is agreed that the auto will always be this nation's leading mode of transportation and that the welfare and prosperity of every community, large or small, hinges on the condition of the roads leading to it. Today the nation would practically collapse if it were forced to return to gravel roads and horse-drawn vehicles. Realizing this, those who are farseeing are insisting that every new road that is built be made wide enough to carry twice the traffic now operating over it, and that old roads, as they are repaired, be made correspondingly wide. The day is not far distant when about 80 per cent of the roads now in use in this country will be unable to carry safely and speedily the amount of traffic that will be seeking to use them.

It is a good point for our road-builders to keep in mind. It will be to the interest of the taxpayers, in the long run, to build wide roads from now on, and to make the old ones wider as quickly as convenient. Then the job won't have to be done twice, at twice the cost.

A STYLE HINT

Skirts for spring may be straight and split on each side or they may discreetly swing by dint of any number of treatments—gores, umbrella pleats, wrong-side-out tuckings—almost anything except godets, which are no more.

THE FLOWER GARDEN

Where a hotbed is impracticable, a cold frame makes an excellent substitute, one of the chief values being as a place into which to transplant from seedboxes started in the house . . . Nothing makes a neater and more compact miniature hedge for edging than dwarf marigolds . . . An application of complete food is oftentimes the best remedy for ailing flowers.

IN THE KITCHEN

Ordinarily new waffle irons have printed instructions telling how to use them. If the instructions are lacking, however, grease the iron thoroughly with an unsalted fat (lard or oil). Heat it slowly until it starts smoking. Add a little waffle batter and cook it until it is well browned. Discard this first waffle and then start cooking additional batter. One greasing is usually sufficient. If the waffles stick, however, repeat the greasing process.

ON WASH DAY

Small mud stains on a clean white skirt may be concealed until ready for the laundry by pipe clay or white water-color paint. Or, let it dry, scrape off with a penknife and rub over the stain with white crayon or school chalk. Rub with a clean white cloth later on until the spot disappears.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

Soaking a broom in boiling salt water every two weeks will help preserve it . . . The rubber ringers on washing machines can be kept clean by washing with kerosene . . . White gloves can be kept white by washing them after each wearing with a soft brush and a pure soap.

AN INSPIRATION

Never feel that you have done well enough, while you know in your heart that you can still do better.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

The next time you are riding in an automobile, just note the action of pedestrians. Is it any wonder that almost fifty per cent of the automobile fatalities are caused by pedestrians?

Of coures, the pedestrian has some rights and he should exercise those rights. There is no right under heaven that allows the pedestrian to cross in the middle of the block, to come from behind parked cars, or to jay-walk at corners. He takes his life in his own hands and is subject to the mercy of the automobile driver who does not see him and cannot control the pedestrian's actions. When we come to the realization that we must walk right and in the proper place, then we will have an opportunity to make a big cut into the automobile fatalities in the nation.

Walk in the manner and in the place where you are supposed to walk.

TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION ELECTS OFFICERS

Eternal vigilance is the price of success in the campaign against tuberculosis, Dr. H. L. Murdock of the staff of the Irene Byron Sanatorium told members of the DeKalb County Tuberculosis Association in their annual meeting at the Auburn city hall Wednesday night.

Dr. Murdock said the disease is developed through contacts and the spread of germs. Often, he said, it is inactive for years in a person afflicted, but other people may be affected by association. Thus it is said that tuberculosis "runs in families," not because it is inherited, but because children catch the disease from older members of the household.

Every suspected case, Dr. Murdock pointed out, should be followed to observe developments and lives may be saved by early diagnosis. Children carrying germs are a menace to the schools.

Dr. Murdock explained the skin test and other modern means of discovering and treating tuberculosis. In spite of the fact that tuberculosis has only half as many victims as twenty years ago, Dr. Murdock said that it is still the chief cause of death among people from fifteen to forty-five years of age. He praised the DeKalb county association for its fine work. The Rev. H. F. Craven of Auburn, the president, in a talk lauded Mrs. Mabel Browand, the executive secretary, for her interest and her great service to the association and to the county.

Name Same Officers

The officers were all re-elected. Those besides the Rev. Craven are the following: Honorary president, H. C. Willis of Waterloo; vice president, Frank R. Bowman of St. Joe, C. B. Hamilton of Garrett, and Dr. Harry Covell of Auburn; secretary, Fred W. Knott of Auburn; and treasurer, Mrs. Edgar W. Atkinson of Auburn.

The chairmen named for cities, towns and townships for the coming year are as follows: Mrs. Ida Penry, Auburn; Mrs. Frank Hyde, Garrett; Miss Ruth Mutzfield, Butler; Mrs. Eva Hamilton, Waterloo; Mrs. Vern Sparks, Ashley and Smithfield township; Mrs. Fred Leighty, St. Joe and Concord township; Mrs. Pauline Baumgartner, Spencerville and Spencer township; Mrs. John Noel, Butler township; Mrs. Dessie Ringler, Fairfield township; Mrs. Irene Robbins, Franklin township; Mrs. Laura Husselman, Grant township; Mrs. Walter DePew, Jackson township; Mrs. Ross Tustison, Newville township; Mrs. Angela Mason, Richland township; Mrs. Wayland Mutzfeld, Stafford township; Mrs. Lottie Mills, Troy township; Mrs. Lester Boger, Union township; Mrs. Fannie Boger, Wilmington township, and Mrs. Arthur Grube, Keyser township.

In her annual report Mrs. Browand stated that the association's program calls for five clinics a year, one being held every other month excepting in January and February. Tuberculosis tests are made and X-rays are provided for suspicious cases found in the clinics when the patients are unable to pay. X-rays also are furnished upon request of a physician who has a patient unable to pay. During the last year 107 persons were examined and 23 X-rays were made.

Early Diagnosis Campaign

The association had an educational exhibit at the fall fair in Auburn last fall, also a float in both opening and the Saturday parades. An "early diagnosis" campaign was put on through the county in April. Pamphlets were given clubs in the cities and the home bureau and 4-H clubs in the rural districts.

An educational film, "Behind the Shadows," was shown in the theatres at Garrett, Auburn and Waterloo and later Bynum Legg of the state board of health, with the aid of the executive secretary, showed the same film in the Garrett and Auburn high schools. Mr. Legg has agreed to return to DeKalb county with an exhibit for a parent-teachers meeting at Ashley in November and the plan is to visit the remaining high schools in the county.

The state board of health has promised an exhibit at this year's county fair. In April the interurban discontinued service and it was necessary to purchase a used car. At a meeting called for that purpose it was decided a privately-owned car should not be used due to the contaigon of tuberculosis.

As it is necessary to maintain an office, the expense of the clinic, X-rays, etc, must be met by health bonds at $10 and $5 and the Christmas seals at 1 cent each which are mailed throughout the county at Thanksgiving, also the bangle pins sold in the high schools and a Santa Claus button in the grade schools. The co-operation of the public was most encouraging. The receipts from seals and bonds was $1,125.88. Of that, 77 cents from each $1.00 remains in the county.

The balance on hand at the end of June 1936, was $671.71; received from seal sale, $1,125.88; total, $1,756.59.

Expenditures from June 29, 1936 to June 30, 1937, were $1,070.41.

The balance on hand June 30, 1937, was $686.18.

SELECT HARVEST QUEEN ENTRY FOR COMMUNITY

Name your Favorite Local Beauty for selecting a "Harvest Queen" for the DeKalb County Fair.

Beauty is being sought the world over. Either consciously or unconsciously everyone seeks the agreeable, illusive quality as the flowers seek the sunshine.

St. Joe and Concord Township not to be outdone, is looking for some fortunate young lady to be Miss St. Joe and Miss Concord Township and compete with other young women from the county.

We want the names of all the girls who have that illusive quality, beauty; the face may not be symmetrical and yet beauty is evident. Most often it is the unusual which claims our admiration.

We are publishing a coupon on which may be written the name of a girl whom you judge to be lovely. Watch the paper and send yours in after filling it out. Secure, if possible, the consent of the young lady whom you desire to nominate as a candidate in the "Harvest Queen Contest."

Free voting coupons will appear in each issue of The S. Joe News. Have your friends clip these coupons for you, each coupon will entitle you to 5 votes.

Each new subscription to The St. Joe News will entitle the contestant to 300 free votes; if you know of any one not taking The St. Joe News get their subscription and earn 300 votes.

As The News circulates in the Tri-Townships, we are enxious that each one of the Township Chairmen will avail themselves of this assistance, and that the candidates will also do their best to win from their territory.

Consult your Township Chairman for full particulars.

LUTHERAN LEADERSHIP TRAINING SCHOOL

The Lutheran Leadership Training School for Church Workers will be held at Oakwood Park, Lake Wawasee, July 13th to 18th. The School is under the management of the Rev. A. H. Keck, Gary, Ind. The Devotional Periods will beconducted by The Rev. W. D. Allbeck, D. D., of Hamma Divinity School, Springfield, Ohio. The Rev. H. Grady Davis will have charge of the music. Other leaders will be The Rev. S. White, The Rev. C. Franklin Koch, Miss Nona Diehl, Mrs. Norma Gribler and The Rev. Carrol J. Rockey.

A number of people from St. Joe and Spencerville are planning to attend Wednesday and Saturday.

TWO CROPS AT ONE SOWING

O. E. Inlow bears the distinction of being the only farmer here of reaping a crop where he did not sow. A year ago he had a 4-acre patch of wheat that shelled badly in harvesting. The field was plowed and was sown to alfalfa. The shattered wheat came up and gave him a good stand and when cut a few days ago, Mr. Inlow said it would produce at least 18 bushels per acre.

NEW COURSE AT CMT CAMP

Ft. Benj. Harrison, Ind., July 14.—Gas instruction is a new course at the two CMT Camps to be held here this year. Each member of the camp will have practical experience combined with talks by a Gas Officer.

The regulation U. S. Army gas mask is being used and each enrollee is required to pass through a gas chamber filled with tear gas. Smoke screens are laid for construction purposes to illustrate the defensive attacks that may be employed. Rapidity in studying the mask, combined with rigid inspections to assure correctness of fit and adjustment insure prompt action in case of gas alarm.

JULY 31 IS DEADLINE ON HARVEST QUEEN

Entrants in Contest in Connection With Free Fall Fail Must File Names Before End of Month

July 31 will be the deadline for girls between the ages of 17 and 25 who wish to enter the Harvest Queen contest in connection with the DeKalb County Fall Fair.

Township Directors report that many girls are interested and that many have already entered the contest. H. E. Hart, president of the Fair Association, announced Monday that there must be at least four contestants from each township, city or town. In the local contest there will be first, second and third winners and a committee of judges will select one girl from each division of the county to compete in the finals in Auburn Sept. 8.

The winner in the contest and two attendants will get a free trip of 1,500 miles by rail and 500 miles by boat including a visit to points of interest in Washington and vicinity.

Mr. Hart says that while it is permissable to have a sponsor this proeedure is not recommended. It is feared that girls who have a sponsor in the contest will depend too much on the sponsor and will not make as much of an effort to get votes as the entrant who simply makes known her intention to enter the race and gets busy.

The contests in each township, town and city will be independent of one another and the number of votes in any one unit will have no effect on the contest in any other division of the county.

Girls who want to compete in the contest for a delightful trip to Washington are urged to contact their local Township Director at once and make known their intention and start their campaign for votes.

HURT BY TRACTOR

Will Hamilton was injured Saturday by his farm tractor. James had been driving the tractor and had stopped for some cause, holding his foot on the clutch. Will was standing close by when James' foot slipped from the clutch and let the tractor lunge ahead. Will's foot and leg were badly bruised. He is now confined to the house. Sunday many friends called to see how he was, among them were: Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Shull and children, Frank, Ned and Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. John Goldsmith and son, Mrs. Belle Goldsmith and daughter Pearl, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hursh Curtice Northrup and friends Rosamond and Doris Furnish, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hart and nephew, Rev. C. J. Ferster, Inez Hadsell and grandson, Billy, Lester Coburn, Mr. Harold Spencer and two children, Drayton and Tommy.

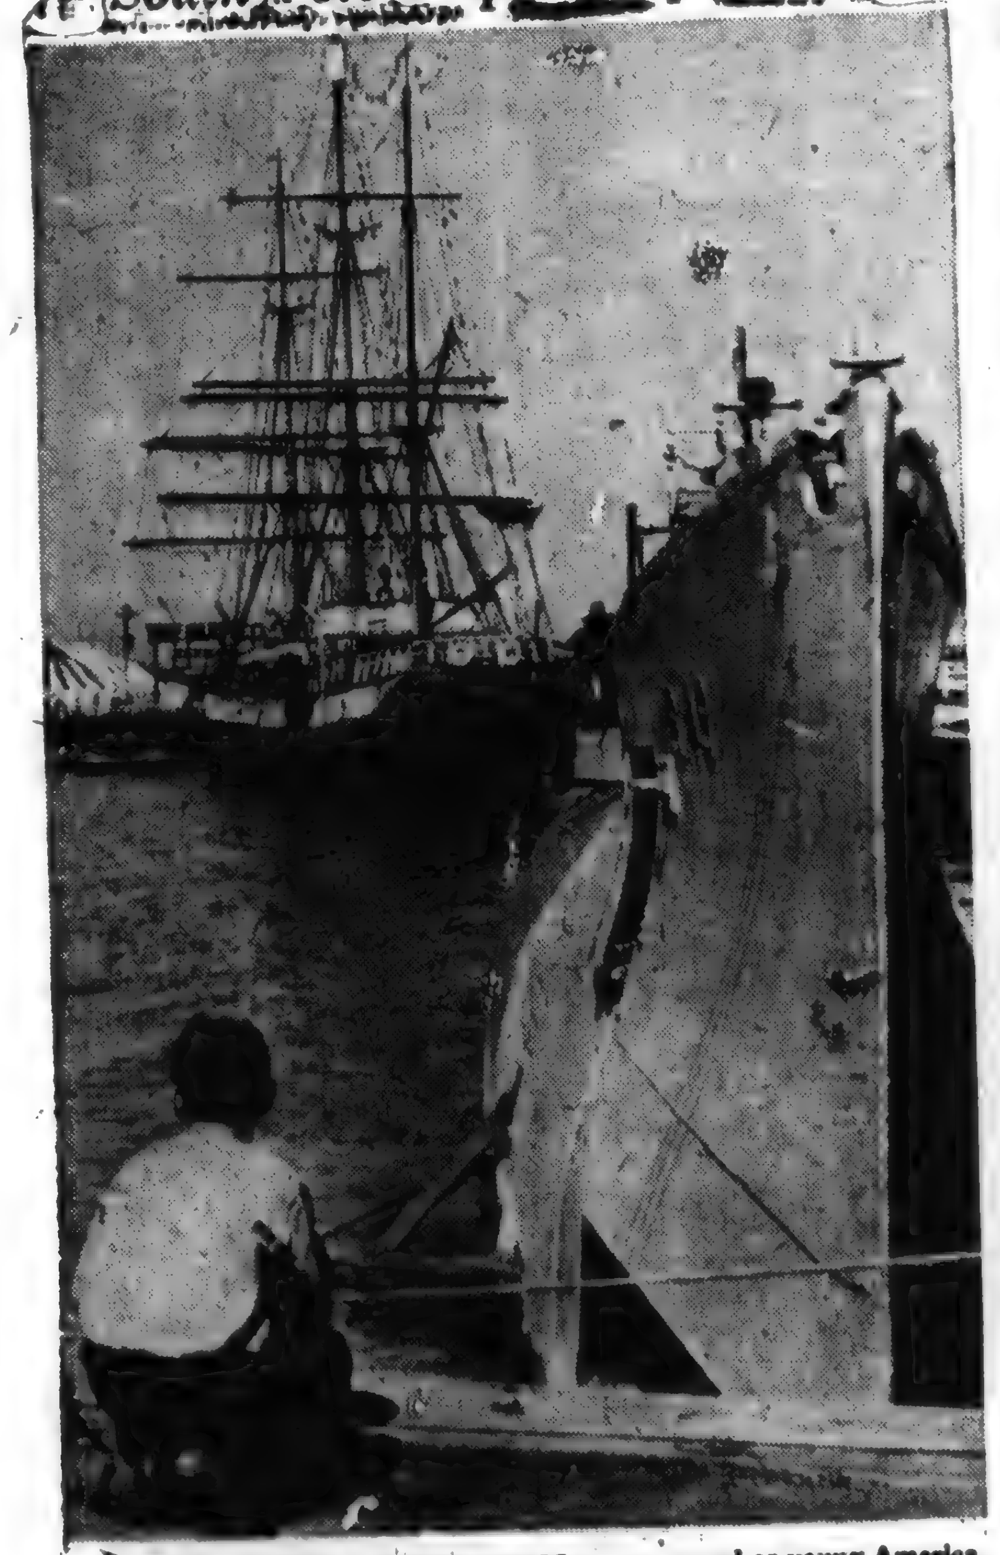
South Pole Ship at Exposition



A NEW GENERATION'S EYES turn seaward as young America, seated by the prow of a modern submarine at the Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland, gazes wistfully at the ancient whaling vessel which served as flagship for Admiral Byrd's two Antarctic expeditions.

Beyond the ships anchored in Lake Erie extends the great Midway of the Exposition with its scores of ride and show attractions. The Exposition continues through September 6th.

Most girls prefer a promising young man but everybody else prefer those who pay cash.

There are said to be twenty million bachelors in the U. S. and few of them have anybody but themselves to blame.

A mother is a person who sees there are only four pieces of pie for five people and says she doesn't care for pie.

Mrs. Roosevelt says the depression made us better acquainted with each other. Yes, especially with our poor relations.

Scientists say it has taken a million years to make man what he is today. And the average woman can make him over in six months.

The end of the world will be here when money talks and nobody listens.

If you like to work out problems that really try the wits, then try making both ends meet.

Quite often when a man thinks his mind is getting broader it is only his conscience stretching.

What has become of the old-fashioned congerss that used to adjourn when the notion struck it?

Those fellows who can take a drink or let it alone are back again and so is hardening of the liver.

Quite a few men don't care whether they are sitting on top of the world or not—just so they are sitting.

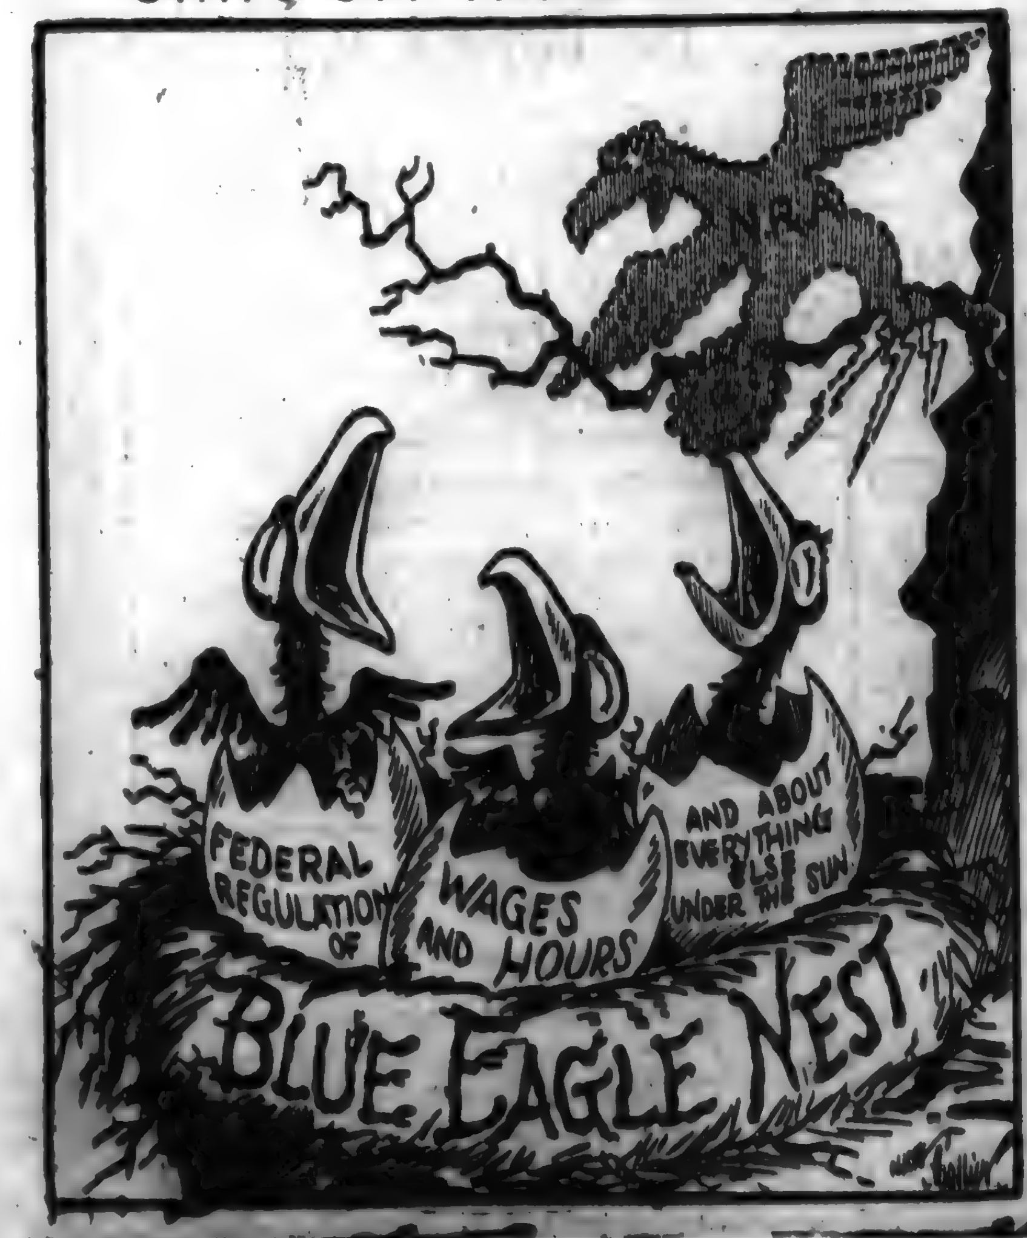
Few men are deliberately wicked. When the worst decide to do wrong, they first convince themselves that it is right.

Most people are annoyed by an unnecessarily loud tone of voice unless it happens to be coming out of their radio.

Some people seem to think that giving an abundance of praise unto the Lord excuses them from paying their debts.

Day after day we read the obituaries of wealthy men and never discover any thing about them getting their start playing the races or slot machines.

CHIPS OFF THE OLD BLOCK



A gentleman is a husband who suffers in silence rather than tell his wife she snores.

The Devil has many helpers, including those who say: "Let's not talk about such unpleasant things."

KEEPING COOL

For several weeks to come St. Joe citizen smay expect to hear the familiar old summer question: "Is it hot enough for you?" While hoping, of course, that the weather man doesn't go to extremes, as he did last summer, they realize there is no possible way to escape a certain amount of torrid weather, but as usual are unprepared to meet it in the most comfortable way.

Along this line the advice of a famous Chicago physician recently broadcast over the radio should be of particular interest. He says the best thirst-quencher is cool water with a small amount of salt dissolved in it, because perspiration lowers the water-level of the body and produces symptoms of thirst, also carrying away a certain amount of saline solution from the body tissues. Eat lightly, he advises, and avoid fats and fried foods. Plenty of green vegetables and fruits are recommended, along with salads and ice cream. But he warns against too much pie and cake.

Close the doors and draw the blinds in the house during the day, he says, and that will help to beat the heat. Then at sundown when blinds are raised the temperature in the room should be several degrees cooler than if they had not been drawn. But possibly the best suggestion of all he saves for the last, though for a great many people it will be the hardest to observe. Here it is—take it for what it is worth:

"Take it easy! Don't hurry! And try to forget there are such things as thermometers."

FUTURE SAFETY

Teaching the youngsters how to drive autos safely may not help the oldsters of today very much, but it appears to be the only way this country will ever become safety-minded. The drivers of the present day seem to be hopeless.

There are now several million young people who are not eligible under the law to operate automobiles. Within five years these young people, now in the upper school grades, will be driving. In 10 years still another group, equally numerous, will be ready to start doing the same thing. So while not abandoning the attempt to educate present drivers, why would it not be a good idea to start in at once on the intensive training of those future drivers? And where is there a more fitting place for teaching them safety than in the school rooms of the nation?

It may be necessary to convert a great many teachers to the idea before it could be put in general use, but insofar as teachers around St. Joe are concerned there is reason to believe they would be willing and anxious to add a regular course in safety and safe driving as part of the school course. Provided with proper text books, they would be a powerfu lforce in shaping the minds of the youngsters toward the need for absolute care and extreme skill in the handling of a motor car. Such instruction while requiring but a few moments time each day, would make the drivers of 5 or 10 years from now so capable that human life would not be slaughtered at the rate of 37,000 a year, as at the present time. If the toll could be reduced by only one-half it still would be worth all and more that safety education in the schools would cost.

BIG WHEAT YIELD

The nation's wheat crop is now at a stage where it is possible for experts to make pretty accurate forecasts of its size, and their announcement that it will be the largest since 1932 should be cheering news to all St. Joe citizens who realize that the country's prosperity largely hinges on this cereal. Even the most conservative grain experts place the probable total yield this year at more than 650,000,000 bushels of winter and 150,000,000 bushels of spring wheat. That, they point out, will be enough for the country's own domestic needs, with enough left over to fill the empty grain elevators of Europe. Always in the past when America had grain enough for her own use and some for export times were relatively good. So in that old rule one finds time for rejoicing at this time. With a bumper wheat crop, and all other grain crops in proportion as now appears to be the case, the sun of prosperity rises higher in the sky. May nothing interfere to check its ascendancy.

DODGING TAXES

To the average St. Joe citizen, who pays his taxes even though it means a tremendous sacrifice, the action of many of the nation's wealthy men is abominable, to say the least. They know it is sort of second nature with some people to try to beat the government, but they can't understand in this connection how lawyers, supposedly "officers of the court" and sworn to uphold the laws of the land can lend themselves to the practice of aiding and abbetting tax-dodging, as many of them are actually doing. Today scores of lawyers are accepting pay for seeking ways and means whereby rich clients can beat the law by legal technicalities. In the eyes of the average man such lawyers are as despicable as the tax-dodgers themselves. It might not be a bad idea for the bar associations of the country to do a little house-cleaning within their ranks. It would at least help to put a little higher premium on honesty.

DANGEROUS BLONDES

If she drives an automobile at night a blonde is not as safe a driver as a brunette. So says a distinguished New York optician. It has been ascertained that when the lights of an oncoming car hit a driver's eyes, he drives blind for a number of feet. It takes from one-fifth to one and one-fifth seconds to recover natural night-driving vision. Now the blonde, says the eye expert, with light eyes takes far longer than the brunette with dark eyes to recover from a glaring light and should, therefore drive much slower. This is not an argument so much for the elimination of blondes as night drivers as it is for rigid laws and efficient enforcement against glaring headlights as automobiles being driven over the thoroughfares of the country at night.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

In spite of a rush of work in the harvest fields receipts of livestock at the local yards increased about 50 head over last week.

Prices were much higher in all departments.

Hogs: 120 to 140, $11.60. There were no top weight hogs on sale but out of town packers were willing to take hogs weighing 225 to 250 at $13. Roughs from $10.10 to $10.70. Boars from $5.00 to $9.90. Feeding shoats were from $1.00 to $1.50 higher per head than a week ago.

Veals: Top $11.00. Common kinds from $9.00 to $10.50.

Cattle: Steers $8.00 to $10.00. Heifers $9.50 to $10.00. Fat cows topped at $6.80. Canners and low cutters $4.75 to $6.10. Bulls up to $6.25.

The Bureaucrats and Their Power

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Official reports from Washington record a new peak in the number of peace-time Federal job-holders.

During the month of May, the records show, almost 5,000 new names were written on the public payroll. This brought the total to 840,159—a throng exceeded only during the emergency of a World War.

And, of course, the total of pay-checks rose proportionately.

All this is obviously tough on the public—which must pay the bills—but it's a great help to many of the appointed Bureaucrats.

Why?

Because it was the Bureaucrats—the appointed heads of the countless new boards and bureaus and commissions now overwhelming Washington, who demanded this increased spending of the people's money—and who put their demands across.

Many leading Senators and Representatives have, in recent weeks, emphatically opposed continued extravagance. The White House has promised economies. But the Bureaucrats realize that without lavish spending their growth must cease. And Bureaucracy seems determined to expand.

Growing armies of job-holders are, of course, only one element of the Bureaucrats' steady drain on the public purse. New and costly and spreading activities into all possible fields create still other burdens for taxpayers to shoulder. And these burdens will continue to multiply until Congress does the job it was elected to do.

That job is to legislate for the American people who elected them; not for appointed Bureaucrats who seek to enhance their power through a succession of big checks drawn against the people's earnings.

FOSTER MOTHER

Pigs, kittens or puppies! They're all the same to Beauty, seven year old German Shepherd, Richmond, Indiana, who is shown here nursing part of a litter of pigs she adopted recently. Her master, Alex Shuminoff who operates a small farm at the edge of the city, gave Beauty's last litter of pups to the dog catcher, who promised to find homes for them. Beauty felt the loss very keenly, judging by her howls, but within a few days, had adopted a litter of seven pigs, part of which can be seen enjoying the noon day meal. Shuminoff said Beauty raised a litter of kittenrs a few years ago.

GREATEST CIRCUS IS COMING SOON

Dazzling Introductory Spectacle. One of Host of New World Acclaimed Features of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Organization

The world's mightiest amusement enterprise on tour—the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey combined circus—with its 1937 seven-ring-and-stage program, star studded and liberally interspersed with new thrillers from Europe and Asia, featuring among its array of new wonders the most gorgeous introductory spectacle in its brilliant history, India, is definitely scheduled to exhibit in Fort Wayne, Wednesday, July 21.

India is not just another circus spectacle. It is not merely a glittering parade to open the Big Show performances. It is the result of a year's planning, a really staggering expenditure and much research on the part of Sam W. Gumperts, general manager of The Greatest Show on Earth. Costly fabrics were purchased in car load lots. Color schemes blend in lovely perspectives. Every one of the two thousand people and animals taking part wears a small fortune on his or its back. All have towering headdresses of exquisite beauty. One group of 170 horses, with girl riders, is like nothing ever before offered, for the horses, wearing medieval bejeweled blankets of velvet, carry gorgeous canopies over the girls' heads. India is a torrent of color and flashing jewels, flowing over the hippodrome track and the seven rings and stages. It is the last word in pageantry.

Heading the scores of new foreign features are The Great Aloys, aerial thriller; the Magyars, Europe's mightiest troupe of somersaulting stars; the Famed William Heyer, Holland's great horse trainer, and his wonder horses; the Mayay-Brach troupe of aerial unicycle marvels; the Naitto family of wire wizards; the Lu Lolita troupe of upside-down aerialists; the Qualtieros, airplane aerialists; the Cleveres, whirlwind acrobats; the Wen Hais, novelty stars and many others equally renowned in Europe, Asia and South America. There are 800 performers.

In aerial and equestrian displays The Greatest Show on Earth has outdone itself thi syear, while the ground acrobatic numbers are the largest and finest ever presented in any land or age.

The Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey combined circus will arrive on four long trains of 100 double-length steel railroad cars carrying 1600 people, 1000 menagerie animals, 7 herds of elephants and 700 horses.

E. E. WINELAND DIES AT AGE OF 69 YEARS

The death of Ephriam E. Wineland, well known resident of Auburn and former superintendent of the Auburn electric and water department occurred at his residence at 211 South Indiana Avenue, Thursday morning at 7:45 o'clock. Mr. Wineland had been ill for the past three years with liver and spleen trouble. He was confined to his bed for two weeks.

Mr. Wineland was born on a farm in Newville Township on March 3, 1868 and his age at the time of his death was 69 years, 4 months and 5 days. He was one of a family of seven children born to Simon and Elizabeth Wineland. His early life was spent in Newville Township and at St. Joe, where he atended the public schools. He was a resident of Auburn for thirty-eight years. He started work for the city in the electric and water department as a common laborer and worked up through the different departments until twenty-five years ago he became superintendent. This position he relinquished at the change of the last city administration.

The deceased was united in marriage with Miss Nettie Kline of St. Joe on November 25, 1891. To them were born two childern, a son, Walter, residing in Auburn, and a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Thomson of Northfield, Minn. Surviving besides the widow and children are two brothers, John Wineland of St. Joe, Ind., and Hugh Winealnd, of Elkhart, three sisters, Mrs. A. R. Cole of Garrett, Mrs. Laura Baker of Cleveland, O., who is very ill, and Mrs. Peter Pontius of Elkhart. A sister, Mrs. Sarah Hendricks, of Auburn, died a year ago in July. There are two grandchildren, Sara and Richard Wineland.

Mr. Wineland was a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, DeKalb Lodge No. 214, F. & A. M. and Auburn Lodge No. 191, K. of P.

The funeral services were held at 2:30 Saturday afternoon from the Gerig & Kaylor funeral home with Rev. O. B. Noren, pastor of St. Mark's Church, officiating and burial made in Woodlawn cemetery.

TEN CAUTIONS FOR THE PRESENT DAY SWIMMERS

Here are the ten commandments for safety in the water, compiled by Eleanor Holm Jarrett, former Olympic backstroke champion, for the guidance of the more than 300 boys and girls who swim in the big Billy Rose Aquacade at the Great Lakes Exposition at Cleveland—and which are just as vital for the safety of everyone who plays on the beach or swims this summer in creeks, rivers or gravel pits.

1. Don't over-estimate your ability or endurance.
2. Don't "show-off" by taking chances—that's just stupid.
3. Don't duck people—that isn't funny.
4. Don't stay in the sun too long—sunburn is dangerous.
5. Don't dive until you know what's under the water
6. Don't put too much trust in inflated swimming aids.
7. Don't throw sand or splash water or toss bottles aside.
8. Don't talk to a person about to dive—and don't push him.
9. Don't swim immediately after eating.
10. Don't wear too much clothing.

Favorite Bible Passages of

Flem D. Sampson
Governor of Kentucky.

The Twenty-third Psalm:

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for Thou art with me: Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

And did it rain? Monday afternoon this immediate community was visited by the heaviest rainfall in weeks. Sewers were unable to take care of the rush of water and everything was flooded.

Glen Kinsey and Albert Wade, accompanied by their families, spent Saturday and Sunday at Big Bower Lake as guests of Tom Cool. Glen said he caught his limit of blue gills and had great sport in doing so.

The ninth annual reunion of the Homer Abel Family will be held at the Cheesetown school house, on Sunday, July 25. Basket dinner and a miscellaneous program. Clyde Hart, president, Berniece Wilder, secretary.

SOME LOCAL BRIEFS

Orla Baker has begun work on the Stanley Hallabaugh barn, just south of town.

Mrs. Alice Copp is at Columbia City for a few days visiting in the B. V. Widney home.

Mrs. Frank Curie is spending the week at Garrett with her son, Herbert Curie, and family.

Mrs. J. C. Billman, of Ligonier, and Mrs. John Beard of Waterloo, were Friday guests of Mrs. Wm. Randall.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Murphy, of South Bend, were Saturday and Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Weaver.

Carleton Wilmot, who works near Angola, spent Monday and Tuesday here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilmot.

Cash Hanna and family, of Roland, Mich., were here Sunday guests of relatives. Cash is operating a used car lot and is doing a good business.

Mrs. Phillips of Oak Park, Ill., came Sunday afternoon to visit her father, Mr. Ed Lindley, who is staying in the Emily Gloyd home at Spencerville.

Miss Ruth Smith, Red Cross Nurse of Angola, was a guest in the home of Mrs. Donald Hart, Thursday evening. The ladies were in training together.

The extreme heat of the past week has caused the death of farm horses in some areas more than here, but last Saturday George Baker lost one of his fine horses.

Senator Joe Robinson, D., of Arkansas, died suddenly Wednesday morning. His political career made him a probable choice for Supreme Court vacancy.

Mrs. Ines Chapman will move to St. Joe in a few days from Orangeville and occupy the Mrs. Cora Price property opposite the Lutheran Church. We welcome her to St. Joe.

Mrs. Ford Jackson and daughter, Iris, are at Lake City, Mich., where Iris was taken for asthma treatment. Ford and Bert Jackson will leave Thursday and return Sunday with the family.

Another milestone in industry was reached Wednesday, when the 13-millionth Chevrolet rolled off the assembly line in the Flint plant of the Chevrolet Division, General Motors Corporation.

Mr. Anga Haner formerly of this place, suffered a heart attack July 3rd while at work in the canning factory at Waterloo. He was removed to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Russell Luce, where he continues in a critical condition.

The thirty-third annual reunion of the Walter Family will be held in Circle Park, Hamilton Lake, Sunday, July 18. P. H. Watler, Fort Wayne, president; Fern Walter, Spencerville, secretary. A number of St. Joe relatives will attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sechler and family and Merritt Sechler, drove to Marion, Sunday to attend the Brodt-Sechler reunion, in an effort to trace relationship. They came home thinking that they had found a trace of their ancestral blood.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Baxter were guests in the Howard Signs home at Toledo, Ohio, one day last week. The Signs' were former Butler neighbors of the Baxters. Ern spoke of an experience of seeing the cement pavement blow up three different times on their trip.

Last week, the WPA gang turned in after working hours, on the road west of town, and shocked a field of wheat for Harold Spencer. In 25 minutes the bundles were all in place. Mr. Spencer had been hurt during the harvest and was unable to complete the job. That was a very commendable thing to do.

Rev. Grover Ward, wife and son, of Walbridge, Ohio, called on St. Joe friends while passing through town Tuesday enroute to the home of their daughter, Mrs. Oral Hughes, south of Concord to spend the day. They will visit at Albion, North Webster, and Fort Wayne before returning to his work for Sunday.

Mrs. Harriett Oberlin fell Wednesday morning when going down stairs, hurting her left ankle. The neighbors hurried in to help her and she fainted. The doctor was called and he decided to X-Ray the foot during the forenoon. As to the exact injury we are unable to say. The Oberlins just moved to St. Joe, occupying rooms with Mrs. Grace Sheffer. Mrs. Oberlin expects to teach school here this fall. Mr. Oberlin is just able to be about, suffering with sugar diebetis.

Six girls and one boy from the Church of Christ Sunday School are attending the Lake James Christian Assembly this week. They were taken to the lake Monday morning by Mrs. Willard Hurni and Mrs. H. C. Borthwick. Mrs. J. E. Catron accompanied Mrs. Hurni. J. E. Sturgis has charge of the music for the week and Rev. H. K. Schondelmayer, former pastor here, is giving Bible instruction and assisting in other activities. Those attending are: Harold Wilmot, Leilah Hurni, Jean Hurni, Maxine Woodcox, Frances Reidenbach, Nelda Kees and Mary Elizabeth Catron.

A Carefree Outing-then Tragedy

Shortly before this picture was snapped, Mary Ann Hootman, 11, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Hootman, prominent LaPorte, musician, was a carefree member of a party of children bathing in the Galien River, New Buffalo. Suddenly a strong current carried her under, almost submerging two other children at the same time. After an hour's search two Michigan City Coast Guards, Charles Tracy and Merle VerBerkmees surfmen found her body. They are shown passing her limp form to the waiting hands of Joe Kucera, New Buffalo, and a Michigan State Policeman.

The Kiwanis Club of Hamilton, Ill., was awarded the International achievement plaque for clubs with small membership at the Kiwanis convention in Indianapolis, Indiana. Roy Grout (left) president of the club, is shown presenting the plaque to LeRoy Knoeppel, who was president when the achievements on which the award was based, were accomplished. The Hamilton club already has 91 community services to its credit this year as a start toward winning another international award at the next convention, which will be held in San Francisco in June, 1938.

DUCHESS OF WINDSOR'S FIRST HUSBAND MARRIES SOCIALITE

Hollywood, Calif.—The Duchess of Windsor's first husband, Commander Earl Winfield Spencer, U. S. N., was married recently to Mrs. Norma Reese Johnson, widow of a Detroit millionaire. The ceremony was performed at Mrs. Johnson's home, by Chaplain William Rafferty, attached to the U. S. S. Ranger, aircraft carrier. Following the first ceremony the chaplain also united Mrs. Johnson's daughter, Betty 21-year old actress and Baillie Peyton Legare, Jr., age 27, musician. Commander Spencer, who has been confined to the San Diego Naval Hospital with a broken leg, leaned on a cane thorughout the ceremony. Comcane throughout the ceremony. Commander Spencer and Wallis Warfield were married twenty years ago. They were divorced ten year sago. It was while they were living at Coronado that the then Mrs. Spencer first met the then Prince of Wales. Photo shows: Commander Earl Winfield Spencer, U. S. N., and his bride, the former Mrs. Norma Reese Johnson, socialite, immediately after they were married at the bride's home in Hollywood, Calif., following which the Commander and new bride left on a honeymoon trip to British Columbia.

COUNTY YOUNG FOLKS TO PICNIC JULY 18

The young people of DeKalb county will hold their all day picnic on July 18, at Cedar Chapel Church in Richland township, located two miles south-east of Corunna, just off of Road No. 6, one mile west of Showers Corners and Maple Grove Churches, or 5 miles north of Garrett and 1 mile east.

The morning session will begin at 10:30 standard time, allowing all young folks to attend their own school first.

Chester Lung will act as superintendent with Mrs. Harry Casebere, of Auburn, teaching the girls and Clyde Hart, of Coburntown, teaching the boys.

Potluck dinner, and will each one please bring their own table service.

A delightful worship and recreational service will provide a portion of the afternoon program with the local pastor making a short and interesting challenge.

Every school is asked to urge their young folks to attend this picnic.

A good time will be awaiting you.

WELFARE BUDGET IN DEKALB COUNTY

Miss Nora Brown, director of the DeKalb County Board of Public Welfare, Thursday forwarded to the State Board at Indianapolis a tentative budget for the year 1938, which lists expenditures aggregating $121,752. This year's appropriations total about $90,000.

Despite the greater appropriations for next year asked by the board, the proposed tax levy is set at only 10 cents on the $100 valuation, as compared with 16 cents for 1937. This reduction is due to the substantial working balance that will be on hand at the beginning of the new year Jan. 1 as a result of the higher levy this year.

For old age assistance, the County Board anticipates it will need $77,648 next year; for old age burial, $2,550; for burial of blind persons, $300; for assistance of crippled children, $1,125; for child welfare, $200; or assistance to children in the custody of relatives, $25,025; for destitute children, $552; and for operating expenses, $14,352. The state and federal governments reimburse the counties 81 per cent on old age assistance, 60 per cent on old age burials, 100 per cent on burial of the blind, and about 70 per cent on assistance for children in the custody of relatives.

The Board now has 277 aged persons on its rolls, but it is expected this will be increased to a maximum of 527 by the end of 1938. The new law reducing the age limit from 70 to 65 goes into effect Jan. 1, 1938. There are now 117 children receiving aid and the Board contemplates that this number may grow to 180 next year.

The budget is subject to approval by the State Board and then will be considered by the County Council and the County Tax Adjustment Board.

Common hatchery practice is to set 40 per cent more eggs than the number of chickens expected.

Elgin Curie entered a plea of not guilty when he was arrested before Judge Endicott Tuesday on a charge of public intoxication. The affidavit, prepared by Prosecuting Attorney Wm. H. HARVEST QUEEN CONTEST TO BE SELF SUPPORTING

In speaking with a Fair Director representing one of our neighboring cities, the Harvest Queen Contest was mentioned. This director immediately recognized the possibilities of this contest but likewise said he didn't know how other towns in the county would feel toward financing the County Fair.

It is well this point was called to the attention of the Fair Association that the correct information may reach those residing in DeKalb County.

The DeKalb County Fair Association is not soliciting funds for the support of the County Fair; the fair this year is self-supporting.

The Queen Contest Division, while used in conjunction with the Fair Association, is separate and apart from the Fair Association. Many hours have been spent in promoting the Queen Contest at no cost to anyone, the only cost of this stupendous undertaking is postage, printing and various letters sent to the cooperators sponsoring the project. All money collected from the sale of votes, except that used for actual promotion expense, will help pay the transportation of the Queen and attendants to Washington and to entertain members of the Queen's Court.

The Queen's Contest will give more favorable publicity to our county than anything that has been presented in the county during the past fifteen years.

The Queen and Her Two Maids of Honor will leave over the B. & O. railroad, at Garrett, for Washington, D. C. September 12th and will be gone most of the week. The Queen and Her Court, consisting of one girl from each city, town and township, will be called upon to attend various social functions before and during the fair, therefore all contestants are reminded to secure the consent of their employers or others, so you may be able to participate in these various activities held in your honor. Most of these activities will be held in the evening therefore in most cases will not interfere with activities during the day.

It has been necessary to print 132,000 units in denominations of 5, 10, 25, 50 and 100 vote coupons, representing more than one and one quarter millions of votes. This does not include the many free votes which appear in all of our county papers, and which any contestant may use to advance her standing in her own community. Each town and township entrant is not effected by the others outside of her territory.

Girls who want to compete in the contest for a delightful trip to Washington are urged to contact their local township director at once and make known their intention and start their campaign for votes.

Township directors report that many girls are interested and that many have already entered the contest. Mr. Hart announced Monday that there must be at least four contestants from each township, city or town. In each local contest there will be first, second and third winners and a committee of judges will select one girl from each division of the county to compete in the finals in Auburn, September 8th.

The winner in the contest and two attendants will get a free trip of 1,500 miles by rail and 500 miles by boat including a visit to the points of interest in Washington and vicinity.

Mr. Hart says that while it is permissible to have a sponsor, this procedure is not recomemnded as it is feared that girls who have a sponsor in the contest will depend too much on the sponsor and will not make much of an effort to get votes as the entrant who smply makes known her intention to enter the race and gets busy.

Girls In The Race

As we go to press we are able to report from this section of DeKalb county, that a number of girls have entered the competition.

From Jackson township there are: Hazel Stimman, Rhoda Lou Carper, June Provines, Elenor Hawver and Miss Lawhead.

From Newville township: Misses Esther Richards, Anna Richards, Wilma Blackwell, Leitha Mae Hook, and Florence Thomas.

There seem sto be a scarcity of eligible girls in Concord township who might enter the Harvest Queen Contest. Of this number a very large majoirty are working in Fort Wayne, attending college now or leaving for college, or teaching positions by Sept. 1st. Arjoining townships have the required number entered. It was hoped we might be able to publish the names of some this week.

A possible list includes Miss Iris Wilmot, Miss Edith Stewart, Miss Virginia Poper, and Miss Lorain Bleeks.

Friensd of these girls are asked to use thei rinfluence to persuade them to enter the contest.

As The News circulates in the Tri-Townships, we are enxious that each one of the Township Chairmen will avail themselves of this assistance, and that the candidates will also do their best to win from their territory. miration.

We are publishing a coupon on which may be written the name of a girl whom you judge to be lovely. Watch the paper and send yours in after filling it out. Secure, if possible, the consent of the young lady whom you desire to nominate as a candidate in the "Harvest Queen Contest."

Free voting coupons will appear in each issue of The S. Joe News. Have your friends clip these coupons for you, each coupon will entitle you to 5 votes.

Each new subscription to The St. Joe News will entitle the contestant to 300 free votes; if you know of any one not taking The St. Joe News get their subscription and earn 300 votes.

Consult your Township Chairman for full particulars.

Mrs. Glen Freeburn, Mrs. D. B. Ridgway, Mrs. Keith Davis, Mrs. Rolla Wiers and daughter, Marcella, were at Auburn Monday afternoon.

Miss Naomi White, friends, Merl, Marguerite and Marie Ridenour, and Kenneth Byroade, and Mrs. John Carr of Hicksville, Ohio, enjoyed a trip to Mount Vernon, Ohio, Sunday, visiting the Sanitarium at the place where Mr. Carr is a patient. Enroute home they stopped at Marion and saw the monuments of former President Harding and Mrs. Harding.

ORDERED TO SELL WATER WORKS BONDS

About forty interested citizens of St. Joe met the town council in their called meeting at the gym, last Friday night, to discuss the proposed water system for St. Joe, and the meeting adjourned after a motion for the council to communicate with a bonding company and ascertain, that should they go on with the system, whether or not they would agree to buy the revenue bonds that would have to be sold in order to complete the work.

The estimated cost of the system completed is 43 thousand dollars, with a federal grant for labor hire of $14,672.50, leaving a bond issue to be sold around 28 thousand dollars, to be used in the purchase of material and equipment for the system.

The bonds are classed as revenue bonds, and to be paid over a period of thirty years, from the water works revenue and not by taxation.

Attorney Henry C. Springer explained the situation in full stating that the revenue from the plant had been figuerd at $2,450, and this was arrived at as follows: This is based on 90 users of water at a minimum charge of $1.25 for 3,000 gallons per month, and while some would use more than the minimum, the receipts were figured at 120% which would yield $1,600. For the water hydrants to be used for fire protection only, it was figured that 17 placed over the town at $50 would yield $850 revenue a year, and of course this would have to be paid by taxation to the waterworks board, as all would have the protection.

Due to a new tax law, the town would be required to pay a state tax on the waterworks receipts which would figure approximately $75.

These two items to be paid out of the town funds would require a tax of probably 40 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The budget arrived at by the board for the operation of the system has been estimated as follows:

Interest on bonds	$1 160
Depreciation on plant	$ 225
Superintendent	$ 360
Clerical help	$ 150
Labor	$ 100
Power	$ 200
Insurance	$ 50

The expense budget will necessarily have to be cut down on the minimum charge raised in order to create a surplus to retire the revenue bonds as they come due.

Of course the more users the system has, the more easily can the bonds be retired.

The rates of insurance can and will be reduced when the needed protection is in full operation, and this alone will be an item worth considering by all citizens whether they care to use the city water or not.

As soon as the board is able to report their progress in disposing of the bonds, more can be said as to the final action on the matter.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S PICNIC IN RICHLAND TOWNSHIP

The Young People's Division of the DeKalb County Council of Christian Education was represented by members from Butler, Jackson, Concord, Spencer, Fairfield, Smithfield, Richland and Union townships on Sunday at the young people's picnic at the Church of the Brethren in Richland township. For the fourth consecutive year the Jackson township group was awarded the flag for the largest attendance, 32 present.

Sunday School was held at 10:30 o'clock inside the church. Chester Lung of Butler township, was the superintendent. Mrs. Harry M. Casebeer of Auburn, taught the girls' class and Clyde Hart of Spencer township, the boys. The attendance was 43 boys and 52 girls.

At the noon hour a potluck dinner was served under the trees of the grove at the church.

The afternoon session was held inside the church with Frank Dosch of Jackson township, presiding. Rev. G. A. Zook, pastor of the Church of the Brethren at LaGrange, preached the sermon on the theme "Two Roads." Special music was rendered by a trio of gospel singers under the direction of Harold Parks of Bethany Biblical Seminary of Chicago. There were trios, solos and readings by members of the group. Mr. Parks played the accompaniments on the marimba. In addition to this program, Miss Ruby Shoudel of Jackson township sang a solo and Miss Mildred McNamara, also of Jackson township, gave a reading. Mr. Parks gave an imitation of birds during the recreational period. Mrs. Ruth Lung of Butler township, was in charge of the recreational hour.

Miss Hazel Stimman of Jackson township, candidate for the Harvest Queen Contest, was in St. Joe Tuesday lookin gafter her interests in the contest and calling on friends.

Mr. Douglas Kepler of South Whitley, Ind., spent Monday in the L. W. Yeiser home. Mr. Kepler was an employe of The News until a few weeks ago, a paper owned by Mr. Yeiser a few years ago.

ELECTRIC EYE

Chester, Ill.—Gate Captain Harry Russel demontsrates a part of the detector which will be used on all visitors at Menard Prison when the new electric eye is completed. The device held in the captain's hand is passed over the visitor's body, causing a bell to ring if any metal object, even though it be no larger than a 10-penny nail, is concealed on the person. After this search is completed, the visitor must pass through a doorway where similar apparatus executes a second electrical search. A third check is given if the visitor carries any form of a parcel or brief case. The latter must be placed on a table in the searching room, and by means of the bell signal they also are searched. Watches, belt buckles and other forms of jewelry, all of which would cause the bell to ring, are checked in the entrance building before the visitor is subjected to the search.

JOSEPH RUBINSON

PRESS FREEDOM

Sen. Arthur Capptr recently introduced in congress a bill which provides that "no reporter connected with any newspaper shall be compelled to disclose the source of any information confidential in nature, except treason, obtained by him for publication in such newspaper." It is, in plain words, intended to protect the freedom of the press and to stifle a certain type of jack-leg politician who seeks to protect injustice, corruption and efficiency by muzzling the nation's newspapers through courts whose judges are just as corruptible. How many of the newspaper readers want a newspaper that doesn't print the news, or one that remains silent when graft or crime or political treachery threatens the people? America has always enjoyed a free press, and a free press has helped to make America great. Senator Capper deserves the praise of all decent Americans for offering a measure of this kind. The criticism of citizens cannot hurt him.

THE PAROLE LAW

No doubt everyone in St. Joe understands that "life imprisonment" no longer means imprisonment for life. They should also know that there isn't a state in the union with sensible and protective parole laws on its statute books. Today, in any state, it is possible for a prisoner sentenced to life imprisonment to gain his liberty after serving a few years. As a result there has been turned loose on the country in the past few years a horde of criminals capable of any crime in the calendar. If honestly administered in the interest of the public, parole laws can be made to serve a good purpose. In the hands of designing, power-seeking politicians, however, they can be a meance to human welfare. It has reached that point, judging by the number of crimes now being committed by paroled men, and the cry from the people for reform of all parole laws should not go unashamed.

AS TRUE AS GOSPEL

If self-preservation is the first law of nature then the second one should be the preservation of home-town institutions. Take care of yourself first, and then take care of the things that belong to you. Your churches, your schools, every local institution of any kind, has a direct bearing on the welfare of the entire community. You go to church here—or ought to—you send your children to school here, you make your money here, then here is the place to spend it, that these institutions, your institutions, may benefit. Residents of some other city or town are not going to send their money here to build up and maintain your institutions—then why send your money to other cities or towns to maintain theirs? You would fight to protect your own life. Why not fight to protect the life of institutions that serve you. The most effective and sensible way to conduct such a fight is to spend your money right here where you make it.

THE GREAT FILIBUSTER — — —

A Good Fight to Preserve American Liberty.—By Walter Lippman.

Having been defeated in the first attempt to pack the Federal courts, the Administration is now confronting us with another scheme to achieve its ends in another way. The original bill would have given the President the power to appoint six justices of the Supreme Court immediately; the proposed "compromise" gives him the power to appoint three judges within the next six months—one in place of Mr. Justice Van Devanter one supplementary judge for 1937 and one for 1938. It would give him the power to appoint at least four judges within eighteen months and more if there are resignations or deaths.

This new scheme differs from the first one only in that Mr. Roosevelt cannot pack the court immediately; he must be satisfied to pack it a little more slowly. But he is given authority to pack it, and to make himself the virtual master of the judiciary before the end of his present term.

This is in no sense of the word an honest compromise, and at bottom the new proposal is as devious and as deceptive as its predecessor. On the pretense that age is a disqualification, this new bill provides a device for the seizure of the court. Its object is to compel the court to express the will of the executive. It seeks to accomplish a fundamental change in the basic law of the land by the act of a bare legislative majority. It violates the platform on which that majority was elected. And it deprives the American peopel of their sovereign right to pass upon the constitutional structure of their government.

The new scheme is entirely unacceptable and must be resisted to the bitter end.

The principle at stake and the procedure of the Administration do not merely justify a filibuster; they call for a filibuster. The Senators who are in the opposition should have no qualms whatsoever in proclaiming to the American people that they will employ every parliamentary rule at their disposal to prevent this bill from being enacted in this Congress and to prevent the confirmation of any judges who might be appointed under it. They should tell the people plainly that they intend to abstruct this measure in order to give the voters a chance to pass upon it. They should declare as plainly and emphatically as they can that they will conduct a filibuster in order to preserve for the people their sovereign right to settle the issue.

In taking this stand their moral position will be impregnable. This Congress has no mandate to pack the courts or to tamper with the Constitution and the courts. On the contrary, it was elected on he understanding, and after express assurances in the platform and explicit guaranties from acknowledged spokesmen, that nothing of this sort would be attempted. In conducting a filibuster to prevent this Congress from violating their promises, the Senators will merely be faithful to their pledges and loyal to the principles of Democratic government. They will be fighting against a brazen attempt to violate a pledge and against a devious attempt to circumvent Democratic precodure.

Let them have no fears about the capacity of the American people to understand the reasons for the filibuster. Let there be nothing shamefaced or apologetic about the filibuster. They are confronted with an attempt to change the constitutional balance of the government by usurpation; they are confronted with a completely arbitrary use of power to drive a reluctant Congress to violate its pledges and to degrade its conscience. They need have no fear that if they stand firm and fight boldly that the people will not see that it is patriotic to obstruct faithlessness and that it is noble to resist usurpation.

The sponsors of this proposal have been routed in debate and they refuse to submit the issue to the judgment of the people. They are proposing to use money, patronage, and party discipline to settle the issue. To fight that, to stand up and refuse to let this thing be done, to obstruct, delay, and oppose this invasion, is in the highest degree honorable, and those who have a part in the fight will take their places in the company of the gallant men who have established our liberties and have preserved them.

The issue is very simple. Nothing must be done by legislative act of this Congress which in any degree grants to the President extraordinary powers over the Federal judiciary. On that there can be no compromise. There is ample room for accommodation on any kind of constitutional amendment. For amendments are submitted to the people. But this Congress, having no mandate from the people to tamper with the courts, being under pledges diametrically opposed to attempts to impair the independence of the courts, must not be permitted to impair that independence by any device whatsoever.

to good reason has ever been alleged why this measure must pass now. The powers of the Federal government have been greatly extended; they are ample for any legislation that this Congress will really wish to enact. There is no objection to the obstruction of a filibuster. There are no measures held up by it that urgently need to be passed.

So on moral grounds and on practical grounds it can be said of the opposition Senators that their principle is fundamental, that their cause is just, and that they are about to fight a good fight for the preservation of American liberties.

SOCIALISM PROGRESSES

Every taxpayer must help pay for the government's ventures into electric power production. And every city is in potential danger of losing industries and population because of the unfair advantages government-owned, tax-subsidized, tax-financed plants possess.

For example, a manufacturer has announced that he will move his factory from East St. Louis to Eastern Tennessee, in order to get cheaper electricity. Commenting on this, the St. Charles, Missouri, Cosmos-Monitor said: "The TVA has been created through government subsidy. The taxpayers' funds are being used to 'bait' industry to locate in this area to the detriment and expense of other manufacturing areas.

How can the city of St. Charles compete against such government competition?"

If government can use the money of all the people to give a certain area preferred electric rates, it can use the money of all the people to give an area cheaper transportation, cheaper food, cheaper land—cheaper anything. There is no difference in principle between government in the power business and government in the clothing or any other business in competition with every businessman and taxpayer.

It's easy to see what the extension of such a socialistic policy will produce. Other communities will demand that government give them "cheap" power. Then the politicians can spend more billions to cover the whole country with tax-subsidized plants. This may seem absurd—but a bill is now pending in Congress to create seven more regional electric authorities of the TVA order.

THE POST OFFICE WON'T "TAKE SIDES?"

At the present time, the government is in the power business on a wide scale. It is proposed that this scale be immensely broadened in the future, with government plants operating in every section of the country.

In view of the government's action, through the post office department, in recent strikes, possible results of this are interesting and important.

The post office refused to deliver parcel post packages addressed to workers within a picketed steel plant on the grounds that it would not "take sides" in an industrial dispute. Suppose the government likewise supplied the electric power to such plants. With the mail precedent in view, could it

Peiping, China—Continued clashes between Japanese and Chinese troops around this section were accompanied by an increase in tension in the city. The Japanese Army was disposing its forces strategically and sending many reinforcements into this area. Here is a typical war scene with the Twenty-Ninth Army of the Chinese brigade repelling a Nipponese attack. Note the men on the extreme left and right ready to toss hand grenades in their efforts to stop the Japanese charge.

not decline to deliver current? By supplying electricity it would enable men at work to continue at work and would be definitely "taking sides."

There is nothing far fetched in this. For the first time in our history, the post office has refused to deliver mail when it was possible to do so. Electric power is today the sole source of energy in the great bulk of industries of all kinds—without power, all operations automatically come to a stop. If the post office feels that the delivery of mail to a strike-bound plant shows prejudice in favor of one side, certainly the delivery of power would show prejudice to a far greater extent.

This little incident shows the staggering amount of control over all our lives and industries achieved by government when it controls and operates basic industries and services. Let government go far enough into business, and it will become the decisive factor in differences of all kinds, with the power to make or break any industry, any movement, any enterprise.

BALTZ FAMILY REUNION

The Baltz Family Reunion met in their twentieth annual reunion at the home of Mrs. Dora Shifler near Harlan, with forty-one members present.

The usual picnic dinner was served, after which a business meeting was held. Officers for next reunion are, Frank Baltz, president; Libbie Knisely, vice president, Mary Landin, secretary and treasurer.

A very unique entertainment by Vincent Cook, who piloting a Silver Wing from the sky, slowly circling his plane above the old farm home and stately maples, which was the home of the bird-boy's great grandparents, then soon was lost in the distance as he returned to Paul Baer airport, but in an incredibly short time returned to the family reunion. The Miss Mary Helen and Ruth Zimmerman sang and Ollie Knisely, Sally and James Richard Beerbower gave recitations.

It was decided to hold the next reunion at Ollie Knisely's home. Those present were: Mrs. Libbie Knisely, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cook, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Moffet, Mrs. Jesise E. Sommers, Mrs. Dora Shifler, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Knisely, Mr. Frank Baltz, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Haifley, Williard Repp, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Beerbower, Mr. and Mrs. Williard Nulf, Mrs. Henry Landin.

Misses Mary Helen and Ruth Zimmerman, Mary Landin, Marcella and Elisabeth Knisely, Esther Dunkel, Joan Haifley, Sally Beerbower, Carolyn Nulf, Messrs Ray Knisely, Claude Landin, Vincent Cook, Owen Haifley, Richard and Kenneth Knisely, Richard Melchi, Lee Shifler, Richard Beerbower and Gene Lopshire.

LIMBERLOST CAMPS IN MID-SEASON ACTIVITY

The first half of the camp season is completed and the second half well begun with a great deal of accomplishment in the background and a definite program outlined for the next month culminating in the performance of "Martha" scheduled for mid-August. The band has developed with great strides and will play in Constantine, Michigan, and in Three Rivers in early August.

LaGrange County Methodists will travel to the Limberlost Camps on Oliver Lake at LaGrange this coming Sunday, July 25 to hold their regular morning service, the Reverend Kendall preaching. The service is planned for 11 o'clock and the visitors are invited to bring picnic dinners and stay at the camp for the afternoon concert when the band and the orchestra will play.

Jack Wainwright, president and founder of the Camps, and director of music at South Side High School in Fort Wayne, conducted the band at last Sunday's concert and there was a large audience to enjoy the one-act play presented by the drama group under the direction of Donald Van Arsdale. In the evening there was a group of dance numbers, preceded by a tabloid lecture on the art of the dance by Jessie Cameron, Head of the Dance Department, music, and a talk on radio, broadcasting by Stanley North of Chicago, Director of Publicity at the Camps.

The public is invited to the regular Sunday afternoon concerts always held in the grove at 3 P. M. Fast Time.

AUBURN LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

Furnished by
Ward Jackman, Sec.-Treas.

Receipts totaled nearly one hundred head over last week with prices generally lower in all departments.

Hogs: 175 to 200, $11.50. 125 to 140, $10.80 to $11.25. Fat sows, $9.80 to $9.95. Stags, $6.60 to $8.50. Boars up to $6.60. There were no top hogs on sale but order buyers were in a position to pay up to $12.75 for weights from 250 to 275.

Calves: Liberal receipts of calves brought a top of $10.60 with seconds selling at $9.00 to $9.70. This was approximately one dollar per cwt. lower than a week ago which is in line with the decline reported by terminal markets. There was a brisk demand and deacon calves did not seem to perticipate in the decline.

Lambs made a top of $10.50 and one lot of fat ewes changed hands at $5 per cwt.

Cattle: Grass and grain steers $7.50 to $8.75. Heifers of like quality $5.60 to $7.75. Best offerings of fat cows $5.00 to $6.70. The poorest canners at $3.10 with anything showing a little better quality at $4.50 up. The top bull brought $6.60 with the bulk selling at $6.00 to $6.40.

LICENSED AUTOMOBILES ARE GREATLY ON INCREASE

Indianapolis, July 21—There were 97,278 more licensed drivers and 73,346 more licensed vehicles in Indiana on July 1 this year than at the same time last year, Frank Finney, State Motor Vehicle Commissioner, announced today.

From the beginning of the license sales period, December 10, 1936, to July 1, the Motor Vehicles Bureau issued 939,283 license plates as compared to 865,937 for a similar period last year.

A total of 1,129,505 chauffeurs' and operators' licenses were issued by July 1 this year as compared to 1,032,227 for July 1, 1936.

Receipts of the Bureau for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1937, increased more than $777,839.40 over the previous year. Because weight tax figures for 1936 represented a year and a half's collections and only a year for the 1937 report, the exact increase in revenue could not be determined.

Receipts for the 1935-36 fiscal year amounted to $9,341,582.03 and $10,119,421.43 for 1936-37.

Licenses for passenger vehicles jumped from 698,589 to 745,459, an increase of 55,870. Truck licenses gained from 116,569 to 122,702, an increase of 6133.

New car titles, an index of buying power, showed an increase of 14,773, for a total of 113,776 issued. Used car titles increased 22,313 for a total of 204,607. License transfers increased 16,511.

Other increases were: trailer, 8184; tractor, 761; semi-trailer, 537; house car, 935 (no plates were sold until April, 1937;) motorcycle, 578; dealer, 243; bus, 92; and transport operator, 13 (no plates were sold until April, 1937.)

Oprators' licenses issued by July 1 totalled 952,894, as compared to 876,791, an increase of 76,103. Chauffeurs' licenses totalled 176,611, as compared to 155,436, an increase of 21,175.

Receipts for the fiscal year were:

Road fund (from license plates) $8,269,681.41.
Theft fund (from titles) $326,110.25.
Drivers' License Fund, $512,937.85.
Motor Police Fund (from transfers) $446,383.01.
Weight Tax Fund: $563,948.91.
Auto List Fund, $360.00.
Total, $10,119,421.43.

Various committees have been appointed and it is hoped a permanent organization can be effected.

PASTOR ACCUSED OF MURDER

Pittsfield, Mo.—The Rev. C. E. Newton, pastor of the Paris, Mo., Baptist Church for 13 years, under arrest here charged with the murder of Mrs. Dennis Kelly, whose body was found in the Mississippi River, Newton's wife, who had established an alibi for her husband, later admitted that he had left home the night of the murder and did not return home until morning. The pastor's adopted daughter also told police that Newton had giver her, to keep for him, $1930, which, police say, was drawn from the bank by Mrs. Kelly the day she met her death.

TO CUT WPA ROLL IN INDIANA SOON

An additional 6,000 men will be dropped from Indiana WPA rolls between now and Oct. 15, and local men are beginning to wonder on whose neck the ax will fall.

At the present time approximately 47,000 persons are on WPA rolls, following the dropping of nearly 8,000 workers last month. During the past week a total of 3,611 persons were discharged, according to the state WPA director.

On June 16, the number of persons employed in the state by the WPA was 54,763. At the peak of the program in March, 1936, approximately 85,000 workers were employed on WPA projects throughout Indiana.

THE BOOM STARTS

Predictions freely made late in the fall that 1937 would witness a great, nation-wide revival of home building are from all reports going to prove true. The country's "doubled up" families are beginning to separate again, moving into apartment houses and every available single and double structure to be had until "For Rent" signs are now as scarce as hen's teeth. This is not true of just a few sections of the country it is nation-wide in its scope.

When it is remembered that comparatively few new homes were built in this country between 1930 and 1935, the housing shortage can be understood. Today, with most families able to maintain their own residences instead of living cramped up with another family in a single house, and with the natural increase for more homes caused by marriages, the supply is far short of the demand. And it is going to take a real building boom, lasting for several years, to catch up with that demand.

"This nation-wide home building revival should be taken as a warning by residents of St. Joe and surrounding territory who have long been planning, but postponing, the erection of a home. It means that lumber, hardware, labor and everything else entering into construction work are going to cost more later on. Rents are going up everywhere and so is material. Even a week's delay in starting to build is sure to add to the cost. The boom is going to be a big thing for the whole country, no doubt of that, but it is going to be rough on the fellows who keep putting it off and who do not start until prices of building material have reached their peak.

DISTRIBUTION OF REPLACEMENT TAX FUNDS

Distribution of $42,750.00 in gross income tax funds to DeKalb county schools last week completed a total of $96,545.99 received by schools of the county from intangibles, excise and gross income taxes during the past school year, according to figures tabulated by the State Gross Income Tax Division.

Of the total distributed during the year from the three replacement taxes adopted by the state in 1933, the gross income tax ammounted for $85,500.00, the intangibles tax $6,164.95, and the liquor or excise tax $4,881.04.

To raise by property taxation the amount distributed from these three sources to help finance local school expenses during the year, a property tax levy of 36 cents on each hundred dollars of valuation would have been necessary, the division's statement said.

The gross income tax distribution this year was based on $500 for each teaching unit, a unit being composed of 35 grade school pupils or 25 high school pupils.

It was pointed out by Charles A. Jackson, director of the division, that under a law adopted by the recent Legislature, the distribution of gross income tax funds will be increased next year to $700 a unit. DeKalb county, with approximately 171 teaching units, will receive about $119,700, or an increase of 40 per cent over this year, in addition to amounts from the intangibles and excise taxes.

The old oaken bucket and pump as well...
you need an ELECTRIC WATER SYSTEM
FOR centuries, women on farms had to bend their backs as they pumped water from wells whose fame was sung by poets sitting at ease. Today, the modern farmer's wife sings the praises of an ELECtric Water System which assures running water at the turn of a tap. It is estimated that 150 gallons a day may be used in the bathroom alone by the farm family. Then there are the kitchen and laundry needs. Each cow needs 25 gallons of water a day and horses should have 15 gallons of water a day, each. 100 chickens consume 2½ gallons a day. Irrigation and fire-fighting are two of the other vitally important needs for ELECtrically pumped water.
37 TONS of water a year must be pumped and carried to the kitchen alone for the average family.

ST. JOE BOY BURNED BY AN EXPLOSION

"Bud" Shuff was badly burned, while his chum, Ned Keller, escaped burns but was badly frightened, when a can of stove polish exploded, being set on fire by the boys at the city dump, Monday evening.

Bud was badly burned on his face and arms. He ran a half mile to his home and when it was learned what had happened, Wilbur Yelser hurriedly used the tanic acid spray that is a part of the fire company first aid kit, and this relieved the burns, so that the lad became easier. He was taken to the Sanders Hospital at Auburn where his injuries were cared for.

Besides his burns, Bud is minus some hair. A spot about two inches across, and as bare as his hand, is located on his forehead, signifying that something really did happen more than his burns.

All can be thankful that the injuries did not prove fatal.

TO PATRONS ON ST. JOE RURAL ROUTE

In order to render direct service to a greater number of Patrons on the route, without increasing mileage, the Post Office Department has directed that the Rural Route be amended effective August 1, 1937.

Those being directly effected by the change have been notified by the Postmaster. Patrons North and West will receive their mail one and one-half hour later and those South and East one and one-half hour earlier from this date. M. E. STORER.

HELD FOR LEAVING SCENE OF ACCIDENT

Albert L. Ginther of Fort Wayne, has been summoned to appear in the DeKalb circuit court Thursday on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

The affidavit, prepared by Prosecuting Attorney Wm. H. Husselman, was signed by Walter O. Parks, also a Fort Wayne resident. The summons was served by Deputy Sheriff C. M. Minnich.

This is the first time the law involved has been invoked in DeKalb county. Automobiles operated by Ginther and Parks collided on State Road 327 about five miles North of Garrett the night of July 17 and both were damaged. The road is under repair and was rough. It is said that Ginther kept on going despite the fact that one of his tires was flattened in the accident. Parks turned around and chased him and caught up with him within a short distance..

The affidavit alleges that Ginther failed to stop, did not offer assistance, did not give the owner of the damaged property his name or address and did not furnish the license number of his car.

Parks was accompanied by his wife. The names of other witnesses endorsed on the affidavit are Walter L. Clark and Joel Treesh, who live near the scene of the collision.

The New Kinsey Funeral Car

Delivery was made Friday of the new Studebaker funeral car to Mrs. Mayola Kinsey, making her equipment possibly the best in this section of Indiana. The new car is pictured above is exceptionally striking in design and is finished in Burgundy colored upholstering.

Twin flower trays; trim drapes are artistically arranged over all rear compartment windows, except partition window. Polished aluminum name plates bearing owner's name are mounted on each rear side door. Two comfortable chairs are fastened to floor when used as an ambulance. Nothing has been forgotten in this modern funeral car. You will have to see it in order to appreciate its beauty.

FALLS FROM LOAD OF HAY

Henry C. Hathaway, of East of Kendallville, entered Lakeside Hospital for treatment after falling last Tuesday from a load of hay at the Ivor Leins farm, now owned by Mr. Hathaway. Following the fall of seven feet, it was thought his injuries were of a minor nature. Complaining of severe pain, he was taken to the hospital on Thursday morning by ambulance. Hospital attaches report that no fractured bones have been found. —Later developments reveal that his neck has been cracked and that it has been placed in a cast. Friends here are sorry for such a misfortune.

MORE GIRLS ENTERING HARVEST QUEEN CONTEST

The girls participating in the Harvest Queen Contest will not be selected by popular applause but through capable judges. The following features will be taken into consideration in naming the Queen, both in the local and final contests: Personality, poise, grace and beauty (not popularity.) Of course, they must be the first, second or third in the number of votes sold in order to be eligible to compete in the naming of Miss St. Joe; the judges will select from the three contestants or the town she represents.

The age limit has been lowered to 16 years, and this may make it possible to have more girls in the contest. Miss Edith Stewart has filed her application and is working already.

In another column of The News will be given the full itinery of the journey. Read this and see whether there are girls here in the Tri-Townships that ought to be eligible for such a trip and then send the entry blank to us at once, taking it from this issue of The News.

In the local elimination, remember that the competition is confined to the township only, and that the standing of any candidate outside has no bearing whatever. After the local selection has been made, then the candidates will be in the final race, which culminates in the big free trip for the contestants selected.

You can help your local entrants by subscribing for The News and giving them the credits allowed.

Girls In The Race

From St. Joe—Miss Edith Stewart.

From Jackson township there are: Hazel Stimman, Rhoda Lou Carper, June Provines, Elenor Hawver and Miss Lawhead.

From Newville township: Misses Esther Richards, Anna Richards, Wilma Blackwell, Leitha Mae Hook, and Florence Thomas.

Consult your Township Chairman for full particulars.

Concord, Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick.
Spencer, Mrs. Zona Abel.
Newville, Mrs. Ross Tustison.

As The News circulates in the Tri-Townships, we are enxious that each one of the Township Chairmen will avail themselves of this assistance, and that the candidates will also do their best to win from their territory. miration.

We are publishing a coupon on which may be written the name of a girl whom you judge to be lovely. Watch the paper and send yours in after filling it out. Secure, if possible, the consent of the young lady whom you desire to nominate as a candidate in the "Harvest Queen Contest."

Free voting coupons will appear in each issue of The S. Joe News. Have your friends clip these coupons for you, each coupon will entitle you to 5 votes.

Each new subscription to The St. Joe News will entitle the contestant to 300 free votes; if you know of any one not taking The St. Joe News get their subscription and earn 300 votes.

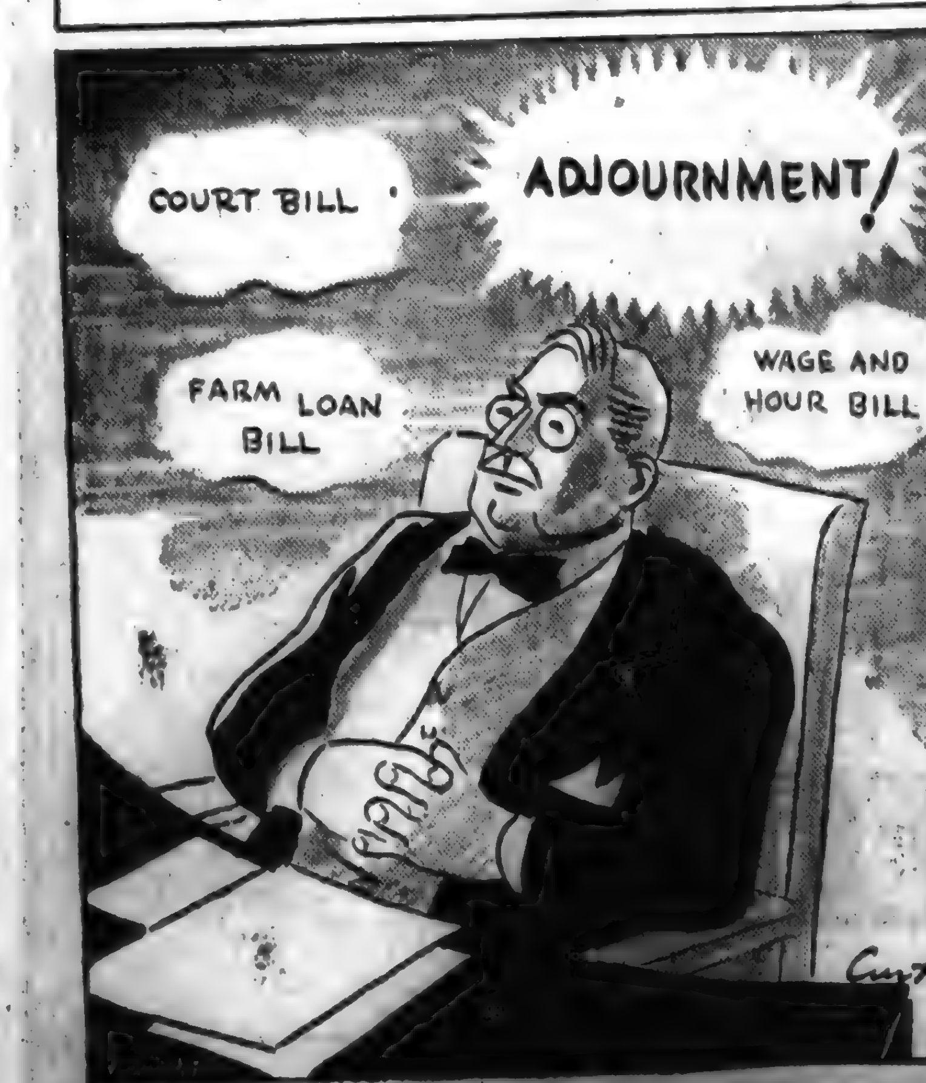
Conqress—A Penny for Your Thoughts



Only 5 out of each 100 men, on reaching the age of 65 or more, have incomes sufficient for them to retire in decent comfort. The rest must continue to work, or subsist on charity or the bounty of relatives. Here is the strongest possible argument for savings and investment plans, such as those provided by life insurance, whose purpose is to assure old age security. Nothing is more pitiable than dependent old people. The tragic lessons of millions whose plight cannot be remedied speaks louder than anything else for systematic saving.

Over in Germany a man gets three months in jail for criticizing Mr. Hitler adversely. Taking former President Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt together, if we had laws similar to those of the Fatherland, there would be nobody left to put everybody in the jug.

Miss Earhart has been taken off the front pages of the papers and it is highly probable that she will be seen no more until the great day on which the sea gives up its dead. As an aftermath of the disaster, there is talk about the amount of money spent in an attempt to rescue her. Outside of condemnation, those who do their best and fail, get little or no attention, as a general rule. Regardless of whether or not Miss Earhart acted wisely, did those things which she ought not to have done, or left undone those things which she should have done, it is refreshing to note that the world departed from its usual custom and accorded such recognition as it could to a courageous if not altogether successful endeavor.

Japan and China are at it again. Their differences have been so numerous and of so frequent occurrence that perhaps it would be more correct to state that they are "still" at it. China has been a little slow in getting into action, but if her large population is taken into consideration, one cannot escape the conclusion that when she reaches the point where she can cut loose, there will be something doing. The tribes in the forests of middle Europe were not strictly up to date, but when they got ready to move on ancient Rome it was all off with the Caesars. Japan seems to be able to have her way with China, but the future may make it plain that what now looks like safe aggressive conquest really amounts to the dangerous practice known as monkeying with the buzz saw.

Notwithstanding the fact that the families of Miss Dupont and young Mr. Roosevelt do not pull together in the same harness, according to common report, the persons mentioned got married a few weeks ago, and enough time has passed for the general public to forget the matter. The noble army of prophets of disaster have made a careful note of the circumstances, however, and if all does not happen to go well, a year, five years or ten, will not be too long to wait to say: "I told you so."

THE FLOOD CONTOL MYTH

It is becoming increasingly evident that lumping power development with flood control, as is done in governmental hydro-electric projects, is economically and scientifically wrong.

From the engineering standpoint, a dam that is suitable for steady power production is next to useless for flood control. A power dam must be kept full of water, in order to maintain the flow that produces energy. A flood control dam must be kept empty, in order that it may be instantly ready to receive and hold excessive run-off in time of flood.

The camouflage of flood control serves a political purpose. It enables officials to write oc a large part of the cost of power development to "flood control," and make the "power" investment appear much less than it really is. It thus makes it possible to show figures on operating and investment cost that are misleading.

But that doesn't help a community in time of flood. Nor does it help the taxpayers, who are putting up hundreds of millions to pay for the dams. It doesn't help the investors in the private utility industry, who see their savings endangered. It doesn't help private enterprise, which is becoming increasingly chary of investing its money in productive enterprise, for fear of excessive governmental regulation and competition which will make profits impossible.

It has been proposed that legislation be passed whereby flood control will be divorced from power production in the Federal projects. If such a bill became law, the people would have a chance to find out the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth about he real cost of the government ventures. Under present conditions, the facts can be buried deep beneath evasion and camouflage.

THE GOSPEL TRUTH

Speaking before an audience in New York City recently Clayton Rand, famous advertising expert, uttered these words of truth and wisdom:

"There is nothing in print that has fireside appeal, influence or pulling power like the home-town newspaper. In the aggregate it is the greatest power in America. The first line of American defense is our army of 14,000 home-town newspapers, and if the nation endures it will be because these home-town papers were kept strong, and because in any hour of peril they can be depended upon to carry the word of warning to the people that the enemy is within our gates. While the metropolitan press is still the great reflector of public thought and opinion, the cross-roads press of America is still the motor of it, and still America's greatest safeguard against enemies both within and without her boundary lines."

USING SIGNALS

National safety experts in convention at Chicago recently expressed the belief that a large proportion of auto accidents could be prevented if drivers would adhere more strictly to the use of hand-signals. The system of hand-signalling is no doubt familiar to every motorist in St. Joe. If he is not acquainted with their use and meaning then he has no business driving a car. The same holds true with those who are familiar with hand signals but who still refuse to use them. The man behind can't read your mind. He has no means of knowing what you intend to do unless you signal that intention. If you make a turn or sudden stop without first indicating your intention by a hand signal, then you are to blame for the serious results that are likely to follow. Use hand signals all the time, wherever you are driving. It is, the safety experts say, your greatest protection.

WORTHLESS BONDS

With money circulating more freely than for a half-dozen years and many Americans again seeking methods of investing their savings, the foreign securities markets are said to be once more attracting attention. Evidently there is no truth in the old assertion that "a burned child dreads the fire." For there were certainly plenty of people in this country burned on foreign securities a few years previous to 1929. Obviously there is nothing that can be done to prevent people from buying foreign bonds if they wish to do so. It is their money they are investing, and if they want to risk losing it, that's their lookout. Insofar as the people of St. Joe and surrounding territory are concerned, however, money is not yet plentiful enough to chance a single dollar of it in foreign securities. Uncle Sam's securieies are still good, and the man who isn't satisfied with the interest they pay deserves to be stung.

YOUR DOG

After all, the most unselfish, patient and forgiving thing in the world is your dog. Humans usually lack the virtue of forgiveness. Most of them carry a grudge for years. But your dog carries no grudges against you, no matter how often you punish him. When it comes to loyalty, you haven't a human friend who will stick to you as closely as your dog. Whether you have lost your last penny or made a million dollars; whether you are in rags or dressed in the height of fashion, it's all the same to your dog.

With these facts generally admitted, a suggestion as to the proper treatment of your dog during the heated season is most timely. From now until cooler weather arrives around the first of September dogs need and must have a constant supply of drinking water. Lack of it in hot weather, it is generally agreed, produces rabies and causes dogs to "go mad." When in that condition their bite is exceedingly dangerous. Infections arising from the bite of a dog suffering with rabies is difficult to combat and, especially with children, often proves fatal.

During the hot days every dog owner around St. Joe should see to it that water is kept constantly where their dogs can get it when they want it. It is your best protection against losing your dog, and also against the serious results that may arise if he is seized with an attack of rabies.

PASSING OUT

It isn't hard for older citizens of St. Joe to recall the predictions made about the time the auto appeared that the new method of transportation spelled the doom of the horse. Happily, that prediction did not come true. For a good many years the horse remained in demand as a beast of burden, and the price of horseflesh showed no decline.

Now, however, comes a horse and mule census that throws new light on the subject. It shows the number of farm animals is rapidly decreasing and reveals that if this continues it will be but a few years until the horse and mule have passed almost completely out of the picture. The number of horses in the U. S., the census shows, dropped from 16,401,000 in 1925 to 11,858,000 in 1935, a brief ten-year period. The cause is attributed not to the passenger auto, as old-timers predicted, but to the modern motorized machinery that is constantly finding its way to farming sections of every state in the union.

As time goes on this will become more noticable. Whether it will be economical or not, and whether it is cause for regret or satisfaction is not easily said, without fear of starting an argument. But the fact remains, all arguments to the contrary, that horses and mules are passing out of the picture in this country and that the trend toward motorization of all kinds of farm machinery is fast pushing the noble old animals closer to the soap factories and the fertilizer plants.

A legal notice being given by Frank E. Rhodes, trustee of Spencer township, shows that plans are under way to provide a gymnasium for the township. A petition signed by a large group of taxpayers was filed with the trustee that a building be erected or bought for the purpose and the advisory board determined to issue bonds. Thirty days time is given by law for the filing of remonstrances. The legal notice appears in this issue of The News.

Ten more Indiana WPA projects have been approved by Washington officials, John K. Jennings, State WPA Administrator, announced at Indianapolis, Saturday. Federal funds allotted for the projects total $89,552. However, there is no assurance that the projects will be completed, Jennings said, because of constant reductions in the number of WPA workers available. The projects probably will be held in reserve until manpower and funds are forthcoming, Jennings indicated

PIED TYPE

Press hour arrived and forms were being put to bed. Then "it" happened. A thing that all printers have heard about, but few unlucky enough to witness. Bringing the second form, the editor's hand slipped just as he got to the press. The sickening noise of falling metal followed by the awe-stricken silence of the three who had labored faithfully to bring the news of the week to the subscribers of The Trimble Democrat, Bedford, Kentucky. The editor is shown grieving over the remains.

NEW WRITER FOR THIS PAPER THIS JO SERRA—WHO IS HE?

(Jo, Himself, Tells Us)

The St. Joe News with this issue begins publication of a brand new weekly feature, "The Low Down from Hickory Grove," by Jo Serra. We have been looking Jo over the last few weeks and like the way he says things and believe our readers will thank us for the privilege of reading Jo's homely philosophy, even if they might not always agree with him.

We asked Jo to tell us something about his own history or record or whatever he might call it, and he sent us the following:

"The boss says to me, Jo, he says, maybe somebody will happen to have a little time on their hands, and will pick up the paper and maybe read one of your writings so it might not be a bad idea if we told 'em something about where you come from and who you are and why, and etc. So I says sure, I'll tell you everything. I like to please people, so if the boss or anybody else wants to read what I'm goin' to say, why, doggone, I'll feel good about it.

"I reckon, I'd ought to kinda' start in and tell you where I was born, so I'll tell you. I was raised there on a farm in Illinois—wore boots and waded mud to Hickory Grove school in the winter time and had a slick time all summer goin' barefooted.

"And then when I got up around 15 or so, my father and mother, they says, maybe we'd better get this here sapling into town and get him used to the street cars. And they did. But gee whiz, you don't learn anything listenin' to street cars and never will, so all I know now is what I learned before I was 15.

"Well, after awhile I nosied out there through Texas and California and then to Kansas, and before I woke up, I was married to one of those gals out there in Topeka. Then I had to really go to work. You know though, I gota' admit that I wouldn't even got to first base if it hadn't been for this here gal. Here's how it happened. I got to scribblin' stuff around on the backs of envelopes and places and one day the Mrs. she picked up one of these goofy things and didn't have anything else to do, so she run 'er off on the typewriter. Mrs. Jo is a slick typist, and also a slick cook, too.

"Well, this stuff she copied got printed some place, somehow or other and then she hunted up another old envelope with my writin' on, and copied it too. That's how this stuff got started. So, any headway I've made, well, the credit belongs to this here Kansas gal. Any guy that wants to write, all he's gota do, is just get himself a wife who's a steno and can read writin' that you can't read yourself after it's cold, and you are all set.

Now, since you all know everything about me, I'd be plumb tickled to have you all write and tell me about yourself too, just like I been tellin' everything about my own self. But before I finish up, I want to tell you about my politics. My mother she was one of these here Republicans just like my grandfather, and my father, he was from Indiana, so of course he was a burnt-in-the-cork Democrat. Then, this gal that I married out there in Topeka, and I still have her, and two boys too and a daughter-in-law, this gal was a Populist.

"So I'm kind of a merger or something or a blend maybe—kind of a Democrat-Populist-Republican hybrid, as you might say. So if any of yon can figure out what my politics might be, I wish you'd write me about that too, 'cause I'm kinda' up a tree myself.

"Yours, with the low-down,

JO SERRA."

JOHN SCOTT PASSES AWAY AT AVILLA

John Scott, a retired carpenter residing at 602 South Indiana Avenue, Auburn, died Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Old People's Home at Avilla. He was 78 years of age.

Mr. Scott had been at the home since last Thursday. He had been in feeble health for a number of years, afflicted with heart trouble.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Gayle Rugman of Auburn and Mrs. Ethel Wineland of St. Joe. A brother, William Scott, resided with the deceased. Two sisters live at Spencerville. There are two grandsons.

The funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock (DST) on Thursday afternoon from the late residence. Dr. Manfred C. Wright, pastor of the First M. E. Church, will officiate and burial will be made in Woodlawn Cemetery.

PLANS ARE MADE FOR 1937 FREE FALL FAIR

A meeting of all department heads of the DeKalb County Fair Association was held Monday evening at the county agent's office. Rules and budgets were revised for the 1937 fair.

An estimated budget of approximately $1,500 was allowed to pay premiums and judges in all departments. Some extra classes were added to a few of the departments. The vegetable department will have a farm display that will create enthusiasm. The flower show, under the leadership of William Sheeley, was added to the horticultural display and will arouse much interest in the people visiting this department.

AMERICANS WON'T GROW IN ROWS

Many of the resettlement projects launched by the Federal government, aimed toward rehabilitating supposedly unhappy people in straitened circumstances, have gone far astray of their original altruistic objectives. Real American citizens do not wish to be regimented on model farms, or in neatly arranged flats and apartments as if they were a pack of rabbits. Dyed in the wool Americans would rather live in a tin hut down by the railroad tracks than to be ensconsed in a barracks-like dwelling, the very completeness and detached coldness of which would sweep away the last vestiges of personality and individuality.

France distinguishes her politicians by placing them on the Right or Left wing of a party. Here we simply term them Right or Wrong.

Nothing Puny About This Trio

While triplets and twins usually do not weigh over 5 pounds these three young ladies born to Mrs. Carl Lorik near Forest City, Iowa, July 8th, named Darline Mae, Dollie, and Donna Lou, weighed 7½ lbs., 7 lbs., and 6½ lbs., respectively. The Loriks have three other children.

In the Good Old Summer Time

CULTURE CLUB

The Mid-summer meeting of the Culture Club was very pleasantly entertained at the home of an honorary member, Mrs. Clayton Wyatt in Fort Wayne.

The program for the coming year was read and accepted. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Neva Hursh and Mrs. Pluma Hamilton, served brick ice cream, wafers, lemonade and iced tea.

There were twenty-one present including one guest, Mrs. Jennie Andress.

INDIANA'S DEATH RATE SHOWS DECREASE FOR 1937

A significant decrease in Indiana's death rate for the first six months of this year as compared to the same period in 1936 was reported today by Dr. Verne K. Harvey, State Health Director.

Most important reductions in the drop from 21,349 deaths in 1936 to 20,745 this year were in tuberculosis pneumonia, diphtheria, typhoid, maternal deaths from child birth and cancer, Dr. Harvey said.

Pneumonia fatalities dropped from 2272 to 2138, due largely to advances in the sicentific treatment of the disease by specific serum, the health director said. Modern medical science has learned to take sputum from a pneumonia case, analyze it and order a specific serum for the type case.

Tuberculosis showed a decrease from 859 to 847, which Dr. Harvey attributed to education and scientific progress in treatment of the disease. The tuberculosis mortality rate has been going down for the past few years.

A wider knowledge of immunization contributed to 178 per cent reduction in diphtheria fatalities, which dropped from 64 to 23. Education and publicity on cancer are factors in the reduction of deaths from that disease from 1870 to 1804, Dr. Harvey said.

Although typhoid fever epidemics usually rage after floods, Indiana's typhoid fatalities for the first half of 1937 were limited to seven, an 85 per cent reduction. Dr. Harvey said this was a result of the careful and thorough sanitation work in the flood zone.

Maternal deaths from child birth decreased from 128 in 1936 to 98 this year following the trend of the last few years. Dr. Harvey believes that better economic conditions enabling mothers to obtain scientific medical care is largely responsible for this decrease.

Influenza, whooping cough, and measles are cycle diseases which struck again this year, resulting in increases. Compairson figures are: influenza 1936, 734; 1937, 940; whooping cough, 29, 80; measles, 4, 10.

While all accident deaths decreased from 1423 to 1326, auto fatalities rose from 541 to 630.

Other deaths reported for the first half of this year are: smallpox, 8, an increase; scarlet fever, 76 reduction; diarrhea under two years, 82, increase; suicidal, 286, increase; homicidal, 73, reduction; goiter, 73, reduction; syphilis, 116, increase.

The number of births decreased slightly from 23,836 to 23,776, a comparison of the two years showed.

SCOUT SCRIBBLES

Four boys from St. Joe spent one week at the Big Island Camp on Sylvan Lake. They were: Frank Curie Jr., Jack Goodwin, James H. Monroe, and Franklyn Sechler.

Curie, Goodwin, and Sechler received Red Arrow awards for personal accomplishment.

All four received Merit Badges in Leathercraft. Scout meetings are being held every other week at Scout Headquarters two miles North of town.

Re-Employment vs. Political Jobs

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

From various sources at Washington and elsewhere, America is hearing reports of increased private employment.

This is a refreshing contrast to the recurrent reports of more and more political jobs which we have grown so accustomed to hearing.

It means much more to the progress, the well-being and the general happiness of the nation. Why?

Because constructive employment, whether in business, in agriculture, in manufacturing, or in any other field, means not only increased production, but—through the earned income of the workers—ability to consume the results of American enterprise. This, in turn, means more jobs, more income for those who hold them, and higher standards of living.

Political job-holding, on the other hand, means only a drain on the worker's earnings, bringing neither him nor his family an adequate return for the cut it takes out of his pay-envelope. It creates neither goods nor real opportunity.

Although encouraging, the employment gain reflected by official figures is not as great nor as swift as the American people could wish. But it is apparent; and many students of the current scene believe it will continue.

Let's hope they are right. Let's hope that nothing is done to divert this progress of re-employment from its natural and promised course. Let's hope that it is permitted to develop into the strong movement which represents normal employment and normal production and normal consumption in America.

Throughout their history, the American people have constituted a nation of productive workers, whether in the field, the office or the shop. Their dominant desire is to resume constructive activities.

In that way, they realize, lie both progress and recovery.

WELFARE BOARD TO BE INCREASED TO SIX

The DeKalb County Board of Public Welfare has received notice from the State Board that it should have four employes by Sept. 1, 1937, and two more by July 1, 1938.

This increase is urged because of extra work forthcoming due to the age limit for beneficiaries is reduced from 70 to 65 years.

The DeKalb County Board was directed to have as members of its staff at this time one director, one senior visitor, one junior visitor and one clerk-stenographer. A junior visitor and a clerk-stenographer are to be added next year. The yearly salaries have been fixed as follows: director, $1,800; senior visitor, $1,200; junior visitor, $900, and clerk-stenographer, $900.

Miss Nora Brown of Butler, is director of the DeKalb County Board, with Miss Marie Baker of Auburn, as senior visitor, Mrs. Allen Sherburn of Waterloo, as junior visitor, and Wilbur Kimmell of Waterloo, as clerk-stenographer.

The County Board considered nineteen cases at a meeting held Friday night. Four new applications for old age assistance were granted and one was rejected. On reinvestigations for age assistance, four increases and one reduction were made, with one award remaining the same. Three deaths were reported and one withdrawal resulted from a reinvestigation. Of five childrens cases considered, three awards were made and two applications were rejected.

NEWSWEEKLY SCRAPBOOK....

Week's Best Recipe

Berry Dumplings—2 cups flour; 4 teaspoons baking powder; ¼ teaspoon salt; 4 tablespoons fat; two thirds cup cold water. Mix flour with baking powder and salt. Cut in fat with knife. Slowly add water until soft dough forms. Pat it out until one-eighth inch thick and cut into eight pieces. Then add cooked berries of any variety you choose.

A Style Hint

Yellow is becomimb more important for summer wear, especially for daytime. A lime yellow is liked for evening, while golden wheat, maize or butterscotch are shades also favored for daytime. Wear yellow accessories to match your dress.

In the Kitchen

If the doughnut cutter is dipped in hot water before cutting out the doughnuts it will not stick.... Remove any of the yolk which gets into the whites when separating eggs with a piece of eggshell. The edges are sharper than a spoon...... When making fruit pies dampen the edge of the pastry with milk instead of water. It holds better and the juice is not so likely to boil over.

The Family Doctor

An excellent cough mixture is made with honey and lemon juice. Violent whooping cough spasms may be relieved and sleep induced if a glass of warm milk is taken, allowing a lump of butter to melt on top.

Worth Knowing

When windows, doors or cabinet drawers stick, rub a piece of laundry soap at the point of friction. If the point where it sticks cannot be reached, as a sticking window, put a little hot lard into the casing...... To remove varnish make a solution of one part caustic soda and three parts lukewarm water. Apply with brush or sponge. Let stand a moment and then scrape off.

Safetygrams

BY FRED W. BRAUN
The Safety Man

Everybody that drives an automobile feels that he or she is a very careful driver. But let me ask you, "Are you a thoughtful driver?" There is a difference between careful and thoughtful.

Most of us operate an automobile mechanically. We drive along crowded thoroughfares, over country roads at considerable speed, thinking of the day's work or some specific problem and pay very little attention to the job at hand—driving. The thoughtful driver dismisses all of his cares, worries, and thoughts and concentrates on the job of driving an automobile. To be a thoughtful driver is to constantly have in mind the possibilities of accidents, watching intersections, traffic lights, pedestrians, and the many other numerous problems that confront the driving public.

If you are a thoughtful driver, you are automatically a careful driver.

VOL. LII. (52 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 5, 1937 NUMBER 31

HARVEST QUEEN CONTEST NOW IS IN FULL SWING

Tri-Township Makes Required Entries After a Struggle. Mr. H. E. Hart, Auburn, Responsible for Entrants

"They're off!" The race for the honor of being the Harvest Queen of the DeKalb County Free Fall Fair has started. Contestants from townships, towns and cities in the county started Monday getting votes for the coveted honor.

The successful girl will reign as Queen during the fair, get a free trip to Washington, D. C., together with a ride by boat down the Potomac River, see all of the historic sights of the National Capital, be received by the President and also receive a beautiful $150 blonde maple 4-piece bedroom suite from the Gerig Furniture Co.

Thrilling? Of course it is. So much so that a large number of girls are going to work hard and their friends are going to boost for them during the next five weeks. On August 25th local eliminations will start and continue in the respective communities of the contestants until September 3. The finals will be held in Auburn on September 8th.

It will not be long until the votes come rolling in. For some time the girls will be kept in suspense, for the voting will not be made public until H. E. Hart, president of the fair gives the word. Then it will be nip and tuck to see who will keep ahead in the race. There is going to be lots of fun and lots of excitement in this contest.

Following is a list of towns, cities and townships, the names of each chairman and the contestants received Monday:

Fairfield township, Mrs. Orlo Deets, chairman. Contestants — Martha Kruegler, Anna Mertz, Caroline Kline and Evelyn Foster.

Richland township, Mrs. Lydia Zumbrum, chairman. Contestants—Conchetti Kuehn, Catherine Drerup, Olivia Metzger and Margaret Meese.

Wilmington township, Mrs. Doris Cline, chairman. Contestants—Maxine David, Harriett Keller, Violette Brunson and DeEtta Nodine.

Jackson township, Mrs. Walter Depew, chairman. Contestants — Hasel Stimman, Rhoda Lou Carper, June Provines, Eliner Hawver and Waneta Sprague.

Union township, Mrs. C. E. McClintock, chairman. Contestants—Roeine Garman, Alta Mae Martin, Dorothy Baughman and Dorothy McClintock.

Concord township, Fred Leighty, chairman. Contestants—Edith Stewart, Annabelle Stewart, Barbara Stroh, Marcella Wiers and Thelma Martin.

Spencer township, Mrs. Zona Abel, chairman. Contestants — Marvella Brattain, Louise Shockley, Doris Furnish and Dorothy Margaret Keller.

Newville township, Mrs. Ross Tustison, chairman. Contestants—Esther Richards, Verna Richards, Wilma Bradwell, Letha Mae Hook and Florence Thomas.

Keyser township, Mrs. John Dannenberg, chairman. Contestants — Gladys Dannenberg, Elsie Yarde, June Downend and Ruth Custer.

Butler town, Mrs. Harry McCleary, chairman. Contestants—Lucille Dick, Annabelle Upp, Annabelle Campbell and Cathlyn Haviland.

Garrett city, Mrs. O. B. Rose, chairman. Contestants—Betty Brown, June Rose Campbell, Virginia Stoner, Helen Jones, Margaret McKinley, Margaret VanDerbosch and Norma Smith.

Auburn city, Mrs. Jack Olinger, chairman. Contestants—Verna Bickel, Jeanne Carmer, Jewel Darling, Catherine Johnson, Betty Lash, Donna Rinehold, Wanita Rinehold, Allene Squires, Marsielle Squires, Ruth Shaffer and Ethel Mae Welch.

Harvest Queen directors are requested to designate one day each week for the contestants to turn in the number of votes and newspaper subscriptions secured as well as the money therefrom. Deposit slips and remittances are to be sent weekly to Harry Casebeer, treasurer of the Harvest Queen Contest, at the City National Bank, Auburn.

Mr. Hart also asks that directors send a weekly standing of votes secured by the contestants in the various communities to Frank Nicolai at the Evening Star office in Auburn.

Mr. Hart issued the following statement Saturday regarding the contest:

"Inasmuch as this contest is the first one of the kind ever attempted in DeKalb county, we must be governed by our experience as we go along. Changes must be made to suit the individual situations as problems arise.

"Gossip, criticism and jealousies will arise. Most of these conditions will not be based upon facts. Just bear in mind that any changes made are done for the general good of the contest.

"The queen contest division of the fair and the fair itself are not the smooth running organizations we want to attain but we are always working to make a bigger and better organization and eventually through the unselfish efforts of cooperation, petty jealousies will have been forgotten and DeKalb county will be a better place in which to live as a result of the DeKalb County Fair."

AUXILIARY NOTES

Please Notice: Regular Auxiliary meeting will be held on Monday nite, August 9 at 8 o'clock D. S. T., instead of on Tuesday night, Aug. 10.

Fifteen units in the 4th District attended the District Convention held in the Methodist Church in Albion, Thursday, July 29.

District President, Mrs. Kate Zinn, presided at this meeting. She was also elected delegate to the National Convention to be held in New York in September. Mrs. Nellie Plattner, of Auburn, President elect, was chosen as alternate delegate.

Reports of interest given at the meeting included an expenditure in the district of $2,051.57 for rehabilitation work, $1,858.59 for child welfare, $226.63 Knightstown Home and $27 as a contribution toward buying the Knightstown Home Organ.

Following the business meeting a beautiful and impressive memorial service for all deceased members of the past year was conducted by the Albion Unit.

The next District Meeting will be held in Decatur. The exact date to be announced later.

The Walter Whitehurst Unit was represented by Mrs. Clark F. Scholes, Mrs. Leon Kess, and Mrs. Fred B. Leighty.

Please do not forget, we need old silk stockings or rug rags, (they must be clean.)

We still need games, puzzles, books and magazines for our Knightstown Soldiers and Sailors Orphanage.

ENTERTAIN IN HONOR OF GERALDINE THORNTON

Miss Virginia Shull entertained Thursday night with a party in honor of Miss Geraldine Thornton, of Washington, D. C.

A scavenger hunt was the feature of the evening, and was enjoyed by everyone.

Those in attendance besides the honor guest were Mr. and Mrs. Coral Platter, of Newville; Nell and Pruedell Hallett, of Butler; Jean Myers, of Hicksville; Violett Pfiaummer, Marvella Brattain, and LaNore Laub, of Spencerville, and Enid Curie; Everett Mavis, of Auburn; Richard Emme, of Harlan; Keith Dailey, John Dilley, Dale Collins, Merlin Simanton, Earl Kinsey, Frank and Ned Shull.

SON IS APPOINTED

Horace Meek was appointed by County Clerk Carl Walter Saturday as administrator of the estate of the late Sherman T. Meek, former trustee of Newville township, who died suddenly July 27. The estate consists of $3,500 in personal property and $10,000 in real estate, and the heirs are four children, Horace, John C. and Carence Meek and Luella Hensley, and one grandson, Richard David Meek. The administrator filed $7,500 bond, with his brother, John, as surety. The legal notice appears in this issue of The News.

A GOOD DEFINITION

The Chicago Daily News gives one of the best homely definitions we have ever seen of Communism, Socialism and Fascism: It's this: If you have six cows, Communists take them all, Socialists take three of them, and Fascists let you keep them and feed them but take the milk.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL ITEMS

Franklyn Sechler is at Greenfield, Ind., for a two-weeks vacation.

The Armstrong Reunion will be held in Antwerp, Ohio Park next Sunday.

Sunday, August 15, the closing day of the Chautauqua, the Sunday School lesson for the morning will be given in the form of a lecture by Attorney Vermont Finley.

Dr. Wm. H. Beachler, pastor and lecturer, of New Lebanon, Ohio, will talk in the forenoon on "Man's Quest Through the Ages." The afternoon subject, "Big Game or Sparrows—Which?" The closing sermon in the evening, "If I Were to Resign, Could I be Re-elected?"

Miss Norma Rickerd appears on this program illustrating a familiar hymn by a chalk drawing.

You will want to attend all the programs and enjoy the week.

SHERMAN T. MEEK DIES ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

Sherman T. Meek, aged 68, died last week on Tuesday evening about 7:30, in an ambulance while being taken to hospital at Defiance, for emergency treatment.

Mr. Meek was taken ill Monday afternoon with intestinal flu, which resulted in acute uremic trouble.

By Tuesday afternoon his condition had grown so critical that it was decided necessary to take him to hospital, as he was delirious and was suffering with convulsions.

In consequence a physician and nurse, also the son, Horace Meek, accompanied him in the ambulance.

He grew steadily worse and breathed his last just before reaching the hospital.

Mr. Meek was born near Six Corners and lived in that neighborhood for thirty-four years, then moved to Newville Township, Ind., where he resided the rest of his days.

He was a splendid citizen in all senses of the word, and served as township trustee for eight years, which demonstrates in what high esteem he was held by his fellow citizens.

Mrs. Meek passed away seven years ago.

Surviving are three sons, Horace and Clarence at home, John at Marshall, Mich.; and daughter, Mrs. Luella Hensley of Newville township; two grandchildren; brothers, John Meek of Bryan, and David Meek of Lake George, Ind.; and sister, Mrs. Emily Kline, of Newville township.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 Friday afternoon, at the North Scipio Church, with burial in Six Corners Cemetery.

Robert and Russell Ridgway are out after a tonsil operation last week.

CONCORD TOWNSHIP FACES 82 CENT POOR LEVY

Union township faces a poor relief levy of 91 cents on the $100 valuation for the year 1938 as compared with 35 cents for 1937, a budget being prepared by County Frank E. Lyon discloses.

Close behind is Concord township, with a rate of 82 cents, increased from 39 cents. Other townships will pay drastic increases also. Butler township jumps from 7 to 11 cents; Fairfield from 5 to 17; Franklin from 16 to 33; Jackson from 6 to 12; Richland from 14 to 32; Smithfield from 8 to 17; Spencer from 10 to 14; Stafford from 13 to 21, and Wilmington from 10 to 16.

Keyser township will be favored with a reduction from 50 to 30 cents and Newville will be reduced from 7 to 5 cents, while Troy remains the same at 5 cents.

The changes come about because of an important amendment to the law enacted by the last legislature. Hereafter the trutsees have nothing whatever to do with making poor relief levies. This duty is transferred to the county auditor and by means of the new law the county will no longer advance funds for the townships. The law provides that the auditor this year fix a levy against each township to cover what the township is expected to owe the county Dec. 31, 1937, or what is known as the overdraft; plus what is estimated to be the poor relief cost in 1938 and also the cost for the first half of 1936. Thus a working balance wil be set up. Next year it will be necessary to make a rate only two-thirds of the rate for 1938, less the overdraft.

In fixing the various rates, Mr. Lyon based his estimates of expenditures on the outlay for the first half of 1937. Keyser, Newville, Grant, Troy and Wilmington townships have balances on hand that serve to keep their levies down. These balances are estimated to be the following on Dec. 31 of this year: Keyser, $7,724.02; Newville, $274.38; Grant, $27.08; Troy, $208.01; Wilmington, $759.26. The other townships will owe the county varying sums, ranging up to $18,041 for Union township and $3,961 for Concord township.

The total revenue to be raised for poor relief under the 1937 levies, payable in 1938, follows: Butler township, $1,641; Concord, $10,630; Fairfield, $1,904; Franklin, $3,140; Grant, $4,473; Jackson, $2,034; Keyser, $12,961; Newville, $286; Richland, $5,347; Smithfield, $2,171; Spencer, $1,213; Stafford, $1,701; Troy, $255; Union, $50,584, and Wilmington, $5,383.

TOWN PRANKSTER HAS MUCH FUN THIS WEEK

Chas. Koch, the town's congenial prankster, has had considerable fun the past couple days. Monday evening the U. S. mail was delayed for a couple of hours, and patrons as well as the Postmaster, became concerned as to what was wrong with Raymond Rhodes, the carrier. After his arrival he explained that car trouble was the cause of delay. Chas. spread the news as he returned home that Mr. Rhodes had been held up, and when his inquirers pressed him for the details, he said a swarm of mosquitoes held him up.

His second trick of the week was that George Hart went through the Dills covered bridge on Monday afternoon. This of course brought a ready response from the listener, and Chas. stated that one lady became so excited that he had to tell her that George has a melon patch on the East side of the river and that he went through the bridge to get to his work.

It is strange how people fall for such pranks as Charles pulls off, but he possesses the faculty of maintaining such a serious look on his face which really makes one believe that he is truly serious.

Robert Quance of Auburn, is spending the week in the O. E. Ginther home.

Mrs. Jessie Sommers of Auburn, spent last week visiting here among relatives.

Mrs. Frank Curie visited her three daughters at Hicksville last week a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Mavis of Auburn, called on Mrs. Jennie Sechler Friday evening.

Mrs. Ines Chapman is spending the week with Mrs. Hattie Turnbull, Glen Turnbull, Elnor Monovan and Max Chapman, of Moline, Ill., at Lake James. They will return here for the weekend before leaving for their home at Moline.

TOWN BOARD TO IMPROVE TWO STREETS

1,500 gallons of Bitucote, a 65% asphaltum solution was ordered by the Town Board at their Monday evening session, to be applied on Third Street South and on Fifth Street South. An application of pea gravel is to be applied in the completion of the work.

Should they have any material left the North end of Third and Fourth Streets will be repaired.

A warning was issued to the citizens regarding the dumping of explosives or bottles containing medicine, in the town dump. Cooperation in this matter may save a serious accident in the future.

In an effort to determine whether or not the water works bonds could be sold, if work was to go on, under the W. P. A. grant, the board contacted the H. K. Brown & Co., who had agreed to take the P. W. A. bonds up to $24,000. They declined to take the bonds due to the uncertainty of this class of federal work. Another bond house is being approached before anything further is done regarding the water system.

SUNDAY CLOSES WINONA CHAUTAUQUA SEASON

Sunday, August 8, will be the closing Sunday of the Winona Chautauqua season. The Rev. Henry S. Gehman, D. D., of Princeton Theological Seminary, will be the speaker at the morning service in the Auditorium at 10:30, and at the out-of-doors Hillside service in the early evening at 6:30. The usual band concert will be put on by the Petrie Band Camp at 3 o'clock, with David Hughes, Director of the Elkhart High School Band, as guest conductor. The Hour of Worship in Music under the direction of Miss Katherine Carmichael will follow the Hillside service at 7:45. The comic opera, "The Mikado," will be presented for the second time this season, on Monday evening, August 9; and the concert by the Rink String Quartet, August 10, will close the Chautauqua program for this season. The Rink Quartet, an outstanding musical organiation, is composed of Carl Rink, first violinist, Paul Kahn, second violinist, Harry Perkins, violinist, and Vera Rehberg, cellist.

The 43rd annual Winona Bible Conference follows the chautauqua program, August 11 through 22. Thousands of people gather here each August to listen to the world's greatest preachers and Bible teachers. Speakers of note this year from America and foreign lands include, W. William Scroggie, 38 years of ministry in London, Halifax, and Edinburg; Mark A. Matthews, Minister First Presbyterian Church, Seattle, Washington; Merton S. Rice, Minister Metropolitan Methodist Church, Detroit, Mich.; Arthur J. Moore, Bishop Methodist Episcopal Church, South Africa, China, India, and Japan; Harry Rimmer, Minister First Presbyterian Church, Duluth, Minn., and President Research Science Bureau; and many other of equal prominance. Homer Rhodeheaver will be in charge of the music throughout the Conference. Dr. William E. Biederwolf is director of the Conference.

The Rhodeheaver School of Sacred Music will be held August 16-28. This is a short term school of intense training for leaders of music in their own churches. Classes will be held in voice, organ, piano, etc., by outstanding leaders of music. Entertaining programs are also on the program.

"Golgotha," the greatest tragedy of the Bible, impressivly performed and brilliantly directed, will be shown at Winona Lake on Saturday evening, Augusts 21. A great French cast throughout, but the dialogue throughout is English. The performance of every single member of the necessarily large cast is superbly genuine, radiating not only sincerity of feeling in the cause, but an unusually true representation of the Biblical characters. For the settings, immense sums were spent on reconstruction of the Temple, palaces, walls and battlements of the ancient capital of Israel. Architecturally the film is as instructive as it is impressive. Not even Hollywood has ever been as lavish and painstaking in the presentation of the historic scene.

Expo Aquabelles Smile "Peek-A-Boo"

LUCKY PARASOL! Protecting these pretty young members of the cast of Billy Rose's Aquacade at the Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland from too much gaze is the privilege of these big umbrellas used in one of the acts of the big extravaganza. Of course the big parasol only does its job half-way-to the delight of all! Seen here from left to right in all their loveliness are: Dorothy Stemberg, Rhoda Meek and Betty Foxwell. The Exposition ends in September.

The man who keeps his nose to the grindstone also usually manages to keep it out of other people's business.

Another reason why people are not interested in what you say is because you are not interested yourself.

If a man feels sorry for his wife and she feels sorry for him then they both deserve what they get.

It takes a pretty shiftless sort of man to blame his poverty on the will of Providence.

Proof that a woman is aging comes when a man is nice to her and his wife isn't jealous.

Usually when you find a citizen being reasonable it indicates that he isn't interested in the argument.

You can say one thing for the bandit. When he starts to trim you he doesn't begin by telling you how nice you are.

If you want to be popular let the other fellow describe his pain and then keep your mouth shut about yours.

Another drawback to success is that by the time you are rich enough to sleep late you're so old that you wake up early.

If all the hot dogs consumed on a summer Sunday were laid end to end it would make a lot of bologna.

As we understand it, the rising generation retires about the time the retiring generation is rising.

A Los Angeles botanist is said to have developed a thornless rose, but no motorist ever expects to see the day when some one will invent taxless gasoline.

ROADSIDE BEAUTY

It is a pleasure to learn taht officials and residents in many sections of the country are beginning to realize that roadside decorations are becoming an asset and that the expense of such highway beauty treatments constitutes a fine investment. Now that we are determined to have beauty as well as utility, our roadsides are beginning to look better. Trees, shrubs, flowers and grass are hiding the marks of the shovel and the pick. Wayside parks and picnic places are multiplying. Eyesores are becoming less numerous. Any place that persists in making the best of its surroundings is establishing a reputation for progressiveness that will always stand it in good stead. Any property owner who tries to make the road leading past his place attractive adds much to its value. It costs little to plant trees and shrubs and flowers, and the wisdom of doing so will be reflected in property values in the years on ahead.

Alterations in the federal courts have not been laid aside by Congress, the Senate having received from committee a bill proposing changes in the lower tribunals, those changes being of so technical a nature that they hold little of interest for anyone outside the legal profession. The bill was prepared in short order, less than a week being required to put it in shape. That, however, does not mean that it was hastily considered. During the past months, Congress has given enough study to the subject so that anything relating to courts can be handled almost as a matter of routine. In the measure now up for action, the Supreme Court is left somewhat strictly alone, and if the new plans for court reform give rise to problems, they will not be the ones which threatened to split parties and caused the general public to take the rostrum during the days of warm summer that now has passed middle life.

Speaking of hot days, probably they have something to do with the circumstance that Congress, like a lost child, is calling, "I want to go home." Now and then, it may be remarked, the great legislative body seemed to be troubled with a little of the lost child's confusion, which may have had some part in bringing the homing instinct to the front. Falling back on the words of the poet, all things turn home at eventide. By that time of day, work is done. The desire to lay off is widespread in Congress, but it seems to be accepted that eventide and the finishing of tasks will have to come before a hand can be laid on the cord of the quiting whistle.

Naturally enough, the folks in Arkansas want their full representation in Congress, and are casting about for someone to fill the seat made vacant by the death of Senator Robinson. They have a few local political jobs also that will have to be assumed by someone. One of the aspirants for place in the state government comes from Yell county. That fact ought to help some during the campaign, if the prospective office holder is true to the name of his native soil.

It is proposed to enact a federal statute limiting the number of cars in a freight train. The railroad companies do not like it, and state that it will lead to an increase in freight rates. Incidentally, it will deprive the railroads of good advertising material. If there are three things which, above all other, never fail to attract attention, they are a falling tree, a hole in the ground, and a long freight train.

Japan and China have passed beyond the point where notes are exchanged and have reached the stage where report of "drives" and "smashing defeats" are coming over the wires. Spain still furnishes its share of red hot battle news. The League of Nations, intended to afford a place where large stores of peace were available, up to date of going to press has not delivered the goods precisely in according with specifications. If it is not practical at this time to have a hall of international peace, perhaps it would be possible to set aside an area that could be used when wars had to be pulled off, a sort of international battleground where differences could be settled at arms. In that way much valuable property could be saved and some hard feelings avoided. Generals Sherman and Sheridan, of Civil War fame, were spoken of unkindly, less because they were victors than because the one burned barns and the other cleaned up the supplies in a good growing country.

In the interest of safety, four thousand policemen are distributed along the streets of a city which the King of England must pass. Perhaps Edward may heave a sigh of relief and recall what John Bunyan said about a man who was on his way to the gallows: "There, but for the grace of God, goes John Bunyan."

WATER'S TOLL

In a good many homes around St. Joe parents dread to see the summer season arrive because of the danger from drowning to which children are subjected. They realise that the ordinary youngster does not fully appreciate this danger, and innocently takes chances those of mature years would guard against.

As a rule drownings are uncommon in the ordinary community, so much so that the public is apt to underestimate the death toll when considered from a nation-wide angle. No definite figures are at hand, but it is safe to say that if the average father and mother knew how many are drowned in the U. S. during a single season they would live in still greater dread of summer's arrival each year.

Anyone who cannot swim should never venture into water where he or she is unfamiliar with the bottom, which may suddenly drop off and throw them beyond their depth. And persons who can swim should always be on their guard against diving into water of unknown depth, and against going into a cold lake or stream after violent exercise or a heavy meal. The difference between swimming and bathing as enjoyable exercises, and as dangerous sports, will be found in the one word: Caution! Do not underestimate the danger of water. Its death toll every summer runs into thousands and can only be reduced through extreme carefulness on the part of those who go into it.

A Tragic Anniversary

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Recently the world noted, with a sort of shocked surprise, that the war in Spain had entered upon its second year.

During those tragic twelve months, terrific losses in life have been suffered. During them, whatever freedom the people of Spain may have enjoyed has been grievously threatened.

For into the conflict have entered the rival influences and forces of the two great enemies of individual freedom—Communism and Dictatorship. And whichever of the two may win in the end, the people themselves will lose.

Both those political products of a distraught and frightened Europe are the enemies of that democracy which we of America revere. Both preach the subjection of the individual man and woman to a dominant state or dictator. Both are repugnant to the basic principle on which our own nation was founded.

And whichever side wins faces a hollow victory. America can prove that. So can those other nations where democracy stands secure, and, with it, government dedicated to freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of religion and freedom of opportunity.

While Europe endures the tragic conflict, America celebrates this summer the 150th anniversary of a Constitution which announced the principle that "We, the people," would control our government.

What that principle can mean is demonstrated in our established record of national achievement and individual well-being—a record which no Fascist or Communist state has even remotely approached.

Have you ever examined the extension cords and sockets in your home?

There are few who have not at some time had a shock from fixtures, wires, switches, or appliances. Some even brag that "I don't mind 110 volts."

The only reason that some of us survived the experience is that we were standing on and touching nothing but some dry non-metallic substance not connected to a ground, such as a floor, a rug, or a chair, which was a sufficiently good insulator to protect us from the fatal shock.

We will not always be so fortunate if we remain so careless. Be careful with these extension cords, sockets, and lighting fixtures. It will be well worth your time to make a thorough check of them.

URGE PASSAGE OF CONSERVATION ACT

Resolutions urging passage of the congressional proposal to ear-mark funds for conservation activities in the various states, have been adopted by the State Conservation Committee, Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, was informed today.

Two bills now in Congress—Senate Bill 2670 and House Bill 7681—propose that revenue now being collected by the federal government through a special tax of ten per cent on all sporting arms and ammunition, be distributed to the states to aid their conservation programs. The distribution would be made on the basis of area and number of fishing and hunting licenses sold by each state.

Members of the State Conservation Committee, represent Indiana's 648 organized conservation clubs with more than a hundred and sixty thousand members, and serve in an advisory capacity to the Department of Conservation.

MOTORS are cheaper than muscle!

Three bushels of shelled corn will pay for the electricity to cut and blow 100 tons of ensilage.

MANY farmers still take their farm products to town and exchange them for the things they need. If, in place of using money as a basis of exchange, we go back to the old barter system, it is easy to realize how economical electric power is on the farm. For example, under the system of barter and trade, less than 2 lbs. of hay will pay for the electricity to hoist a ton, and three bushels of shelled corn will pay for the electricity to cut and blow 100 tons of ensilage.

CENTENNIAL DAY AT FAIR SEPTEMBER 29

Parade and Songs by Large Choir to Feature Observance of Establishment of Religion in DeKalb County

Arrangements are going forward for the centennial celebration of religion in DeKalb county—that is, of religion as established here by the white settlers, the Indians having worshipped the Great Spirit before the white man's event.

The date for this observance will be September 29, the Wednesday of Fair week. At 1:30 there will be a street parade of church organizations of the county in which all are invited to participate. Floats featuring outstanding events and accomplishments will be in order for the parade, which will be led by a dramatic representative of the circuit rider preacher. The last of the parade will be a modernly equipped missionary in latest traveling equipment.

Following the parade, the weather permitting, there will be a public meeting at the Northwest corner of the court house square at which a hundred or more voices will sing hymns appropriate to the occasion and at which there will be a short reading of the religious history of the county.

In the evening there will be another meeting at 7:30 at which an additional musical program will be rendered and in which the various choirs of the county will have representative part, to be directed by Mrs. Harold Nugen of Auburn. For this choir service it is urged that all choirs of the county select and have in readiness a number of singers to take part, the time and place of a combined rehearsal to be announced later. On the evening program Dr. Charles H. Smith, of Fort Wayne, a widely known speaker of ability, will give the centennial address.

In the rotunda of the court house space has been generously allotted by the commissioners for a religious exhibit. All religious organizations of the county having relics or interesting things or matter to display will bring them early Wednesday and have someone appointed to have charge of them. Ribbons will be distributed as badges to wear in honor of the centennial day.

Now, while the County Fair is designed to exhibit livestock and harvests, arts and scientific advancement, let us not overlook the major mission of all civilization—the building up of the soul and character of man. Here is one chance in a life time, the chance of a hundred years, for the church to lift to a high place its work and objective in this country. The management of the fair is in most hearty cooperation with this projected event and will give every possible help to make Wednesday of Fair week a memorable religious celebration. The success of this celebration will depend on all the churches and Sunday Schools of the county.

TO ORGANIZE LOCAL MUSICAL GROUP

An Accordion Band, sponsored by the Pearson Co., Inc., is being organized in St. Joe and Spencerville. The study of accordion offers an unusual opportunity to the student of music due to the fact that the instrument itself is easy to master, and consequently, more time can be devoted to the time and expression of music.

As soon as the rudiments are mastered the students are formed into an ensemble, and in a short time the organization can make public appearances, furnishing the music for various occasions locally and for other communities as well.

Mr. Pearson takes great pride in pointing out past achievements with Accordion Bands as well as with Brass Bands and Orchestras.

All possible assistance is given to the students.

Enroll now. Read the Pearsons' ad in this issue of the St. Joe News.

ISSUE SUMMARY OF FISH AND GAME LAWS

A convenient-sized booklet containing a summary of Indiana's fishing, hunting and trapping laws and setting forth open seasons, bag limits, etc., is being distributed by the Division of Fish and Game through county clerks and agents issuing hunting and fishing licenses.

The booklet has the advantage of being printed on paper and with ink that will not be effected by moisture. Listed are the open seasons and bag limits on game fish; migratory and upland game birds; game animals; licenses; permits; mussel regulations, and regulations governing the taking of fish, game animals, upland game birds and migratory birds, and miscellaneous provisions.

Copies of the booklet may be obtained by calling at The News office.

MILK MAID CONTEST AT FAIR THIS YEAR

A milk maid's contest will be one of the features of the Fall Fair this year. This attracted many people last year and was one of the successes of the fair. Entries must be in not later than September 15. George Hart, of St. Joe, is the county chairman for this event.

Last year some of the entries were made too late and it was difficult to provide cows for all of the contestants. This year all who do not enter by the date designated cannot compete as cows will be provided only for those who do enter on time. Each township is requested to have representatives. Each contestant will furnish her own white uniform. Cash prizes for first, second and third place will be given.

PIONEER RESIDENT DIES AT AGE OF 91

Heart Attack Fatal to Mrs. Nancy Cobler, Living West of Concord—Funeral Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. Nancy Catherine Cobler, one of the pioneer residents of DeKalb county were held at the home of John Cobler, west of Concord, at 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon. Rev. Joseph W. Ferguson of East of Auburn officiated and burial was made in the Concord cemetery.

Mrs. Cobler died at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of her son, John Cobler, West of Concord. She had made her home with her son since 1888. The cause of her death was a heart attack on July 26th, at the age of 91 years.

The deceased was born in Jackson township on July 1, 1846. She was married to Hayden Cobler who died in 1881.

There survive four children, Lester Cobler, Henry Cobler, and Mrs. Clara McClellan, all of Auburn and John Cobler. There are five grandchildren, twelve great grandchildren and one great great grandchild.

The fourteenth annual reunion of the Koch Family will be held Sunday, Aug. 15, in Eckhart Park, Auburn. Lelah Byroade, of Hicksville, is the president, and Roy Wade, St. Joe, secretary-treasurer.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS OF ADDITIONAL APPROPRIATIONS

Notice is hereby given to the Taxpayers of Spencer Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, that the proper legal officers of said municipality at their regular meeting place, on the 7th day of September, 1937, will consider the following additional appropriations which said officers consider necessary to meet the extraordinary emergency existing at this time:

AMERICAN LEGION INSTALL

The Post meeting of Walter Whitehurst Post No. 283 American Legion, was held at the home of Commander Clark Scholes, Tuesday evening, Aug. 10th with 25 members being present.

After the routine of business, the officers for 1938 were installed by Past Commander, Roy Reidenbach.

At the close of the meeting, a Dutch lunch was served, and a social hour was enjoyed.

The local Post has gotten off to a flying start on the membership drive for 1938, having a total of 14 paid up members and a quota of 25. We hope to have the full quota of membership cards to hand in at the State Convention in Terre Haute, on Aug. 21st. So, Legionnaires, don't wait for Adjutant Baltz to hunt you up. He will gladly make out your card any time you present him with the necessary dues.

REMOVE PIECE OF CARTRIDGE FROM UNDER EYEBALL

Paul Keller, who was a Fourth of July victim, when his right eye was badly injured by a cartridge, in which a fire cracker was exploded, struck him causing a severe wound. Since that time he has not been able to see. Two different times his eye had swollen and was lanced. ?Saturday he was taken to the Garrett Hospital and an X-ray examination revealed a piece of the cartridge was still under the eyeball.

Paul submitted to having this piece removed and he now is apparently recovering. The exact status of his eyesight cannot be determined as yet.

George Berry, of Richmond, was here for a few days this week visiting his mother and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Philley, of Huntington, were over Saturday night guests of St. Joe relatives, enroute home from a trip into Northern Michigan.

Mrs. Elizabeth Milliman, and Mrs. Viena Rude and daughter, Mary Ellen were in Fort Wayne, Friday. Mrs. Milliman taking supper at the Rude home in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Fay Reichelderfer, of Dayton, Ohio, were over Saturday night guests of Mrs. Mary Bets. They came to attend the Reichelderfer Reunion which was held Sunday at the home of Will Reichelderfer near Harlan.

Chas. Koch, and Dr. C. R. Price, accompanied by their wives, called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hathaway, Sunday, and found him quite cheerful and recovering from a fractured neck.

Perry Haifley, 60, farmer of Allen county, died at the Lutheran Hospital Saturday night from a golter operation after two months illness. He is survived by his widow and three sisters, Mrs. Milton Hursh, Auburn, Mrs. Nettie Oberlin, Butler, and Mrs. Flora Means, St. Joe. Funeral was held from the country home Tuesday afternoon, with burial in Lindenwood Cemetery, Fort Wayne.

MEMBERS OF SECHLER FAMILY OBSERVE 100TH ANNIVERSARY

Reunion Held Sunday at Farm Near St. Joe, where Pioneers First Settled in DeKalb County

The 47th annual reunion of the Sechler family was held at the Merritt Sechler (Benninghoff) farm, near St. Joe, Sunday. The occasion was the 100th anniversary of the migration of the Sechler Family from Eastern Pennsylvania and the reunion was held on the farm which was the place of settlement of the Sechlers on their arrival in Indiana.

At the noon hour a bounteous carry-in dinner was partaken of by 98 members of the family and their guests.

The business part of the meeting was called to order by the president, Merritt Sechler and the following officers were elected to serve the coming year: President, Mrs. Grace Dilley; vice president, Mrs. Avis Staman; secretary, Miss Louise Sechler; treasurer, S. A. Mumaw. It was decided to hold the next reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Dilley, near St. Joe.

The meeting was then turned over to Frank Baltz, of Auburn, who gave a very interesting history of the Sechler family, which he had gathered on a visit to Pennsylvania recently.

The reunion this year was enjoyed by several different branches of the Sechler Family. Those from a distance who attended included: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bond, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Greenawalt and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bond, all of Kempton, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. John Bond, of Steinsville, Pa., Joel Leininger and daughter, Eurana, and Miss Beulah Leininger, of Weatherly, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brodt and son, Charles, and W. C. Brodt, of Marion, Ind.; Mrs. Garce Grosjean and son, Harold, of Fort Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. Milo Sechler, of Grand Rapids, Mich.; and Amos M. Hafer, of St. Louis, Mo.

These visitors from a distance gave interesting talks and the remainder of the afternoon was spent in visiting. At a late hour the relatives returned to their various homes, all expressing their appreciation to the host for a very enjoyable time spent at this 100th anniversary meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hart, of Ecourse, Mich., called at the Rolla Wiers home Saturday afternoon.

Miss Gale Hadsell, of Indianapolis, daughter of M. J. Hadsell, of Peru, visited relatives in the community Sunday and attended the Newville Chautauqua.

Mrs. John Engle was in town Saturday night, the first for the summer, due to her illness caused from heart trouble. She remained in the car and visited friends.

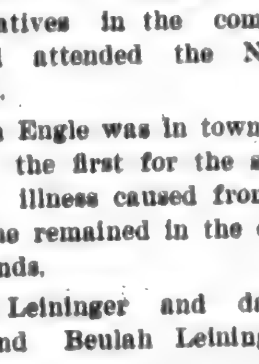
Mr. Joel Leininger and daughter, Eurana and Beulah Leininger of Weatherly, Pa., spent over Sunday night with B. E. Widney and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole.

Roads two miles west of St. Joe are now open to the public, after being black topped last week. Also a mile North past the Leighty orchard was given a like treatment.

Lake Family Reunion is to be held this year in the Lutheran Church basement at Harlan, on Saturday, Sept. 11. New faces of the Lake Family are always welcome.

A. W. Trostel and son, Dale, were at Toledo, Sunday, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Maxwell. Florence Worden returned home with them after working there for some time. Miss Worden resides in Allen county.

THE LOW DOWN from HICKORY GROVE



Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA.

Mamas, and sometimes papas, who think it is correct and hot stuff, to let their 4 year old offspring do just about anything that pops into his head, you know right away that they been readin' a book by maybe some bachelor, on how to raise children.

And when you see this kind of youngster when he or she is 16, and who was allowed to grow up without a halter, they are mostly makin' trouble for their ma and pa, but then it is too late. And when they were around 4 and pokin' hair pins in the clock, and maybe lookin' cute to mama, they are now talkin' back at 16 and tellin' her what is what—and it is not so cute.

And down there in Washington, D. C., they been lettin' the young heads have full rein, and they are takin' the clocks apart and puttin' the wheels in new places. And when we wake up, we will find that things they been doin' are not so cute, and also won't work, and we should have put our foot down sooner, for out there on the front porch, the tax collector will be huntin' our door bell.

Modern girls are far more interested in mending a man's ways than in mending his socks.

A dictionary is a book that tells you how to spell a word, and you can find it if you know how to spell it.

You never know how much a man can remember until he is called on to testify on the witness stand.

A Georgia editor says man is but a worm. He comes along, wiggles a little bit and some chicken gets him.

The two stones most commonly associated with marriage are the diamond and the grindstone.

As a general rule girls no longer marry men for better or worse. They marry them now for more or less.

They say every great invention represents a lot of suffering and work. That is certainly true of the loudspeaker.

One old rule still holds good: Marry a poor girl if you want to settle down and marry a rich one if you want to settle up.

A luxury still consists of something that costs $7.40 to make and about $20 to sell.

Why is it a man will sit in a boat all day waiting to catch a fish and then kick if his wife has dinner ten minutes late?

Women have a keen sense of humor. The more you humor them the better they like it.

With its members looking forward to adjournment, Congress still has the Wage Bill to occupy its thoughts, together with other routine matters. A storm of short duration was raised by the suggetsion that the President might select, during vacation of Congress, a justice of the Supreme Court, to succeed Mr. Van Devanter, retired. Mr. Roosevelt, however, lost no time in making it plain that the appointment would be made while Congress was in session, and the tempest which threatened to spread over a wide area, subsided to the limits of a teapot.

Those in control of such affairs are busy in an attempt to secure a stable dollar. It seems that the result desired cannot depend on the value of the metal in the coin, nor upon attempts to fix the quantity of any commodity that a dollar will buy, or upon efforts to govern the amount of money that is in circulation. In short, the experts do not seem to know just what to do. Not wishing them any hard luck, there is some comfort in the thought that they are just as badly off in that respect as the rest of us. The price of shoes goes up, we tell the boss that we have to have more money to buy shoes, the boss raises our pay and adds the increase to the price of shoes. The dollar and the purchasing power of it race about in a circle, sometimes one and sometimes the other being ahead. To fall back on Major Bowes, 'round she goes and where she stops nobody knows. In the meantime, dollars seem good to have, and the heavy silver disks that stand for one hundred cents are not being used for ship's ballast, nor are the green paper slips carrying George Washington's firm but placid face and the numeral employed as shaving paper to light cigars.

Speaking of shaving paper reminds one that, practically speaking, "there aint no such person." It was a great day for the men when razors could be thrown away instead of shaving paper. Another millenium, and that for the women, will arrive when dishes can go into the garbage pail along with scraps of food, the dish pan, wash rag, and towel having no disturbing part in the life of the home. It may even come about that a soiled suit of clothes can be handed over to the trash collector rather than to the cleaner. It seems as though the field of useful invention includes devising things that can be thrown away, quite as much as figuring out something which will last.

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith is taking an active hand in the election of a mayor in New York City. Concerning Mr. Smith, as of Mr. Bryan, and as of many in either of the chief political parties, it may be said that although they did not attain the victor's glory, they did not reire to the limbo that is supposed to await the unsuccessful, or suffer from the mortification of defeat. The schoolmaster in Goldsmith's Deserted Village is remembered because "e'en though vanquished he could argue still." Politics entirely disclaimed, everyone must admire and respect the man who does not cast off the harness after a long and uneffective pull.

An airship is down, in the Panama region, with no hope for its 11 passengers and crew of 3, all of whom apparently have perished in the sea. Travel by air still remains something of a novelty: at least it is not the most common way of getting from place to place, and death in an airplane accident attracts attention. Railroad wrecks used to be given the same sort of notice, and older men can recall the time when accidental electrocution gave rise to the thought that the commercial use of electricity had too many dangers. Flying is here to stay and the day is not far distant when an air disaster will cause only sorrow for the victims and those who mourn them. Even at present, few consider that a person who elects to go somewhere by air is incurring an unnecessary risk or taking his life in his hands.

Spoiled food is DANGEROUS

In hot weather, children particularly are susceptible to the poisonous effects of food in which there has been excessive bacterial growth. Don't endanger the lives of your family by using inadequate refrigeration methods. Above 50 degrees is the Danger Zone wherein the growth of dangerous bacteria and mold is encouraged.

Electric refrigerators freeze more than twice as fast as other mechanical refrigeration and a constant safety zone of below 50 degrees is always maintained.

"Mechanical Refrigeration" means the production of cold by a machine. With Mechanical Refrigeration, there is no substitute for Electric Power.

64 GIRLS ENTERED NOW

Race for Harvest Queen Now Under Way

Pick a Contestant and Then Do What You Can to HELP HER

RULES OF HARVEST QUEEN COMPETITION

H. E. Hart Announces that Revenue May be Sufficient to Send the Entire Court on Washington Trip

It is quite obvious from the many inquiries received for the information governing the Harvest Queen Contest that in spite of the vast amount of publicity given the contest, many do no know the details governing it.

July 31st was the deadline for "Harvest Queen" entries, therefore no further entries will be permitted.

It was hoped that each city, town and township in our county would be represented, however some townships were unable to get the number of girls required, therefore the entry list closed with nine townships and Garrett, Butler and Auburn in the contest.

Sixty-four cotestants are in the race for the honor of representing their city or township and the possibility of becoming "Harvest Queen."

The contestants as well as the public may secure votes as follows: Newspapers in the county will give each contestant or will credit the contestant whom you designate, a certain number of votes for each subscription (new or renewal) to the Evening Star, Auburn Dispatch, Auburn Courier, Carrett Clipper, St. Joe News and Butler Record-Herald. The only manner of financing this most worthy contest is by the sale of votes at one cent a vote. Votes are printed in coin denominations of 5-10-25-50 and 100 selling for their face value.

The method of selecting one "queen" from each city and township in the contest is positively fair to all contestants and is not based upon the highest number of votes secured. If such was the case the contestant could buy her way to the "queenship."

In order to secure the necessary money to pay the actua expenses of the contest and the numerous activities planned to make this contest stand out as the highlight in the lives of the contestants, it is necessary that the girls sell votes. Each city or township must enter no less than four girls. Three girls from each town or township, represented by those selling the first, second and third highest number of votes will compete for the honor of representing their respective town or township. These three girls in every instance will not be judged upon the number of votes secured but upon the following four points: Poise, grace, beauty and personality, therefore all a contestant need do is to sell enough votes to get into first, second or third place and she has a chance to represent her community. It is naturally expected that each city and township in the contest will do their share in backing their contestat financially. H. E Hart, president of Fair Association, said Monday that if the girls and those in the cities and townships will get behind this contest, not only will the Harvest Queen and 2 maids of honor go to Washington, but it will be quite possible for one girl in each town and township, the queen and her entire court to take the trip. If the majority of citizens in the county would contribute just a few pennies each, it would mean that this very thing would be done and one girl from each city and township in the contest would be able to take a trip which will remain in the minds of these young people as the high spot in their lives.

ST. JOE NEWS.

VOL. LII. (52 YEARS) (In the St. Joe Valley) ST. JOE, DeKALB COUNTY, INDIANA. THURSDAY, AUGUST 19, 1937 NUMBER 33

THE WELFARE BUDGET FOR DEKALB COUNTY

Only a little more than one-fourth of the $44,125,00 expended in the form of monthly cash grants of assistance to the aged, the blind and to dependent children of DeKalb county during the past fiscal year was paid directly from local tax levies, figures kept by the county and state departments of public welfare and federal agencies show.

Public assistance based on individual requirements was granted to approximately 400 needy citizens of the county during the year. Other facts on the 1936-37 welfare program in DeKalb county are as follows:

Old age recipients—number aided, 277; average monthly payment, July, 1936, $8.84; June, 1937, $13.82. Total payments 1936-37 fiscal year, $35,177.

The federal government contributed one-half the aged assistance granted, the state 30 per cent or $10,553.10 and the county $7,035.40 or one-fifth of the total.

Blind recipients—number aided, 14; average monthly payment, July, 1936; $15.75; June, 1937, $16.71. Total payments 1936-37 fiscal year, $1,216.00.

The county bore no share of this cost, the state and federal governments each contributing one-half of the total.

Dependent children aided—number aided, 117; average monthly payment, August, 1936, none, June, 1937, $11.89. Total payments 1936-37 fiscal year, $7,732.

This type assistance was granted in August, 1936, for the first time. The county contributed 27 per cent, the state 40 per cent and the federal government 33 per cent of the cost of this assistance.

The public welfare program for the calendar year 1938 will cost more than in 1937 because it will serve about three times as many needy, handicapped and dependent persons, an analysis of budgets released by the State Department of Public Welfare at Indianapolis reveals.

The total welfare program for 1938 calls for an outlay by federal, state and county governments of about $21,000,000 compared to $14,893,000 spent for welfare in 1937, an increase of $6,024,000. This is reflected in services, which, since 1937, have been extended to twice as many persons as were served at the beginning of 1937 and which, by the middle of 1938, when the minimum age for old age assistance is reduced to 65 years, will reach 92,000 aged, blind, and dependent and crippled children.

LOWEST PUPIL COST IS IN WILMINGTON

Union Township Loses Distinction In New Figures Compiled By County School Superintendent

Wilmington township this year stole from Union township the distinction of achieving the lowest per pupil cost of any of the district schools of DeKalb county in grades 1 to 8 during the last school year, according to the annual financial and statistical report prepared in the office of County Superintendent Carl F. Stallman reveals.

Union had a cost of $39.88 a year ago, but this jumped to $43.43 in the new report, while Wilmington shows only $40.61, a reduction from $47.75, Richland is highest, with $70.56, which is $1.90 under a year ago. Other townships showing reductions are the following, Fairfield, from $52.13 to $50.18; Keyser, from $50.22 to $43.07; Stafford, from $61.69 to $59.96; Troy, from $66.19 to $61.58.

Other increases are reported as follows: Butler township, from $40.01 to $42.76; Jackson, from $46.84 to $48.57; Newville, from $47.41 to $50.28.

The average daily attendance follows: Butler, 107; Fairfield, 117; Franklin, 121, Jackson, 157; Keyser, 205; Newville, 65, Richland, 132; Stafford, 52; Troy, 42; Union, 65, and Wilmington, 165. Butler township thus lost 3 pupils. Fairfield, 1, Franklin, 12, Jackson, 9, Keyser, 28, Newville, 6, Stafford, 4, Troy, 4, Union, 7, and Wilmington increased 15 and Richland remained the same.

In the other three townships reported the cost per pupil for grades 1 to 6 follows: Concord, $60.86, an increase from $51.88; Smithfield, $54.36, a reduction from $58.51; and Spencer, $57.73, an increase from $55.66. The average daily attendance in these townships follows: Concord, 99, Smithfield, 163, Spencer, 73.

Transfer tuition was paid out as follows: Butler township, $3,042.30; Concord, $47.80; Fairfield, $1,849.88; Franklin, $3,304.04; Jackson, $5,889.91; Keyser, $2,317.2r; Newville, $1,781.29; Richland, $1,059.78; Smith-$161.09; Stafford, $1,477.66; Union, $13,516.71; and Wilmington, $5,500. The total is $39,947.77. The outlay for this purpose by Union township more than doubled. Fairfield's cost was nearly cut in two and Richland township paid out less than 40 per cent as much as before. Spencer and Troy townships paid nothing for this purpose. Wilmington cut its expenditure $2,100.

Sources of Income

Revenue receipts of the townships for school purposes during the year aggregated $182,884.53, as follows: local taxation, $120,875.79; common school fund interest, $3,448.68; congressional township fund interest $680.62; depository interest, $145.41; civil township fund, $5,000; county dog fund, $774.92; state school relief, $3,164.06; state vocational allotment, $1,243; state tuition support, $39,175; excise fund, $2,674.88; intangibles stamp tax, $3,631.68; miscellaneous revenue receipts, $2,070.49. Non-revenue receipts amounted to $6,523.59.

Total payments for instruction were $86,000.66; for operation, $34,514.83; maintenance, $7,805.01; fixed charges, $3,918.36; co-ordinate and auxiliary activities, $1,320.98; payments on bonds and loans, $9,050; land, $204.80; new building equipment, $432.18; new instruction equipment, $996.34; new school hacks and busses, $6,934.86; alteration of old buildings, $1,627.88.

The cost of operating school hacks and busses in the various townships follows: Butler, $740.17; Concord, $2,645.58; Fairfield, $1,390.20; Franklin, $861; Jackson, $838.40; Keyser, $1,286.90; Newville, $608; Richland, $2,699.89; Smithfield, $5,513.51; Spencer, $2,486.33; Stafford, $280; Troy, $160; Union, $464.07, and Wilmington, $932.80.

Land owned by the townships is valued at $7,150; buildings, $275,900; equipment, $17,050.

SARAH B. WIDNEY DIES IN LOUISIANA

Sarah Bowerman, the tenth child of Moses Bowerman and Zilpha Haviland, was born in Lenawee County, Michigan, November 24, 1847.

On October 2, 1868 she was married to Chas. W. Widney, of St. Joe, Indiana. To this marriage five children were born, two of whom survive their parents, Clarence L. Widney, of Stamford, Texas, and Ida E. Widney, of Oakdale, Louisiana.

Mrs. Widney was reared in the Society of Friends but after her marriage joined the Methodist Church of which her husband was a member.

Mrs. Widney lived for many years in Louisiana and died at Natchitoches, La., August 7, 1937.

Having lived in Indiana for some years, Mrs. Widney and daughter made their annual visit here to DeKalb county, and occupied their home just West of Concord, for several weeks during the summer, and visited their many friends and relatives.

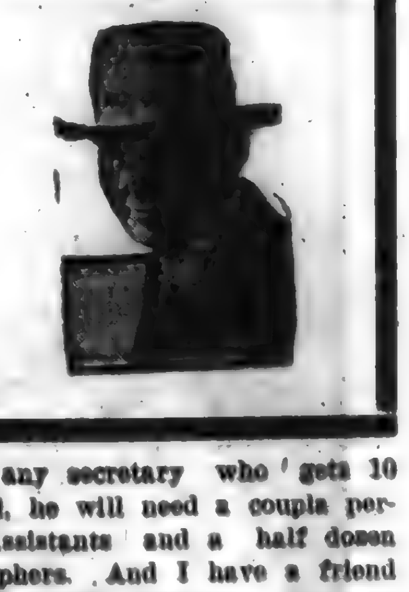
THE LOW DOWN from HICKORY GROVE



A new feature writer joins The News Staff with a bit of weekly fun.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA.

Sometimes I wish I had a secretary or somebody to do my figurin', and maybe show me how I can keep afloat, and also spend more than I make, like Uncle Sambo and other geezers.

And the reason I am thinkin' about such a thing is because I see in the paper where they are gonna hire another flock of secretaries down there on the Potomac. So I reckon the figurin' there ,it must be gettin' heavier and more complicated, 'cause this new bunch of secretaries they are to be 10 thousand dollars a year babies. That is 60 thousand for 6 secretaries.

And any secretary who gets 10 thousand, he will need a coupla personal assistants and a half dozen stenographers. And I have a friend out in Berkeley, California, who runs a Secretaries' College, and if his politics happen to be O. K., I can see how his business will pick up.

And if I owned an acre or a lot down there within 100 miles of Wash., D. C., I would hang onto it, for the time is comin' when they will need more places to build buildings for secretaries.

NIGHT DRIVING

This is the season when night driving is at its height, and a large part of it is being done by vacationists over strange roads and in strange territory. There is always added danger in traveling over a road you are not familiar with, especially at night. That being the case, the advice of a prominent Detroit auto-maker is worth heeding. He says failure to keep headlight bulbs free of dust, and the lamps cleaned and brushed off, reduces the intensity of the headlights from 15 to 55 per cent. Dirty bulbs and failure to keep bulbs in focus serves to scatter the light rays, making it more difficult to see as far or as clearly as if they are kept in perfect order. Here may be a tip that will prevent a bad accident, and since light bulbs cost but a few pennies, and keeping the lenses clean requires but a few moments time, it looks like the kind of advice that every motorist around St. Joe should be glad to act upon.

A TOTAL LOSS

A man who owns a seasonal business but who spends about one hundred dollars a year in advertising says that he has learned one thing from experience that has cost him money, as so much experience does. He says he has learned that advertising money spent for anything else but space in the local newspaper is almost a dead loss. He says he tried other methods which were sold to him by smooth-talking salesmen, but none of them produced results. The difference between newspaper advertising and other advertising, says this man who has learned from experience, is that the newspaper is read carefully by nearly everyone who takes it while other forms of advertising are thrown away without reading. The fact that more money is spent each year for newspaper advertising than all other forms of advertising combined also indicates that if you want to get the most for your advertising money then the newspaper is the medium to spend it with.

THE THERMOMETER

Say what you will, St. Joe citizens who refuse to pay any attention to the thermometer and who walk away when someone begins to make warm weather comparisons are undoubtedly the most comfortable men in the community. The trouble is there are too few of their kind. The average man consults the thermometer and lets it work him into a state of mind where he actually suffers more than he would if he was ignorant of how high it registered. In other words, hot weather is largely a state of mind, just as many people read a medical ad and then imagine they have every symptom described in it. So right now is a good time to study that science called "the power of mind over matter." One way to start is to either throw the thermometer away, or refuse to consult it and see if you are not really more comfortable than you are when you keep a constant eye on it.

MORE EGG MONEY

Housewives around St. Joe who depend upon hens for their pin money as well as those who go at poultry raising on a large scale will be cheered by a new agricultural forecast that good profits are going to result from the sale of chickens and eggs next fall. Food prices probably will decline, the federal experts say, and egg prices will advance in the next few months. There are 15 per cent fewer young chickens in the country at this time than a year ago, and on this they largely base their prediction of better times for those who sell poultry and eggs. In times past it has been found that poultry forecasts made by the department have been correct and conservative, so those who go in for the sale of chickens and eggs will no doubt be justified in taking on a broad smile. It may not be the kind of news the consumer likes to hear, but he will cheerfully accept any reasonable increase in chicken and egg prices because he knows that this kind of money usually stays pretty close to home.

TIME TO END IT

With all due respect to those who have lost their lives in stunt flying, it must by this time be apparent to everyone that this type of unnecessary risk of life should be stopped. If stunts were necessary to further the science of flying it would be different. But the fact that the government some years ago banned stunt flying in army planes indicates that it neither aids science or adds anything to flying skill.

This day in time the average citizen around St. Joe is not interested in feats of dairng in the air. Flying the oceans, looping the earth or setting new speed and endurance records mean little to the ordinary man. But when it becomes necessary, as has been the case quite oftin, to call out whole fleets of ocean-going vessels to search for a lost aviator who was merely flying for notoriety or money, then stunt flying assumes an entirely different meaning. It becomes of public interest then because the thousands of dollars necessary to operate the battleships and cruisers while they are searching for the lost aviator comes out of the pockets of the tax-paying public. The immense sum required to maintain such search could be used in the navy to much better advantage, as the average man views it.

When a circus acrobat does his stunt the government isn't called upon to hold a net under him. So when a stunt flyer strikes out to seek publicity and possibly some easy money he should be warned in advance that Uncle Sam is not going to waste time and money hunting for him in case he takes a tumble or gets lost. If the government would adopt a rule to this effect it would end stunt flying in a hurry.

FARM MONEY

The joyous report of grain experts to the effect that this country has just harvested its first two billion dollar wheat crop since 1920 ought to be received with cheers by those who have long prayed that the American farmer would finally get a "break." If there is a single citizen who cannot find satisfaction in it, then there is something lacking in his makeup.

Timely rains that fell in the midst of a heat wave through the chief corn-growing states also made ideal conditions for that crop, and corn is even more of a crop that wheat. The total value of the country's grain crops for the present season is fixed by the experts at almost $4,000,000,000—the highest in eight years and 13 per cent higher than last year. Their estimated income for all farm products for this season is placed at $10,000,000,000.

When ten billion dollars are dumped into the pockets of the farmers of the nation in a single year it means more than appears on the surface. That vast sum will be spent—not hoarded, nor invested in securities that can do the public no good. With ten billion dollars quickly finding its way into circulation the effect upon business of every description is apparent. Farm money does more than any other kind of money to make good times for not only the farmer but everyone else who has something to sell, or who labors to make something to sell. It is certain to make the coming fall and winter the most prosperous this nation has known for quite a few years.

DANGEROUS AUGUST

While one of the most popular months in the year since it brings vacations for the greatest number of people, and usually a lot of pleasant weather, August is nevertheless recognized as about the most dangerous month in the year from the standpoint of health. It is the month in which it is necessary to guard against overexertion, since heat prostrations are more numerous than at any other time. It is also the month in which extreme care is needed to avoid typhoid and malarial illness, the human system being in condition to contract these ailments more readily in August than it is during the cooler months.

These facts explain why physicians and health officials are always insistent that property owners exert every effort during August to keep their premises free of weeds. They know that weeds contribute more than anything else to the diseases for which the month is noted, and they also know there is less sickness and fewer epidemics in communities where weeds and cess-pools are not permitted to exist. The fly and mosquito get in their heaviest work of carrying disease germs during August. They are thwarted in this only through the elimination of their favorite abiding places—among weeds and about damp spots and cess-pools.

It will not be long now until cooler weather will bring safety from these pests, but do not go unprotected until that time. Cut the weeds about your premises once more, scatter some more lime, and let's make sure that St. Joe and surrounding community will have no August regrets.

THE PRICE OUTLOOK

While St. Joe merchants are not given to making predictions, the belief among them is general that with farm products bringing the highest prices for many years the necessities of life are due to mount in price with the approach of Fall and Winter. Farm products this year will reach the enormous total of ten billion dollars. With all this money finding its way into circulation, it is only natural that price trends are going to be upward. Even now it is rising, and each day sees a slight increase in one or more commodities. Where it will stop or when, nobody knows, and since there is no possible way to avert it the solution would seem to be in buying now everything needed during the Fall and Winter months. Stocking up with necessities at current prices should turn out to be a sensible and profitable investment. It is safe to say there will not be any decline from present prices. The trend will be in the other direction. The ones who buy now for future consumption will, market experts assert, have reason later on to be thankful they did so.

FROM ABOUT ST. JOE

SUPT. STALLMAN ENDORSES "HARVEST QUEEN" CONTEST

Carl F. Stallman, county superintendent of schools, has written the following letter to H. E. Hart, president of the DeKalb County Fair, endorsing the "Harvest Queen" contest:

"It has been a pleasure to watch the growing interest in the 'Harvest Queen' contest. The directors of the Free Fall Fair are to be congratulated on sponsoring such a worth while project.

"The Eastern tour, which is to be the reward of the winners, is well worth striving for. The trip includes a visit to many points of scenic and historical interest.

"I believe that the girls who win will feel themselves well repaid for their efforts."

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Draggoo had as Sunday dinner guests Mrs. Mary Bartlett, of Fort Wayne, Mrs. Sam Openlander, of Sherwood, Ohio, Patricia Perry, of Kalamazoo, Mich., and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Leighty. Mrs. Openlander and Patricia remained for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Caskey and two children, of Fostoria, O., and Mr. and Mrs. Ben H. Jones and two daughters, of Fort Wayne, were guests of St. Joe relatives the first of the week. Albert stated that he has quit the electric work and is working in the foundry as a welder.

Additional awards made at the annual 4-H Club exhibit for DeKalb county, held in Auburn last week-end, include the following: Star camper, Eilner Hawver, Jackson township; Purdue Round-Up, Florence Thomas, Newville township; and Carol Reed of Spencer township, the best secretary's record book.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Leighty, Mrs. Sam Openlander, Patricia Perry and Mrs. L. J. Draggoo, were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Leighty, of Chicago, who are now at Hamilton Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Leighty have sold their home in Chicago and after September will be located at the Lake permanently.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kessler entertained at six o'clock dinner Monday evening, in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Hubert Smith and sons, of Caldwell, Ohio, who are spending their vacation in this vicinity, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ulm and four sons, of Butler, Clare Ulm, of Fort Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Scholes and Ralph E. Lannen.

DeLoss Crooks, of Waterloo, was the high ranking individual among 144 contestants in the Junior Guernsey judging contest held Thursday at Huntington. Robert Jennings, of Butler, ranked fourth. In competition among thirty-six teams, the judging team from Garrett stood second. They just missed first place by four points. This team is coached by Paul Bateman, Vocational Teacher, and is composed of Joe Kearns, John Haynes and Delbert Danenberg. The Waterloo team, coached by A. J. Smith, Vocational Teacher, stood fourth. DeLoss Crooks, Cleo Cobbs and Hugh Deetz were on this team. The team from the Butler high school, coached by Albert Berg, Vocational Teacher, stood eighth in the contest. Twenty-three DeKalb County boys participated in the contest.

Traffic moves faster at slow speeds, Traffic Capt. Lewis Johnson said at Indianapolis, and he brought out charts to prove it. "Our studies show that at 23.5 miles an hour more cars can be moved past a given point within an hour than at any other speed," the captain said. The reason is, according to Johnson's charts, that at that speed only 33 feet is needed between cars to insure safety and 2,600 cars can be moved. At 25 miles an hour, 37 feet is the safe distance between vehicles, which cuts down to 2,595 the number of cars that can pass a point in an hour. The higher the speed, the more space needed between automobiles for safety. "We are moving more cars through the city, even in the downtown area, under the 20 and 30-mile-an-hour limit than we have previously and with much greater safety," Captain Johnson declared.

The Safety Man

Saturday and Sunday take the lead in the number of accidents by automobiles. The week-end congestion of traffic, especially on highways and on crowded city streets, is responsible for this record. People are anxious to get out of the city on Saturday and in their hurry frequently forget the safe practices and common sense rules. In hurrying home on Sunday night, carelessness again overtakes them and as a result more accidents are reported.

It is a fine thing to have week-end picnics and camping parties. Let us not mar these outings by being careless in our driving habits, but let us pay special attention to the rules of the road and continue to enjoy to enjoy these pleasures.

Remember, you are not a good driver unless you are a safe driver!

What is your conduct at filling stations while having your car refilled? Do you smoke? Do you allow others to smoke?

Fires from this cause have been controlled during the last few years. Station attendants have politely asked drivers to stop smoking. That is as it should be.

Fumes from gasoline are dangerous. Sparks, matches, hot ashes, and the like, might suddenly cause an explosion and a serious fire. Lives might even be sacrificed.

Always put out that cigarette or cigar. A pipe should not be smoked in a car, as the ashes cannot be controlled.

Prevent these fires, accidents, and suffering. Do not smoke at filling stations.

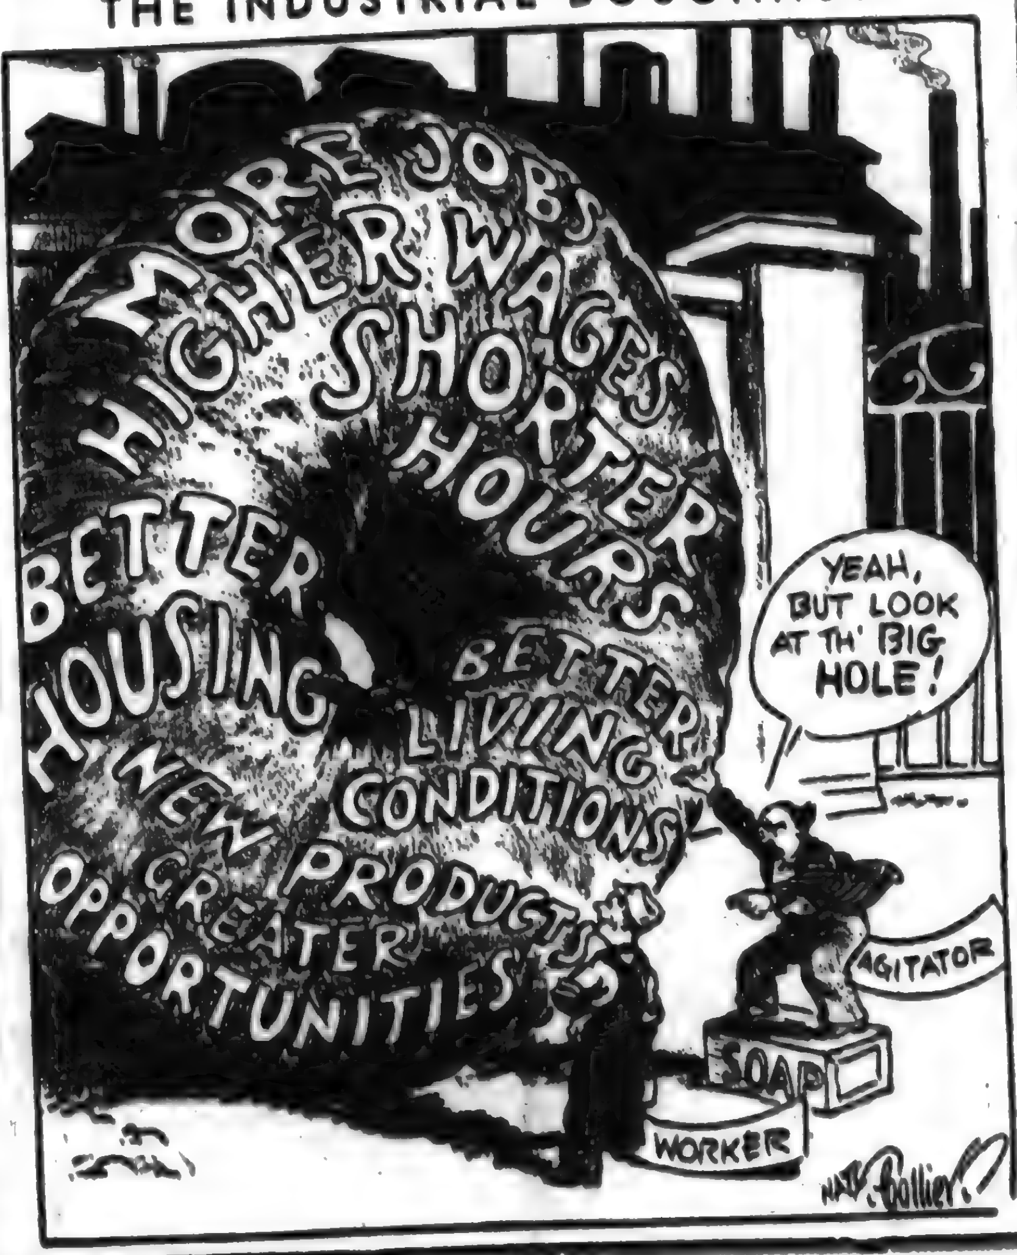
THE INDUSTRIAL DOUGHNUT



MISS CONCORD TOWNSHIP SELECTED FRIDAY EVENING

Who will be known as Miss Concord Township no one knows, but Friday evening this decision will be announced at the Court Theatre, Auburn, where the judges will select the Township representative for two others, Newville and Jackson.

All the friends of the contestants will want to be there and boost for them.

Spencer, Richland and Fairfield Townships were called to the Court Theatre on Wednesday evening, the results of which will be announced next week.

The followig rules were issued Friday for the Harvest Queen contest in DeKalb County by Mrs. Fanny Boger, of Auburn, president of the DeKalb County Home Bureau:

1. Age—Contestant must have reached her 16th birthday by Sept. 1, except in those cases where the president of the contest saw fit to lower the age in order to get the quota number of contestants; but where the parents did not object. She shall not have passed her 25th birthday.

2. Character

(a) Contestant must be of good moral character, in so far as the sponsoring agency and the persons connected with the contest know.

(b) Contest must never have been married nor married at the present time.

3. Local Eliminations

Local directors shall arrange their local eliminations and secure their own judges. They should endeavor to advertise their local contest in the best way possible.

4. Wearing Apparel

County and local—In order to protect the girl who is not so well off financially, it has been decided to make the dress of the contestants in both local and county eliminations as uniform as possible. The dress must be a simple afternoon dress of cotton or synthetic fiber. Elaborate evening gowns are definitely out.

5. In all events the decisions of the judges will be final.

6. To all those concerned:

In the event that some may feel that this contest has not been conducted fairly and on the up and up, the sponsoring agency, the DeKalb County Home Bureau Clubs wish to beg your indulgence. If unfairess has existed they have been totally unaware of the fact—all they can do now is hope that each and every girl is crowned the queen and that the coronation week will be a grand gala affair, crowded to running over with people visualising one of the most beautiful events ever sponsored in their DeKalb County.

MISS ETHEL SMITH SPEAKS TO MISSIONARY GROUP

The August meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Lutheran Church was held at the home of Mrs. Hulda Reasoner.

For the lesson period, Miss Ethel Smith, a granddaughter of Mrs. Dilley, who is doing Home Missionary work in Detroit, told of her work and gave the ladies an insight in that kind of work in the cities.

This was very interesting and given by one whose heart is in this for the betterment of the Christian work. It was a help and benefit to all present.

Miss Mary Ann Quance, of Auburn, is visiting in St. Joe this week.

Leighty Orchard Vinegar from cider made in 1935 is the best you can get for your pickles. Now on sale at the orchard, Goldsmith's and at Walter Baker's, Spencerville. 33tf.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO HOLD PICNIC SERVICES

The young people of the Sunday Schools of DeKalb County, will meet at the Dills Grove, 1 mile South of St. Joe, next Sunday evening at from 5:30 to 6:30, C. S. T. This is the annual Vesper Service, providing a program of inspiration in the out-of-doors.

Be there 10 minutes before starting time. Rev. Mitchell will give the adderss.

Teachers and leaders are asked to join this group in this evening meeting.

SAYS METHODISTS TO UNITE AND DROP WORD EPISCOPAL

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, of the Chicago area of the Northern Methodist Episcopal Church, said this week completion of constitutional processes in that branch of the church leading to its unification with the Southern and Methodist Protestant divisions had been assured.

The vote, as recorded officially thus far, the Bishop said, showed a 17-to-2 ratio in favor of unification.

Unity of the three branches of Methodism is expected in 1940, when constitutional processes in each church will be completed. The new church, Bishop Waldorf said, will drop the "Episcopal" from its name and will become America's largest Portestant Church, with more than 8,000,000 members.

TWO SONS OF CHESTER LOUCKS IN HOSPITAL

Scudder Loucks is in the St. Joseph Hospital where he was operated upon Friday evening for appendicitis. He works for Roy Keller and was enroute to Ft. Wayne when take sick. He stopped at the Sunoco Station operated by Roy Keller and telephoned to St. Joe for his father to come.

Mr. Loucks was taken at once by Paul Perry and after considerable searching he was located in the hospital. Going to the South Side Market they learned that the police emergency ambulance had taken him away, going to police headquarters they learned that he was in the hospital, soon to be operated upon. Last word is that the boy is getting along fine.

Saturday morning Harry Loucks was taken to Defiance Hospital and there submitted to an operation for removal of a tumor. He is also getting along fine. Harry is a truck driver on the W. P. A. work of the county.

SOME LOCAL BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. Milo Provines and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Draggoo, spent Sunday at the Fort Wayne Speedway.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Woodcox and son, of near Garrett, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Woodcox.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Yoder and sons, Eddie Gene and Arthur, and Gloria K. Carper were here from Lansing, Mich., Saturday, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Means.

County Auditor Frank E. Lyon, County Commissioners Cleve H. Grube and Arthur Grube and Clark Scholes, county highway supervisor, left Monday for a few days fishing trip to Lake Emerson, Mich. They were joined Tuesday by Commissioner W. H. Brecbill and L. E. Houser, of the county highway department.

CONCORD FARMER ASKS INJUNCTION IN FENCE DISPUTE

An injunction in a line fence dispute is sought by W. Jay Snyder in a complaint filed in the DeKalb circuit court Tuesday against Howard W. Krise and A. W. Trostel, Trustee of Concord Township.

A partition fence 160 rods in length separates lands of the plaintiff and the defendant Krise. The plaintiff says that on Aug. 2 he was notified by the Trustee to build or rebuild the West one-half of the fence. However, he states for that many years he has maintained the East half of the fence, while the defendant Krise has maintained the West half. He states that he used special fencing and is willing to do the work on the East half. Unless the defendants are enjoined from repairing the East half he declares he will be irreparably damaged.

The plaintiff is represented by L. H. Dunten and Ralph W. Bogardus of Ft. Wayne.

CURIE REUNION HELD AT GRABILL SUNDAY

The seventh annual reunion of the Christian Curie Family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Klopfenstein, near Grabill on August 22. At the noon hour a delightful dinner was served to 38 members of the organization present. This was followed by a business session, Mrs. Cora Curie, presiding.

The officers elected for 1938 were Morris Curie, president; DeLora Curie, vice president; Mrs. Eva Koch, secretary and treasurer; program committee, Mrs. Mildred Curie, Mrs. Grace Koch and Chas. Koch.

The reunion for next year will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Jump at Hicksville.

The rest of the afternoon was spent in visiting and renewing acquaintances. Late in the day all departed to their homes desirous of meeting again in August, 1938.

Blackstone, now cast into the discard as a teacher of aspirants to legal fame, said that a court is a place where justice is judicially administered. To most persons it is a place where one has to go now and then, against his will, for an unpleasant and often unsatisfactory experience. Despite the fact that courts are regarded as something of a nuisance, the ways whereof are not understood by those most vitally concerned, the Supreme Court issue probably has attracted more attention from the general public than any other matter that Congress has considered during the present session.

It is not out of order, therefore, to note that Mr. Hugo L. Black has been raised by the Senate to the place on the Supreme Bench made vacant by the retirement of Mr. Van Devanter. Threats of a rift between the executive and legislative branches over his appointment vanished into thin air, to the satisfaction of the party in power, and possibly to the chagrin of others: all of which simply is set down as an incident of the day, without comment or expression of personal opinion.

The individual is likely to feel somewhat disturbed when he finds that he is in the hole. It is not so with a government presided over by an administration which is Democratic or Republican, ruled by king, prince or potentate, located on the American continent, in Europe or on the sands of Africa. A government can roll over in bed for another nap and let the clock tick off the amount to be paid. So it happens that the U. S. A. is not out of the usual run in reminding Congress that about a hundred million dollars are needed at this time, nor is the House doing more than ordinary routine work in making the appropriation. A public debt seems to bear about the same relation to a country that a house where George Washington tarried over night does to a small town. No well regulated area should be without one.

The line has to be drawn somewhere, nevertheless, and Capitol Hill has put down its foot, for the time being, on a half-million dollar expenditure to set going the construction of a memorial to Thomas Jefferson. One wonders how Thomas would have voted on the proposition if he were here in the flesh and the memorial were to be erected to perpetuate the name of someone else. It would be interesting, likewise, to know whether or not he really wants the building to go forward in his own honor. The bare suggestion that so much money be spent for the purpose proposed indicates that Mr. Jefferson has not been forgotten, nor is he likely to be, even though Congress should conclude to close the purse with a definite and final snap.

Shakespeare said: " 'Tis death to me to be be at enmity." Enmity continues to hold no terrors for the Spanish, and the Chinese and Japanese rapidly are laying in an additional supply of that commidity, of which there has never been a shortage, so far as the oriental countries mentioned are concerned. According to reports originating on the respective sides of the latest discord, both contestants are winning, from which it appears that war is better than a horse trade, playing the stock market or even legitimate business. So far the United States has taken no step toward neutrality but has contented itself with the usual policy of strengthening its forces in the zone of trouble, to the end that either of the warring powers may go too far in haste, and put American citizens or American rights in jeopardy. The situation is analagous to that which exists when somebody calls the police in the event of a fight on the street corner, and there matters stand so far as the Department of State is concerned at the date of this writing.

"THE LEGION BUTTON"

Is there any veteran of the World War so poor in spirit and patriotism that he is not proud of the part he played in the greatest of all military struggles since history began?

Have not we veterans a justified pride in our service? If any man were to assert that we had not played our part as men and Americans, how quickly would we resent it?

The American Legion offers the best opportunity for you, Comrade, to testify to the world of your loyalty in war and your determination to give continued service in peace. The lapel button of the Legion is a notice to all that you failed not when your country called, and that you still subscribe to the patriotism and Americanism for which the Legion stands.

Without the Legion button, the service man has no method of differentiating himself from the thousands who did not go. He may have served, but no one knows it. And the world finds it easy and convenient to forget.

With the Legion button, you quietly but effectively identify yourself as one of America's veterans, and as an active participant in the work of a patriotic society which is dedicated to the preservation of American principles.

You place yourself as both a wartime and peace-time patriot and true American.

Be proud you CAN join the American Legion. Hundreds of thousands of young men would rejoice indeed if their lives could so be made over that the Legion might be open to them. Many of those who did serve but have not up to now come into the Legion are sending in their applications. They are proud they answered the call. They want the world to know it.

The Legion's great days are ahead. Its pirnciples, calling for vigorous peace-time service, commend it to all. It is far better to be in the Legion than to explain why you are not. The Legion invites you to comradeships. Be one of the active Legionnaires of your community. Join up!

NEWVILLE

The Newville two-room school begins Tuesday, September 7.

Mardell McDaniel is here this week from Fort Wayne, visiting relatives.

Rev. and Mrs. P. A. Hubbartt called on M. E. Leighty at Auburn, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Wyatt entertained relatives from Cleveland, over the week-end.

George Baron, Terry Traxler and son, Wayne, spent Friday evening at Cedar Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Traxler were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Huntington at Constantine, Mich.

A license to wed has been granted to Robert M. Keller, 22, farmer, Hicksville, O., and Garnet B. Taylor, 18, Newville.

Mrs. Garnett Norman and children, of South Bend, visited her parents here last week, and also visited relatives in Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Minnie Fales is here this week from Peoria, Ill., visiting her sisters, Mrs. Imo Miller, Mrs. Ethel McCullough and Mrs. Bethel Shaffer.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bowen, of Ft. Wayne, visited relatives here Sunday.

Lewis Harman of Angola, is here for a few days visit with Marcel Pugsley

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Milliman, of Ohio, called on Mrs. Mary Shuff Sunday afternoon.

Many of our people are attending the Hicksville Fair this week. Next, the Auburn Free Fall Fair.

Your best apple sauce this winter will be from wealthy apples made now and canned. Get the apples at the Leighty Orchard, St. Joe. 33tf.

Mrs. H. C. Borthwick called at the home of Russell Luce in Waterloo, Monday. Mr. A. Haner is much improved from his recent serious illness.

In the notice of the death of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bailey, of Scott, Mich., last week, we omitted the information that Mrs. Bailey was a sister of Mrs. Wm. Randall.

Maurice Shuff, who is a patient at Sanders Hospital, suffering from burns, will have to remain in the hospital for several days yet, due to shoulder burns not healing satisfactory to the attending physician. Maurice has been a very brave lad all through his suffering.

The B. & O. crossing on State Road No. 1 is being repaired by placing huge concrete slabs between the rails. Heretofore the crossings soon became rough after repairing and the stone breaks up by the heavy freight. The slabs can be removed when the track is leveled in the future.

Mrs. Cora Curie entertained her Sunday School Class last week one evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Dilley. The young folks enjoyed hiking to the country, were entertained by Mrs. Dilley with games, then followed a weiner bake, and lemonade was also served.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kees and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Woodcox spent over Sunday in Detroit, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Vance Woodcox and family, who were home from Ocean City, but are moving this week to Philadelphia. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. John Scrivo and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Woodcox and family.

This section of DeKalb County is well represented at the Hicksville Fair this week with numerous entries in the stock and vegetable departments. O. E. Ginther has a splendid showing of Hampshire hogs, George B. Hart with his Jersey cattle and Geo. H. Kees with his Belgian stallion, and possibly others we have no knowledge of. Wednesday, Indiana furnished her share of school children, who were given free admission.

Mrs. Mary Jackman, 81, mother of Ward Jackman, well known in DeKalb County, died at Waterloo Tuesday morning as the result of a stroke. The deceased was born in Grant Township, the youngest and last of a family of four children of Timothy and Olive McClure. She has been a widow for five years. There are two children, Ward, of Auburn, and Mrs. Walter Cherry, living East of Waterloo. Two grandchildren survive. The funeral services will be held at 10:30 o'clock, DST, Thursday morning at the Ettinger Funeral Home, Waterloo.

Did you ever fall into the water when fishing? Well it is said that one of St. Joe's women who love to be near the river and to fish, really fell in last week. It was on the Rhodes farm South of the covered bridge. A big fish was doing its work, seeing what was soon to happen, she made a lunge for the pole and fell in, getting pretty wet. She called for "Daddy" to rescue her. The fish took the pole into the river, and after a while was caught by throwing another hook over the line. They soon made their way to their car and hurried home.

The death of Ardon Close took place Friday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at his residence a short distance South of Union Chapel on highway No. 8, between the Newville and Concord roads. Mr. Close was 50 years of age on November 22, 1936. The deceased was thrown from a horse two years ago in February and received a broken hip. He had since been unable to walk. On August 6th he was taken seriously ill and took to his bed. His death was caused from a complication of ailments. Funeral was held at Auburn, Monday afternoon with burial in Woodlawn Cemetery.

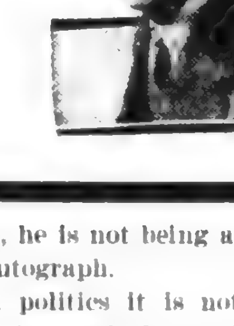
THE LOW DOWN
from
HICKORY GROVE



A new feature writer joins The News Staff with a bit of weekly fun.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA.

Bein' a champion, and on a pedestal, it is great stuff, and when you are champion, everybody will say that you cannot be beat. And if anybody else ever wants to lead the procession, they will have to wait 'til you die or you retire or resign.

And then all at once, and kind of unexpected-like, somebody will show up with a hay-maker, and put the champion in his place. And the feller who was invincible and unbeatable yesterday, he is not being asked, today, for his autograph.

And in politics it is not much different, and everybody is either scared stiff of the feller who is in power, or is cheerin' him, one or the other, until somebody comes along and upsets his applecart.

And gettin' beat at prize fightin' or politics, it is all the same, and goin' from cheers to jeers, it is not a long step.

HEARD ABOUT TOWN

Accidents are said to happen in the best of regulated families, some of course are beyond the responsibility of the individual and others are the result of pure awkardness. Last Tuesday the Tyndall Oil Co., was unloading a car of motor oil at their bulk plant in Spencerville, and in the course of hauling it to the warehouse, Dwight Koch, had the misfortune to lose a load of seven drums, when he made a forced landing near the Markle residence, and the load left the truck and piled up in the Markle yard.

People who heard the noise thought a plane had fallen and it caused considerable excitement but no real harm. Of course the folks who had gathered at the feed mill near the Markle residence came running to see what had happened, began to play upon the situation, and Mr. Koch is still chided about his accident. Help was secured to reload the oil drums and they were finally gotten safely into storage.

FARMERS CAN AID SAFETY CAMPAIGN

Farmers owning land at highway intersections can aid the State Highway Commission in its campaign for greater motoring safety by clearing fence corners and giving greater visibility, Earl Crawford, chairman of the commission, pointed out today. Several accidents have occurred at "blind" intersections during recent weeks, some of them resulting in fatal injuries.

Fields where corn has been planted or others where weeds have been allowed to grow up in fence corners at highway intersections are unnecessary hazards to the safety of motorists using the highways and these conditions can be corrected by clearing the fence corners of weeds or crops.

When side roads are hidden by tall vegetation, motorists are unable to see vehicles approaching the highways and the driver on the side road must pull out onto the highway before he can see whether the road is clear of traffic.

The State Highway Commission is spending several thousand dollars again this year to keep weeds cut on its right-of-way so that direction and warning signs will not be hidden and to increase the appearance of the highways.

CONCORD TWP. HOME BUREAU

The Concord Township Home Bureau met last Friday at the home of Mrs. Diadem Bone, West of Concord. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Borthwick. Several matters of business were taken care of after which DeKalb County History was given in a round table discussion. Many interesting items of history concerning DeKalb County and the early settlers were brought to light. Concord Township History was given in a more personal vein, each member telling when and where they were born and the date of their coming to Concord Township. All enjoyde this part of the program. Honoring Mrs. Bone, who is the oldest member in the club, it was decided by a unanimous vote, to make her a life member of the club. All feel it is a privilege and pleasure to have a member as interested in the club activities as is Mrs. Bone.

Several very beautiful quilts were shown to the members, which have recently been pieced by Mrs Bone.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee, consisting of mixed fruit salad, cake, cookies and coffee. Those assisting the hostess on the committee were Helen Ulm, Ida Herrick, and Anna Rickett.

One guest was present, Mrs. Fanny Boger, of Auburn. September meeting will be held at the home of Helen V. Wade.

W. G. ERICK NAMED COUNTY RECORDER

Wm. G. Erick of Spencerville, a well known resident of the Southeast part of the county for many years, was elected County Recorder Monday morning by the County Commissioners to succeed the late U. S. Raut, of Auburn.

Upon a call issued by County Auditor Frank E. Lyon, the Commissioners met at the court house at 9:30 and made the selection at once. Mr. Erick immediately took charge of the office. He did not name his deputy, but Miss Marguerite Kimmell, of Auburn, who was deputy under Mr. Raut, is assisting in the work temporarily.

The Commissioners offered the appointment to Mrs. Nina A. Little, of Garrett, who was a candidate against Mr. Raut in the 1934 election. However she now holds a position in the state house at Indianapolis and decided to stay there.

Mr. Erick celebrated his seventieth birthday August 7. He was born at Monroeville, but has lived at Spencerville since he was a year old. He was in the mercantile business for thirty-two years, operating a general store, but for the last sixteen years he has been the bookkeeper in the Farmers & Merchants Bank.

Always active in Democratic politics Mr. Erick was elected the first Trustee of Spencer Township and he served in that capacity for nine and a half years. He has been a member of the Masonic order for forty-seven years. He and his wife have two sons, Murray E. Erick, a construction engineer located at Los Angeles, Calif., and Beeks Erick, of Spencerville, a rural mail carrier.

The unexpired term to be filled by Mr. Erick ends Dec. 31, 1938. A Recorder is to be elected at the general election next year.

U. S. RAUT DIES OF HEART ATTACK FRIDAY

DeKalb County Recorder Was Buried Sunday Afternoon. Was Ill Only Two Weeks

Funeral services for Ulysses S. Raut, DeKalb County Recorder, who died Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at his residence at 216 East Fifth St., Auburn, were held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock DST from the First M. E. Church. Dr. Manfred C. Wright officiating and burial was made in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Mr. Raut died as the result of a recurrent heart attack. He was first stricken on the morning of August 7th shortly after the breakfast hour. He improved, however, and on Friday he felt so well that he was permitted to leave his bed for a short time and sit up in a chair. He returned to bed and slept soundly for three hours. Upon awakening, Mrs. Raut thought her husband did not appear right and in a moment or two he expired.

Mr. Raut was 69 years of age on June 12th last. He was born in a house on the same lot where his home is located and where he passed away. He was a son of Charles and Emeline Raut, deceased.

He attended the public schools until his sixteenth year when he went into the shoe store conducted by his father. The firm name was Raut & Sons. When this business was liquidated Mr. Raut was employed by several Auburn firms as a salesman. After leaving the employ of the Schaab & Bro. Co., he was named secretary of the Auburn Chamber of Commerce, which position he held until the election in 1934.

Mr. Raut ran on the Republican ticket for County Recorder. On election night, sure he had been defeated by Mrs. Nina Little, of Garrett, Mr. Raut went home and to bed. Early next morning he was aroused from sleep and informed that he had been elected by a small margin. The official count gave him 44 votes majority. Mr. Raut's previous experience in politics was in 1892 when he was elected town clerk. He served in 1892, 1893 and 1894.

Mr. Raut was a jovial man, known in every part of DeKalb County. To his many friends he was always called "Jake." He was public spirited and served in many different capacities. For sixteen years Mr. Raut played the bass drum in the old Auburn City Band.

He was a member of many organizations. He was one of the official board of the First M. E. Church and at the time of his death was master of the exchequer of Auburn Lodge No. 191, Knights of Pythias, of which he had been a member for many years and also a member of the Pythian Sisters. He was one of the most enthusiastic members of the Wittenberg Brotherhood and seldom failed to attend their meetings. He assisted in the promotion of the DeKalb County Fall Fair and had charge of the premium book department. Mr. Raut had just completed the 1937 fair book and turned in the copy to the printer the day before he was stricken.

Mr. Raut and Miss Alta Larimore, of Auburn, were united in marriage on April 2, 1903. She survives, with an only brother, Clarence Raut, of Grand Rapids, Mich. The latter and his family arrived Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hull called on Mrs. Percy Hess at Garrett, Monday afternoon. Mrs. Hess was enroute home from a week's visit with her sister, Mrs. Emma Slentz, at South Haven, Mich.

SQUIRREL SEASON OPENED WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 1

Squirrel hunters in the twenty-three northern Indiana counties composing the Northern Zone, swung into action Wednesday morning, (Sept. 1) for the start of the sixty-day open season.

Included in the Northern Zone are: Lake, Newton, Porter, Jasper, LaPorte, Starke, Pulaski, St. Joseph, Marshall, Fulton, Cass, Elkhart, Kosciusko, Miami, Wabash, Grant, LaGrange, Noble, White, Huntington, Steuben, DeKalb and Allen Counties. The open season starting Wednesday, will continue until October 30. In the Southern Zone, comprising the remainder of the state, the squirrel season began August 10 and will end on October 8.

Reports from game wardens and sportsmen indicate that squirrels are more plentiful in most sections than for several years and sportsmen in the Southern Zone have found good hunting in most areas.

Regulations in effect this year make it unlawful to take more than five squirrels in any day during the open season or to have more than five squirrels in possession at one time. Sale or purchase of squirrels is prohibited and hunters violating any of these regulations are subject to arrest and the confiscation of gus or other equipment.

The fox squirrel, largest of the Indiana squirrels is found throughout the state, the smaller gray squirrel being most numerous in the wooded areas of Southern Indiana. Tawny brown with a grizzled gray color, the fox squirrel has poor eyesight but depends upon an unusually keen sense of hearing for protection.

DISPLAYING OF OLDEST FLAG IN INDIANA

The oldest flag in Indiana, one presented by General Anthony Wayne to Indian chiefs at the historic Treaty of Greenville, is on display at the State Library Building.

Made of domestic bunting, the flag consists of 15 stripes of red, white and blue and the words "A. Wayne, Commander-in-Chief" in the upper left-hand corner.

General Wayne, after the disastrous defeat of Goveror Arthur St. Clair, had been appointed commanding general of the armies of the United States and had decisively defeated the Indians under Little Turtle at Fallen Timbers, Southwest of Toledo.

The following year, 1795, most of the chiefs of the Northwest accepted General Wayne's invitation to talk peace at Greenville. The various treaties drafted there were among the most important ever concluded between the United States and the Indians. They gave tht U. S. title to land along the Ohio River down to the mouth of the Kentucky, and security to the settlers of Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Illinois for fifteen years.

Among the Miami chiefs at the treaty was She-Moc-E-Nish, who signed the treaty under the name of Soldier. His village was at or near the present site of Thorntown.

It was a tradition among his people that Anthony Wayne, when he gave the flag, said, "Keep this flag in sight and as often as you see it remember we are friends."

The flag was handed down to a granddaughter of She-Moc-E-Nish, Kil-So-Quah (Setting Sun) who lived near Roanoke, Indiana. She died in 1915 at the reported age of 105 and was said to have been the oldest full-blooded Miami Indian in the state.

The Indiana Historical Bureau was bequeathed the flag by the late Dr. Perry G. Moore, of Wabash, who obtained it from a daughter of a Mrs Cixon, another granddaughter of She-Moc-E-Nish. Dr. Moore first learned of the flag while he was attending James Aveline, who was fatally ill at the home of his Indian wife.

CLOSING WEEK FOR THE GINNIVAN DRAMATIC CO.

The Frank Ginnivan Dramatic company of Pleasant Lake, will close one of their most successful seasons in recent years, appearing in Butler this week, the last town on their circuit to "make" before winter.

The Ginnivan show was organized 64 years ago by Mr. John Ginnivan of New Carlisle, Ohio, (near Dayton.) The founder, now 86 years old, is traveling with his son, Frank, this season and is meeting many of his old friends which he made while on the road years ago. He does his share of work even though he has passed the four score mark.

I have often wondered how rural communities select the drivers of school busses. Is this done in a sort of indifferent way and is the job given to anybody?

Every school bus driver should be selected for dependability, good habits, his knowledge of the rules of the road, and a tested ability to drive a bus properly. No driver under the age of 21 should be hired to drive a school bus.

Every driver should be provided with a set of rules which he must observe to the letter. His is a heavy responsibility, and the continuance of his employment should depend on his hearty and faithful acceptance of this responsibility.

No bus driver should drive a school bus for more than 10 hours in any 24 hour period.

Go slow—be safe.

ACTION IS TAKEN ON FIFTY WELFARE CASES

During the month of August, the County Welfare Board took action on fifty cases reported by the Board's investigators.

Thirty-seven of the reports were on old age assistance. Eight new awards were granted and ten changes in award were made, most of them being increases. Twelve awards were continued as before. One application was withdrawn voluntarily. The Board held that the children of two of applicants are able to take care of their parents. Two deaths were reported. One applicant was admitted to the county farm and the Board decided that the income of one applicant is sufficient.

Thirteen investigations of assistance for children were acted upon. One application was rejected because of ineligibility and another because of removal from the state. Five increases in awards were made and two reductions. Three awards were continued with no change. One application was withdrawn as the child will soon be sixteen years of age and therefore no longer eligible.
